Because I was offered a new job lately, I had to move to a new place. I found a good house and I have just moved in. Soon a beggar appeared at my doorstep. He knocked my door and asked for something to eat. He gave me a good play in return. He sang a few songs and put his hands on the ground and then used them to walk with his legs up in the air. I had never seen anything like that before and I was very pleased by this. I offered him a meal and a glass of beer. he ate the meal quickly and went away with a pocket full of cheese. I asked the beggar if he could lend me a hand and he told me that he was glad to do so. With his assistance, I was able to move my things into my house quickly. When I settled in, I asked him if he wanted a different career path. He told me that he had been looking for a job but no one wanted to hire him because of his profession as a beggar. Later that day, I had a good conversation with a friendly neighbour who lives in the neighbouring street. The neighbour said that everyone around knew the beggar, Percy Buttons who came to each house in the street punctually once a month and always begged for something to drink and to eat. Each household in the neighbourhood stands by him and his vocation by giving him food regularly once a month. Because of our constant support, the beggar will never have to look for another job and we always enjoy a good show.

令他们吃惊的是，那珍贵的包裹里面装的全是石头和沙子！

Let me share an amusing story with you. Police officers were told that a plane from South Africa on which there was a precious parcel full of diamonds was going to land on the airport and thieves were trying to steal it. knowing that this valuable piece of information could lead to a theft, the officers could not let down guard. The officers with a group of detectives arrived at the airport where the plane was going to touch down. Shortly afterwards, when the plane did finally reach it's destination, some of the officers were staying at the main house of the Customs building and the others were at the airfield. When the plane touched the ground, a team of officers got into the plane and took the parcel off the plane to the Customs House where the precious parcel was opened while some people were keeping guard. To their dismay, there was nothing in the parcel but worthless stones and sand. Then the polices and detectives knew that they had been taken for a ride by someone who gave them a fake sinister message. Later on TV, an officer from the police department said: 'Anyone who makes fun with the law will be prosecuted and we are looking for you!'.

同时发生的两个动作
1). 一个用一般过去时，另一个用过去进行时（习惯上）
2). 分工的情况，动作的开始和结束时间几乎相同，均用过去进行时：
When I was doing my homework, my mother was cooking.
3). 动作时间长用过去进行时，动作时间短用一般过去时：
When someone knocked at the door, I was having dinner.
两个动作在同时段进行，在不同时间结束，先发生的动作未结束，另一个动作发生，先发生的动作用进行时态，另一动作用过去时：
When the phone rang, I was opening the door. 先开门
When the phone was ringing, I opened the door. 电话先响 瞬间动词没有进行时态，所以两个动作同时发生，延续性动词用进行时态，瞬间动词使用过去时态； had done: 两个动作先后发生（一个动作结束，另外一个动作才发生） before 在 ... 之前 ≠ after 在 ... 之后 as soon as 一 ... 就

一般过去时与现在完成时
共同点：动作在过去都做了
区别：过去式只强调过去做的事和现在没有任何关系 现在完成时过去的事物对现在产生的影响

Someone had told...
过去完成式，过去以前发生的事情
...that thieves would try to...
would + do: 过去将来式，间接方式，转述，站在过去看未来

宾语的位置和词性取决于施加动作的动词
介词出现，一定要有宾语，所以 v. + prep. + 宾语 (n.)
take off the coat - take the coat off - take it off put on your shoes - put your shoes on = put them on.
副词可以省略，v. + 宾语 (n./pron.)+ adv. 或 v.+adv. + 宾语 (n.)

及物动词 vt. 直接加宾语：vt. + adv. + 宾语 (n.)
　　vt. + 宾语 (n./pron.) + adv./prep.
不及物动词 vi. 不能直接加宾语：vi. + prep. + 宾语 (n.) 是副词还是介词要看动词是及物动词还是不及物动词 vt-adv. vi - prep.
而判断是不是及物动词就要看平时的积累了

Lesson 8 The best and the worst 最好的和最差的

First listen and then answer the question.

Why is Joe's garden the most beautiful one in the town?

标题：good/well-better-best, bad-worse-worst 形容词最高级在使用时，前面通常要加定冠词 the, the best garden and the worst one;

Joe Sanders has the most beautiful garden in our town.

主 谓 前置定语 | 最高级 → 宾 状 | 修饰限定

beautiful adj. 漂亮的 = pretty, ≠ ugly, beauty n. beautify v.; garden n. 花园；town n. 镇；★ 形容词和副词的比较级 +er, more 和最高级 +est, the most：单音节和少数双音节单词在词尾加 er 或 est; 两个以上音节的单词，其比较级和最高级要在形容词或副词前加 more 或 the most: more interesting, the most interesting;

The most beautiful garden in our town belongs to Joe Sanders. The prettiest garden in our town is Joe Sanders'.

乔．桑德斯拥有我们镇上最漂亮的花园。

Nearly everybody enters for 'The Nicest Garden Competition' each year, but Joe wins every time.

状 主 谓 前置定语 | 最高级 → 宾 状 连 主 谓 状

nearly adv. 几乎 差不多 =almost, just about, more or less, virtually; enter v. 过入 走进；enter for/into 报名参加各种比赛考试等 = join, attend, take part in, participate in, go in for, partake in/of sth with sb, have hand in; competition n. 竞争 比赛 竞赛；compete v. 竞争 对抗 + with/against/for; competitive adj. 有竞争力的；competitor n. 竞争者 对手；race 速度比赛；game 游戏比赛；beauty contest 选美；match 球类比赛；暗地里的竞争用 competition; every/each time 每次；win-won-won v. 赢 获得；winner n. 获胜者；

Almost everyone competes against each other for 'The Nicest Garden Competition' each year, but Joe who has the most beautiful garden in our town is the winner each time. The competition for the nicest garden in our town draws everyone's attention and each of us participates in it. Joe is the most successful competitor in our town, because he has the prettiest garden I have never seen.

几乎每个人都参加每年举办的“最佳花园竞赛”，而每次都是乔获胜。

Bill Frith's garden is larger than Joe's.

前置定语 → 主 系 表 状

larger 形容词的比较级：large-larger-largest, large adj. 大的 = big ≠ small；当比较的东西是同类事物，名词所有格 ('s) 后面的名词可以省略，这里指的是 Joe's garden: Bill Frith's garden is larger than Joe's (garden).

Joe's garden is smaller than Bill Frith's. Bill Frith's garden is the largest one in our town.

Bill works harder than Joe and grows more flowers and vegetables, but Joe's garden is more interesting.

主 谓 1 状 状 连 谓 2 前定→ 宾 1 连 宾 2 连 定→ 主 系 表 | 比较级 work v. 工作；hard-harder-hardest adv. 努力地；Joe 后省略了 works, than 引导的比较状语从句通常是省略句；grow-grew-grown v. 种植 = plant; flower n. 花 (读音 = flour n. 面粉); vegetable n. 蔬菜；more 是形容词 many 的比较级 (比较级的不规则形式之一): more interesting 是形容词 interesting 的比较级，the most interesting 最高级；more adv. 更多 更大的 ≠ less adv. 少 较少 更少；more- most, less - least;

Joe works less harder than Bill and plants fewer flowers and vegetables, but still Bill's garden is less interesting than Joe's.

比尔．弗里斯的花园比乔的花园大，他比乔也更为勤奋，种植的花卉和蔬菜也更多，但乔的花园更富有情趣。

He has made neat paths and has built a wooden bridge over a pool.

主 谓 1 前定→ 宾 连 谓 2 前置定语 → 宾 状

make-made-made v. 建造 制做 =build, construct, create; neat adj. 整齐的 整洁的 = tidy ≠ untidy; path n. 小路 小径 = road; wooden adj. 木头的 木制的；wood n. 木头 树林；bridge n. 桥；pool n. 水池 池塘 (人工); swimming pool 游泳池；pond n. 池塘 (自然形成的); over prep. 在 ... 上方 横跨；over the pool 横跨池塘上方；

Paths that are neat have been built and a bridge which is made of wood has been constructed over a pool by Joe whose garden is more interesting than Bill's. In Joe's garden, there are tidy paths which have been built and a wooden bridge over a pool that has been made. All of which, the neat paths and wooden bridge, have made Joe's garden more interesting than Bill's.

他修筑了一条条整洁的小路，并在一个池塘上架了一座小木桥。

I like gardens too, but I do not like hard work.

主 谓 宾 状 连 主 谓 前定→ 宾

like v. 喜欢≠ dislike v. 不喜欢；喜欢：be into sth, be fond of sth, be keen on sth; like to do sth, like doing sth 喜欢做某事；like sb to do sth 希望某人做某事；hard work 是名词短语，hard 是 adj.; work hard 动词短语 hard 是 adv.;

I am fond of gardens too, but I dislike hard work. I am into gardens too, but I am not keen on hard work. I like enjoying beautiful gardens too, but I dislike to work hard on every aspect of gardening activities in the home or community environment.

我也喜欢花园，但我却不愿意辛勤劳动。

Every year I enter for the garden competition too,

状 主 谓 前置定语 → 宾 状

enter for/into 报名，只强调报名 enter for the exam; 参加 take part in, participate in, partake in;

and I always win a little prize for the worst garden in the town!

连 主 状 谓 前定→ 宾 ←介词短语作后置定语 | 最高级 ←定语修饰 garden win-wan-won v. 赢 获得；winner n. 获胜者；prize n. 奖赏 奖金 奖品；英语中有些形容词或副词的比较级和最高级并不规则，如课文中的 good /well-better-best, bad-worse-worst, many/much-more-the most, little-less-least；句末感叹号表示惊奇 出乎意料；

Each year the writer takes part in the competition for the nicest garden too, and a small prize for the worst garden in the town is always given to him! He is always the winner of the prize for the worst garden in our town's Nicest Garden Competition.

每年的花园竞赛我也参加，但总因是镇上最劣的花园而获得一个小奖！

Joe Sanders has the best garden in writer's town. He wins "The Nicest Garden Competition" each year. Bill Frith also has a fine garden. Joe's is better. The writer's garden is terrible. He always wins a prize for the worst garden in the town.

One of my friends always takes part in garden competition each year in his town. Nearly every family competes with one another to be the finest garden of the town. Joe Sanders is the most competitive competitor in the town, because he has the most beautiful and interesting garden with neat paths made and a wooden bridge built over a lovely pool. My friend who partakes in the competition works less hard. However, he is really fond of garden. He does not plant vegetables in his private garden, but he always grows flowers in the town's two public gardens. Everyone says that he should work harder on his own private garden rather than on those two public ones. This year he will still win something of no value, but he likes to be in the competition. Hopefully, he will win something of great value next year. He will still work on those public gardens too. I like to be in a garden with fewer people, becuase with fewer people comes quieter and more peaceful time. Those gardens with a lot of people make me very angry and they are often littered with rubbish by those uncivilized visitors. I have no private garden, so I have to visit public ones on fine sunny weekends with my wife.

It was the last day of the year and (it) happened to be on Wednesday. We went to the Town Hall where a large crowd of people had already gathered. On Wednesday evening, when we arrived at the Town Hall, a great many people had gathered under the Town Hall clock. A great number of people crowded under the Town Hall clock on the last day of the year.

那是一年的最后一天，一大群人聚集在市政厅的大钟下面。

It would strike twelve in twenty minutes' time.

主 谓 宾 状

strike-struck-stricken v. (钟) 敲响 罢工 攻击 n. 罢工 打击 袭击；本文第一句已明示时间发生在过去，这里用过去将来时 would do, 站在过去看将来，过去将来时主要用于表示过去某个时刻来看即将发生的动作或存在的状态，就过去某一时间而言，将来某一时刻或某一段时间正在进行的动作；

in twenty minutes' time, 介词 in+ 一段时间，表示在 ... 之后，常跟将来时，after 也表示 在 ... 之后，但不能用于将来时态中；minutes' time, 's 名词所有格，这里并不表示所属关系，而是时间；有时名词所有格表示度量价值：a pound's weight 一磅的重量，one dollar's worth of meat 一美元的肉；in twenty minutes' time 20 分钟之后；根据时态辨别 in 表示的含义：如果是将来时，in+ 段时间表示一段时间以后；during = over prep. 在 ... 期间；区分 in 和 during: in the holiday 强调这段时间其中的某一时间点，并不表示自始至终，during the holiday 强调假期的从头到尾；

再过 20 分钟，大钟将敲响 12 下。

Fifteen minutes passed and then, at five to twelve, the clock stopped.

主 谓 连 状 状 主 谓

pass v. 过了；five 后省略了 minutes；to prep. 时间不到 ... 差 ...: 11:55 five to twelve; past prep. 时间过了 ...: 12:05 five past twelve; and then 于是 然后；stop v. 停止 阻止 n. 停止 阻止 车站；stop doing sth 停止做某事：Please stop wasting your time! 请停止浪费你的时间 !; stop to do sth: to do 是 stop 的状语，表示目的，停下来开始做某事；stop doing sth: doing 是 stop 的宾语，停止正在做的动作；

15 分钟过去了，而就在 11 点 55 分时，大钟停了。

The big minute hand did not move. We waited and waited, but nothing happened.

那座大钟不愿意迎接新年。此时，大家已经笑了起来，同时唱起了歌。

Every/Each year/Yearly/Annually we always come to the Town Hall to welcome the new year. Last year the last day of the year happened to be on Wednesday and we arrived at our Town Hall as usual. When we walked there, there were already crowds of people who had gathered under the Town Hall clock. People were crowded here and there. The big clock would make strikes at twelve o'clock which was only twenty minutes away. We waited there in the cold wind for twenty minutes' time. Fifteen minutes went by quickly and then it was only five minutes to twelve o'clock. The clock came to a full stop. The clock stopped working and we were there waiting on. All of a sudden, someone called out. They said loudly that two minutes passed and the clock had not moved yet. I took a look at my watch and they were right. The big clock had showed it's refusal to welcome the new year. The clock's refusal to welcome the new year had been shown. At that time, everyone started to make laughters and sang songs all together.

Tony who has never borrowed money from me saw me and went towards me and sat with me at the same table. I was seen by Tony to whom I never lend money and he got in and we were at the same table. I never lend him my money.

While he was eating, I asked him to lend me twenty pounds.

引 主 谓 主 谓 宾 动词不定式 to do 作宾语补足语

while conj. 当 ... 的时候，就在 ... 时，引导时间状语从句；eat-ate-eaten v. 吃；ask v. 索要：sb ask for sth: I asked for money from him 我向他索要钱；lend-lent-lent v. 借 - to, 双宾语：lend twenty pounds to me；动词不定式的动作是宾语 him 发出的，它们在逻辑上存在主谓关系，构成复合宾语，能带复合宾语的动词还有 give, tell, beg, allow, want, like, leave, lend... 等；

While his food was being eaten by him, he was asked by me to lend twenty pounds to me.

托尼看见了我，就走了过来和我坐到一张桌子前。他从未向我借过钱，当他吃饭时，我提出向他借 20 英镑。

To my surprise, he gave me the money immediately.

插入语 主 谓 间宾 直接宾语 状

to my surprise 令我吃惊的是；to somebody's joy 让某人高兴的是；to somebody's disappointment/dismay 让某人失望的是；give-gave-given v. 给；双宾语：give me the money = give the money to me; immediately adv. 立即 马上 = at once, right away；right now 现在；

I was much surprised by the fact that the money was given to me by him at once. Surprisingly, I was given the money right away.

令我惊奇的是，他立刻把钱给了我。

'I have never borrowed any money from you,' Tony said, 'so now you can pay for my dinner!'

主 谓 状 谓 宾 状 主 谓 连 状 主 谓 宾 pay for 为 ... 而付钱；pay (money) for ...（强调钱时再加）; ask (sb) for ... 向（某人）索要；It's my treat 我请客；Let's go dutch. AA 制；This time is your treat. 今天你请客；本句为直接引语，在句中作宾语，引用原话时，通常用引号括起来，否则就为间接引语；间接引语要注意时态人称作相应的逻辑变化：Tony said (that) he had never borrowed any money from me, so now I could pay for his dinner!；

"我还从未向你借过钱，"托尼说道，"所以现在你可以替我付饭钱了！"

⑨ The unpleasant thing happened to me last week when I was eating my supper at a restaurant with Tony Steele who used to work for a lawyer and now is being employed by a bank where he gets his handsome pay. Tony is one of that kind of people to whom money can never be lent. He receives a big pay every month and as a borrower, he does not pay off his debt which he borrows from his friends. I was seen by him and he went towards me at once. I had to share the same table with him. During our supper, out of the blue, I thought that if I could borrow money from Tony who paid nothing to his lenders. To my greatest surprise, he lent the money which I asked for to me. He then said that I had never lent money to him, so I should buy the meal for him. In the end, his dinner was paid by me and I had to pay off the money which I borrowed from Tony also. Should I not pay it back? I want to teach him a lesson and let him feel the pain of the lenders who have lent money to him. After all he is a happy borrower who borrows money from many lenders and does not pay off the debt which has been accumulating on and on. Thinking of not paying the money back has given me a headache. I am an honest man who always keeps his words. I should pay the money back. After paying the money back, I will never borrow money from Tony again. If he asks me to lend money to him, I will make excuses and tell him that I have bankrupted. I will show him that I am the poorest man on Earth with empty pockets full of holes in them.

They will be attempting to keep things in check and the same thing happens on these occasions. In order to keep things in order, the police will be having hard time. The same thing always happens to the police who try to keep order during these times.

在此期间，他们将演出 5 场。同往常一样，警察的日子将不好过，他们将设法维持秩序。每逢这种场合，情况都是这样。

The Greenwood Boys are popular singers who are very popular among young people and they will be coming here tomorrow. Most young people in the town will be meeting them at the station. They will give five performances. The police will be trying to keep order as usaul. Every year the Greenwood Boys, a group of pop singers, pay a visit to our town. Now they are visiting many parts of the countries in the world. They will arrive at the train station in our town. Crowds of young people in our town will be seeing them at the train station where they will sing one or two songs there. Tomorrow the performers will be performing at the Workers' Club. The Boys will be staying for five days' time. During their stay, They will be performing once each day/a day. Usually the police will be facing a lot of difficulties to keep order on occassions like these.

Where there is a will, there is a way. 有志者事竟成
where 引导的从句叫地点状语从句

Grammar in use | 语法 表示将来的句型和时态

◆将来进行时 [will/shall be doing]
用一般将来时 [will/shall do] 和将来进行时所表述的含义是一致的
一般将来时：shall/will + 动词原形 will 任意人称 shall 第一人称 I/we shall...
表示将要发生的动作或存在的状态

一般将来时：shall/will + 动词原形
1). 表示将要发生的动作或存在的状态
He will graduate from the high school next year.
We shall finish our work as quickly as possible.

将来进行时：shall / will be + 现在分词
1). 表示将来某个时刻正在进行的动作：
What will you be doing this time tomorrow?
Tom won't cut the grass because he is afraid of being tired.
（说明意图）
Tom won't be cutting the grass.（无意图 仅陈述事实）
2). 用将来进行时询问别人的计划，打算比用一般将来时更显礼貌：
Will you be having dinner with us this evening?
3). 将来进行时表示对即将发生的动作的推测：
She will be arriving at Beijing tomorrow morning.
The car will be going at the speed of 100 miles an hour.

◆可表示 " 将来 " 的其他句型结构和时态总结
1). shall/will + 动词原形
2). be going to do sth. 打算做某事 （美国口语中常读作 be gonna)
I'm going to buy a new coat this fall.
[be going to 与 will 的对比，下列情况须用 will]
I'll be six years old next year.
It will be the 10th of August tomorrow.
When he comes, I will give him your message.
3). be + to do sth. 表示计划安排做某事或用来征求意见
I am to have a holiday.
Am I to take over his work?
We are to meet at the exit.
4). be about to do sth. 即将做某事
The talk is about to begin.
5). will be doing 表示将要做某事
6). be doing （瞬间动词）表示将来时态
7). 一般现在时表示将要发生 If it rains,...
一般的情况可以互换，遇上没有办法打算和计划安排的，只能用 will be there be 那儿有，有某事生：There will be a meeting.
before 状语从句标志
!!! 在状语从句中不可能出现将来时，都被一般现在时态取代
8). 重点补充 be on the point of doing sth. 正要做某事 set out to do sth. 着手做某事 set about doing sth. 开始做某事

名词所有格：
1). 在单词单数及不以 S 结尾的人名后 's
2). 在规则的复数名字 +'
3). 在以 -S 结尾的单词后加 +'S
4). 在以 S 结尾的人名后加 's or '
价格 's + worth of 值 ... 钱的东西
I want ten pounds' worth of mince meat.
I want 10 元 s' worth of meat. 我要 10 元的肉
in twenty minutes' time 表示时间
3 minutes' walk/dive 三分钟的步行 / 驾车

Lesson 14 Do you speak English? 你会讲英语吗？

First listen and then answer the question.

Did the young man speak English?

I had an amusing experience last year.

主 谓 前置定语 → 宾 状

amuse v. 逗笑 消遣 娱乐 = entertain; amusement n. 娱乐 可笑 = entertainment; amusement park 游乐场；amused adj. 感到好笑的；amusing adj. 令人感到好笑的；amuse v. 后面加人作宾语；funny adj. 好笑的 < 贬 > 开心的；experience n. 经历 - 可数名词，经验 - 不可数名词，实践 阅历 v. 体会 体验 经历 感受；experienced adj. 有经验的 老练的 = seasoned; inexperienced adj. 无经验的；inexperience n. 经验不足；last year 上一年，last 过去时；next year 下一年，next 将来时；

I experienced an amusing experience last year. An amusing experience was experienced by me last year.

去年我有过一次有趣的经历。

After I had left a small village in the south of France, I drove on to the next town.

引 主 谓 前定 → 宾 ← 后置定语 主 谓 状

after conj. 在 ... 之后 ≠ before, 引导时间状语从句；after prep. 介词后 + 动词现在分词形式，如果主句与从句的主语的一样，可以用 after + doing 的形式书写；when/while/as conj. 当 ... 的时候；leave-left-left v. 离开；village n. 村庄；France n. 法国；French n. adj. 法国人 法语；drive-drove-driven v. 驾驶；drove on 中的 on 有继续不停顿的意思，类似短语：go on, keep on, my heart will go on 我心永恒；drive to 驶向；

方位介词：in prep. 在 ... 里面：Beijing is in the north part of China.; on prep. 与 ... 接壤：North Korean is on the east of China.; to prep. 没有相接的 是相离的：Japan is to the east of China.;

After having left a small village in the south of France, I kept/went on driving to the next town. I drove on to the next town from a small village in the south of France which I had left. Before I went on driving to the next town, I had left a village which is in the...

在离开法国南部的一个小村庄后，我继续驶往下一个城镇。

On the way, a young man waved to me. I stopped and he asked me for a lift.

状 前置定语→ 主 谓 状 主 谓 连 主 谓 宾 状 on the way 在途中 = on my way to the next town; in the way 挡道 在路上 妨碍；in the way of 妨碍 关于 至于说；by the way 顺便说一句；wave n. 波浪 v. 挥手 使起波 此处为挥手致意；wave to sb 向某人招手；stop v. 停；ask v. 问 要求 ask for 要求得到 要求给予；lift n. 电梯 提起 此处为搭便车；ask for a lift 请求搭便车；give sb a lift 让某人搭便车；take a lift 搭便车；thumb lift 拇指便车；

On my way to the next town, a man who was young waved to me and after having stopped my car, I was asked to give a lift to him.

途中，一个青年人向我招手。我把车停下，他向我提出要求搭车。

As soon as he had got into the car, I said good morning to him in French and he replied in the same language.

引 主 谓 宾 主 谓 宾 状 状 连 主 谓 状

as soon as conj. 一 ... 就 ... + 句子，引导时间状语从句；事件发生在过去，从句用过去完成时，主句用一般过去时；say good morning to sb 向某人问早上好；say goodbye/good night to sb; In French 用法语，用什么语言，用介词 in; language n. 语言 母语 ≈ tongue n. 舌头 语言；母语 本国语：native language (书面), mother tongue (口语); reply v. 回答 = answer, respond to; in the same language 用同样的语言；the same 固定搭配；get in/into the car 上车；get off/out of the car 下车；

他一上车，我就用法语向他问早上好，他也同样用法语回答我。

Apart from a few words, I do not know any French at all. Neither of us spoke during the journey.

状 主 谓 定→ 宾 状 主 ←后定 谓 状 apart from 除了 ... 之外，是介词短语 = except, except for, with the exception of, aside from 都习惯上放在句首；a few 一些，后加可数名词复数；not ... at all 一点也不 根本不 常与否定式连用，起强调作用；neither of 两者中哪个也不 都不；both of 两者都；either of 两者中的任何一个；none of 三者以上都不；one/two.. of them；journey n. 旅行；during prep. 在 ... 期间 = in, in the course of, over, through, throughout;

除了个别几个单词外，我根本不会法语。旅途中我们谁也没讲话。

I had nearly reached the town, when the young man suddenly said, very slowly, 'Do you speak English?'

主 谓 状 谓 宾 引 前置定语 → 主 状 谓 状 谓 主 谓 宾 nearly adv. 几乎 差不多 = almost, just about,practically, virtually; reach vt. 到达 = arrive at, get to; speak-spoke-spoken v. 讲 说；suddenly adv. 突然地 = out of the blue, all of a sudden, out of a sudden, unexpectedly; sudden adj. 突然忽然的；when 引导时间状语从句，在此句中，不是 " 当 ... 时候 ", 而是 " 就在 ... 时候，正 ... 忽然 ..." 的意思；slow adj. 慢的 ≠ quick; slowly adv. 慢地 ≠ fast, quickly; 一般疑问句由直接引语变成间接引语，由 if, whether 引导 (whether 引导选择疑问句：Are you an English teacher or a Chinese teacher? He asked me whether I was an English teacher or a Chinese teacher.);

The town was nearly reached, when the man who was young suddenly asked me very slowly if I spoke English.

就要到达那个镇时，那青年突然开了口，慢慢地说道“你会讲英语吗？”

As I soon learnt, he was English himself!

引 主 状 谓 主 系 表 同位语

as I soon learnt 我很快就知道，as 为关系代词，指代后面的整个主句；learn-learnt-learnt v. 得知 获悉；himself 作 he 的同位语，反身代词，起强调作用，放句尾；be 动词后面不能是名词，如果是名词时则表示主语和名词是等号关系；soon adv. 很快 不久 马上；sooner or later 迟早 早晚；

★起强调作用的反身代词常紧跟被强调成分或置于句尾：You yourself should do your homework (yourself)! Your homework itself should be done by you (yourself)! I myself will not do your homework (myself)!

I soon learnt that he himself was no other than English! (no other than 正是 就是 不是别的)

我很快了解到，他自己就是个英国人！

We all experience amusing experiences with people who come from foreign countries. Last year I was in France and I was much amused by my experience with a man who was English himself, just like me. After having finished my visit to a small village which was in the south of France, I went on visiting the next town. On my way to the next one, I saw a man who was waving to me at the left side of the road. After having stopped my car, I was asked to give a lift to him. I gave him a lift and he opened the car and sat at the back of the car. During our journey to the next town, both of us did not speak to each other. As we were about to reach the town, He, out of the blue, asked me if I spoke English. To his surprise, I said I only knew a few lines of French and I myself was English. We soon became friends. Now he writes letters to me very often and we send each other postcards every now and then.

apart from 除了 ... 之外 = except for 习惯上放在句首 except for 可以不放在句首，强调整体当中某 一方面除外，剩下的整体都不错。 apart from 有两层含义：except, besides except 和 besides 可放在句子中间，besides 指在整体上加上，except 要从整体减掉 except from 放在句首，except 不会放在句首，except for 含有对整体中某一方面不满意 except for, both of, apart from either of sb. 两者 ... 中的任何一个 neither of sb. 两者 ... 中的任何一个都不，不能说 we neither !! either, neither 都是指两个当中的任何一个 如果不只两个人，就是 none of none, neither 一旦出现，这句话就不会再有 not, 以单数看待 which of 哪一个，许多中的一个 both of 两者都：we both, both of us

many + 可数名词 not many/much = a little not a little = much + 不可数名词 plenty of = enough 足够多的

so, such 如此
so 的后面加形容词或副词
such 的后面加名词，允许在该名词前加修饰词 extra, other 放在数词与名词之间 最灵活的是 more more 可以放数词和名词之间，甚至可以放在整个名词的后面

extra 和 other 一定放在数词和名词之间 ,another 一定放在数词前面 记住几个短语：one extra thousand, two others, once more, another three days over sth. 超过（多余）：over three years extra 作定语时，一定放在被修饰前 more 可以放在被修饰语前或后皆可 ★再有多少，再，又：
extra: 数量 + extra +n.: Give me two extra books.
other: others 理解为 two other + 名词复数：two others more: yesterday once more / two more　最灵活 another: for another three days：再，又（数字在后） two extra books　two other books　two more books

过去的过去或两个动作都发生在过去，一个动作在前，另一个在后，发生在前的动作为过去完成时。 过去完成时一定要以一个过去时态做铺垫，这个动作一定要发生在 had done 之后。 until: 主句和从句两个都用一般过去时对，任何一个用过去完成时也对。 after 从句的标志，后面叫时间状语从句 when, while, as 当 ... 时候，until, before, after 简单句当中一个谓语，有从句有主句，从句一个谓语动词，主句一个谓语动词； after 从句的标志，后面的叫时间状语从句，主句的动作发生在从句之后 before 在 ... 之前，主句发生在从句之前，主句用过去完成时 如果两个都是过去时，同时发生，会用进行时态
如果一先一后发生，发生在前的动作为过去完成时态。

过去完成时：had + 过去分词
1). 表示过去某个动作或某个具体时间之前已经发生，完成的动作。
“过去的过去”。
They had got everything ready before I came.
The play had begun before I got to the theatre.
2). 过去完成时常用于 hardly/scarcely/barely ... when, no sooner ... than 等固定句型结构中，意为 " 一 ... 就 ...:
She had hardly/scarcely/barely gone to bed when the bell rang.
No sooner had he arrived at the railway station than he met her parents.
（注意 no sooner, hardly/scarcely/barely 在句首时句型倒装）
3). intend 打算，mean 意味，hope 希望 ,want 想要，plan 计划，等动词的过去完成时用来表示本打算做而没有做的事。
I had intended to call on you yesterday, but someone came to see me just when I was about to leave.
（原想昨天去看你）
They had planed to hold a football match last week, but they had to cancel it because the bad weather.
（原计划上周举行一场足球赛）

As I learnt, learn-learnt/learned 知道 得知 know-knew-known 知道
As + 主语 + 动词 + 逗号，+ 句子（as: 正如）
As we know, the New Concept English is very good.
As he said, English is easy to learn.
as soon as 一 ... 就 ...= the moment 后面直接加从句
后面一定要加一个句子（时间状语从句），一后面的先发生，强调两个动作几乎是连在一起的

然后他微笑了一下告诉我说，我每年将得到 1, 000 英镑的额外收入。

Mr. Harmsworth wanted to see me and I was very nervous about that. I went into his office room and he said that trade was not very good and the company could not pay such huge salaries. Twenty people had left already. Then he did not ask me to leave as well. He offered me an extra 1,000 a year. What a surprise!

Every company wants to pay less to their employees and each employee wants to be paid more and more by their employers. When business is bad, every employer employs fewer workers. When business turns good, companies often offer more jobs. Every boss wants hard-working employees and hard-working workers are hard to find. Last week I was asked by my boss's secretary to come to his office. I went to his office and he did not look at me in the eyes. This made me very nervous. Business was not good. Twenty people were asked to leave and already they had left the firm. I knew that my turn to leave the firm had arrived. I called out my boss's name and I really wanted to stay in the company. He asked me not to interrupt him. He talked about bad business which we were in and the large salaries which he paid to his crowds of employees. As an employer, he himself felt very nervous about the outlook of our company's trade. Then he told me that I was the most hard-working worker in the firm and I would be paid more than what I had already received. The boss was willing to pay me an extra 1,000 a year. To keep me in the company, now the boss pays me more and I am not going to leave this company. I will be as hard-working as I was. I will be more hard-working than I am now. I will be the most hard-working employee in the company. My boss will be very happy about my stay in the firm. The company will make more money because of my stay in the firm. My boss will be the happiest man in the world because I'll still work hard.

Lesson 16 A polite request 彬彬有礼的要求

First listen and then answer the question.

What was the polite request?

polite adj. 有礼貌的 politely adv. politeness n. 殷勤；impolite adj. 不礼貌的 粗鲁的 = rude; request n. 请求 v.(礼貌或正式地) 请求 要求；

If you park your car in the wrong place, a traffic policeman will soon find it.

引 主 谓 前定→ 宾 状 前置定语→ 主 谓 状 谓 宾 park v. 停放汽车 n. 公园；wrong adj. 错误的 ≠ right; place n. 地点 场地 v. 放置；traffic n. 交通；traffic policeman 交警；find-found-found v. 找到；soon adv. 快的；在 if 引导的真实条件状语从句中，如有 when, as soon as 引导的时间状语从句时，一般主句用将来时，从句用现在时；

If your car is parked in the wrong place, it will shortly be found by a traffic policeman. Traffic police usually will give you a ticket if you park your car in the wrong spot. If your car is put/placed in the right spot, traffic police will find it hard to fine you with a ticket.

一旦你把汽车停错了地方，交通警很快就会发现。

You will be very lucky if he lets you go without a ticket.

主 系 状 表 引 主 谓 宾 宾语补足语

lets go, he 为一般现在时第三人称单数，谓语动词要加 s 或 es; let (sb) go 放 (某人) 走，放开 (某人); let 后跟不带 to 的不定式；without prep. 没有；ticket n. 处罚单；if 引导的真实条件状语从句：主句为一般将来时 [will/shall be/do], 从句为一般现在时 [am/is/are, do/does];

If he doesn't fine You, you will feel very lucky. If he does (强调结构) let you go with a ticket, you will be very unlucky.

如果他没给你罚款单就放你走了，算你走运。

However, this does not always happen. Traffic police are sometimes very polite.

状 主 谓 状 谓 前定→ 主 系 状 状 表

however adv. 但是 可是 不过，可放于句首句中或句尾，前后加标点；however 与前面的句子只是意思上的承接，没有语法上的承接，语法上的承接只能用 but: 但是；police 集合名词，类似的如 people, cast, faculty + 复数动词，这里用 are, 如要用单数：a policeman, a policewoman;

However, the fact [fact 的同位语：that your car is parked in the wrong area and polite traffic police let you go without a ticket] does not always happen. Depending on where you park your car, traffic police are sometimes not very impolite.

然而，情况并不都是这样，交通警有时也很客气。

During a holiday in Sweden, I found this note on my car: 'Sir, we welcome you to our city.

The writer found a polite note on his car during a holiday in Sweden. The traffic police wanted him to pay attention to their street signs. During a holiday in Sweden, on my car I found this note on which it said that they welcomed us to their city and that was not a packing space. During my stay in Sweden, this note was found on my car on which it said that we were welcomed to their city by the Swedish people and the place where we parked our car was a 'No Parking' area. The friendly note also added that we would enjoy our stay there if we paid attention to their street signs. "No Parking" means that anyone who parks a car there will get a ticket.

此处是'禁止停车'区。如果您对我们街上的标牌稍加注意，您在此会过得很愉快的。

This note is only a reminder.' If you receive a request like this, you cannot fail to obey it!

前定→ 主 系 状 表 引 主 谓 宾 ←后置定语 主 谓 宾 reminder n. 提示 通知单；remind v. 提示 提醒；remind sb of sth 让某人想起某事；remind sb to do sth 提醒某人做某事；like prep. 像这样的；fail v. 失败，与 to do 不定式连用，表示没有能够 ... 不 ...; failure n. 失败；cannot = can not, can't; cannot fail to 不会不 一定会；obey v. 服从 遵照；obedient adj. 顺从的 忠顺的 唯命是从的；obeisance n. 景仰 尊敬 忠顺；disobey v. 违抗 不服从 不顺从；

This note serves/acts only as a reminder to let you know that your car is parked in the wrong place. This note reminds me not to park my car there. This note reminds me of my wrong parking. If a request is written like this and is received by you, you will be willing to do anything to obey it. If a friendly order is written like that, you will do what you are told willingly. No one/Nobody can fail to obey a police request like that. You will find it hard to disobey any police request because if you don't, you will get a ticket.

谨此提请注意。”如果你收到这样的恳求，你是不会不遵照执行的！

If your car is placed in the wrong place, traffic police will soon notice it. Usually they will let you go with a ticket, but from time to time some lucky people are allowed to go without a ticket. However, keep this in mind that this kind of thing doesn't occur very often. You must put your car in the parking lot. Otherwise, people will report your wrongdoing to a police and you will be fined very soon. Besides, our public space is not as spacious as you think. I often drive my car to cities and the worrying thing is that I can not find any parking space. I often spend hours on finding a parking spot whenever I go to cities by car. That's why I usually go to cities by bus or subway. During my holiday in Sweden last summer, my car was along with me. I did not know a word of Swedish and all the public signs were written in Swedish. I could not understand the signs. There was a time when I really needed to park my car. I found a wide area and my car would not take too much public space. My car was parked there and then I did my private business. When I came back, I noticed there was a yellow note on my car. On seeing it, I thought I had to pay a traffic ticket. To my surprise, the note was very friendly. It acted as a reminder to let me know that I parked my car in the wrong spot. The note said that the Swedish people welcomed their guests and the spot where I parked my car was a 'No Parking' area. The note also noted that we would have an enjoyable holiday in Sweden if we paid much more attention to their street signs. Anyone who received a friendly notice like that would be very happy to follow it. What do you think about traffic police? Have you ever been stopped by a traffic policeman? Would you like to share your private stories with me? Please write a letter to me and share your experiences with me. I'm all ears 洗耳恭听 .

Why doesn't Aunt Jennifer tell anyone how old she is?

My aunt Jennifer is an actress. She must be at least thirty-five years old.

主 ← 同位语 系 表 主 系 状 表

aunt n. 姑姑 = auntie, aunty; uncle n. 叔叔；actress n. 女演员 actor n. 男演员；★以 -or, -er 结尾的是男性，-ess, -ress 为女性；prince 王子 princess 公主，waiter 男服务员 waitress 女服务员，God 男神 Goddess 女神；least, little 的最高级 at least 至少 最少 ≠ at most 至多 最多；must be 一定是，对现在情况的推测，有一定的肯定程度 ≠ can't be 一定不是，对现在情况的否定推测：She can't be thirty-five years old.;

There is no doubt that dogs seem to be keen on taking things into their private place. My dog Sam often takes my slippers into his private part of my family public garden. If I want my private slippers back, I have to ask my dog to let me come into his private spot and get my things back. No one is allowed to enter his private area but me. During a trip to a beautiful valley, I had my lunch in a public pub where there was a dog just like mine. My bag was left on a chair near the door and it was taken away by such a cute dog. I had my meal and I was about to pay my bill when I suddenly discovered that my bag could not be found the way it was. The landowner came in and asked me if I had enjoyed my meal. My answer was positive. However I was unable to pay him because my bag was missing somehow. He then went out right away and a few minutes later he came back with my bag in his hand along with a sorry-looking dog who was responsible for taking my bag into the garden. The landlord was very apologetic and I eased his nerve, saying that this sort of thing happened to me all the time. I shared my own story with him. He was very amused and then with my bag in my hand, I was able to pay the bill. What an amusing experience it was! When I came back home, I shared my story with my wife and she kept laughing for days on end whenever she saw our dog Sam who loved the same sport.

Grammar in use | 语法　have 的用法 have a dinner, have a cigarette, have coffee, have a holiday, have a good time, have a swim, have a bath rest = have a rest　walk = have a walk

◆ have, have got 表示占有，相互关系和其他状态，实际上这涉及到 have 动词的三种用法，作助动词，作实义动词单用，以及 have got. 虽然他们意思相同，但是用法存在一定差别（特别 是地域性差别）
◆一般来说，应避免直接使用 have 形式（这看起来不自然），在十分正式的英国英语里面，还可以使用 Have you sth.? 以及 I haven't sth.，这在美国英语是绝对不出现的。
◆在非正式文体中，have got 更好，但是 have got 形式不经常用在其他时态，比如 I had got，I will have got 都比较少见。但是可以与情态动词合用：She must have got a nice present.
◆当我们表达重复性动作的时候，使用 do+have 的形式，而不是 have got。以上的用法以英国英语为标准．如果在美国英语里面，do+have 几乎是最常用的形式，口语中则会出现 have got. 不过随着时间的推移，美国英语对英国英语影响越来越大，现在 do+have 的形式也经常被使用．have 和 have got 的区别 尤其是在疑问句和否定句方面：
一．在英语口语中，常用 have got 代替 have，作 " 有 " 解．
I have a bike. = I have got a bike.
1). 其否定式为：
I don't have a bike.
= I haven't a bike.　I haven't got a bike. (√)
I don't have got a bike. (×)
2). 其疑问形式为：
Have you a bike? Have you got a bike? Do you have a bike? (√)
Do you have got a bike? (×)

二，在下列情况下不能用 have got 来代替 have.
1). 在情态动词，助动词或动词不定式之后，只能用 have, 不用 have got. 如：
May I have some more tea? 我可以再喝点茶吗？
Would you like to have another apple? 你想再吃一个苹果吗？
2). 在过去时，完成时或进行时中，不用 have got, 而用 have. 如：
Sam had a problem.
I have had the bike for three years.
3. 固定短语中不用 have got.
have a rest/a swim/a wash/a drink have lunch, have a meeting, have a party

1). have a pen 有 have a headache 患病
have 做 " 有，患病 " 概念时，可作为实意动词，也可作为非实意动词
2). 如果一个词是以完成时态出现的，其中的 have 只能作为非实意动词（助动词 - 帮助句子构成时态）
3). 除 1, 2 以外的 have 只能作为实意动词
疑问句和否定句构成：
实义动词：通过助动词 don't have to ...
非实义动词：直接加 not: I have not a pen. I don't have a pen.

下面三种情况，have 可以被 have got 取代
1). I have a pen. = I have got a pen. "有"
2). I have a headache. = I have got a headache. 得病 3). have to = have got to have to do = ... is necessary

You have to go home.

Lesson 19 Sold out 票已售完

First listen and then answer the question.

When will the writer see the play?

'The play may begin at any moment, ' I said. 'It may have begun already, ' Susan answered.

主 谓 状 主 谓 主 谓 状 主 谓

play n. 演出；at any moment 随时；at the moment = now; at that moment = just then 就在那时；begin v. 开始；answer v. 回答 = reply;

★ must, can't, may + 动词原形，对现在未来的推测；must, can't, may + have done 对过去的推测；must 一定 很可能，may 有可能，can't 不可能；may begin 在这句话中，说话人指的并不是一种确信不疑的事实，而是可能发生的事情，因此用了 may + 动词原形；may have begun 这句话同样表示可能发生的事情，但与上句的区别在于它指的是可能已经发生的事情，因此，要用 "may + 动词的完成时 [have done];

I said to Susan that the play might begin at any moment. Susan answered me that It might have begun already.

"剧马上就要开演了，" 我说。"也许已经开演了呢，" 苏珊回答说。

I hurried to the ticket office. 'May I have two tickets please?' I asked.

主 谓 状 谓 主 谓 定→ 宾 插入语 主 谓

hurry v. n. 匆忙 急忙 in a hurry 时间动作上的匆忙；in no hurry 不匆忙；busy 行为上的忙 be busy doing; ticket office 售票处；have 是最活跃的动词，可以指任何意思：have a coffee/have ticket 买票 [习惯用法]; I will have/take/buy sth. 我买某物；

★ may 情态动词，询问或说明一件事可不可做，回答时多避免 may 这个词，而用其它方式，以免显得口气太严峻或不客气：肯定回答 certainly, sure, of course; 否定回答：I'm sorry (that) ...; might 是 may 的过去式，might 比 may 表达的事更不可能；

In a hurry, I came to the ticket office and asked the girl working at the ticket office if I might have two tickets.

我匆匆赶到售票处，问："我可以买两张票吗？"

'I 'm sorry, we've sold out,' the girl said. 'What a pity!' Susan exclaimed.

The girl at the ticket office said to me that she was sorry and they had sold out and Susan was not happy about it.

"对不起，票已售完。" 那位姑娘说。"真可惜！" 苏珊大声说。

Just then, a man hurried to the ticket office.

状 主 谓 状

just then = at that moment, at that time 就在那时 正好这时；at any moment 在任何时候 随时；at the moment = now;

正在这时，一个男子匆匆奔向售票处。

'Can I return these two tickets?' he asked. 'Certainly,' the girl said.

谓 谓 谓 前置定语 → 宾 主 谓 宾 主 谓 can 委婉地提出请求，也可以用 may, could (could 比 can 更委婉); return v. 回到 退回 n. 返回；return to 回来；return money 还钱 = repay, pay cack；certainly adv. 当然 没问题 = of course, sure; certain adj. 肯定 确定 确信 = sure ≠ uncertain, unsure;

Just then a man who hurried to the ticket office asked the girl if he could return those two tickets. The girl said certainly he could.

"我可以退掉这两张票吗？" 他问。"当然可以，" 那姑娘说。

I went back to the ticket office at once. 'Could I have those two tickets please?' I asked.

主 谓 状 状 谓 主 谓 前置定语 → 宾 插入语 主 谓 go/come back 返回 = return to; at once 立刻 马上 = immediately, straightaway; could 是代替 can 的一种比较委婉地提出请求的用法，在时间上和 can 没有区别；have-had-had v. 得到 拥有，这里是实义动词；may I ..., can I ..., could I ..., should I..., must I... ;

I came back to the ticket office immediately and asked the girl whether I could have those two tickets which the man returned.

我马上又回到售票处。"我可以买那两张票吗？" 我问。

'Certainly,' the girl said, 'but they're for next Wednesday's performance. Do you still want them?'

宾 主 谓 连 主 系 表 谓 主 状 谓 宾

The girl who had just received those two tickets from the man who returned the tickets said to me that I could take the two tickets but they were for next Wednesday's performance and asked me if I still wanted to buy them.

"当然可以，不过这两张票是下星期三的，您是否还要呢？"

'I might as well have them,' I said sadly.

主 谓 状 谓 宾 主 谓 状

might as well 还是 ... 的好 不妨 , 与 may as well 的意思相同 + 动词原形 , 只是前者更为委婉 ; sadly adv. 悲哀地 丧气地 , 最通用，不管什么样的 " 悲哀 " 都可用 ; sad adj. 悲伤的 ≠ happy adj. 快乐的 高兴的 happily adv. happiness n. ;

I said sadly to the girl that I might as well have them. Since there were only two tickets left, I bought them with a sad feeling.

"我还是买下的好，" 我垂头丧气地说。

Our local theatre is big and there are always a lot of tickets for sale at the ticket office. We don't book any tickets before hand. It must be on Sunday when Susan and I decided to go to the local theatre where a new play was on. On the last day of the week, we went there to see the show. We arrived there late. To my mind, the tickets for the show could not have been sold out. I thought the show might begin at any given time and Susan said to me that it might have started without us already. I quickly came to the ticket office where I could not see any 'Sold Out' sign. I asked the girl who sold tickets to buy two adult tickets. The girl in charge/on duty was sorry for not being able to sell any ticket to me because there was not any left. At the exact moment, a man in black suit was in a hurry towards the ticket office. The man asked the girl if she could take back his two tickets which was sold to him by the same girl two days earlier. The girl gladly accepted the tickets. I hurriedly came back to the ticket office and asked for those two tickets which the man returned to the girl. The girl was willing to resell the tickets to me, but she did not know if I still wanted them because the two tickets were for next Wednesday's show. She asked me if I still wished to have them. I told her that I wished so. Then I bought the tickets which were not for the immediate play but a much later show on next Wednesday. A hard-learned lesson was taught that day. I should have booked two tickets before I went to the theatre. I should always make a reservation before I go to the theatre. From then on, I always buy tickets in advance. If you want to see a new play, you should really buy tickets before hand. All in all, the new play was a great success. However It was on without our presence. With no ticket, we were not allowed to enter the theatre.

Grammar in use | 语法 推测句型

must : 一定 很可能 may 有可能 can't 不可能 对什么时候的推测不在于 must, may, can't 是什么时态 , 而在于后面加的是动词原形还是 have done must, may, can't + 动词原形 : 对现在 未来的推测 must, may, can't + have done : 对过去的推测 might (may) as well + 动词原形 :" 还是 ... 好 " (无可奈何) had better + 动词原形 :" 最好 " (积极心态)

天看上去要下雨了 : I had better take an umbrella.
已经下了 , 非带不可 : I might as well take the umbrella with me.
只是针对现在 未来。不用于过去时 , 过去时的是虚拟语气

may 的用法 :
1). 推测 " 可能 ": might 比 may 语气弱 must > may > might > can't 2). 可以 : might 比 may 委婉
May (Might) I...? 我可以.....吗 ? (只能和第一人称连用)
Can (May) I...?
Can you...?
Could I...? (更委婉的说法)

too ... to ... 太 ... 而不能 不定式 to, 在大部分情况下 , 表示否定概念 not/never too ... to ... 并不太 ... 所以能够
One is never too old to learn. 不是太老以致于能够学习
The question is not too difficult for me to answer.
如果在副词 too 前出现修饰语 all, but, only, 不定式 to 的概念也是肯定的 :
They are all too satisfied to work with you.
I am only too glad to have someone to speak to.
He was but too eager to get home.

Why is fishing the writer's favourite sport?

Fishing is my favourite sport. I often fish for hours without catching anything. But this does not worry me.

主语 系 前置定语 → 表 主 状 谓 状 状 | 介词后的动词用现在分词形式 连 主 谓 宾

fish v. 钓鱼；favourite adj. 最喜爱的；sport n. 运动；for hours 一连数小时；catch-caught-caught v. 捉 抓住 捕获；catching 作介词 without 的宾语，介词后的动词要用动名词形式；worry v. 使担心 使发愁 使烦恼：sth. worry sb., be worried about；this 指数小时的钓鱼依然两手空空；

★ fishing 动名词 = 动词的现在分词，可做句子的主语，定语，表语，宾语或介词的宾语等，一般来说，动名词表示比较抽象的一般行为；非谓语动词 [动名词 ing, 过去分词 ed，动词不定式 to do], 除了不可以做谓语，其它的句子成分都可以 (ed 不可做主语，宾语)，非谓语动词有动词特征，它可以有自己的宾语；Reading books is my great joy. To read books in dark is very hard. It is hard to read books in dark.

My favourite sport is Fishing. I often fish for hours with empty hands. However, without catching anything does not worry me.

钓鱼是我特别喜爱的一项运动。我经常一钓数小时却一无所获，但我从不为此烦恼。

Some fishermen are unlucky. Instead of catching fish, they catch old boots and rubbish. I am even less lucky.

There is no shortage of fishing lovers in the world who love catching big fish. The bigger, the happier. There are fewer people who are into fishing with a clear aim not to catch any fish at all. Indeed I am a person who is keen on fishing without catching any. I am fond of being on a river and enjoying the beautiful scenery. People find it hard to believe that being a so-called fishing lover does not get anything, not even rubbishes like old boots. My friends know me poorly and often invite me to fishing trips. Everyone catches a lot of fish at the end of each trip except me. I am always empty-handed and they usually give me their catch out of pure pity. They want me to give up fishing because I am a very unlucky fisherman who catches nothing, not even old boots. However they don't realize that I love fishing without catching any. I know it is hard to understand, but to tell you the truth, there are people like me who go fishing for fun. If you have not met one, here I am. I should have also told you that I could not swim. My personal safety really worries my wife and she does not want me to go fishing alone. If I suddenly land into a deep river and there is no one around to save my life, I will certainly say goodbye to the world and my beloved wife. That is highly unlikely to happen. However I had better go fishing with a few people in case that things turn out to be not in my favour. This is the rewrite of this lesson. Can you understand what I wrote above? My rewriting is easy and do try to read it. I only use small words to let you know what I want to say.

我们所说的 -ing, 可以称之为 动名词或现在分词
我们所说的 -ed, 指的是过去分词，而不是过去式
非谓语动词：-ed 令人感到 ... -ing 自己感到 ...
-ing adj. 主动： living room, fishing trip, fishing boat
-ed adj. 被动：studied case, bitten body, spoken English 主语通常由名词和代词充当，动词 +ing 就变成名词词性
如：eat->eating, read->reading instead of 后面的词一定是没有做的，放在主句前后均可 与 without 比较： without 强调没有做某事

instead of 强调这件事没做成而做成了另外一件事（有“代替”的含义）
翻译成：我原准备做 ... 但是后来做了 ...
I go to school instead of staying at home.
I bought books instead of buying dresses.
I go to school without carrying my textbooks.
I bought books without paying them.

the moment = as soon as = on doing 句子 on 依旧，后 + doing 的前提是从句及主句的主语一样
The moment I saw you, I felt very nervous.
= As soon as I saw you, I felt very nervous.
= On seeing you, I felt very nervous.
on the radio 在广播上 on TV on the telephone on the line

Grammar in use | 语法 介词后的动词用现在分词形式

...without catching anything.
without prep. 介词后面一定要加宾语 同样，动词变为动名词作宾语 without doing 作为状语而出现，表示结果状语
He went out without saying any words.
Without asking for money, the boy went to school.
without 后面的动作由主语来做
介词后面的动词要用动名词 = 现在分词形式

after conj. prep. 在 ... 之后 ≠ before conj. prep. 在 ... 之前
after conj.+ 从句：从句和主句的主语一致，才能换成下面的形式
After I go to school, I learned a lot of knowledge.
after prep. + 名词 / 动词 ing 形式 把第一个动词变成 ing 形式
= After going to school, I learned a lot of knowledge.(主语都是 I)

介词 +ving 强调动作：
I apologize for interrupting you. Thank you for listening.
介词 + having done 强调时间：
I apologize for having interrupted you.
意思是一样的，但强调的重点不同

Grammar in use | 语法 非谓语动词 | 动词不定式 to do, 现在分词 doing -ing, 过去分词 done -ed

动词不定式：具有名词，形容词及副词性质并具有时态 语态变化

形式	主动语态	被动语态
一般时	to do	to be done
进行时	to be doing	to be being done
完成时	to have done	to have been done
完成进行时	to have been doing	to have been being done

◆作主语

To speak good English is not easy.
It is not easy to speak good English.
（采用形式主语 it 以避免头重脚轻）
It took me an hour to do the work.
For me to learn English is possible. (for sb. 作不定式的逻辑主语)
It is possible for me to learn English.

◆作宾语

She decided to take the examination.
I hope to meet him soon.

◆作宾语补足语

They expected us to help them.
He wants his son to study hard.

不定式作宾补，如谓语动词是感官动词，使役性动词 (see, hear, notice, watch, make, have, let...), 则不定式符号 “to” 须省略，但在被动语态中不能省。
I heard them sing in the classroom.
I made her clean the room.
The girl is heard to sing an English song.

◆作表语

To teach is to learn.
His job is to sell cars.

◆作状语，表示目的 结果

We come to school to study English.（目的）= in order to
I hurried to the store, only to find it closed.（结果）
To be or not to be, that's the question.

◆作定语：不定式短语作定语须位于名词之后

He asked for a piece of paper to write it on.
= to write it on the piece of paper.
The poor man has no house to live in.
= to live in the house.
Do you have anything to do?
= to do anything

●不定式的时态意义

She seems to dance very well.（现在情况）
She seems to be dancing in the dancing hall.（正在进行）
She seems to have danced well.（过去情况）
She was happy to have been staying with his uncle.
（动作持续一段时间）

●不定式语态

The doctor recommended him to air the room.
The doctor recommended the room to be aired.
She expects the police to find her bicycle.
She expects her bicycle to be found by the police.
She felt a bit puzzled as he had asked her such a question.
She felt a bit puzzled to have been asked such a question.

●不定式否定形式：not to do ...

He got up early in order not to miss the train.

动名词定义：具有名词性质，可在句中担任主语，宾语，表语，定语，具有所有格作修饰语

形式	主动语态	被动语态
一般时	doing	being done
完成时	having done	having been done

◆作主语

Saving is easier than doing.
His coming here will be a great help.
It is no use waiting here, he has left.
It is no good smoking.
There is no getting along with him.（简直无法和他相处）

◆作表语

His job is keeping the hall clean as possible.
Seeing is believing.

◆作宾语

He admitted taking the book.
I do mind your smoking here.

下列动词须跟动名词作宾语： admit, appreciate, avoid, complete, delay, deny, enjoy, fancy, finish, mind, practice, resent, risk, suggest, allow, permit...
以 allow 为例：allow + doing sth（动名词作宾语）
但可以：Allow sb. to do sth.（不定式作宾补）
这类动词常见如 advise, allow, permit, recommend...

◆作介词宾语

He left without saying goodbye to us.
I'm looking forward to meeting you.（to 在这里是介词）

◆作状语，表示目的 结果

Having no friend, I feel lonely.

◆作定语

reading room　swimming pool　walking stick

●动名词复合结构：名词所有格或物主代词与动名词构成

His leaving is a great loss.
Mother dislikes my (me) working late.
John's having seen her did not make her worried.

动名词复合结构多作主语或宾语，作主语是必须是所有格。如上二例，但作宾语时可以用所有格，也可用普通格。（解释得很拗口，请将例句看透即可！）

●动名词时态

I am thinking of setting a new dictionary.（以后）
He never talked to me about his having been in Paris.（以前）

●动名词语态

He doesn't like being flattered.
I heard of his having been chosen to be the coach of the team.

●动名词否定形式：not to do ...

Not being able to find enough food caused his death.

●动名词与不定式在用法上的几点比较

1). 在 begin, start, continue 等词后用动名词或不定式区别不大
He began writing/to write in 1980.
2). 下列动词跟不定式或动名词所表示意义差别很大，注意使用
He stopped talking. 停止讲话。
He stopped to talk. 停下来开始讲话。
Please remember to post the letter. 记住寄走这封信。
I remember posting the letter. 我记得寄出了这封信。
I forgot to lock the door yesterday. 昨天我忘记锁门了。（未锁）
I forgot telling him the news.
我忘了我曾告诉过他这个消息。（做过的事情忘记了）

ed 过去分词 ing 现在分词

具有形容词性质，可以在句中担任表语、定语、宾补、状语，现在分词表示主动，且动作在进行，过去分词表示被动，或动作已完成。

	主动语态	被动语态
现在时	doing	being done
完成时	having done	having been done

◆作定语

分词置于被修饰名词前，分词短语于置于被修饰名词后

a sleeping baby = a baby who is sleeping a running dog = a dog which is running a broken glass = a glass which is broken a beaten team = a team which is beaten(beaten 是被打败的意思)
This is the problem discussed at the last meeting.
The problem being discussed is very important.

◆作表语

The book is interesting. He is interested in the book.
The news is exciting. He feels excited.

◆作宾语补足语

When I woke up, I found my mother sitting beside me.
I would like to have this package weighed.

动词不定式作宾语表示动作的全过程，而现在分词作宾补表示动作正在进行；过去分词表示被动概念。

If you turn to the left, you'll find the station.
→ Turning to the left, you'll find the station.
As I didn't receive her letter, I called her up by telephone.
→ Not receiving her letter, I called her up by telephone.
While I was walking to school yesterday morning, I met a friend.
→ Walking to school yesterday morning, I met a friend.
When she was asked if she had any bad habit, she answered that she was a heavy smoker.
→ Asked if she had any bad habit, she answered that she was a heavy smoker.

在运用此类句型时主语前后要保持一致。
When school was over, the boys went home.
→ Being over, the boys went home. ×
School being over, the boys went home. √
As my homework has been done, I have nothing else to do.
My homework having been done, I have nothing else to do.
If weather permits, I'll start tomorrow.
→ Weather permitting, I'll start tomorrow.
We judge from his face, he must be ill.
→ Judging from his face, he must be ill.（这里应该是 we judging ...，但若主语是 we, one, you 表示“一般人”，主语可省略）
实际上，这里涉及到独立主格结构问题，以后在作解释！

●分词的时态

现在分词一般时表示此动作与主句谓语动词同时发生
现在分词完成时表示此动作在主句谓语动词之前发生

Entering the room, he saw me.（几乎同时）
Not having tried his best, he failed in the exam.（分词动作在前）

●语态

现在分词一般时被动表动作正在被进行
完成时被动强调分词所表示的动作先被完成

The ships being loaded, the unloaded belongs to us.
Having been warned of typhoon, the fishermen sailed for the nearest harbor.（渔民先被告知而后驶向港口）

Lesson 21 Mad or not? 是不是疯了？

First listen and then answer the question.

Why do people think the writer is mad?

大家都说我肯定是疯了，也许他们说的是对的。

The writer is slowly going crazy/mad. He lives near an airfield. Passing planes can be heard day after day. Most of his neighbours have left their house because of the noise. He has been given a huge sum of money to leave. However, he is determined to stay there. Everyone says he must be crazy. They can not be wrong.

My house is in a beautiful valley where the air is always fresh and forever quiet. Years earlier an airfield was built near our village and for some unknown reason, it could not be put into use. Last year, however, the airport was put into operation. Since then aeroplanes are flying here and there all day long. The air we breathe is getting worse and worse by the days (as time goes by) and it is noisy all the time. Planes that pass over my head can be heard day in day out. I am now driven mad bit by bit. I'm slowly losing my mind. More than one hundred people must have been forced to abandon their homes by the never-ending noise. However, I'm the few people who do not want to leave. From time to time I guess my house will be struck down by the strong winds which are made by the planes (which are) flying over the house. A huge amount of money has been presented to me to make me leave, but I have made up my mind that I will never abandon my home and remain there as long as I could. Everyone thinks that I must be crazy because I let the huge sum of money pass me by. I don't think so. They have failed to realize that I really love my house and I don't want to leave despite the noises made by passing planes. Whether I am mad or not has become one of my neighbours' favorite subject of conversation. Some say that it is no doubt that I'm mad and others remark that if more money is paid to me, I will leave as quickly as possible. Perhaps they are right. Meanwhile, I'll wait and see the face value of my house increasing higher and higher.

★ cost v. 花费，作谓语时主语不能为人 [sth. cost sb. some money], 如果主语是人，可以用 sb. spend ... on sth.: They will spend a little more on letters.；★ a little 表程度，可以修饰形容词比较级，稍微 一点点，类似的还有 a bit, by far, much, much more; more adj. & pron.; It's a little hotter. It's much hotter. It's expensive. → It is more expensive. → It is a little/much more expensive.；★ faster 比较级：Letters will certainly travel faster than bottles.

They will spend a little more money on letters but using post office to send letters will certainly travel faster than using bottles.

现在这两位姑娘定期通信了。然而她们还是决定利用邮局。这样会稍微多花点钱，但肯定是快得多了。

⑨ Jane crossed the Channel last year. During the trip, she threw a bottle into the sea. It contained a piece of paper with her name and address on it ten months earlier. Ten months later, she received a letter from a girl in Holland. They hear from each other regularly now. They send their letteres by post. A Letter written by a girl from as far away as Holland was received by my daughter whose dream of such thing was never in her mind. While travelling across the Channel last year, a bottle with a piece of paper on which Jane's name and address were written down was thrown into the sea by her. She did not think of it since then and after ten months' time, a girl in Holland sent her a letter. With a surprise like that, my daughter was very excited and she immediately wrote back. Now the two girls write to each other on a regular basis. They have made up their minds and they will use post service to send their correspondences/letters. Needless to say, bottles will cost a little less than letters, but they are not reliable. Letters will be more reliable and they will cost more. Indeed, bottles will travel slower and letters will be received faster. After having weighed the pros and cons of the ways they get their private messages, the two girls come to a decision that they will use post service instead.

Grammar in use | 语法 ★★★★★ 独立主格 ★★★★★

独立主格具有两个特点：

1). 独立主格结构的逻辑主语与句子的主语不同，它独立存在

2). 独立主格一般用逗号与句子分隔开

独立主格结构的三种类型：

1). 逻辑主语 + 非谓语动词（不定式，现在分词，过去分词）

2). 逻辑主语 + (being) + 表语（名词，形容词，副词，介词短语）

3). with/without + 复合宾语（不定式，现在分词，过去分词，形容词，副词，介词短语）

独立主格结构 (the absolute structure) 是由名词或代词加上分词或分词短语构成的一种独立结构，用于修饰整个句子，而不是一个词或词组．独立主格结构中的名词或代词与其后的分词或分词短语构成逻辑上的主谓关系．这种结构与主句不发生句法上的联系，独立主格结构的位置相当灵活，可置于主句前、主句末或主句中，常由逗号将其与主句分开．需特别注意的是，独立主格结构与主句之间不能使用任何连接词；

Special Difficulties | 难点 实战 with 独立主格例句 + 分析

With the news on the paper saying that his only son was killed during the war with France, thinking that alone from now on and when the time came there would be no one with him on his death bed, slowly the old man with tears streaming down from his wrinkled face went home all by himself with a broken heart crying for the loss of his beloved son who was only fifteen years old, with each step growing heavier and heavier in the chilly north wind accompanied with heavy rain.

这个例句虽然很长，仔细体会，句子的主干是 man went，其它都是 with 的独立主格结构，后置定语或伴随状语；在一个句子中主语，谓语，宾语，系动词，表语，补语是一个句子的主干成分；定语和状语是一个句子的修饰性成分，不是主干成分；英语经常出现这样的句子，理解这样的句子时，先把修饰性成分全部忽略掉，然后找句子的真正主干；这一句话，基本上把英语所有的语法全部囊括了；

With the news on the paper saying that his only son was killed during the war with France,

状 逻辑主语 ← 后置定语 独立主格 引 定 主 谓 | 被动语态 状 ← 后置定语

独立主格作伴随状语；that 引导的宾语从句作 saying 的宾语，说明新闻内容；本行不是句子的主干； thinking that alone from now on and when the time came there would be no one with him on his death bed,

状 引 状 状 连 引 主 谓 谓 主 状 地点状语 thinking 现在分词作伴随状语，其后跟它的宾语从句，在宾语从句内有一个 when 引导的时间状语从句；alone from now on 前省略了 being; slowly the old man with tears streaming down from his wrinkled face went home all by himself

状 定 → 主 ←定 逻主 独立主格 状 谓 状 状 with 独立主格作后置定语修饰 man; 这句话是本句的主干，纵览全句，除了 3 个从句外，主句只有一个主语 man 和一个谓语 went; wrinkled 过去分词作定语修饰 face; with a broken heart crying for the loss of his beloved son who was only fifteen years old,

状 逻辑主语 独立主格 状 ←主 系 状 表

独立主格作伴随状语，这一行还是状语，不是句子主干；who 引导的定语从句修饰 son;

with each step growing heavier and heavier in the chilly north wind accompanied with heavy rain.

状 逻辑主语 独立主格 状 | 比较级：越来越沉重 状 ← 过去分词短语作后置定语修饰 wind

独立主格作伴随状语；growing: each step grew heavier and heavier 每走一步，步子就变得更沉重一点；accompany with 伴随；

他在报纸中得知他唯一的儿子战死在跟法国的战争中，想着以后只有他一个人过，在他死的时候，没有人在他身边，带着一颗为他失去那个只有 15 岁爱儿而饮泣的破碎的心，那个满脸皱纹挂着泪水的老人独自迈着沉重的步子，在凄冷的伴随着瓢泼大雨的北风中，慢慢地回家了。

独立主格结构 Absolute Structure

此独立形式只是一个小短语，而不是主谓完整的简单句，又称之为独立分词构句。当分词意义上的主语不是主句的主语时，必须在分词前保留意义上的主语，否则语意不通。（定义有点费解，多看几遍）

示例：

Being ill in bed, I can't go to school.

Mother being ill in bed, I can't go to school.

（1） 独立主结构形式可用以表时间，理由，条件，伴随状态等

He lay on the grass, the sun shining upon him.

= He lay on the grass, and the sun was shining upon him.

Weather permitting, I'll start tomorrow.

= If weather permits, I'll start tomorrow.

School being over, the boys went home.

= When school was over, the boys went home.

The sun having set, we arrived at the station.

= After the sun had set, we arrived at the station.

王牌重点: 当独立主格结构的主语表示“一般人”, 如: we, one, you 时, 主语可省略, 此用法常用于下列表达方式中:

generally speaking 一般来说 strictly speaking 严格地说 talking of ... 谈到

speaking of ... 说到

judging from ... 由.....来判断

taking all things into consideration 把一切都考虑在内 considering ... 考虑到.....

[示例]:

If we judge from his face, he must be ill.

= Judging from his face, he must be ill.

He has lots of books if we consider that he is young.

= He has lots of books, considering that he is young.

（2）with 复合结构也是独立主格结构形式之一。这种结构在句中作状语（表示原因，方式，伴随等）和定语，作定语时紧随被修饰名词后。

1．with+ 名词 + 介词短语：

The woman with a baby on her back is my sister.

The boy rushed into the room, with his schoolbag in his hand.

2．with + 名词 + adj.

with the door open, he left the classroom.

3．with + 名词 + adv.

With the gloves off, she felt cold.

With the lights on, the building looks beautiful.

4．with + 名词 + 现在分词（主动） with + 名词 + 过去分词（被动）

Withthe guide leading us, we got to the village.

The boy was crying with the vase broken.

5．with + 名词 + 不定式

With the hard work to be done, we have to prepare for it.

它是一栋非常现代化的住宅，因此在有些人看来很古怪。它肯定是这个地区唯一的一栋现代化住宅。

⑳ My sister will come to England next year. She will get a surprise if she comes. We have a new house built in the country. I have invited my sister to live with us. It is a very modern house with many large rooms and a lovely garden. A letter in which it said that my sister who lives in Nigeria would go to England next year was received by me yesterday. She will receive a big surprise if she comes. We are now living in a beautiful new house which is in the countryside. Workers have already been working on the house before my sister went away. Five months ago the house reached it's completion. I wrote back and she was told by me that her stay with us could not be more welcomed. The house has many big rooms with it a lovely garden. Because the house is very modern, some people find it very strange. I guess it must be the only modern house in the neighborhood. There can't be any house in the countryside which can be as strange as mine. So strange is the house that people find it odd. The house is not too strange for me. With the new special-designed house being built, my sister will be much more surprised by it's modern looks. Without the lovely beautiful garden being designed and constructed, the house would not be as modern as it is now.

Here in this article I would like to share an inspiring story with you. It happened to me last year during my short stay in a beautiful big modern hotel in Switzerland. After losing 50 pounds, I was very upset. I thought I should seek help from the hotel's manager who was put in charge of all the hotel's business. I came into the manager's office where he managed the hotel and took a seat. I said to the manager that the money I left in my private room was not there anymore at that moment. The manager showed his deep sympathy towards me and my misfortune. He told me that there was nothing he could do about it. He added that losing money had been a daily occurrence nowadays. Then he began to make many complaints about this wicked dark world which he complained about. A knock at the door interrupted his never-ending complaints. After entering the room, a girl put an envelope on his desk with 50 pounds in it. The girl told us that 50 pounds was found by her outside my room. What an honest girl! Then I said to the manager who worked for the hotel that honesty could still be found in this beautiful world with the girl being the role model [榜样] for all of us.

Lesson 25 Do the English speak English? 英国人讲的是英语吗？

First listen and then answer the question.

Why does the writer not understand the porter?

I arrived in London at last. The railway station was big, black and dark.

主 谓 状 状 主 系 表

arrive v. 到达；arrival n. 到达 抵达；arrive in + 大地方；arrive at + 小地方；at last 最终 最后 终于 = at long last, in the end, finally; railroad n. 铁路 [美]; railway n. 铁路；railway station 火车站 = train station; black 颜色黑；dark 没有光线 = without light;

我终于到了伦敦。火车站很大，又黑又暗。

I did not know the way to my hotel, so I asked a porter.

主 谓 宾 ← 后置定语 连 主 谓 宾

know sth well 很熟悉；know-knew-known v. 知道 熟悉；the way to ... 去 ... 的路；porter n. 搬运工；hotel n. 旅馆；youth hostel 青旅；

Shortly after my arrival at London's big, black and dark train station, because I was unfamiliar with the city, I seeked help from a porter nearby. With my arrival an unfriendly city unknown to me, I asked the porter for his help/assistance.

我不知道去饭店的路该怎么走，于是向一个搬运工打听。

I not only spoke English very carefully, but very clearly as well.

主 连 谓 宾 状 连 状 状

carefully adv. 仔细地 细心地 careful adj.；clearly adv. 清晰地 clear adj.; speak-spoke-spoken v. 说某种语言；

★ not only ...but ...as well = not only ... but also ... 不仅 ... 而且 ..., 所连接的前后部分成分必须一致；neither...nor..., 既不 ... 也不 ..., 这个结构所连接的两个否定概念也必须是对等成分；either ... or ... 两者选择一个；如果 not only, neither 置于句首，句子要用倒装结构 [疑问句句序];

I not only spoke English very carefully but also very clearly. Not only did I speak English very carefully but also very clearly.

He not only reads English books but speaks English as well. Not only does He read English books but speaks English as well. 他不但读英语书而且还说英语； I neither knew London nor asked the porter to help me. Neither did I know London nor asked the porter to help me. 我既不了解伦敦也不向搬运工寻求帮助；He either has been lying or telling the truth. 他要么一直在撒谎，要么在说实话；

我的英语讲得不但非常认真，而且咬字也非常清楚。

The porter, however, could not understand me.

主 状 谓 宾

however adv. 但是 可是 不过，可放于句首句中或句尾，前后加标点，相当于插入语；however 与前面的句子只是意思上的承接，没有语法上的承接，语法上的承接只能用 but; understand-understood-understood v. 懂 理解；misunderstand v. 误解；

然而搬运工却不明白我的话。

I repeated my question several times and at last he understood.

主 谓 宾 状 连 状 主 谓

repeat v. 重复；repetition n. 重复 重做；question n. 问题 v. 问询；several adj. 几个 + 可数名词 = a number of；a great number of 大量的；several times 多次 好几遍；at last 终于 = finally；

我把问话重复了很多遍。他终于听懂了。

He answered me, but he spoke neither slowly nor clearly. 'I am a foreigner,' I said.

主 谓 宾 连 主 谓 连 状 连 状 主 系 表 主 谓 answer v. 回答 = reply；neither ...nor ... 即不 ... 也不 ..., 这个结构连接否定概念，前后必须对等 [neither 置句首要用倒装结构]; either ... or ... 两者择一；foreign adj. 外国的 外来的 = alien; foreigner n. 外国人；abroad adv. 国外；alien n. 外国人 外星人 adj. 格格不入的 陌生的 外国的；

In reply/answer to my question which had been repeated several times, neither did he speak slowly nor clearly.

他回答了，但他讲得既不慢也不清楚。“我是个外国人”我说。

Then he spoke slowly, but I could not understand him. My teacher never spoke English like that!

状 主 谓 状 连 主 谓 宾 主 状 谓 宾 状 could not understand him = could not understand what he said; like prep. 像 ...; like that 像那样，介词短语作状语，修饰动词 spoke;

The porter and I looked at each other and smiled. Then he said something and I understood it.

主 连 主 谓 宾 连 谓 状 主 谓 宾 连 主 谓 宾

look at each other 互相看看；smile v. n. 微笑；It 指 What the porter had said to the writer.

The porter and I not only looked at each other but also smiled. Not only did both of us look at each other but smiled as well.

于是他说得慢了，可我还是听不懂。我的老师从来不那样讲英语！ 我和搬运工相视一笑。接着，他说了点什么，这回我听懂了。

'You'll soon learn English!' he said.

主 谓 状 谓 宾 主 谓

"您会很快学会英语的！"他说。

I wonder. In England, each person speaks a different language.

主 谓 状 前定→ 主 谓 前置定语 → 宾 wonder v. 感到奇怪 惊叹 琢磨 想知道 n. 奇迹 奇观；wonderful adj. 精彩的；wander v. 徘徊 漫游 走神 n. 溜达 闲逛 wanderer n. 流浪者 漫游者；different adj. 不同的；difference n.; speak-spoke-spoken v. 说某种语言；speaker n. 说话的人 主讲人 话筒；language n. 语言；不定代词 each 修饰的词作主语时，谓语动词要用单数，这里 person 是 people 的单数形式；

He said I would soon learn English. In England there are wide differences in people's daily speaking.

我感到奇怪。在英国，人们各自说着一种不同的语言。

The English understand each other, but I don't understand them! Do they speak English?

主 谓 宾 连 主 谓 宾 谓 主 谓 宾 each = every 在这里可以互换；the English 英国人，与定冠词 the 连用，表示一个群体，所跟的动词用复数；

英国人之间相互听得懂，可我却不懂他们的话！他们说的是英语吗？

At last I reached my destination London by train. The big, black and dark railway station was the first thing I saw after my immediate arrival. Because I knew nothing about the way to my hotel, I asked for help from a porter who was working at the station. Not only did I speak English with great care but also very clearly. However the porter found it hard to know what I said. The same question was asked many times and in the end he understood what I had been saying. He replied to me and neither did he speak slowly nor clearly. I said to him that I came from a foreign country. Then he spoke to me slowly, but it was still hard for me to understand him. For my poor understanding of English, my teacher who taught me English did not speak English the way the porter did. The porter not only looked at me but smiled to me as well. However I was very much embarrassed because I had been studying English for many years in my native country and after years of English study, I still did not understand what he said. Then he said something which I understood. He said that I would soon learn English here in London with so many people speaking English. I wondered if everyone in England spoke the same language. The English people understand one another, but as an outsider myself, I don't understand them! I could not help but thinking that if they speak English AT ALL!

Grammar in use | 语法

并列的表示方法前面都用逗号隔开，最后两个用 and 连接
I have a big, blue and small shirt.
The railway station was big, black and dark.
连词 conj. 把并列句连在一起
and 和 but 但是 so 因此 yet adv. 然而 Have you finished yet?
yet = but 放在两个句子中间，起转折作用 or 或者，否则
Hurry up, you will be late. Hurry up, or you will be late.
both...and... 不但 ... 而且 Both you and I...
either...or... 或者 ... 或者，要么 ... 要么 Either you or I... neither ...nor... 既不 ... 也不 Neither you nor I will go.
not only ...but...as well 不但 ... 而且 ...
not only ...but also... 不但 ... 而且 ... not only ...but ...as well, as well 放在句子结尾，且可以省略 连词，把并列句连到一起；
如果有两个谓语动词，加连词，成为并列
并列连词，什么东西并列连接什么 ...
I can speak Chinese. I can speak English.
I can speak not only Chinese but English as well. ←宾语并列
I can not only speak Chinese but English as well. ←最喜欢的放置
I can not only speak but write Chinese as well. ←谓语的并列
I can speak and write Chinese.
一般遇到实义动词和非实义动词的时候，习惯放在两者之间
I not only sing but dance as well.
Not only you but also I will go there.
Both you and I will go there.
not only 喜欢放在动词的前面
当主语由 and 和 both and 连接时，通常采用复数谓语动词
Both you and I are good students.
当主语由 neither ..nor ..., either ..or..., not only ..but also 或 or 连接时，谓语动词与 nor, or but also 后面的词一致，在英文语法中，这被称之为就近原则，离动词最近的是单数就被视为单数，离动词最近的名词是复数则整个主语视为复数：
Neither you nor I am a good student.

Lesson 26 The best art critics 最佳美术评论家

First listen and then answer the question.

Who is the student's best critic?

I am an art student and I paint a lot of pictures. Many people pretend that they understand modern art.

主 系 前定→ 表 连 主 谓 前定 → 宾 前定 → 主 谓 引 主 谓 前置定语→ 宾

art student 学艺术的学生；black art 巫术 art gallery 艺术画廊；artist 艺术家；artiste 艺人；paint v. 画 [油画]; draw-drew-drawn v. 画 [素描 草稿]; oil painting 油画；Chinese painting 中国画；a lot of 许多 = lots of, a large number of, many, a great many; picture n. 画 = photo; pretend v. 假装 自称；pretender n. 冒充者；pretentious adj. 炫耀的 虚夸的 自命不凡的；pretentiousness n. 狂妄；pretend to do sth 假装做某事；pretend that...; modern adj. 现代的；modern art 现代艺术；postmodern adj. 后现代的 后现代主义的；

㊀ I am an art student who paints lots of oil paintings. I am not only an art student but also a great painter. A great many people pretend to understand modern art. In truth, they know nothing about modern art. About modern art, they know nothing.

They always tell you what a picture is 'about'. Of course, many pictures are not 'about' anything.

I study art and I usually paint a lot of oil paintings. A great many people act as if they 'understand' modern art. They always talk about the meanings behind those pictures. Certainly lots of paintings touch on nothing. They are simply beautiful pictures which do not have meanings at all. We are fond of them just like the way we are keen on pretty curtain materials. In my opinion/view, young people have much more appreciation towards modern art than that of anyone else because they observe more. My sister is only seven years old, but she always gives me valuable feedbacks on my pictures. She can easily tell me whether or not my paintings are good. Yesterday after coming into my room, she asked me what I was doing. I told her that I was hanging that new painting on the wall. Then I asked her if she liked it. She had a long look at the painting and then she gave me her views of the picture. She remarked that it was OK. Then she mentioned something I did not notice: the picture was upside down. I put the picture the right way up in the end. With her constant help on judging whether my pictures are good or not, my skill of making art has been improving.

Lesson 28 No parking 禁止停车

First listen and then answer the question.

What is Jasper White's problem?

Jasper White is one of those rare people who believes in ancient myths.

主 系 表 ← 后置定语修饰 one ← 主 谓 前置定语→ 宾

★ who 引导定语从句修饰 one, 由于 one 是单数，其后从句谓语动词 believe 在一般现在时第三人称单数时加 s; rare adj. 罕见的 ;rarity n. 罕见 稀有 珍品；ancient adj. 古代的 古老的 古板的；myth n. 神话故事；mythical adj. 神话的 神秘的；believe in 信任 信仰 笃信；

贾斯珀·怀特是少有的相信古代神话的人之一。

He has just bought a new house in the city,

主 谓 状 谓 前定 → 宾 状

★ just 常与完成时连用，类似的词有：since, for, so far, up till now, already, yet; buy-bought-bought v. 购买；city n. 城市；citizen n. 市民； but ever since he moved in, he has had trouble with cars and their owners.

连 引 主 谓 主 谓 宾 状

ever since = since, 自从 从那时起，引导时间状语从句；move in 搬入 move out 搬出；★ have trouble with 在打交道或应付某事时有困难；has had trouble 现在完成时 [have/has done]; own v. 拥有；owner 拥有者；trouble n. 麻烦 问题 困难 困境 v. 麻烦 费力 费事 费神 烦恼；

A new house in the city has been bought by Jasper White, a rare person who believes in ancient myths. After having moved in, he found it troublesome to be with those car owners who own cars. Not only has he bought a new house in the city but also moved in. Since his relocation, not only has he had trouble with cars but their owners as well.

他刚在城里买下一所新房子，但自从搬进去后，就和汽车及车主们发生了摩擦。

When he returns home at night, he always finds that someone has parked a car outside his gate.

引 主 谓 状 状 主 状 谓 引 主 谓 宾 状 return v. 返回 归还 恢复 n. 返回 回报 回来 收益；return home = go back home 回家；always adv. 总是 老是；park v. 停；outside prep. 在 ... 外边 ≠ inside prep. 在 ... 里面；gate n. 大门；

当他夜里回到家时，总是发现有人把车停在他家大门外。

Because of this, he has not been able to get his own car into his garage even once.

状 主 谓 前定 → 宾 状 状

★ because of prep. 由于 因为，跟名词或代词，because conj. 后面加句子；this 指代：someone has parked a car outside his gate.; ★ be able to do sth 有能力做某事 = can, 这个短语可以用在各种不同的时态中 ≠ be unable to do sth; even 用来修饰 once 加强语气；

When he goes back home at night, he always notices that there has already been a car parking outside his gate, which has made him not be able to park his car inside his garage even once. Because a car has already been parked outside his gate, he has been unable to put the car of his own into his garage even once.

为此，他甚至一次也没能把自己的车开进车库。

Jasper has put up 'No Parking' signs outside his gate, but these have not had any effect.

主 谓 前置定语 → 宾 状 连 主 谓 定→ 宾 put up 挂起 张贴；put out 灭火；put off 拖延；put forward 提出 建议 促进；no 表示禁止 No Smoking!；sign n. 标牌 招牌；affect v. 影响；effect n. 结果 效果 [不可数名词]; have effect 有效果 ≠ have no effect; have not had any effect = have had no effect 没有效果；have effect on 对 ... 产生影响 对 ... 有效果；take effect 奏效 见效 起作用 生效；come into effect 生效 开始实施 ;in effect 实际上 事实上 在实施中；

Though 'No Parking' signs have been put up by Jasper outside his gate, these have received no effect on the wrongful parkings.

贾斯珀曾把几块"禁止停车"的牌子挂在大门外边，但没有任何效果。

Now he has put an ugly stone head over the gate. It is one of the ugliest faces I have ever seen.

状 主 谓 前置定语 → 宾 状 主 系 表 ← 后置定语 | 最高级 主 谓 状 谓 ugly adj. 丑陋的 ≠ beautiful, pretty; over prep. 在 ... 上方；stone head 石雕头像；gate n. 大门；entrance n. 入口；exit n. 出口；★ one of 后要加可数名词复数形式，one of 其中之一；★最高级标志 the ~est, the most...: of + 范围，in+ 地点；定语从句 I have ever seen, 修饰 one, 引导词 that 在这种最高级情况下经常被省略；I am the tallest student in the class. He is the tallest man that I have ever seen. She is the most beautiful girl that he has ever seen. He is the most hard-working employee in the company.

现在他把一个丑陋的石雕头像放在了大门上边，这是我见过的最丑陋的头像之一。

I asked him what it was and he told me that it was Medusa, the Gorgon.

主 谓 间宾 引 主 系 连 主 谓 间宾 引 主 系 表 ← 同位语

it 指 stone head; Medusa n. 美杜莎 Gorgon n. 希腊神话中的蛇发女怪，见其貌者都会变成石头；

ask sb to do sth 要求某人做某事；ask sb sth 询问某人某事 = ask sb about sth, 这里的 about 可有可无；ask sb for sth 是向某人索要某物；本句中，ask sb sth 双宾语结构，him 为间接宾语，而由 what 引导的宾语从句为直接宾语；tell sb sth 告诉某人某事；tell sb sth 是 tell + sb 间接宾语 +sth 直接宾语，在句中，me 作为间接宾语，而 that 引导的宾语从句作为直接宾语；

⑨ I asked him, 'What is it?' He said, 'It is Medusa, the Gorgon.' In ancient Greek stories, Gorgon is one of three sisters with snakes on their heads instead of hair, who can change anyone that looks at them into stone.

我问他那是什么？他告诉我那是蛇发女怪美杜莎。

Jasper hopes that she will turn cars and their owners to stone. But none of them has been turned to stone yet!

主 谓 引 主 谓 宾 状 连 主 ←后置定语 谓 | 被动语态 状 状

turn ...to ... 把 ... 变成 ...., 把前者变成后者；hope + that 从句；★ none pron. 任何一个都没有，常指三个或更多的，作主语时，谓语动词用单数复数均可，如果谈到所有人的情况，动词多用复数，如果谈到每个人的情况，动词用单数；neither of 二者其一都没有，作主语时作单数看待；

贾斯珀希望她把汽车和车主们都变成石头。但到目前为止还没有一个人变成石头呢！

⑨ Jasper White is one of the rare strong believers of ancient myths. A beautiful modern house in the city has been bought by him and right after he moved in, troubles with cars and their owners begin to appear/surface. When he comes back home from work, he always finds himself in trouble of parking his own car inside his garage because a car has always been parked just outside his gate by unknown car owners. Because there has always been a car parked right in front of the gate, his private car has never been able to be parked inside his garage even once. 'No Parking' signs have been put outside his gate, but those car owners who have been parking their cars outside his gate pay no attention to such signs. They still park their cars in the same way that they parked before. Now an ugly stone head, which is uglier than anything else in the world, has been put over his gate. I know little about the head and he told me that the head belonged to Medusa, The Gorgon. In/with hope that Medusa will turn cars and their owners to stone, he puts the head over his gate. However up till now not a single one of them has been turned into stone yet. He, however, keeps his hope high and eventually dreams will come true. Someday at a twisted turn, those cars along with their owners will stand as stones at his front gate, which serves as a disturbing warning to those people who plan to park their cars outside his gate.

这架奇妙的飞机可以载 7 名乘客。

The most surprising thing about it, however, is that it can land anywhere:

前置定语 → 主 ←后置定语 状 系 引 主 谓 状

★ surprising 现在分词作定语 , 令人惊奇的 , surprised 过去分词 感到惊奇的 ; be surprised to do 非常惊讶做某事 ; land v. 着陆 = touch down; that 引导的表语从句作本句的表语 ; about it, it 指代 the aeroplane, 介词短语作后置定语 , 修饰 thing; however adv. 但是 可是 不过 , 可放于句首句中或句尾 , 前后加标点 , 相当于插入语 ; however 与前面的句子只是意思上的承接 , 没有语法上的承接 , 语法上的承接只能用 but;

About the aeroplane, The thing which is the most surprising, however, is that it can touch down anywhere, such as on...

on snow, water, or even on a ploughed field.

← 同位语 | 解释说明 anywhere

plough v. 犁 耕 n. 犁 ; ploughed field 耕过的田 : field that is ploughed; field n. 田地 田野 ; farm n. 农场 ;

然而，最令人惊奇的是它能够在任何地方降落：雪地上，水面上，甚至刚耕过的田里。

Captain Fawcett's first passenger was a doctor who flew from Birmingham to a lonely village in the Welsh mountains.

前置定语 → 主 系 表 ←主 谓 地点状语 ← 后置定语修饰 village who 引导定语从句修饰 doctor; fly-flew-flown v. 飞 ; fly from...to... 从 ... 飞往 ...; Welsh adj. 威尔士的 ; lonely adj. 孤独的 人迹罕至的 偏僻的 寂寞的 ; alone adj. 独自 单独 : She is alone. [客观事实]; She feel lonely [主观]; mountain n. 大山 ; hill n. 小山 丘陵 ;

弗西特机长的第一名乘客是位医生，他从伯明翰飞往威尔士山区一个偏僻的村庄。

Since then, Captain Fawcett has flown passengers to many unusual places.

状 主 谓 宾 状

★ since then 从那时起 从此一直 [强调起点] + 完成时态 ; so far, up to now, up till now 到目前为止 [强调终点]; place n. 地方 地点 = spot ;

从那时开始，弗西特机长已经载送乘客到过许多不寻常的地方。

Once he landed on the roof of a block of flats and on another occasion, he landed in a deserted car park.

状 主 谓 状 ← 后置定语 连 时间状语 主 谓 状

On one occasion, he landed on the roof of a block of flats and on another, in a car park that was deserted.

一次，他把飞机降落在了一栋公寓楼的屋顶上；还有一次，降落在了一个废弃的停车场上。

Captain Fawcett has just refused a strange request from a businessman.

主 谓 状 谓 前置定语 → 宾 ← 后置定语 refuse v. 拒绝 refuse to do sth; refusal n. 拒绝 回绝；decline v. 谢绝；deny v. 否认 deny doing/that 从句；request n. 要求 v. 请求 要求；

弗西特机长刚刚拒绝了一位商人的奇怪要求。

The man wanted to fly to Rockall, a lonely island in the Atlantic Ocean,

主 谓 宾 Rockall 的同位语 | 解释说明 Rockall island n. 岛；ocean n. 海洋；the Atlantic Ocean 大西洋；Atlantic n. 大西洋 adj. 大西洋的；the Arctic Ocean 北冰洋；Arctic n. 北极 adj. 北极的； but Captain Fawcett did not take him because the trip was too dangerous.

连 主 谓 宾 引 主 系 状 表

dangerous adj. 危险的；danger n. 危险；★ because conj. 因为 + 从句，because of prep. + 名词：because of the danger of this trip；trip n. 旅行 旅程 旅途；very 强调程度深，too 强调程度大到了人们不愿去做；★ take sb to somewhere 送某人去某地；take v. 拿 - 从某地某人处带走，离说话人越来越远；bring v. 带来 - 由某处带来某物，离说话人越来越近；fetch v. 取来 取回 - 去某地取某物并带回，双向运动；

Captain Fawcett has just received a strange request from a businessman who wished to fly to Rockall which is a lonely island in the Atlantic Ocean, but he has refused to do so because of the danger of this dangerous trip.

这个人想要飞往大西洋上的一个孤岛——罗卡尔岛，弗西特机长之所以不送他去，是因为那段飞行太危险了。

Not only has Captain Ben Fawcett bought an unusual taxi, (which is) a small Swiss airplane called a 'Pilatus Porter', but also has started to put it into service. Not only can this wonderful aeroplane carry seven passengers but also can land anywhere, such as on snow, water, or on a field which is ploughed. A doctor who flew from Birmingham to a lonely village in the Welsh mountains was Captain Fawcett's first passenger. Ever since, Captain Fawcett has visited a great many places with a lot of passengers by air. One of the most unusual places he has even landed was on the roof of a block of flats. On another time, the small airplane took him to a car park where there were a lot of cars which had been deserted. Because the risk of the trip to a lonely island in the Atlantic Ocean was very high, Captain Fawcett has just refused such a dangerous request from a businessman who wished to go there.

主 谓 状 连 谓 宾 状

throw-threw-thrown v. 扔 丢；call out to 对 ... 高喊 = shout at, yell at;

他大声叫着那些孩子，把球扔回到岸上。

On fine afternoons I am fond of being beside the small river called Wayle which runs in the middle of the park near my home. Last Sunday it was a fine day. I paid a visit to the river and was seated on the river bank as usual. There were some children playing games on the bank and a great many people (who were) rowing on the river. All of a sudden, one of the children kicked a ball so hard that it flew towards a boat which was passing by. Some people on the bank yelled at the mam who was in the boat and he did not hear the loud calling. Such a shock did the man get that he nearly landed into the water. So shocked was the man that he nearly got himself into the water. I turned around and looked at the children who were responsible for this, but they had already fleed away as quick as possible. On realizing what had happened, the man was much amused. The man laughed when he got a clear sense of what had happened. With no children in sight, not only did the man call out but also threw the ball back to the children on the bank. Of course, there weren't any in sight. Anyway he still threw the ball back to where it was with the hope that those children who were playing would come back and collect the ball. After a while, the children went back with wary eyes. They picked up the ball which the man threw back to the bank after they had made sure that the man was no where to be found.

他正笑着的时候门开了，他的妻子走了进来。她叫他去修理孙子的自行车。

Frank Hawkins used to be my closest business associate. We used to work at the same firm. He used to be the Chief Executive Officer and I used to be the Chief Financial Officer. Yesterday I paid a visit to my old friend who, after his retirement, now lives in the countryside with his beloved wife that has been offering him much-needed support, whether financially, emotionally, physically or spiritually. During my short stay, we recalled our old days sweet and bitter. He told me that he, at a young age, used to work in a small workshop at where his main responsibility was to repair bicycles. With such a status quo, no one would believe that before his retirement, he was the boss of a very huge business company. I wondered how a boy with little had become to be a man with much. He started thin and ended thick. His successful story is unique in his own way. After years of repairing bicycles, he finally accumulated enough money to be able to pay for a small shop. His workshop started small and however, as his reputation being very professional began to gain popularity, he was offered to make spare parts for planes. At that point, he employed two employees. After years of hard work, this small shop grew into a large factory with seven hundred, twenty-eight employees. His workforce was seven hundred, twenty-eight strong. His recollection of the old hard days full of hardships with no immediate success in sight gave him smiles. He was interrupted while he was still smiling. His wife went into the living room and asked him to repair his grandson's bike. What an amusing twisted turn! At an old age, he has gone back to where he had started when he was young. How successful!

Grammar in use | 语法 used to + 动词原形

used to 的用法

used to do sth 过去常常做某事，它没有人称和数的变化。

1). 表示过去存在而今不复存在的习惯行为或状态，意为 " 过去常常 ", 其中 to 不定式符号，后接动词原形，表示今昔对比，如：
I used to sleep and get up late, but now I am used to going to bed early and getting up early. 我过去常常睡的晚起的也晚，但现在我习惯睡的早起的也早。

2). used to 与 there be 结构连用，表示 " 过去存在的状态 ", 而现在不存在此类状态了，如：
There used to be a lot of trees here. 这里原来有许多树。
（意味着现在没有了）

3. used to 与 always, often, sometimes 等频度副词连用时，并非表示现在的动作或现在的习惯，仍表示过去习惯，过去经常反复发生的动作或存在的状态，如：
She used to write to her father with pens.
她过去经常用钢笔写信给她父亲。 used to 的句子结构

1). used to 的肯定句结构：主语 + used to + 动词原形
I used to write this book, but I never have time now.
我过去经常写这本书，但现在没有时间了。

2). used to 的否定句结构，其否定结构有两种形式：
[1]. 主语 + did not use to + 动词原形，这种否定句型，就是把 used 当做实义动词来看，所以变否定句要用助动词 did, 是美式英语用法：
I used to write this book. → I didn't use to write this book.
[2]. 主语 + used not to + 动词原形，这种否定句是把 used 当做情态动词，变否定句直接在 used 后面加 not 即可，used not 可以缩写成 usedn't, 是英式英语用法：
I used to write this book. → I usedn't to write this book.

3). used to 的一般疑问句结构，其一般疑问句有两种形式：
[1]. Did + 主语 + use to + 动词原形？
这种一般疑问句，就是把 used 当做实义动词来看，所以变一般疑问句时要用助动词 did, 是美式英语用法：
I used to write this book when you had time.
Did you use to write this book when you had time?
[2]. Used + 主语 + to + 动词原形？
这种一般疑问句是把 used 当做情态动词，所以变一般疑问句时，直接把 used 提到句首，是英式英语用法：
I used to write this book at night.
Used you to write this book at night?

4). used to 的反意疑问句，其反意疑问句有两种形式：
[1]. 在附加疑问部分中借助于助动词 did 构成，这种反意疑问句，就是把 used 当做实义动词来看，所以变反意疑问句时要用助动词 did, 是美式英语用法：
You used to write this book at night, didn't you?
You didn't use to write this book at night, did you?
[2]. 在附加疑问部分中直接使用 usedn't, 这种反意疑问句是把 used 当做情态动词，所以变反意疑问句时，直接用 used, 是英式英语用法：
You used to write this book at night, usedn't you?

5). used to 的肯定和否定回答结构： used to 用于省略句时，肯定式保留 to, 否定式不保留 to:
Used you write this book at night? 你过去常在晚上写这本书吗？
Yes, I used to. 是的，经常写。 No, I usedn't. 不，不常写。

6). used to 通常不能与表示次数，如 twice, three times 等，或一段时间，如 three months, five years 等，的词连用：
[正确]: I went to London three times. 我去过伦敦 3 次。
[错误]: I used to go to London three times

易混词组 used to do sth, 过去经常做某事，而现在已经停止，不再重复的动作，这里的 to 是不定式，而不是介词，所以其后只接动词原形，不能接动名词：He used to live in London. 他过去一直住在伦敦。 be used to sth/doing sth 习惯于某事 / 做某事，其中的 to 是介词，所以其后要接名词或动名词，不能接动词原形，若要强调从不习惯到习惯的过程，用 get, become 等代替动词 be:

He gets used to learning English. 他已习惯于学英语。 be used to do sth 被用来做某事，其中 to 是不定式符号，所以其后要接动词原形 = be used for doing sth:

This book is used to learn English.
This book is used for learning English. 这本书是用来学英语的。 be used as sth 被作为 ... 用：

This book can be used as a textbook. 这本书可以被当作课本用。

be used by sb 被某人使用：
English is used by people in many countries.
英语被许多国家的人使用。

区分 would do 和 used to do

1). 两者都表示过去的习惯，当表示过去习惯性的动作时，可互换：
I used to write this book at night.
I would write this book at night.
2). 若表示过去持续的状态，通常只用 used to, 不用 would:
I used to like this book. 我原来还是喜欢这本书的。
This book is not what it used to be. 这本书已不是从前的样子了。
3). 若要强调过去与现在的对比，通常只用 used to:
I don't drink heavily these days, but I used to.
我现在不酗酒，但我以前是酗酒的。

1). would do 一般用来表示过去反复进行的动作或表示过去某时间的意志，愿望和决心，而 used to do 则既可以表示过去反复发生的动作，也可以表示某种状态；2). would do 表示过去某一段时间常发生的事，一般要接具体的时间做状语，而 used to 一般不一定要接具体时间做状语；3). would 往往强调过去的一种可能性，而不暗示现在的情况，而 used to 强调过去常这样干，而现在不干了，强调今惜对比；4). would 作 will 的过去式，表示过去的一种意愿或将要做的事情，意思为：将会，而 used to 无此意义；5). would 有时也可用来指现在，表示一种委婉，客气的请求，对于用它来提问题的回答，须用 will, 不能用 would, 而 used to 无此意义及用法；6). would 一般接表示动作的动词，不能与表示状态或情感，意识方面的词连用，而 used to 无此限制；7). used to 往往强调事实，而 would 常带有主观上的感情的色彩；8). 含 used to 的句子，变为否定句或疑问句时，既可在 used 后加 not, 或将 used 提到句首，也可在 used to 前面加 didn't, 或在句首加 did, 同时将 used to 改为 use to;

Lesson 32 Shopping made easy 购物变得很方便

Honesty, nowadays, has become a luxury that once was easy to get. Now people associate it with very negative feelings. If you are honest, you may have a higher chance of being cheated. Of course, people would not run around with a sign on which it said they were dishonest. Recently an article on our local newspaper caught my attention. It told a vivid story which was the living embodiment of such. It is a proven fact that in big shops the theft rate is higher than smaller ones because with bigger stores comes a rather problematic dilemma: the owners of big shops have to strive for a balance between the amount of shop assistants they are able to hire and that of their customers. If the number of employees runs short, customers' temptation to steal is higher because there are fewer shop assistants who can always keep a close watch on them. If they get more helpers, their profit will run low because of the high wages. Recently a detective was asked to help a shop to find out why there were so many expensive articles being stolen on Mondays. The detective who dressed as a wealthy gentleman in a black suit with a brown umbrella in one hand and a gery hat in the other arrived on site and began to conduct an investigation in private. All of a sudden, a seemingly rich woman lured his attention, so he kept track of what she was doing. After buying a few inexpensive articles, she fixed her eyes to one of the most expensive dresses in the shop. She picked one and handed it over to a waiting shop assistant who supposed to help her with her payment. However, the shop assistant just simply packed the expensive article and gave it back to the woman. Then the woman was able to take away the dress without paying. This way the woman 'received' a free expensive dress which she could resell once a week. After the woman was put behind the bars, the detective discovered that the shop assistant who acted as an insider had been helping the woman who actually was her mother to buy an expensive free dress weekly with no paying. In the end, the shop assistant was prosecuted because of her wrongful conduct. Later the detective said on the TV that if both, the woman and the shop assistant, had not picked the exact day once a week to steal, he would not have been able to solve the case quickly.

Early next morning, she saw a light ahead.

状 主 谓 宾 ← 后定

light n. 灯光；ahead adv. 提前 前面 领先 adj. 在前面，放在被修饰词后边作后置定语；asleep, awake, alive, ahead, abloom, alight..., a~ 开头的词往往是 # 表语形容词；# 表语形容词指的是那些只能作表语，这类形容词一般不能单独置于名词之前作前置定语，可以作后置定语，其含义往往相当于一个关系分句，亦可用作宾语补足语或在被动结构中作主语补足语；

She knew she was near the shore because the light was high up on the cliffs.

主 谓 主 系 表 引 主 系 状 表

she was near the shore 作 knew 的宾语 [宾语从句], because 引导状语从句；near prep. 接近 靠近；cliff n. 峭壁；high up 修饰介词短语 on the chiffs. high 和 up 均为副词；high adv. 在高处 向高处 adj. 很高的 海拔高的；height n. 高度 高处 高地；

On seeing a light ahead, she knew that she was close to the shore with the light high up on the cliffs.

第二天凌晨，她看到前方有灯光，知道自己已经接近岸边了，因为那灯光是在高高的峭壁上。

On arriving at the shore, the girl struggled up the cliff towards the light she had seen.

状语 | 介词 + 现在分词 主 谓 状 状 ←主 谓

on + 动名词短语 = as soon as/the moment 引导的时间状语从句：as soon as/the moment she arrived at the shore; on 后面一定要加动名词，承认动词是由主句主语做的；struggle v. n. 挣扎 斗争 努力抗争；struggle with 挣扎 = be in struggle with：He now is struggling with English. = He is in a constant struggle with English.; up prep. 在 ... 上面；省略了关系代词 that/which 的定语从句，修饰 the light;

到达岸边后，姑娘朝着她看到的灯光方向挣扎着往峭壁上爬去。

That was all she remembered. When she woke up a day later, she found herself in hospital.

remember v. 记起 回忆 = recall, recollect; all 是句中的表语，其后的定语从句修饰 all, 因引导词 that 在从句中作宾语而被省略；wake up 醒过来；a day later 一天之后；hospital n. 医院；school, hospital，前面不加 the, 和它的功能有关系 go to hospital, 而一旦加 the, 只表示地点：in hospital 住院 in the hospital 在医院；★ herself in hospital 作动词 found 的复合宾语；herself pron. 她自己 [反身代词 -self/selves]; find + 宾语 +宾补：find the room tidy 发现房间整洁；

她所记得的就是这些。第二天她醒来时，发现自己躺在医院里。

It must had been a week past before the girl who was caught in a storm was capable of explaining what had occurred to her. One afternoon, it was just a little bit cloudy and she headed towards the sea in a tinny boat. Soon after the weather took a drastic turn and in no time she was confronted with a storm. It was nearly towards evening when her boat hitted a big rock with her landing into the water. She was in the middle of nowhere. She picked a direction which seemed to be towards the shore from where she set off. Then she exercised her sea legs and spent the whole night swimming to the shore. During which, she swam across a distance of eight miles. It was almost towards next morning when she suddenly caught the sight of a light from which she could tell that she was very close to the shore. She kept on swimming until she arrived at the coast. Then she was in a big struggle with the cliffs up front. She could only recollect the things above. When she woke up after a day of hospitalization, she was found to be in the hospital. Then the doctor helped her piece her lost memories together. She was very lucky. On that exact morning, a fisherman went fishing in vicinity of where she had laid down and noticed her who at that time was unconscious. He checked her life sign and found that she was fine. However he failed to wake her up. Then he called the hospital hot line. Soon after an ambulance arrived and took her to the hospital at where she had her body examined. From her sign, the doctor concluded that she was only too tired to recover consciousness. After a day's sound sleep, she was able to wake up. The whole week, she was on and off.

Dan Robinson has always been a model citizen and doesn't get himself into troubles. Last Tuesday, however, the sudden arrival of an unexpected letter sent from the local police department has disrupted his normal way of life. He has never expected to be asked to call upon the police station. Yet, he was expected to be there by the police. He got very worried because of this. He had no choice but to go there. Since his visit to the station, he worried no more. At the station, a police with a smiling face told him that his bicycle, if he had any, had been discovered five days ago in a small village which was four hundred miles away from the station. Since the discovery of the bicycle which was stolen years ago when Dan was a fifteen years old teenager, it is being sent to where Dan lives by train. Not only did Dan get a surprise but also received much more amusement too because the expectation that his bicycle would be found had never come across his mind. Ironically the bike is found after years of absence from his life. He has been wondering whether or not this ancient bicycle which was stolen many years ago would still be able to put into service. He drily thanked the police for their 'quick' work by saying that he appreciated their endeavors to go to all lengths to get his bike back. If the police got his bicycle back quicker at the time when the bike was stolen, he would be more happier as opposed to this very present day.

shortly afterwards 没过多久 = soon, soon afterwards, shortly ≈ later 后来 以后；arrest v.n. 逮捕 拘留；both adj. adv. 两个 双方；

没过多久，警察就截住了那辆车，两个小偷都被抓住了。

'How soon can lawbreakers be arrested?', you may wonder. It does take time to do so. However, when the news that two thieves were caught fast with the help of a bus driver hitted the public, we got a surprise that the outlaws were put behind bars in no time. It took little time for the police to get them arrested. The heroic bus driver, Roy Trenton, used to be a taxi driver. Not long ago, he was employed by a public transportation company and worked as a bus driver. Such an exciting profession gave him no regret. While driving alongside Catford Street lately, he noticed that two thieves got out of a shop in a big rush and they were just about to get away. There had been a car waiting for them already. One of the two thieves went away with a bag which was full of money stolen from the store which they had just paid a visit. Roy took a prompt action and drove his bus directly at the thieves in hope that they would be stopped. So frightened was the one who was carrying the money that he just simply abandoned the bag on the ground. They were trying to flee away from the site asap. Roy hitted the car with his big bus. As a result/consequence, the car was terribly battered, so it was easier for the police to recognize. Soon after, the damaged car which the thieves were driving was stopped and both of them were sent to jail. Later, a gratitude letter was sent to Roy from the police station and he was heavily rewarded for his couragious action. However, the spokesman from the police station said on TV that this kind of action was not encouraged and the public should leave it to the professionals. After all, outlaws can sometimes be very dangerous. The personnel from the bus company, however, said otherwise that Roy should follow the public safety protocol and because of his unappreciated action, he put a lot of passengers on the bus in jeopardy. Many people had lodged complaints against Roy and demanded for an answer. After receiving shower of flowers and praise from all walks of life, Roy still had to face the music. He would either be fired or be allowed to work for the company with some sort of punishment as to write a self-criticism letter to the public. The company was under a lot of pressure for doing so either way. In the meantime, Roy is still a bus driver who is not allowed to touch a bus.

如果形容词是表示数量的（many,much, little, few), 一律用 so
There is so little time left that we must hurry.
There is such a little bird that I can't see it.
如果有几个以上的形容词共同修饰一个名词的时候，冠词放在第一位 such ＋冠词＋形容词＋名词：He is such a lazy boy.
so ＋形容词＋冠词＋名词：He is so lazy a boy.

It's easy to recognize.
The apple is sweet enough to eat.
如果一个不定式的前面是一个形容词，如果主句的结局是系表结构＋ to, 不定式当中常用主动表被动，在不定式的表达方式当中，动词的宾语如果刚好是这句话的主语，这个宾语一定不能出现
The apple is too sour to eat.
to eat the apple. apple 为 eat 的宾语，这时宾语一定不能出现
The boy is too clever to answer the question.
这个宾语跟这句话的主句不一样 too ...to... 太 ... 以致于不能 ... ≠ not too ...to ... 反过来 enough ... to ... 足以用来做某事 to answer the question
在不定式当中，也许有可能用主动表达被动含义，及物动词后边一般加宾语（这个宾语就是这句话的主语时就不加）
The question is easy enough to answer.
The car was easy to recognize (car).
因 car 是主语，所以不能出现
The clothes is too comfortable to wear.

动词不定式的一般形式是“to ＋动词原形”，但在下面情况中 to 要省略：
1). 在感官动词 see, hear, watch, notice, feel, look at, listen to 等及使役动词 make, let, have 等后作宾语补足语的动词不定式要省略 to, 如：
We saw him get on a bus.
The boss often made the workers work for over 12 hours a day.
注意：以上情况如果用于被动语态时，不定式符号 to 一定要补回 . 如：
He was seen to get on a bus.
The workers were often made to work over 12 hours a day.
2). 在动词 help 后作宾语补足语的动词不定式符号 to 可带可不带，如：
I often help my mother (to) do housework.
3). 在 had better, would rather 后动词不定式不能带 to, 如：
You'd better not go out at night.
The boy would rather stay at home by himself.
4). 当两个或两个以上的动词不定式并列使用时，通常只有第一个不定式前带 to, 第二个及以后的不定式可省略 to, 如：
I want to read and write.
He wants to have a rest and have a cup of tea.
5). Will/Would you please ＋不带 to 的不定式，如：
Would you please not do that again?
6). 当不定式作介词 but, except 的宾语，表示“除了.....不 / 没有做.....”时，不定式要省略 to, 如：
She does nothing but watch TV.
She doesn't want to do anything except sleep.

let sb do：让某人做某事
let：听之任之：My father lets me play football.
make sb do 含有强迫的概念：My father makes me play football.

Lesson 36 Across the Channel 横渡海峡

First listen and then answer the question.

What is Debbie going to try to do?

Debbie Hart is going to swim across the English Channel tomorrow.

主 谓 状 状

across prep. 穿过 跨过；over prep. 悬空：fly over the bridge; through prep. 从中横穿；channel n. 海峡；be going to do 现在打算将来要做某事，强调计划和安排，顺理成章的不用 be going to, 而用一般将来时 [will/shall do]:Tomorrow it will be Tuesday.; be to do/be about to do/be going to do 准备 / 打算做某事 = intend/plan/mean/aim to do; swim-swam-swum v. 游；swimmer n. 游泳运动员；

黛比的大部分同学将在英国海岸等候她。

Among them will be Debbie's mother, who swam the Channel herself when she was a girl.

表 系 前置定语 → 主 ←主 谓 宾 同位语 引 主 系 表

★这是一个倒装句 [疑问句句序], 为的是与后面 who 引导的定语从句相连，正常语序：Dobbie's mother, who ..., will be among them.; 反身代词 -self, 放在动词或一句话后边，往往起强调作用；定语从句中的关系词往往指代的含义是前面的先行词；among prep. 在 ... 当中；who 引导非限性定语从句 [定语从句，关系代词 (who/whom/that/which/where...) 前加逗号或破折号为非限定性定语从句，不加则为限定性定语从句];

★全部倒装：地点（介词短语或副词）+ 动词 + 名词：Here is my ticket.；部分倒装：Here you are.；倒装句可以理解成疑问句句序，在英语中句子的每个成分往往都可以倒装，想强调哪个部分，就把那个部分提前：主语提前 I love you. 主动语态；宾语提前 You are loved by me. 被动语态；状语提前：As deep as the ocean do I love you. = I love you as deep as the ocean.；倒装句是一种强调结构；倒装句不易于阅读和理解，现实中倒装用的很少，以后会详解倒装句，这里只是前期代入，理解这句话就好了；

他们当中还会有黛比的母亲，她本人还是个姑娘时，也曾横渡过英吉利海峡！

An eleven-year-old girl called Debbie Hart will swim across the English Channel tomorrow. With a hope that she will register a new world record, at exactly five o'clock in the morning, she will start the journey from the French beach. She is strong enough to swim across the Channel. Many people hold strong beliefs that she will be successful in covering the whole distance from one side of the French coast to the other side of the English Channel. Along with her will be Debbie's father who has been her trainer for many years. She will swim the whole distance from one side to the other. During which her father will be with a lot of anxieties. Debbie plans to have a break at an interval of every two hours. She will drink something, but she will not have any solid food. Not only will most of her intimate friends be standing at the English coast but waiting for her anxiously as well. Her mother will be among them. She herself swam across the Channel when she was a girl of Debbie's age. We all hope that the weather will be on Debbie's side and the journey will be smooth and safe. She will be able to achieve her goal of successfully swimming across the Channel and setting up a new world record for the youngest swimmer who swims across the Channel. She does hope that she will be the fastest one to swim across the Channel. However, at such a young age herself, she will not be able to do so. Maybe at an older age, she will succeed in pursuing that goal/aim. In the maintime, let us cross our fingers and hope that she will be safe and sound during the whole journey.

Special Difficulties | 难点 倒装与句子的平衡

Debbie's mother who swam the Channel herself when she was a girl will be among them.

定 主 ← 主 谓 宾 同位语 引 主 系 表 系 表

课本例句变成正常句序，不再用倒装，并把 who 引导的非限定性定语从句变成限定性定语从句；如果不用倒装的句序，主句 Dobbie's mother will be among them 会被从句从中间断开，势必会造成阅读的混乱和打破平衡；这句话这么说没有问题，语法也没错，但是句子不平衡，读起来像个断句，找不清主次；课文用倒装让句子主句与从句分成左右两部分，层次条理分明更易于理解；

Attached is the file you requested. 谓 | 被动语态 主 ← 主 谓

The file you requested is attached. 主 ← 主 谓 谓 | 被动语态

这两句话，都有一个省略了 that 的定语从句；左边句子用倒装，让主句与从句左右条理分明；右边句子没有用倒装，主句被省略了 that 的定语从句断开，势必会造成阅读上的混乱：you requested is Attached.

谓 | 被动语态 前定→ 主 ← 主 谓 宾 宾语补足语

这个句子用倒装是为了让主句与从句条理分明，减少歧义；从句，特别是起修饰作用的从句，一定要注意平衡；既然是起修饰作用，那就是可有可无的东西，书写的时候，一定注意 !!! 能不把主句断开就不要断开；

Some files which should help you understand the modification are attached.

前定→ 主 ← 主 谓 宾 宾语补足语 谓 | 被动语态

这个句子没有用倒装，主句被 which 引导的定语从句从中间断开，会产生歧义：the modification are attached; help sb do= help sb to do;

because 引导原因状语从句 = since, for, cause, as; have never been held before 之前从未举办过；

我们都非常激动，盼望着奥运会的到来，因为在这个国家里还从未举办过奥运会。

We take pride in being the country where the Olympic Games will take place. The process of Olympic bid was arduous. The competition was fierce with so many countries around the world bidding for the same thing. For this bid, the government has already been promoting the Games among ordinary citizens. During the bid, all cities have to prove their abilities to accommodate the Games. Our capital has succeeded in doing so. Before the Games could be held, many infrastructure plans are going to be realized. With so many people coming from every country in the world to see the Games, new buildings, such as hotels, an immense stadium, a new swimming pool required by the Olympic committee, will be being constructed by the government which will be put in charge of all the things that come with Olympic events. They will have to upgrade public transportation systems by building new roads. The construction of a specially-designed railroad will put into action. The Games will take place at a designated area just outside the capital called 'Olympic City'. By the end of this year the new roads will have been completed by those hard-working construction migrant workers, many of whom have never been to the capital before. The work on the new stadium will have ended by the end of next year. Designed by Kurt Gunter, the fabulous modern buildings have always been tourist attractions even before they have reached full completions. While the buildings are being constructed, everyone keeps a close watch as they grow up and up each day. We have high expectations towards the Olympic Games because throughout our country's history there has never been one held in our motherland previously. We are looking forward to the opening ceremony of the Olympic Games, and equally with the whole events. During which time, we will meet people from all parts of the world. They will be welcomed by all of us. At the time being, there has been debates over whether this country should hold the Games at the first place because the budget of the Olympic Games has went through the roof and the government has been promoting the joint investments with private corporations. If the whole thing is solely paid by the government, it will go bankrupted. Taxpayers will not be happy with it. So far, a few companies have showed their interest in doing so. We will watch closely as the events unfold. If you want to keep yourself posted, please follow our social media account @xxxx on wechat or visit our official website at www.xxx.com.

My friend, Harrison, was one of those kind of people who acted on their impulse rather than their senses. For years, he was used to living in the Mediterranean, but he had always been dreaming of returning to England after his retirement. He had even made a great many plans before he was able to come back. No sooner had he retired than he paid for a house and moved there. Hardly had he spent several days there when he made numerous complaints about the unpleasant, often bitterly cold weather with the sky always rainning even during summer days. After so many years' absence from the country, he was accustomed to living under a steady never-ending supply of golden warm sunshine in Mediterranean. So shocked was him that he acted as though he had never resided in England before. Such a shock did he get that he looked as if he were a foreigner who had never been to England previously. Consequently, it was more than he could handle and as soon as he sold his house, he fled away without any hesitation. If he had any regrets, it would be that he had wished to leave England sooner. The dream of living in England after his retirement ended before it could blossom. He killed his retirement plan of living in England in it's infancy. Harrison had considered everything with the exception of England's bitterly cold weather. Harrison had put everything into consideration excluding the weather which seemed as if it had welcomed everyone except Harrison himself.

Doctors can sometimes be very unforgiving at times when you really need to get some very important information concerning your personal health from them. They share this kind of information with patients' relatives rather than with patients. This creates an ever-growing gap between patients and their doctors. Sometimes in order to get patients' diagnosis, the patients themselves have to plot against their doctors and go all lengths to invent creative ways to get what they desperately need. Such an amusing story took place at a hospital when a patient was in an arduous journey to obtain such a valuable piece of information. The patient called Gilbert was admitted to a hospital days earlier and a doctor had to operate on him in order to cure him. Days after the operation, the patient was in desperate need for knowing whether or not his operation had been a success. He asked his doctor to tell him if his operation had been a successful one and the doctor, however, declined to do so. The patient was very disappointed when he heard that. He then demanded for a telephone that was beside his bedside. He then called the exchange line of the hospital and in the call he asked for his doctor's immediate presence. The patient acted as though he were his relative. The exchange operator put his doctor on the line and he then inquired about the success of the operation on a certain patient called Gilbert. The doctor said it had been a successful one. Then he asked the doctor when the patient's request for going home would be granted and the doctor replied that he would be able to go home after another two weeks' inpatient treatment. Then the doctor was curious about the caller who seemed to be one of his patients. The doctor then asked the caller if he was a relative of one of his patients. The caller said he himself was one of his patients who had been asking him about the success of his operation and always met the doctor's refusal. In the end, the patient had pried open his doctor's mouth and the doctor could not keep the secret all to himself. All in all, the call ended with a positive note. The patient had obtained what he wanted in the way that was both peaceful and creative.

Recently I accepted an invitation to a dinner party. I supposed to be accompanied by my wife. However she was not available at that time. After having dressed myself accordingly, I arrived there alone without any company. So friendly was the hostess that she invited me to keep a large Lady in tight black dress company. Later I knew she was Mrs. Rumbold. I took a seat beside her. It was hard to please the lady. Her eyes were attached to her plate during the whole time and she did not take a look at me. Soon she was in a big hurry to eat the delicious food. I tried all my wits to let her be entertained. She somehow always wore a serious face. She didn't smile at all. I asked her numerous questions and she simply replied me with one 'No' after another. I attempted to initiate a conversation by asking her if she would go to 'The Globe' to see the new show. Not surprisingly, she drily produced the magic word 'No'. Then I wanted to know where she would be spending her holidays that year. I asked her if she would be spending her holidays abroad. She gave me a 'No' for an answer again. Then I asked her if she would be staying in England. This time her answer was no other than 'No'. In the end, I just gave up all the hopes that she would say something else, other than 'No'. I was out of wits. Then in a great despair, I asked her if she had enjoyed her dinner with me being her only company. I was surprised to hear her answer. This time she said that if I had eaten more and talked less, both of us would have enjoyed our dinner. Much disappointed, I asked her if she enjoyed my company. She said that if I had been silent, she would have enjoyed herself without constantly making responses to my never-ending questions. What a pity! I have been to many dinner parties and everyone around me seems to be enjoying my presence. I am always welcomed by both the hosts and the guests in the same way. Mrs. Rumbold was the only exception.

10 分钟以后，我们一道走出了商店。我妻子戴着一顶像灯塔一样的帽子。

My wife is like those people who can never buy too many things. She is a shopaholic who can not stop buying things, even if the things we don't really need. Truth be told, I am an unlucky man who is tied down to such a person forever and ever. Yesterday she was accompanied by me as she went shopping. As we were walking alongside the Bridge Street, all of a sudden, her eyes were fixed to a hat on window display. I knew there was nothing I could do to stop her from buying the hat she didn't need. Almost immediately, she rushed into the shop as though someone would forestall her. No sooner had she come into the hat store than she asked for the hat on display. Hardly/Scarcely/Barely had the shop assistant on duty had time to exchange a few words with my wife when she grabbed the hat from the window display and handed it to my wife with much more affection and care. It looked as if the hat WERE too beautiful to be sold. On seeing it closely, I asked my wife if it was called a hat. The hat was too modern and I found it strange. It was neither beautiful nor cute. In my mind, a hat should always be either pretty or useful. Apparently the hat had none of what I considered to be a good hat. My wife, however, regarded my words somewhat to be rude. She drily said that I did not need to be so impolite towards it as she was in the mirror with her wearing the hat. I was so bored that I took a close examination of one of those modern chairs with holes in them. We spent more than half an hour in the shop and there was no end to it. My wife still stood in front of the mirror and tried a great many hats with different colours, sizes and styles. I was desperate and I thought enough already, she should just make up her mind and randomly pick one quickly. In desperation, I said to my wife that the things we did not need should never be bought at the first place. Without further ado, I regreted doing so. My wife said that I needn't have said that and she needn't put a reminder on the tie I had just bought yesterday. I took pride in my one-of-a-kind taste and held her in contempt, saying that a man could never have too many ties. My wife immediately replied in the same way as I had done that a woman could never buy too many hats. Consequently, ten minutes later, we walked out of the hat shop as one with my wife wearing a hat that shared a close resemblance with a lighthouse. Because I was so adamant that we must leave the shop immediately, my wife kept nagging that we shouldn't had left the hat store so early and in the store there were still so many beautiful hats she wanted to try on. Without me constantly checking her, she could never be left alone in the shop. Otherwise, she would had bought every article in the shop. My wallet was not so large as to cater for her every whim. She could continue nagging as long as she wanted. My financial constraints would be eased by dragging her out of the shop anyway. She was not too happy about it, but I was. I just urged her to go home because there were so many shops in the street where she could practise her every impulse shopping.

然而那蛇却还是缓慢地“舞动”着。显然，它分辨不出印度音乐和爵士乐！

Last year during my holidays I went to India with a group of people. We toured the country together with the same travel agency. We were like a herd of sheep with a shepherd, our tour guide, who kept a close watch on our wallets. We were made to visit one store after another and we barely had time to see the country itself. We grew tired of the buyings as each day passed by quickly. At last, our wallets couldn't be milked anymore because everyone went bankrupted. At the end, the tourist guide just left us alone. We finally had time to truly appreciate the Indian culture along with it's unique local cuisines and hospitable natives. We walked to a tourist attraction, a world-famous square in the vicinity of a market of Old Delhi. We stopped to take a break after the long journey. A few minutes later, at the opposite side of the plaza, we caught our first glimpse of a snake charmer with whom there were two big baskets which contained a number of snakes. So interested were we that we headed towards him to take a close look at him. Hardly/Scarcely/Barely had he noticed us when he opened one of his baskets from which a snake stood up. As soon as he started to play with a coin-covered pipe, the snake swayed it's body with the movement of the pipe. To further entertain us, the snake charmer picked a song with which we were much more familiar and played it. To our dismay, the snake could not keep up with the tune. It was obvious that the snake couldn't go along with it because the difference between Indian music and jazz was too wide for the snake to tell. Though we were much disappointed, we spared a few coins in return to his amiable personality and barely lookable performance. The snake charmer was much surprised because we offered him money after the poor show. As we were much afraid that he would keep asking for more money, we left him with no hesitation. The man looked on while we fled away as soon as possible.

Nowadays, with the advancement of modern technology and science, flying over the South Pole is not so difficult as it once was. There are even some scheduled commercial flights that take tourists to the Pole regularly. People have built a great many permanent antarctic stations in Antarctica. No nation can claim Antarctica to themselves because there is an international agreement that the Antarctica belongs to no one. It is reserved only to scientific research. All permanent man-made objects are not allowed to be built in Antarctica. All buildings must be able to be dismantled on demand. Do you know the first man who flew over the South Pole? In this article, I'm going to tell a story in which a group of people endeavoured to fly over the South Pole for the first time in man's history. It was in 1929 when the American explorer, R.E. Byrd succeeded in flying over the South Pole for the first time. During the arduous journey, they managed to take a lot of pictures of those giant mountains below the airplane. At one place, seemingly the plane would crash because the mountains below were not far from it. Only if did the plane increase it's altitude by 10,000 feet, they would be able to fly over the mountains. The leader who led the exploration promptly put an order forward that all crew members threw two big heavy food sacks out. By doing this, they could steer clear of the obstacles below and prevent the potential risk of a plane crash from happening. No sooner had they done the throwing than the plane began to pick up height and eventually it flew above the mountains by a narrow distance of 400 feet. At that time, it was certain that reaching the South Pole was possible because the Pole was only 300 miles away with no mountains in sight. Finally, the airplane managed to cover the whole distance over the ever-stretching white plains with ease.

Mrs. Sterling later said that the strap needed mending, but nothing was stolen.

"这提包带需要修理，" 斯特林夫人事后说道，"不过他们什么也没偷走。"

When Mrs. Anne Sterling was running after two robust men through a forest, she put behind all the risks that came with the pursuit. Retrospectively thinking, she had put both herself and her children into a lot of danger because no one knew how dangerous the men were. It was on Sunday and a small picnic party took place at the very border of a forest. With her was her children who was very content with her arrangement of the party. While she was hosting the picnic, two men suddenly descended upon them with a clear aim to steal her prized handbag which was bought by her husband recently. The men grabbed her bag without her permission and soon took possession of it. No sooner had they gotten hold of the bag than they began to escape quickly. Without the bag in her possession, she got so angry that she ran after them closely leaving her children behind. Soon she developed a heavy breath, but she did not stop running. In order to keep up with them, she ran as fast as possible. Finally, she got up to them. She could not help but noticing that not only had they already been seated on a flat ground comfortably but conducted a thorough search of her bag. The contents of the bag were thrown here and there. She headed straight towards them. The men was too focused on the things in the bag to notice anything. Her sudden arrival made them so frightened that they just simply tossed the bag around and fled away like hell. Later she said that the strap of the bag was broken during the struggle and after a little mending, it would be as good as new. She also added that nothing was stolen. So fortunate was she that the men fled away without any struggle. If one of men had a big struggle with her, the story would not be as pretty as it is now. What would you do differently if you were in Mrs Anne Sterling's shoes? If you were in that scenario/situation, would you be as courageous as Mrs Anna Sterling?

Lesson 45 A clear conscience 问心无愧

First listen and then answer the question.

How did Sam get his money back?

The whole village soon learnt that a large sum of money had been lost.

前置定语 → 主 状 谓 引 前置定语 → 主 谓 | 被动语态 learn-learnt-learnt v. 听说 得知 了解到 学习；a large sum/amount of 一大笔；lose-lost-lost v. 失去 丢失；loss n. 损失 丢失 亏损；

整个村子很快知道，有一大笔钱丢失了。

Sam Benton, the local butcher, had lost his wallet while taking his savings to the post office.

主 ← 同位语 谓 宾 时间状语 | while (he was) 省略格式

local adj. 本地 当地的 = native; butcher n. 屠户 v. 屠杀；wallet n. 皮夹 钱夹；savings n. 存款；take ...to ... 把 ... 送到 / 带到 ...;

★ while doing, while + 现在分词短语 = while/as/when 引导的时间状语从句 = while he was taking...; while doing 是一个省略形式，这种情况应具备两个先决条件：1).while 后动作的主语跟主句的主语相同 2). 这句话一定是进行时态；能用 while, as 的地方就可以用 when, 反之就不一定了；while doing 强调两者动作同时发生；when 后的时间表达既可以是时间点，也可以是时间段，while 后的时间表达只能是时间段；

All the villagers in the village quickly learnt that the local butcher, San Benton was taking his hard-earned savings to the post office for safe keeping, but he lost his wallet on the way there.

当地的屠户萨姆·本顿在把存款送往邮局的途中把钱包丢了。

Sam was sure that the wallet must have been found by one of the villagers, but it was not returned to him.

One thing for sure was that someone must have found the wallet and the one who found it was not willing to give it back to him.

萨姆确信那钱包一定是被某个村民捡到了，可是却不见有人来送还给他。

After three months' time, his wallet was packaged in newspaper with it half the money. Three months later, Sam not only received half his money but also a note on which it said that the person who had found the money was truly a thief, but as/since/because he had given 50% of the money back to Sam, he was only half a thief.

钱包是用报纸包着的，里面有他丢失的钱的一半，而且还附着一张纸条，上面写着："一个小偷，是的，但只是一个 50% 的小偷！"

Someone sent Sam some money. → Sam was sent some money by someone. Someone sent some money to Sam. → Some money was sent to Sam by someone. | In two months' time, some money was given back to Sam in the same way someone did previously.

又过了两个月，又有一些钱送还给了萨姆，又附了一张字条："这回只是 25% 的小偷了！"

很快，萨姆全部的钱都用同样的方式还了回来。最后的那张字条上写道："我现在是一个 100% 的诚实人了！"

People are not so honest as they once were. When it comes to money, everyone tries their best to grab it as much as possible. Rarely has such a news been reported that not only has the missing money been found but also been given back to the people who had lost it. When the news that a village butcher called Sam Benton had been given his missing wallet back together with his money began to circulate, it struck me as odd. The story was both amusing and inspiring. Sam lost his wallet on his way to a local post office where usually money is processed. Within such a small village, the news got round quickly. Soon everyone knew it. Though Sam was positively sure that someone in the village must have collected his wallet, he had never expected that someone unknown would return his hard-earned money. Quickly, his memory of the money started to fade away. Three months after, however, one morning, just outside his front door he found the missing wallet that was accompanied by a note on which it wrote as follow: ' yes, I am a thief, but I am only a 50 percent one because I have given back 50 percent of your money.' What an amusing twisted event! After two months' time, Sam again received a quarter of his missing money in the same way. In addition to the money, he again got a note on which it said: ' I am only a certain percentage of a thief, 25 percent, to be exact!' Eventually, Sam got all his money back with the same method. The last time he also received a note. Needless to say, this time, the sender who sent all the missing money back to Sam announced on the note that she or he was a total one hundred percent honest person.

The cost of a normal air ticket from London to Sydney only costs 2,000 pounds and the man hiding in the uncomfortable wooden box full of woollen goods, as he was told, had to pay 3,500 pounds for the trip, part of which served as a fine because he breached the airline safety protocol. Though during the whole time on the plane he was uncomfortably confined to a small wooden box and the cost of such a trip was more expensive than he had expected, he found the trip much more interesting than he had anticipated.

此人被责令交付旅费 3,500 英镑，而正常票价是 2,000 英镑！

People will do anything to avoid paying tickets. Nowadays, most of the passengers on buses and trains do pay for the tickets. However, to a few it is a common practice to evade paying the price of a normal tinny share of a ticket. Since not only are authorities from the bus companies and train stations short-staffed but also can not be able to employ a great number of workers to constantly keep their customers checked before they are allowed to get on the vehicles, now people are paying tickets of their own free will. From time to time, the authorities randomly have their clients checked. If they find someone get on without paying, the one with no pay will be prosecuted and equally be fined heavily on the spot. Airlines, however, have a much more strict management style. Their passengers are checked one by one and no one can get on without a ticket. A recent story, however, told it otherwise. A man was on a plane without paying any fees that came with the trip. If he were not discovered by a porter, he would go freely without any costs. By hiding in a small wooden box which was full of woollen clothing, he managed to go on the trip by air from London to Sydney with no ticket. The box he was in which supposed to be light was abnormally heavy. A porter who noticed the abnormality prized it open without anyone's permission and discovered the man lying in a wooden box on top of a pile of woollen clothing. The man had never expected to be found by anyone. So astonished was he that he didn't give himself the thought of running away. Then promptly a number of police were called in and in no time the man was under arrest. The man admitted doing so and was fined heavily. A normal ticket's price from London to Sydney is only about 2,000 pounds and the man had to pay 3,500 pounds for the trip. Later some workers from London Airport where the plane made it's departure were called into question because of what had happened. However, no one there was held accountable. To prevent future occurrence of such an incident from occurring, the police told the airfields both sides to check the goods on planes more thoroughly, especially in the cargo loading area.

村里的人已经告诉他，即使他把小酒店白送人，他们也不要。

Such a person is Mr. Ian Thompson who believes in ghost stories. To make the matter more complicated, he has just bought a public house which, supposedly, is haunted. He is eager to resell it now. However, no one wants to make the purchase of such a pub. I was told that one night he couldn't get to sleep because there was a rather peculiar noise coming from the bar downstairs. The next day he got up with a great shock that the pub was in disarray with doors being blocked by chairs and furniture being moved here and there. Although he had shut all the lights down, the following morning they were still on. There were also five empty whisky bottles lying on the ground. He believed that a ghost or two must have come into the pub and emptied the bottles by drinking them. When I presented a different explanation that someone may have burgled the pub and done all the things, he just shrugged his shoulders with a silent protest. The villagers have told him that they will not buy the house even though he prices it with little or no money at all. Mr. Thompson will never do that because he has invested heavily in the bar. He still wishes to get the total amount of investment back. That's a wishful thinking, indeed. Now everyone knows that there are ghosts in the bar and they have been acting up at night. With such a downside, the chance of getting all his initial outlay back is highly unlikely. In the meantime, he still has to run the unprofitable bar by close collaboration with the ghosts. Maybe, I am just suggesting, he can operate his pub successfully by intentionally promoting the ghosts. By doing so, his bar may turn into a tourist attraction eventually. He can also collaborate/work with internet celebrities or KOLs who could promote his unique style of business by mentioning it in video blogs. Anyway, he has to look at it with a holistic view. Perhaps, he needs to take another look at the pub's decorations, food menus, pieces of furniture, posters and the layout of the pub. *KOL stands for 'Key Opinion Leader', i.e. ' 网红 ' in Chinese.

The dentist eventually took out the cotton wool from my mouth and I told him that the wrong tooth had been pulled out, leaving the aching ill one where it was. As soon as the doctor took away the cotton wool from my mouth, the tooth which was supposed to be pulled out remained there untouched. With the wrong tooth being taken out, the dentist will have to pull the ill one out without any additional fee. Though the dentist said he would not burden me with more medical expenses, still I regarded it as a serious medical accident. With the poor performance, he still had the nerve to ask for my money. How dare he said that! His negligence led to such a dreadful medical malpractice. Not only will I hold him accountable but also sue him for what he did to me.

当那位牙医最后将药棉从我嘴中取出时，我总算有可能告诉他，他拔错了牙。

Lesson 49 The end of a dream 美梦告终

First listen and then answer the question.

How did the dream end?

Tired of sleeping on the floor, a young man in Teheran saved up for years to buy a real bed.

状 | (being) tired of ... 前置定语→ 主 ← 后置定语 谓 状 目的状语

tired adj. 厌烦的 疲倦的 疲劳的；be/get tired of sth/doing sth 对 ... 感到厌倦 讨厌做某事；save up 攒钱；savings n. 存款；real adj. 真正的；

Because he was tired of sleeping on the floor, a young man in Teheran saved up for years to buy a real bed.

德黑兰的一个年轻人由于对睡地板感到厌倦，于是积蓄多年买了一张真正的床。

形容词或形容词短语作状语，具有副词的功能，主要表示原因 结果或伴随状况等，其逻辑主语必须与句子的主语保持一致，这类结构通常可以用从句或并列句来改写，当作状语时，可位于句首，句末或句中，一般用逗号将其与句子的其它部分隔开，通常有以下几种类型：

1). 说明性状语：伴随→ He lay in bed, awake. He lay in bed and he was awake.
结果→ He went home, hungry and tired. He went home and he was hungry and tired.
原因→ Unable to get a job, he had to live with his parents.
Because he was unable to get a job, he had to live with his parents.

2). 承上启下，有些形容词或形容词短语可以作为独立成分，对句子起承上启下的作用：Sure enough, he will make another excuse once more. Needless to say, he is late for work again. More important, he will be sacked by his boss this time. He, late or punctual, is a hard-working employee nonetheless. Sick of seeing him late for work again and again, his boss finally has decided to sack him.

形容词或形容词短语作状语的前提条件是表达主语的状态，否则不能用作状语，当表原因时，一般位于句首：Easy to get along with, she is loved by everyone.；当作状语，表伴随，可位于句首，也可位于句尾：Happy, the little girl ran to her mother.；当表结果时，则通常位于句尾：He went home, hungry and tired.；当作状语，表让步时，常由一个形容词短语或由 or 连接的两个以上的并列形容词短语构成，可位于句首，也可位于句中：Old and young, everyone likes music. Everyone, poor or rich, should be equal.

Since/Because/Cause/As he grew tired of sleeping on the floor, a young man in Teheran was finally capable of buying a real bed with his years of savings. For the first time in his life, he became very much proud of being a owner of such a bed with springs and mattress. With the weather being very hot, he slept at the top of his house together with his bed being carried up. Sleeping on the bed was very comfortable and he enjoyed it for the first two nights. On the third night, however, he was caught in a big storm suddenly. Not only was the bed swept off the roof of his house but also landed onto the courtyard below. With the bed crashing to pieces, the young man was still fast asleep. Then he woke up with a shock that his prized bed with springs and mattress was completely destroyed. It was a miracle that the mattress of the bed was still as good as new. If it weren't, the man on the mattress would be hurt badly because of the sudden long drop from the roof of the house to the ground. Miraculously, both the man and the mattress survived the accident. He then sadly cast a glance at the bed smashed to pieces. He collected the mattress and shouldered it to his house. No sooner had he put it onto the floor than he immediately fell asleep. Hardly/Scarcely/Barely had he had time to give a condolence to the recent decease of his expensive bed when he slept on the mattress without a sense of remorse that not only should he never have carried his bed to the top of his house but also paid no attention to the weather forecast. After this hard-learned lesson, he will surely keep himself updated to weather forcast and keep a tab on any ongoing event that may lead to a drastic turn of extreme weather. In the meantime, he will save up and plan to make another purchase of a new bed in the future. Meanwhile, he will make do with the only mattress which serves as a reminder of a time when he was a proud owner of a real bed.

The conductor suddenly said that he had forgotten to put me off. I answered that It did not matter and I would get off there. Then he said that they were going back at that time. Then I answered that in that case, I preferred to stay on the bus. When we arrived at the bus terminus（终点站）, I asked the conductor if we were at Woodford Green. The conductor then realized that he had forgotten to let me get off. Clearly he had forgotten to do what he had promised. I stayed on the bus because it was getting back.

I love having excursions on weekends in the countryside, but I hate losing my way. Usually communities in the country have poor commuting experiences, especially in remote regions. Often, places short of means of public transportation have outstanding views. They receive fewer visitors and thus the natural world remains unspoiled. People in the suburb are very hospitable towards visitors. Those villagers don't go to urban cities frequently and they learn the outside world from televisions or from those visitors who tour the rural village from time to time. They are always eager to exchange a few words with outsiders. Ideally, they can sell something to those visitors who regard their produces as somewhat chemical-free organic delicacies. Tourists often pay more money to those peasants than those sly profiteers who often complain about bad business and try to convince them to sell their products at a bargain price. Recently I went on an excursion alone to Woodford Green. As there is a 'green' in the name of the place I am going to visit, you can immediately associate yourself with a quite idyllic scenery with me taking a stroll in the woods, breathing in fresh air and listening to birds' singing. Before I went there, I did a thorough research on the travel tips and listed all the places to which I wanted to pay a visit. Instead of driving my car as a means of commuting, I chose to to go there by bus. Because I had never been there before, I did not know the way. I told the bus conductor that I did not know which bus stop to get off. The friendly conductor told me that I should not be worried about it and he would take the responsibility to let me know where to get down. No sooner had I gotten on the bus than I sat down and appreciated the magnificent views of the countryside. After a time, the bus came to a full stop and the conductor told me that I should get down because that was the terminal. I asked him if it was Woodford

Green. Then the conductor was much embarrassed and was sorry about not advising me to get off promptly. I said that it was all right and I would get down there. The conductor, however, told me that they were going back to where they started the journey. Without a second thought, I told him I would like to remain on the bus. Then the bus drove on and this time the conductor did not fail to mention the bus stop where I should be dropped off. This time I got off the bus as I planed initially.

passing plain 路过的飞机 ploughed field 耕过的地
如果 -ing/-ed 做宾补，与宾语有关
I find the door locked.

I will tell you where to get off.
语法结构：特殊疑问词 + to + 动词原形 可用来取代宾语从句
How can I get there?
Can you tell me how I can get there?
Can you tell me how to get there?
Can you tell me what to do?
Can you tell me how I should do?
I don't know which to choose.
I wonder when to have a meeting.

letter writing
how to begin a letter a). 给朋友写信要称呼他们的名字，如亲爱的弗雷德，决不要以亲爱的朋友之类的词语开头 b). 给亲戚写信，则可以这样开头：
亲爱的妈妈 Dear Mother
亲爱的弗雷德叔叔 Dear Uncle
但决不可称亲爱的表兄 (dear name)
你的祖母 Dear grandma
你的表姐 Dear Elizabeth
你的朋友杰克 Dear Jack
你的叔叔汤姆 Dear Uncle Tom

出现两个动词的做法：
1). 用 and ,but ,so 等连接
2). 变成主句和从句的复合句
3). 留一个做主干，剩下的动词变成非谓语动词
4). 可以用一些介词短语取代动词概念

How to Start a Healthy Diet

Many people want to start eating healthier and follow a more nutritious diet. When your diet contains a lot of overly processed foods, high-fat foods or foods high in sugar, you increase your risk for a variety of chronic health conditions. On the other hand, a nutritious, well-balanced diet can support your immune system, healthy development, and decrease your risk for obesity, diabetes and high blood pressure. Make small changes to your diet over the course of a few weeks as opposed to many drastic changes at once, and you'll be able to sustain a healthier way of eating and enjoy the health benefits of a healthy diet.

Part 1 Plan & Preparations:

1). Set a goal for yourself: Starting a healthier diet is a great overarching goal, however, to make your goal more realistic and doable, you'll need to be more specific about what you want out of a "healthy diet." It might be helpful to first think about your current diet. What's unhealthy about it? Do you need to eat more green vegetables? Do you need to drink more water? Should you snack less? Write up a list of the things you want to change, add or stop about your current diet. Use these ideas to form multiple small goals to help you reach a healthier diet. The best way to reach any goal is to start with one or two very small changes. Trying to overhaul your entire diet in a few days probably won't work well. Choose something small to work on each week. You'll be much more successful long-term.

2). Start a food journal: After you've come up with a few goals and how you can achieve them, consider starting a food journal. This will serve as a method to track and evaluate your progress. Write all your goals in your food journal. You can review them as needed or change them as you continue to make changes to your diet. Also track all of your foods and beverages in your food journal. This will help you physically see what's missing from your diet or what you're eating too much of. Make sure to write out each breakfast, lunch, dinner, snack (even a few nibbles) and drinks you consume throughout the day. The more accurate you are, the better resource this will be. Each week in your food journal, write down the change you want to work on. For example, "This week, I will drink eight glasses of water each day." At the end of the week, go back over your journal to see if you've completed this goal. There are many apps available to download on your smartphone that can help you track calories, exercise, and even how much water you drink.

3). Create a meal plan: A meal plan is a great tool when you're trying to follow any new diet plan. These plans are your guide and blueprint to your week of meals and snacks. Meal plans can help you stay organized and on track throughout the week. You'll know exactly what you're going to have and on what day. This way you can go to the grocery store with a specific list, only buying what you plan to use in your meals for the week. You can also plan ahead of time for busy days — for instance, if you know you'll be very busy and work late on Thursday, make something on Wednesday that you can easily reheat and have for leftovers on Thursday. Also write up the corresponding grocery list to your meal plans. This will help you get in and out of the grocery store and ensure you have all the necessary ingredients at home to make all of your meals. Don't skip meals. If you currently skip meals, make sure to schedule a meal or a healthy snack for yourself at least every four hours. Skipping meals is more likely to lead to binge eating later, which contributes to weight gain.

4). Meal prep in your free time: If you're busy and have little time to make a meal from scratch, meal prep will be the key to following your new healthier diet. Meal prep helps you get a lot of the work of cooking from scratch or cooking at home out of the way during free time. When it's time for dinner on a busy weeknight, you should have most or even all of the cooking already done. Plan a day or two during the week when you have some free time to do your meal prep. Review your meal plan and grocery list and try to find ways to get some cooking done. Meal prep is flexible. You can cook full dinners in advance so you just have to reheat the night you want to eat it, or you can just do washing or chopping of vegetables or marinating meat so you can quickly cook the night of. Also consider purchasing foods that require less prep work to begin with. For example, you can purchase pre-washed and cut bagged lettuce instead of a whole head of lettuce, frozen vegetables that are heat and serve, or pre-grilled lean protein like grilled chicken strips. Meal prepping can be a time to catch up with people. Ask your partner or children to help you prep while you talk about what has been going on in your lives.

Part 2 What to Eat:

1). Go for a well-balanced diet: Although there is a variety of eating styles and diet plans to follow, the most nutritious is a well-balanced diet. A balanced diet will be different for everyone. You'll need to eat the right portion sizes for your age, gender and activity level. In addition, a well-balanced diet is one that features foods from each food group each day. Although many diets suggest giving up gluten, or giving up carbs or even avoiding dairy, all food groups offer beneficial nutrition to everyone. Only avoid food groups if you have an allergy to those foods. Also make sure you have a wide variety of foods in your diet. For example, don't always choose to eat an apple as your afternoon snack. Alternate between apples, bananas or berries to increase the variety of your diet.

2). Choose lean protein over higher fat protein sources: Protein is an essential nutrient to any nutritious diet. However, choosing leaner protein sources is advisable. Protein is essential for a variety of functions in your body which includes providing your body with energy, supporting your lean muscle mass, providing the basis for many enzymes and hormones and providing structure and support for cells. Lean protein sources are lower in fat and calories compared to higher fat proteins. Many high-fat proteins (mostly from animal sources) are higher in saturated fat. Focusing on leaner protein decreasing your overall intake of these types of fat. To get your recommended amount of protein each day, include one or two servings at each meal. One serving is about 3 – 4 oz or about the size of the palm of your hand. Lean protein sources include poultry, eggs, low-fat dairy, pork, seafood, beans and nuts, and lower fat beef.

3). Find ways to include five to nine servings of fruits and vegetables each day: Fruits and vegetables are an integral part of a healthful diet. These are the foods that are abundant in essential nutrients. Fruits and vegetables are both fairly low in calories, but high in nutrients (making them nutrient-dense foods). They are some of the best sources of fiber, vitamins, mineral, and antioxidants. It's typically recommended to consume five to nine servings of fruits and vegetables each day. So measure out 1 cup of vegetables, 2 cups of leafy greens and 1/2 cup of fruit to help you meet this recommendation. If you don't typically eat a lot of fruits or vegetables now, increasing your intake to five to nine servings daily can be difficult. Find easy ways to get in a few of these essential foods. Try: mixing in sautéed vegetables into eggs for breakfast, sprinkle yogurt or cottage cheese with fruit, add extra lettuce, tomatoes, and onions to your sandwiches, or try adding some steamed vegetables to your mac and cheese recipe.

4). Choose whole grains over refined grains: An easy way to increase your nutrition and eat a healthier diet is by choosing 100% whole grains. These foods are much better for you than refined grains. A hundred percent whole grains have all three parts of the grain — the germ, bran, and endosperm. They are less processed and contain many more nutrients like fiber, protein and minerals. Refined grains are much more processed than whole grains. They are typically stripped of the bran and germ so they are lower in fiber and protein. Avoid foods made with white flour — like white pasta, white rice, pastries, chips and crackers. Include a few servings of whole grains each day. Measure out a 1 oz or 1/2 cup serving to help you stick to appropriate portion sizes. Try whole grains like quinoa, brown rice, whole wheat pasta, millet, farro or whole wheat bread and wraps.

5). Choose healthy sources of fat: Although fat should be monitored in your diet, there are a few types of fat that are particularly healthy and provide a variety of health benefits. If you're trying to eat more sources of healthy fats, make sure to swap them out for unhealthy fats. Do not add more fats — healthy or not — on top of a diet containing unhealthy fats. Omega 3 fats and monounsaturated fats are both great for your body. They have been shown to improve cardiovascular health and improve cholesterol levels. The best sources of these healthy fats are avocados, olive oil, olives, nuts, nut butters, canola oil, chia seeds, flaxseeds and fatty fish (like salmon, tuna and mackerel). Remember, though, that these may also have a high-calorie count, so be moderate. Many health professionals recommended eating fatty fish at least twice a week and including a daily source of other healthy fats.

6). Drink adequate fluids: Although water is not necessarily its own food group or nutrient, it is an essential part of a healthy diet and a healthy body. Drinking adequate water every day helps your body stay hydrated. It's very important to help regulate body temperature, blood pressure and helps prevent constipation. It's typically recommended to consume at least eight 8-oz glasses (2 liters) of water daily. However, now many health professionals recommend consuming up to 13 glasses (3 liters) daily. In addition to water, you can try flavored water, decaf unsweetened coffee and tea. These beverages are no calorie and caffeine free which are the best and most hydrating fluids.

Part 3 What to Avoid:

1). Follow the 80/20 rule: Although you want to follow a healthier diet, it's still appropriate to indulge in your favorite foods. Following the 80/20 rule can help you stick to a healthy diet while eating more indulgent foods in moderation. Although eating a nutritious, well-balanced diet is important, it's not realistic to eat perfectly healthy every day for the rest of your life. People derive a lot of enjoyment out of eating and occasionally eating more indulgent foods. Treat yourself to an indulgent dish, glass of alcohol or larger portions occasionally. This is still considered normal and healthy eating. However, only indulge 20% of the time. Most of the time, or 80% of the time, you should be choosing healthy foods.

2). Limit sources of added and highly processed sugars: There are certain groups of foods that you should limit and only eat in moderation. Added sugars are something that should definitely be eaten in moderation as they often no nutritional value. Added sugars are added to certain foods during their processing. They offer no nutrition, only extra calories. In addition, many studies have shown that a diet high in added sugars can lead to obesity. Added sugars are found in a wide variety of foods. Try to limit items like breakfast pastries, cookies, cakes, ice cream, candy, and cereals. Also limit sweetened beverages. Not only are they high in added sugars and calories, but many people also don't think to count these types of drinks as a source of calories since they don't fill you up as much as food does. You may end up drinking more calories through these beverages. The American Heart Association recommends that women consume no more than 6 teaspoons and men consume no more than 9 teaspoons of added sugar daily.

3). Limit sources of unhealthy fats: In addition to added sugars, you should also limit certain groups of foods that contain high quantities of fat. In particular, you want to avoid higher levels of saturated and trans fat. There has been some controversy over whether or not saturated fat is as dangerous or unhealthy as previously thought. However, saturated fat is still a fat which means it's very calorie dense and if eaten in large quantities can still lead to weight gain and adverse health effects. You don't need to avoid all saturated fats, but do eat them in moderation. Especially foods like: full fat dairy, fatty cuts of beef or pork, deli meats and other processed meats. Trans fats have been directly linked to several adverse health effects like raising bad cholesterol levels and lowering the good kind, increases your risk for developing heart disease and stroke and increases your risk for developing diabetes. Try to avoid these foods as much as possible. Trans fats are found in a variety of foods including pastries, cookies, cakes, margarines, pies, fast foods, fried foods, baked goods, and soy sauce. There is no safe upper limit for trans fats. These should be avoided if possible.

4). Consume limited amounts of alcohol: If you choose to drink, do so in moderation. Moderate amounts of alcohol generally do not pose health risks for most people. If you drink larger amounts of alcohol (more than three servings daily), you may increase your risk of high blood pressure, liver disease, heart disease stroke, and depression. Unlike some foods, there is a specific definition of moderate alcohol consumption. Women shouldn't drink more than one serving daily and men should consume no more than two daily. If you do drink, consider skipping mixed beverages that are mixed with sweetened beverages or fruit juices as these contain extra calories and added sugars. One serving is equivalent to a 12-oz beer, 5 oz of wine, or 1.5 oz of liquor.

她盯着“地毯”看了一会儿，又说：“你根本用不着书橱，空闲时你可以坐在这儿读地毯！”

Books have always been my true life-long companions. Not only do I seek for truth in them by indulging myself into a sea of books but find my personal peace and solace at times when I grew weary of those uncertainties in my life. Those authors who had ever experienced/faced the same problem can always be a source of inspiration for me. Through reading books from all over the world, my used-to-be narrow-minded worldview takes a drastic turn and is widened in ways I have ever imagined. Buying books has become my second nature. Throughout the years, my personal collections of books have been growing at an unprecedented speed. Recently I moved to a new place with my beloved family. Because of that, an eminent issue surfaced. I have never taken a second look at my mountains of books as a whole until now. Those books were lying here and there in my room. I tried my best to arrange my room in an orderly fashion. Frankly speaking, that was not easy. Worse still, to make the matters more complicated, my room is rather small by comparison with other rooms in the house. Momentarily, I had to step on my precious books to get in and out of the room. It looked as if all spaces had been covered up by books. A moment ago, with my sister's assistance, I was capable of carrying one of my old bookcases upstairs. She came into my room with a surprise. So surprised was she that she remarked that the carpet was the most beautiful one she had ever seen. After admiring it for a while, she added that since I could just read the carpet, I could just make do without bookcases at all. The move to a new house had given me an opportunity to have a second look at my books. Since these books took so many spaces physically, I should purchase more e-books instead. With electronic books in my portable computer, the space shortage would not prove to be a problem. However, I really love the textures and feelings of paper books. That's the dilemma. After weighing the pros and cons, I arrived at a decision that I should decrease the amount of paper books I buy to the minimum of five books per year and make more purchases of electronic books instead.

pinch /pɪntʃ/ v. 捏 掐 拧 捏住 夹紧 挤压 收缩 掐掉 偷摸 行窃
n. 捏 掐 拧 一撮
pinch pennies 一毛不拔 吝啬
at a pinch 必要时 不得已时 take sth with a pinch of salt 不完全相信 半信半疑 winch /wɪntʃ/ n. 绞车 卷扬机 牵引机 绞盘 绞机 起货机

v. 拉起 吊起

有 just 就是完成时
现在完成进行时 - 动作有延续（从过去到现在还要延续，强调延续） 现在完成时：
1、在漫长地时间段，过去发生的，还一定要对现在产生影响
2、在过去发生的动作，一直延续到现在
I have been working hard all morning（还在继续）
it has been raining all day .
leave 瞬间动词（be leaving 是表示将来）
1、和现在完成进行时连用的，一定不能是次数
2、和现在完成进行时连用的动词，一定不能是短暂性动词
i have been looking for him everywhere，where can he be ?
have been doing 强调动作有可能继续发生 不能是短暂动词，次数不能连用
i have read the book 书已看完
i have been reading the book 还没看完，还要继续
i have read 'Oliver Twist' five times
跟次数连用的，一定只能用完成时

现在完成进行时：have / has + been + 现在分词
1．表示从过去某时开始发生，一直延续到现在且可能延续下去的动作。（最好将此定义读 5 遍）
I've been waiting for an hour but she hasn't come.
He has been running after her for 8 years.（run after: 追求）
2．表某种感情色彩。
I've been wanting to see you for so many years.
Who's been telling you such nonsense.
释惑要点：现在完成时与现在完成进行时的对比：
现在完成时强调“结果”，而完成进行时强调“动作的延续”。
I have thought of it.（我已想到了这一点。）
I have been thinking of it.（我一直在想这一点。）
Jim has painted the door.（杰姆已将门油漆过了。）
Jim has been painting the door.（杰姆一直在油漆门。）

过去将来完成时：would / should have + 过去分词
表示从过去某个时间看将来某时之前已经完成的动作。
He said that they would have arrived by seven o'clock.
十五．将来完成进行时：shall / will have been + 现在分词
表示某一动作将继续到将来某时，且该动作此时尚未发生。
We shall have been staying here for four weeks when Tom arrives.
It will have been raining for a week if it does not stop tomorrow.
［注：此句型过于复杂，人们很少运用，了解而已。］

过去完成进行时：had been + 现在分词
表示过去某个时间之前一直在进行的动作。
● She said that she had been typing a paper before I came in.
比较：
The girl had cleaned up the room, so it was tidy.
The girl had been clearing up the room, so we had to wait outside.

Lesson 53 Hot snake 触电的蛇

First listen and then answer the question.

What caused the fire?

At last firemen have put out a big forest fire in California.

状 主 谓 前置定语 → 宾 状

at last 最后 终于 = finally; fireman n. 消防队员；put out 扑灭 使熄灭 = extinguish; forest n. 森林 树林 林区 v. 造林；forestation n. 植树造林 植林 绿化；forester n. 林务员 护林人；forestry n. 林业 林学；forestland n. 林地；deforest v. 砍伐森林 采伐森林；deforestation n. 毁林 滥伐；

消防队员们终于扑灭了加利福尼亚的一场森林大火。

Since then, they have been trying to find out how the fire began.

状 主 谓 宾 引 主 谓

since then 从那时起，从那时起到现在为止 = from then on, ever since; have been trying to do, 现在完成进行时 [have/has been doing]: 动作从过去某一时间开始，一直持续到现在，这个动作可能刚刚终止，也可能仍然要继续下去，强调动作行为本身，在某一段时间内一直在进行，而现在完成时 [have/has done], 表明该动作已经完成，而且对现在有一定的影响，强调动作行为的结果，影响；how 引导宾语从句作 find out 的宾语；find out 找出 查明 找出 了解 = discover, pinpoint, identify, pin down, determine;

从那时起，他们一直试图找出起火的原因。

Forest fires are often caused by broken glass or by cigarette ends which people carelessly throw away.

前定 → 主 谓 状 谓 | 被动 状 连 状 ← 宾 主 状 谓

cause n. 原因 事业 病因 理由 v. 导致 引起 产生 = bring about, give rise to, set off, result in, lead to, produce, evoke, induce; cause sth 导致 引起；cause sb to do sth 导致某人做某事；broken glass 碎玻璃；cigarette end 烟头；carelessly adv. 粗心地 随意地；throw away/out 扔掉 = discard, abandon, dispose of, get rid of;

原句改为主动语态：Broken glass or cigarette ends which people carelessly throw out often cause forest fires.；核心动词 cause 用名词形式：The causes of forest fires are often associated with broken glass or cigarette ends which people carelessly discard. 再换一个表达方式，不用从句：Broken glass or cigarette ends being thrown away by people carelessly lead to forest fires. Forest fires often start with broken glass or cigarette ends being discarded by careless people.

森林火灾时常由破碎的玻璃或人们随手扔掉的香烟头引起。

Yesterday the firemen examined the ground carefully, but were not able to find any broken glass.

状 主 谓 1 宾 状 连 谓 2 前置定语 → 宾 examine v. 检验 审查 调查 考察；examination n. 检验 审查 考察 调查 考试；check v. 核实 核对；check in 入住 签到；check out 退房 结帐；carefully adv. 仔细地 谨慎地 ≠ carelessly; ground n. 地面；be able to do sth, have the ability to do sth 能够做某事 = be capable of doing sth, have the capability of doing sth, can do sth; able adj. 能够 有能力的 ≠ unable adj. 不能够的 未能；

昨天，消防队员仔细查看了地面，但未能发现碎玻璃。

They were also quite sure that a cigarette end did not start the fire.

主 系 状 状 表 引 主 谓 宾

quiet adj. 安静的；quite adv. 相当地 非常地；be quite sure 十分确定；quite = completely > rather > fairly 相当；be sure of sth, be sure that 对 ... 很有把握；quite sure 相当有把握；sure adj. 确定 ≠ unsure adj. 不确定；start v. 引起 = cause, lead to 开始 = begin, commence;

他们还十分肯定火灾也不是由烟头引起的。

This morning, however, a fireman accidentally discovered the cause.

状 状 主 状 谓 宾

accident n. 意外 事故 意外遭遇 不测事件 [事故]; incident n. 事变 事故 小事件；accidental adj. 偶然的 意外的；accidentally adv. 偶然地 意外地 = by chance/accident; discover v. 发现 找出 = find out, ascertain; cause n. 原因 起因，起火的原因；

然而今天上午，一个消防队员偶然发现了起火的原因。

He noticed the remains of a snake which was wound round the electric wires of a 16,000-volt power line.

主 谓 宾 ← 后置定语 ← 主 谓 | 被动语态 状 ← 后置定语

notice v. 注意到，注意别人没有注意到的东西；remain n. 尸体 残骸，常用复数形式；wind-wound-wound v. 缠绕 卷绕 蜿蜒；wind round 缠绕；electric adj. 电的 用电的 导电的 带电的；electricity n. 电 电能 电力；electrician n. 电工 电气技师；wire n. 电线；volt n. 伏特电压单位；voltage n. 电压 伏特数；power line 电力线；power grid 电力网 电力公司；power n. 权力 力量 动力 能力 v. 推动 驱动 快速前进；

他发现了缠绕在 16，000 伏高压线上的一条死蛇。

In this way, he was able to solve the mystery. The explanation was simple but very unusual.

就这样，他解开了起火之谜。解释很简单，却异乎寻常。

A bird had snatched up the snake from the ground and then dropped it on to the wires.

主 谓 1 宾 状 连 状 谓 2 宾 状 snatch v. 抓住 夺去 抢走 = grab, seize, take; drop v. 投下 使落下 降下 n. 滴 水珠 少量 微量；a drop of water 一滴水；

一只鸟把蛇从地上抓起来，然后把它扔到了电线上。

The snake then wound itself round the wires.

主 状 谓 宾 状

wind-wound-wound v. 缠绕 卷绕 蜿蜒；wind one's way 蜿蜒而行；

于是蛇就缠住了几根电线。

When it did so, it sent sparks down to the ground and these immediately started a fire.

引 主 谓 宾 主 谓 宾 状 连 主 状 谓 宾 do so 这么做；when it did so = when the snake wound itself round the wires 的缩略形式；I refuse to do so. 我拒绝这么做；I think so. 我也这样认为；so 代指省略的前文已经提到的事；send ...to ... 把 ... 送到 ...; spark n. 火花 电火花 火星 v. 引发 触发 冒火花；sparkle n. 闪耀的花火 火花；start/cause a fire 引起火灾；'These' refers to the sparks which started a fire. these 指的是那些引起火灾的火花；

当它这样做时，把火花送到了地面，这些火花立刻引起了一场大火。

When it comes to fire prevention, there is no such thing as too little emphasis on raising public fire safety awareness. Fire protection, on the other hand, has always been the focus of public education. Throughout our lives, everyone must have participated in one or two fire drills which tell you how to put out a small fire at the start with means such as fire extinguishers, water hydrants, how to escape from a big fire with a piece of wet cloth, how to go to the nearest assembly point, what to do when elevators are not available and there is a fire, where to be the safest place to hide yourself, what number you should call to get professional helps, and so on and on. Fire, sometimes, can be very unforgiving with so many people's lives wasted each year. City fires can be dealt very quickly because there are so many fire stations around us. When there is a fire, firemen arrive at the site on a very short notice. Wild fires, however, face a different reality. Wild fires often take place at very remote inaccessible places with little access to modern well-maintained, often double lane carriageways that allow fire fighting trucks with fire fighting equipment to pass through. Fire brigades often go to the places where the fires first started on foot and that wastes a lot of time. By the time they arrived at the fire site, fires have already been beyond control. Facing such a scenario, firemen have many things on hand that need to be done immediately and, however, only a few they can do about it. First off, they have to isolate the fire by cutting down all the trees and removing all the inflammable materials around it. This way they create a safe belt and fires are confined to such a limited area. We all know that with no inflammables comes no fire. Eventually the wild fire will die out because there are no burnable materials. Recently, a fire started at a very remote place in California. The firemen succeeded in getting the fire under control and eventually put it out. Ever since, they have been attempting to determine the cause of such a big fire. Usually, fires, which break out at such a remote place, are started by cigarette ends or broken glass. People tend to throw them without any second thought that what they discard may someday bring about wild fires. Yesterday, after thorough examinations on the ground, firemen were convinced that broken glass or cigarette ends could never be the explanation of such a fire. On this very morning, a fireman noticed something peculiar and then he was capable of producing a fact-based explanation to put an end to the ongoing pursuit of finding out the origin of the fire. His account was simple. A snake had been taken to the sky by a bird and then it was thrown down to the power line through which 16,000 voltage electric wires run. The snake wrapped itself around the wires. By doing so, sparks were sent down to the ground and those promptly gave rise to a fire. Then the leader of the fire brigade was able to file a report on the fire as required.

Sometimes a seemingly pleasant day can take a dramatic turn and everything goes into disarray. You barely know where all the things have started, piling one after another. Yesterday, I had a day just like that kind of day. After we had our breakfast, my husband went to work and took the children to school on the way. I came to stores to do a refilling inventory. I spent little time shopping, so it was very early when I came back home. With no one around, the house was peaceful. Since the children have been yearning/begging for mince pie, I came to a decision that I should make some. Soon after, I was occupied with the mixing of butter and flour. Shortly there was sticky pastry all over both of my hands. At the exact time, someone phoned me. Nothing could be more bothersome. I collected the phone with two sticky fingers and soon I discovered that Helen Bates, the insurance agent, called me. What a dismay! I thought there would be something urgent on the phone. I spent several minutes in dissuading her from making another call some time later that day. Finally, I could be able to hang up. No sooner had I gotten off the phone than I confronted with a shock that the pastry was over my fingers, telephone and doorknobs. Nothing could have been worse! Scarcely/Hardly/Barely had I resumed making meat pie when someone rang the doorbell as loud as it could be. It was the postman at the door who wished me to receive a registered letter. I had to sign my name at a designated area. On seeing my hands which were covered with heavy pastry, at first the postman was reluctant to take out his pen to let me write down my signature on a receipt. He finally convinced himself to let me borrow his pen. He then lent it to me and I was capable of putting down my signature there. I gave him a very apologetic smile and the man fled away with my signature on the receipt. That was a day I wished I would never have had. After that, I just gave up making pies all together and started to clean the whole house.

would do 和 used to do 两者都表示过去的习惯，当表示过去习惯性的动作时，可互换，但注意区分：1). would do 一般用来表示过去反复进行的动作或表示过去某时间的意志，愿望和决心，而 used to do 则既可以表示过去反复发生的动作，也可以表示某种状态；2). would do 表示过去某一段时间常发生的事，一般要接具体的时间做状语，而 used to do 一般不一定要接具体时间做状语；3). would do 往往强调过去的一种可能性，而不暗示现在的情况，而 used to do 强调过去常这样干，而现在不干了，强调今惜对比；4). would 作 will 的过去式，表示过去的一种意愿或将要做的事情，意思为 " 将会 ", 而 used to 无此意义；5). would 有时也可用来指现在，表示一种委婉，客气的请求，对于用它来提问题的回答，须用 will, 不能用 would, 而 used to 无此意义及用法；6). would do 一般接表示动作的动词，不能与表示状态或情感，意识方面的词连用，而 used to do 无此限制；7). used to do 往往强调事实，而 would do 常带有主观上的感情的色彩；8). #used to 既是情态动词又是实义动词，含 used to do 的句子，变为否定句或疑问句时，既可在 used 后加 not, 或将 used 提到句首，也可在 used to 前面加 didn't, 或在句首加 did, 同时将 used to 改为 use to;

Armed with the new machine, a search party went into the cave hoping to find buried treasure.

过去分词短语作伴随状语 | 被动 主 谓 状 现在分词短语作目的状语

如果几个简单句的主语是同一事物，在把握中心句的前提下，可以把几个句子合并为一个句子，注意与其它成分的合成；保留一个句子作主句，其它句子的谓语动词变成非谓语动词；非谓语动词采用何种形式，则需看其与主语的关系，如果是主动关系，用现在分词短语，如果是被动关系，则用过去分词短语，如果是表示目的，则用 to do 不定式短语；主句与其它句子成分的位置不仅要保持整个句子的平衡，还要注意动作的连贯：The boy went home. The boy was crying. The boy was beaten. → Beaten by somebody, the boy went home, crying.

一个简单句只有一个主语和一个动词，如果出现了多个动词，那么 (且看下面例句): 1). 用 and, but，so... 等连词连接多个动词：Having went into the cave, not only was the search party armed with the new machine but also hoped to find buried treasure.; 2) 变成带有从句和主句的复合句：Because it was armed with the new machine, the search party went into a cave with a hope that they would find buried treasure.;

3). 留一个做主干，剩下的动词变成非谓语动词：To find buried treasure, the search party armed with the new machine went into the cave.; 4) 用介词短语替代动词：In hope to find buried treasure, a search party with the new machine went into a cave.

海盗们过去常把金子埋藏在那个洞里，可后来却没能取走。一支用这种新机器装备起来的探宝队进入了这个岩洞，希望找到埋藏着的金子。

尽管如此，很多人仍然相信“探宝器”很快就会探出值钱的东西来。

There is no shortage of getting-rich-fast tips and people love hearing a seemingly poverty-stricken man suddenly make a fortune. We are all familiar with Ponzi scheme and all of us know how it works. Simply put, borrow Tom's money to pay Sam's. It pays existing investors with funds collected from new investors. However, a recent invention of a machine called 'The Revealer', which can detect metal objects from underground, does provide a possible way to increase people's chance of getting buried treasure from the ground. A team bought one of the machine and immediately deployed it to a seaside cave, in which, supposedly, gold was hidden somewhere by pirates and was not collected somehow. With the hope that buried treasue would be found soon, the party searched the cave thoroughly with the machine. The one who led the search party had a close thorough examination around the cave's entrance when the Revealer detected something underground. With much excitement, the party ploughed the whole cave and combed through the soil. They made sure that there was no stone unturned. Finally, they spotted a place with hign potential to positively dig up gold there. Impatient, they dug a big two feet hole in depth. Soon after, a small gold coin was found. By comparing with their initial outlay on purchasing the expensive machine, the gold coin was of little worth. With their finding of the coin, the promise of getting rich quick with the machine seemed to be plausible. Though their hand work had not paid off, they were of great confidence that soon they would discover something of great value. In the meantime, the inventor of the machine has made a fortune by selling his invention to those people who are armed with the Revealer and dream of landing on a hidden treasure trove underground. This story tells a vivid universal fact that a successful one is made out of the many's flesh and bones. Needless to say, the inventor himself will make a great amount of money by collecting every last penny from each of his clients.

Not only did the race give everyone a great amount of pleasure but also a great deal of excitement. During the race which differed from modern car races, everyone was given a great sum of pleasure and excitement. Though the differences between the two types of car races were very wide, but the old car race was no less exciting than those modern ones. Modern car races were no more exciting than the annual old car race.

它虽然与现代汽车比赛大不相同，但激动人心的程度并不亚于现代汽车大赛。

在使用 It is/was...that/who... 强调句型时应注意以下几点：1). 当被强调部分指人时，可用 that, 也可以用 who, 当指物时，只能用 that, 如：It was you who/that saved my life. It was my life that you saved. 2). 强调状语时，只能用 that, 不用 when, where... 如：It was at school that I learned English. 3). 被强调的部分是主语时，注意谓语动词和被强调的主语保持一致，如：It was he who was late. 4). 无论被强调的名词或代词，主语是单数还是复数，强调句的主谓结构都统一采用单数形式的 it is/was; 5). 对于双宾动词，其引导的直接宾语和间接宾语都可以被强调：He gave you a book. It was he who/that gave you a book. It was you that/who he gave a book. It was a book that he gave to you. 5). 强调句也可以用来强调介词后的宾语：It was my mother that/who he talked to on the phone for two hours.

Because, as the villagers believe, numbers of visitors have become to be a slew of victims that have recently been deprived of their lives by the tree's curse, they have demanded the vicar to cut down the tree by someone else. However he has refused to do so because of the earnings that the tree have been generating. Because of the curse of the tree, many of the villagers have a strong belief that a great many tourists have gone to heaven. They have requested that the tree must be put down by someone. The vicar thinks it otherwise and has poured scorn on the request to have the tree cut down. He has indicated that as the number of visitors keeps on growing/increasing, everyone in the village will get a fair share/piece of the action with the advancement and development of modern tourism. Soon, not just the church, everyone will benefit from the cursed tree except the tourists who spend a lot of money visiting the coursed tree as well as the village itself. With so many people coming from all over the country, the villagers can provide catering service and accommodations. So, here comes the money and everyone gets rich in the process.

Because the neighbours lodged a complaint regarding/about/against the bark, it took my husband weeks to train the dog to put his paw hard on the latch to let him in. [正式用语：lodge a complaint about/against 举报 投诉 提意见 提出控诉 起诉]

由于邻居们对狗叫很有意见，所以我丈夫花了几个星期的时间训练它用脚爪按住门闩把自己放进来。

Rex soon became an expert at opening the gate.

主 状 系 表 状

expert n. 专家 行家 能手；expert in/at doing sth 在某方面是专家；become an expert at 成了 ... 能手；expertise n. 专长 专门知识；

Rex, who spent weeks on learning how to open the front gate by pressing his paw on the latch without barking, soon grew to be an expert at opening the gate. After learning how to get in or out of the garden by pressing the gate's latch with his paw, Rex specialized in opening the gate. Taught by my husband who spent weeks letting him know how to open the door without the barkings and people's help, Rex was soon good at opening the gate.

雷克斯很快成了开门的专家。

However, when I was going out shopping last week, I noticed him in the garden near the gate.

The gate was removed by my husband yesterday and so annoyed was Rex that he has not been seen by anyone in our family. Much to his annoyance, my husband kept silent about some of the things that happened at gate and such an anger did Rex express that he just went away and played truant.

昨天，我丈夫把大门卸了下来，雷克斯很生气，此后我们便再也没有见到它。

Our dog was named/called Rex, a two-year-old boy hasky. He developed a habit of sitting outside our front door and making loud speech to let someone help him get in or out of the garden. Whenever he felt the need to get into the garden, making loud noise was the only thing he could do to catch people's attention. Because of the loud bark, our neighbours had loged a formal complaint against us. What we could do was to train Rex to open the door himself. The daunting task was landed on my husband and it took him several weeks to get things right. Rex was an amazing quick learner and soon he had become a seasoned expert at opening doors. He could open every door in our house. Because the doors in our house could not be closed themselves, what Rex left behind was opening doors one after another. This annoyed us. However, the gate of the garden could be opened and closed by anyone inside and this had created a big problem. Rex was good at opening the garden's door from inside. The problem was that whenever he got himself outside, he couldn't get himself in. To do so, he had to go back to his old self. The barking seemed to be no end. My husband was so angry that he got rid of the gate all together. So unhappy was Rex that he went away since then. We missed our beloved pet Rex very much. Yet we could not find him. Maybe he would grow tired of a life without an owner who was his constant source of foods and carings. We are now confident that Rex will come back because we provide him with the most delicious meals on Earth. Who wouldn't like that! If you see our cute dog Rex, please contact us at 123456778. You will be rewarded handsomely by means of cash or something you desire. Again We appreciate your help with the finding of Rex. Thank you for your service. Rex, please forgive us for making you unhappy. Life without you around is hard indeed. We missed you dearly.

After I came into her tent, I was asked to be seated by Madam Bellinsky. No sooner had some money been provided to her than she took a hard look into a ball that was crystal. Hardly/Barely/Scarcely had she been presented with some money when she took a close examination of a ball which was made of crystal. Having given her some money, I saw her looking into a crystal ball.

and said: 'A relation of yours is coming to see you.

连 谓 主 ←后置定语 谓 状

relation n. 亲属 亲戚 = relative, kin, next of kin, kinfolk, kinsfolk; a relation of yours 您的一个亲戚，双重所有格；is coming to see you, 这句话中，进行时态并不表示动作正在进行，而用来表示近期计划或安排将要进行的动作，常用于表示位置转移的动词或短暂性动词，如：do, go, come, get, leave, move, return, fly, arrive, land, meet, die (dying), start, begin, stay, play, see, spend, wear, work, take, join;

After her thorough examination of a crystal ball, she told me that a relative of mine was coming to see me. I paid a visit to a fortune-teller at a village fair who told me that a next of kin of mine was about to arrive.

我给了她一些钱后，她便查看着一个水晶球说道："您的一个亲戚就要来看您了。

She will be arriving this evening and intends to stay for a few days.

主 谓 1 状 连 谓 2 宾 状

will be doing 将来进行时表示要在将来某一时间开始，并继续下去的动作，一般用延续性动词表示，将来进行时还常用来表示礼貌的询问，请求或期待；intend v. 打算 计划 想要 意指 企图 意欲 准备，常跟不定式；intention n. 意图 打算 动机；intentional adj. 故意的 有意的 存心的；intentionally adv. 故意地 成心 有意地；unintentional adj. 无意的 非故意的 偶然的；unintentionally adv. 无意地 无心；

Madam Bellinsky also added that she would be arriving that evening and intended to stay for a few days. After her immediate arrival this evening, she plans to live with you for a number of days.

The moment you leave this tent, you will get a big surprise.

引 主 谓 宾 主 谓 前定→ 宾

the moment 一 ... 就，起连词作用 = as soon as, once; get/receive/obtain/acquire a big surprise 大吃一惊；

As soon as you depart from this place, you will be much surprised. After your departure from this tent, a very big surprise will be waiting for you. On going away from this tent, you will come upon a big surprise. She said that once I left that tent, I would get a big surprise.

About the Hubble Space Telescope: From the dawn of humankind to a mere 400 years ago, all that we knew about our universe came through observations with the naked eye. Then Galileo turned his telescope toward the heavens in 1610. The world was in for an awakening. Saturn, we learned, had rings. Jupiter had moons. That nebulous patch across the center of the sky called the Milky Way was not a cloud but a collection of countless stars. Within but a few years, our notion of the natural world would be forever changed. A scientific and societal revolution quickly ensued. The Hubble Space Telescope is named in honor of astronomer Edwin Hubble. In the centuries that followed, telescopes grew in size and complexity and, of course, power. They were placed far from city lights and as far above the haze of the atmosphere as possible. Edwin Hubble, for whom the Hubble Telescope is named, used the largest telescope of his day in the 1920s at the Mt. Wilson Observatory near Pasadena, Calif., to discover galaxies beyond our own. Hubble, the observatory, is the first major optical telescope to be placed in space, the ultimate mountaintop. Above the distortion of the atmosphere, far far above rain clouds and light pollution, Hubble has an unobstructed view of the universe. Scientists have used Hubble to observe the most distant stars and galaxies as well as the planets in our solar system. Hubble's launch and deployment in April 1990 marked the most significant advance in astronomy since Galileo's telescope. Thanks to five servicing missions and more than 25 years of operation, our view of the universe and our place within it has never been the same. Hubble has made more than 1.5 million observations since its mission began in 1990. Did you know... NASA named the world's first space-based optical telescope after American astronomer Edwin P. Hubble (1889 -1953). Dr. Hubble confirmed an "expanding" universe, which provided the foundation for the big-bang theory. In order to take images of distant, faint objects, Hubble must be extremely steady and accurate. The telescope is able to lock onto a target without deviating more than 7/1000th of an arcsecond, or about the width of a human hair seen at a distance of 1 mile. Astronomers using Hubble data have published more than 19,000 scientific papers, making it one of the most productive scientific instruments ever built. Those papers have been cited in other papers 1.1 million times. Hubble does not travel to stars, planets or galaxies. It takes pictures of them as it whirls around Earth at about 17,000 mph. Hubble has circled Earth and gone more than 4 billion miles along a circular low earth orbit currently about 340 miles in altitude. Hubble has no thrusters. To change angles, it uses Newton’s third law by spinning its wheels in the opposite direction. It turns at about the speed of a minute hand on a clock, taking 15 minutes to turn 90 degrees. Hubble has the pointing accuracy of .007 arcseconds, which is like being able to shine a laser beam on President Roosevelt’s head on a dime about 200 miles away. Outside the haze of our atmosphere, it can see astronomical objects with an angular size of 0.05 arcseconds, which is like seeing a pair of fireflies in Tokyo that are less than 10 feet apart from Washington, DC. Due to the combination of optics and sensitive detectors and with no atmosphere to interfere with the light reaching it, Hubble can spot a night light on the surface of the Moon from Earth. Hubble has peered back into the very distant past, to locations more than 13.4 billion light-years from Earth. Hubble generates about 10 terabytes of new data per year. The total archive is currently over 340 TB in size. Hubble weighed about 24,000 pounds at launch but if returned to Earth today would weigh about 27,000 pounds — on the order of two full-grown African elephants. Hubble's primary mirror is 2.4 meters (7 feet, 10.5 inches) across. It was so finely polished that if you scaled it to be the diameter of the Earth, you would not find a bump more than 6 inches tall. Hubble is 13.3 meters (43.5 feet) long — the length of a large school bus.

Going home that early was a huge disappointment for Jeremy because he had not enjoyed himself. However, what he did was what his daughter had asked. Returning home disappointed, he did what he had been told. Thought it disappointed Jeremy that his daughter wanted to be back home, he went home with his daughter despite the fact that he did not want to come back home that early. Greatly disappointed, Jeremy came back home as he was demanded/asked/told/ordered/requested.

why this was so 作 asked 的直接宾语，这是固定用法，意为 " 为什么会这样 ?", 口语中经常用 why so?; this 可以作主语，也可以作宾语，so 只能作宾语，放在动词后面：I think so. I hope so. I guess so. Do so. I expect so. to do so.

句中的 laughing at him 现在分词短语，作不定式短语 to see 中宾语 people 的宾语补足语；like to do sth 喜欢做某事 (一次性行为); like doing 喜欢做某事 (习惯性行为); see sb doing sth 看见某人正在作某事；laugh v. 欢笑 发笑；laugh at 嘲笑 取笑 = make fun of, mock, tease, pull one's leg; make an exhibition of oneself 出洋相 当众出丑；laughter n. 笑声 欢笑；laughing stock 笑柄 笑料；

He asked her: "Why haven't you enjoyed the speech?". Jenny told him that :"I don't like to see so many people laughing at you!". She had not enjoyed it because she did not like to see so many people laughing at him. With Jeremy being the laughing stock of the party, to prevent him from being forever mocked by all those people who attended the wedding reception, Jenny asked him to go home with her. with a plan for a twenty-one-mile tunnel under the English Channel.

状 ← 后置定语修饰 plan ← 后置定语修饰 tunnel tunnel n. 地道 隧道 (地下); channel n. 海峡 通道 信道 渠道 水道 航道 (地上); canal n. 运河 沟渠 水道 灌溉渠；注意在 " 数词 - 名词 - 形容词 " six-year-old, " 数词 - 名词 " twenty-one-mile，这种形式的复合形容词中，名词采用单数形式；plan v. 计划 打算 设计 策划 n. 计划 方案 打算；

In 1858, with Aimé Thomé de Gamond, a French engineer's arrival in England came with a plan for constructing a twenty-one-mile-long tunnel which was under the English Channel. In 1858, Aimé Thomé de Gamond, a French engineer came to England and planned to build an underwater tunnel that was as long as twenty-one miles and right beneath the English Channel.

185B 年，一位名叫埃梅·托梅·德·干蒙的法国工程师带着建造一条长 21 英里、穿越英吉利海峡的隧道计划到了英国。

He said that it would be possible to build a platform in the centre of the Channel.

主 谓 引 形主 系 表 主语 状 possible adj. 可能的 有可能；impossible adj. 不可能的 难处理的；build-built-built v. 建造 创建 开发；platform n. 平台 站台 月台；in the centre of 在 ... 中央；centre n. 中心 中央 正中 v. 居中 集中 聚集，注意 centre 的拼写，centre = center; central adj. 中心的 中央的 首要的 主要的；

He said that:" It will be possible to build a platform in the centre of the Channel." He said that to build a platform in the middle of the Channel was possible. He said that the construction of a platform which was centered in the Channel was with a high possibility.

This platform would serve as a port and a railway station.

主 谓 宾 1 连 宾 2

would serve 过去将来时 [would/should do] 从过去的某一时间来看将来要发生的动作或呈现的状态；serve v. 服务 提供 接待 担任；serve as 用作 充当 作为 担任 当作 ..., 作为 .. 来服务，起 ... 作用 = serve for, work as, employ as; port n. 港口；railway station 火车站；

他说，可以在隧道中央建造一座平台，这座平台将用作码头和火车站。

The tunnel would be well-ventilated if tall chimneys were built above sea level.

主 系 表 引 定→ 主语 谓 | 被动语态 状

ventilate v. 通风 使通气 换气；ventilation n. 通风 换气 通风装置；well-ventilated adj. 有良好的通风条件；well + 动词过去分词构成复合形容词：well-done, well-known, well-written, well-read, well-designed, well-behaved, well-adjusted, well-balanced...; above prep. 在 ... 上方，在海拔上高；chimney n. 烟囱 烟道；sea level 海平面；level n. 水平 级别 层次 程度 v. 对准 使平坦 使平整 夷平 adj. 平坦的 等高的 地位相同的；level off 达到平衡 趋向平稳 稳定；level up 扯平 快速升级；lever n. 杆 手段 手柄；leverage n. 杠杆 杠杆作用 影响力；

Not only would this platform serve as a port but also be deployed as a railway station. Tall chimneys built above sea level would ventilate the tunnel well. With the construction of tall chimneys (that were) above sea level, there would be no ventilation problem in the tunnel. To solve the supposed ventilation problem, he presented a plan to build a slew of tall chimneys above sea level.

如果再建些伸出海面的高大的烟囱状通风管，隧道就具备了良好的通风条件。

By building a double railway tunnel beneath the Channel, the problem of ventilation would be dealt/solved because with a train entering the tunnel fast, fresh air would be drawn in by the train itself. William Low's solution to the problem of ventilation was to construct a double railway tunnel. Without constructing tall chimneys above sea level, the tunnel would not still be well-ventilated only if they would double the tunnel and make it two because there would be fresh air behind a train when it went into the tunnel. With a better plan that the authorities should build a double railway tunnel, the ventilation problem would not exist because of the fresh air which was generated by a train taking a fast speed into the tunnel. In order to solve the ventilation problem, a double railway tunnel should be built because when a train entered it, fresh air would go along closely behind it.

因为如果有一列火车开进隧道，它就把新鲜空气随之抽进了隧道。

Twenty-six years later in 1989, with the accidental rediscovery of the rare plane in an aerial survey of the island, at that time, not only was it in good state but was worthy of saving. Someone surveyed the island aerially after twenty-six years' time and during which by pure chance the rare plane was discovered accidentally. The plane by that time's judgement standard was rare and the rescue of it was worth doing. By the time the plane was rediscovered in an aerial survey of the island, it had been twenty-six years after it's crash. Miraculously, not only did the plane survive the crash but also in fantastic condition with the wreck undisturbed for twenty-six years. An aerial survey of the island led to the rediscovery of the rare plane which was in good order.

Grammar in use | 语法 表语形容词 Predicative Adjectives

★★★表语形容词指的是那些只能作表语，这类形容词一般不能单独置于名词之前作前置定语，可以作后置定语，其含义往往相当于一个关系分句，亦可用作宾语补足语或在被动结构中作主语补足语；

1). 在句中充当表语：The boy is alive.

2). 不能单独置于名词之前作前置定语：
对：a boy alive/sleep ！错：an alive/asleep boy

3). 可以作后置定语，其含义相当于一个关系从句：
The boy alive is my brother.
The boy who is alive is my brother.
alive = who is alive

4). 作宾语补足语或在被动语态中作主语补足语：
主动语态：The boy kept the fish alive. ←宾语补足语
被动语态：The boy is kept alive. ←主语补足语

5). 在句中还可以作状语：
Afraid of being caught in deep water, the boy does not swim.

6). 可以与某些介词，不定式搭配，有的还可接 that 从句：
The sky is alive with colourful clouds.
He is ashamed that he is unable to swim.

此外，常见的搭配还有：alive with/to, alight with, ablaze with, aflame with, awake to, afraid of (to do/that), ahead of, aware of/that, alike to, alone in, ashamed of (to do/for/that)...

表语形容词的修饰语

表语形容词一般情况下不能像其他形容词一样被 very 修饰，而只能用 very much, fast, all, well 等词修饰；特别需要注意的是修饰语与表语形容词之间的许多习惯搭配。

表语形容词都可用 very much 或 much 修饰；very much 是 much 的加强语气的说法；在实际运用中，用 very much 远比用 much 普遍；习惯上用 very much 修饰的此类形容词常见的有 alike, aloof, aware, asleep, alone, afraid, aglow, alive 等：
The two boys are very much alike. 这两个男孩非常相像。
He is very much aware of the gravity of not being able to swim. 他十分明白不会游泳的严重性。 fast 习惯上用以修饰 asleep, aground 等词，意为 " 完全地 紧紧地 ":

The boy is fast asleep. 那个男孩睡的很香。
The boat is fast aground. 小船搁浅了，完全动弹不得。

习惯还用 all, quite 修饰 alone, wide 修饰 awake, deep, fast, sound 修饰 asleep:
The boy is all alone, with no one around him.
The boy is still very wide awake despite the lateness of the hour. 尽管夜已深，那个男孩仍毫无睡意。
The boy is deep/sound asleep. 那个男孩正在熟睡。

现代英语中，可以用 very 修饰 alike 以及其他一些描述心理状态和感受的形容词，如 afraid, aloof, ashamed:
The boy is very afraid of swimming.
The boy is very ashamed that he can not swim.

Meeting Nigel is the last thing I want to do. I never fancy/like/appreciate/enjoy being around Nigel who always has nothing to do. Nigel always seems to be doing nothing and he is very much fond of everyone's company as long as he is allowed to follow them and, of course, correspondingly the being followed shows no sign of reluctance or unwillingness. However fully occupied you are, he constantly persists/perseveres in going with you. He is often insistent that you should be accompanied by him no matter where you are heading to. With nothing to do, he fancies following people around all the time.

I lied that I was going to the dentist. Grudgingly, I said I did not mind him following me to the dentist. I tried to get myself out of that situation by lying that I was heading to the dentist. Having lied that I was going to somewhere like the dentist, I had to pay a visit to the dentist nevertheless. The dentist could not be happier to accept me and equally with Nigel who often reads something at the waiting room of the dentist's establishment. However, there is nothing wrong with my teeth and I have to think of a way of preventing Nigel from stalking me in ways that are polite and do not offend Nigel. By close collaboration with the dentist who seems to know my dilemma, I am able to slip away from the back door of the dentist's office without Nigel knowing my departure.

Very much pleased with my driving, the examiner said with a smile that there was one last thing that needed to be done and supposed that all of a sudden a child rushed out in front of your car and you had to put a stop to your car within five feet.

主考人对我的驾驶想必是满意的，因为他微笑着说："埃姆斯先生，只剩 1 项了。让我们假设一个小孩子突然在你前面穿过马路。"

As soon as I tap on the window, you must stop within five feet.'

引 主 谓 状 主 谓 状

as soon as 一 ... 就 ...= the moment, once; tap v. 轻拍 轻敲 轻叩 n. 水龙头 轻拍 轻敲；within five feet 在 5 英尺内；within prep. 不出 在 ... 之内：inside the range or limits of sth ≠ beyond, over, more than 超出 超过；

The examiner told me to assume that a child would unexpectedly go across the road hurriedly in front of my car. I would have to stop my car within the range/limits of five feet when the examiner tapped on the window. Once the examiner made a sound by tapping on the window, the car must be stopped no farther than five feet.

我一敲车窗，你必须把车停在 5 英尺之内。

I continued driving and after some time, the examiner tapped loudly.

react v. 反应 回应；reaction n. 反应 回应；although, though conj. 虽然 尽管 然而 即使，引导让步状语从句 = even though, despite the fact that; despite prep. 尽管 即使 = in spite of, regardless of;

Although he tapped loudly on the window, I did not react quickly enough and soon after I was told that the fictitious child had been killed by me. I spent a little more time to produce an immediate reaction which, as the examiner said, led to the killing of the child. Despite the fact that the sound was made not only loudly but clearly as well, I found it hard to make a proper reaction with it just in time. In spite of the sound which was made clearly and loudly by the examiner tapping on the window, I missed the target range of five feet within. As a result, the examiner told me that because of my slow response, I was responsible for the death of the imaginary child who had been killed by my car.

虽然声音听得很清楚，但我过了好一会儿才作出反应。

I suddenly pressed the brake pedal hard and we were both thrown forward.

Grammar in use | 语法 英语中不带 to 的不定式

动词不定式的一般形式是 "to ＋动词原形 ", 但在下面情况中 to 要省略：

1). 在 感 官 动 词 see, hear, watch, notice, observe, feel, look at, listen to: listen to sb do sth
I heard you sing last night.

2). 使役动词 make, let, have 等后作宾语补足语的动词不定式要省略 to; 以上情况如果用于被动语态时，不定式符号 to 一定要补回：
Let's go together.
I saw him get on a bus.
He was seen to get on a bus by me.
My mother made me learn English.
I was made to learn English.

3). 在动词 help 后作宾语补足语的动词不定式符号 to 可带可不带：
My mother often help me (to) study English.

4). 在 had better, would rather, would sooner, would as soon, may/might as well, can not... but, can not help but 之后，跟不带 to 的动词不定式： had better 应该 最好还是 would rather, would sooner, would as soon 宁愿 宁可 宁肯 may/might as well 不妨 倒不如 最好 can't help but 不由得 不得不 不能不 无法不 = have to
!!! can't help doing sth 禁不住做某事 情不自禁做某事 忍不住做某事
I had better study English hard.
I would rather study English.
I might as well study English.
I would rather not know you. 我宁愿不认识你。
We might as well take a walk since it is sunny now.
天气晴朗，我们不妨走走。
I can't help but learn English. 我不得不学英语。
I can't help falling in love with you. 我情不自禁爱上你。

5). 当两个或两个以上的动词不定式并列使用时，通常只有第一个不定式前带 to, 第二个及以后的不定式可省略 to:
I want to read and write English words.

6).Will/Would you please ＋不带 to 的不定式：
Would you please speak louder.

7). 当不定式作介词 but, except 的宾语，表示 " 除了 ... 不 / 没有做 ..." 时，不定式要省略 to:
I do nothing but watch TV on sundays.
I don't want to do anything except sleep.

8). 在 rather than 和 sooner than (置于句首) 后：
Rather than learn English, I watched my mother write a letter.
我宁愿看我母亲写信也不愿学英语。

9). 在 "why, why not" 结构中：
Why not study English now? 为什么现在不学英语呢？

By close collaboration with the Egyptian museum, a group of scientists and doctors recently operated on one of the most prized female Egyptian mummy in the museum who supposed to be a singer and sang songs at the Temple of Thebes. They carefully transported the mummy to a modern laboratory where they could conduct a thorough examination of the mummy using state-of-the-art cutting-edge equipments - the X-ray machine. From the X-ray plates taken of the mummy, they could tell that there were peculiar marks all over her body. The doctors attempted to ascertain the reason why she died at a very early age. The truth-finding journey proved to be arduous because of the hard skin covered with thick resin. Nonetheless, they were able to cut off a small piece of the mummy and had it delivered to a special laboratory. During the operation, they also discovered a cow-like wax figure which was not shown on the X-ray plates. Placing a tinny wax figure inside a mummy's body was a common practice in the ancient time. So far so good, the doctors and scientists have not yet reached an universal multilateral concensus on the exact cause of the mummy's sudden abrupt death/demise. They could not do a further in-depth operation on the mummy because they were afraid that if they did so, the mummy would break to pieces. The people from the museum tried their best to prevent it from falling apart bit by bit. Luckily, this has not realized. The mummy survived the whole operation and later it was sent back to the museum by a fleet of cars with police standing guard. All in all, the scientific research of the mummy was a great success. By doing so, the mummy can tell us more about herself as a person, not just as those faraway untouchable exhibits which alienate themselves to the contemporary people. We are now able to associate ourselves with the mummy who lived ages ago with a more humane attitude.

Lesson 78 The last one? 最后一支吗？

First listen and then answer the question.

For how long did the writer give up smoking?

After reading an article entitled 'Cigarette Smoking and Your Health' I lit a cigarette to calm my nerves.

时间状语 =after 引导的时间状语从句 ←过去分词短语作后置定语修饰 article(英语中书名用引号) 主 谓 宾 状

article n. 文章 冠词 条款；title n. 标题 头衔 职称 v. 加标题；entitle v. 给 ... 命名或题名 授权 使有资格；an article entitled... 题名为 ... 的文章；entitle to 给 ... 权利 赋予 ... 做；entitlement n. 应得的权利 有权得到的东西 权利资格；disentitle v. 剥夺权利 剥夺官衔；calm v. 使镇静；calm down 镇定下来；nerve n. 神经 勇气 胆量；nervous adj 神经紧张的；lose one's nerve 失去勇气；light-lit-lit v. 点燃 点火；lit 是 light 的过去式 lighted adj. 被点燃的 燃烧的 灯火通明的 灯光照亮的；alight adj. 容光焕发 燃烧 着火 点亮的 兴奋；

★ after doing 介词后动词要变成现在分词短语，在做某事之后；after being done 是 after doing 的被动语态现在时形式，仅仅强调一个动作被做；after having been done 是 after having done 的被动语态完成时形式，强调动作先完成再开始；

读完一篇题为《吸烟与健康》的文章之后，我点上了一枝香烟，来镇定一下自己紧张的神经。

I smoked with concentration and pleasure as I was sure that this would be my last cigarette.

主 谓 状 引 主 系 表 引 主 系 前置定语→ 表 concentrate v. 聚精会神 全神贯注 浓缩；concentrate on 集中精力做某事 + doing sth; concentration n. 集中 专心 专注力 浓度 专心地 聚精会神；pleasure n. 愉悦 愉快 乐事；确信 深信：be sure of + n., be sure to do sth, be sure that + 从句；as conj. 因为 = for, cause, because, since;

Having read an article on the relationship between smoking and personal health, with pleasure, I concentrated on smoking my last cigarette which surely would be my last one for the last time.

我聚精会神而又愉快地吸着这枝烟。因为我确信这是我最后一枝烟了。

For a whole week I did not smoke at all and during this time, my wife suffered terribly.

状 主 谓 状 连 状 主 谓 状 suffer v. 受苦 受害 遭受 蒙受 受难；suffer from 受害于 受...之苦；suffer for 因 ... 而遭受恶果；suffering n. 苦难 灾害 受难 疾苦；terribly adv. 非常 很 非常地 很厉害地 = extremely, awfully, dreadfully, appallingly, enormously, incredibly, tremendously, exceedingly;

整整一个星期我根本没有吸烟。在此期间，我妻子吃尽了苦头。

I had all the usual symptoms of someone giving up smoking: a bad temper and an enormous appetite.

主 谓 前置定语 → 宾 ← 逻辑主语 → 现在分词短语作介词 of 的宾语 冒号引出 symtoms 的同位语 usual adj. 常见的 通常的 寻常的；unusual adj. 不平常的 异常的 不正常；symptom n. 症状 征兆 病症；temper n. 脾气 情绪；keep one's temper 别发火；lose one's temper 发脾气；good-tempered adj. 好脾气的；enormous adj. 巨大的 大量的 庞大的；enormously adv. 非常 极其；appetite n. 胃口 食欲 强烈欲望；appetite for sth 关于 ... 的食欲 (表示的胃口仅对食物而言); an enormous appetite 食欲旺盛；give up 放弃 不再；give in 屈服 = yield to; give away 赠送 分发 泄露 出卖；give birth to 生育 引起 产生； of... 作后置定语修饰 symptoms; 介词 of 后跟现在分词短语 giving up smoking, 该现在分词短语有自己的逻辑主语 someone, 又充当 of 的宾语，所以该逻辑主语可以用宾格或名词所有格的形式：of someone giving up smoking, of someone's giving up smoking; 当非谓语动词有自己的逻辑主语时，有的语法书称其为独立结构；

I stopped smoking for a week and my wife received extremely uncountable sufferings because I had a bad temper and a large appetite. I smoked nothing for a week and my wife suffered from my bad temper and large appetite.

我具备了戒烟者通常表现出来的所有症状：脾气暴躁和食欲旺盛。

My friends kept on offering me cigarettes and cigars.

主 谓 间宾 直接宾语

To cut a long story short, as Brian mentioned, giving up smoking is the easiest thing he had ever done.

He himself has done it lots of times!

主 ←同位语 谓 宾 状 himself 作 he 的同位语，起强调作用；lots of times 许多次；

不管怎么说，正如布赖恩指出的那样，戒烟是世界上最容易的事情，他自己就已戒了很多次了！

Recently I suddenly stumbled upon an article in which it elaborated on the relationship between smoke and health with vivid pictures, statistics, controlled groups between smokers and non-smokers and numerous results from a long-term followed-up research. After thoroughly reading the article word by word, I was very nervous because, according to the standard of the article, I was considered to be a heavy smoker. The likelihood of me catching terminal lung cancer in the future was very high. I lit up my last cigarette to ease my timid nerves. I was adamant that it was my last one and I would never smoke again for the rest of my life. Because it was my last, I concentrated on smoking pleasantly with the article constantly lingering on my mind. For a total of seven days, I smoked nothing. During which, my wife had to endure all the usual symptoms concerning a smoker who gave up smoking. My bad temper was on and off with an enormous appetite. I was in a constant battle with my friends who did not hide their sinister plot to lure me into smoking again. To fend off their ill-minded temptation, I was always armed with a packet of sweets in my pocket. No matter when I produced the sweets as a weapon to weather down the urge to somke, they mocked at me with derision. This went on for a week until I was invited to a party. Everyone invited was smoking and that made me very anxious. When a friend of mine offered me a cigarette, I knew that all the efforts and sweat I spared during my non-smoking days had gone in vain. It was more than I could handle. I took one guiltily without any hesitation. No sooner had I lit it up than I was much more satisfied with the smoking. On seeing me smoking again, my wife was very delighted because she knew that things had returned to where it was. Nonetheless, giving up smoking was the easiest thing I have ever done. I shall do it repeatedly in the years to come.

Lesson 79 By air 乘飞机

First listen and then answer the question.

Why did the plane turn back?

I used to travel by air a great deal when I was a boy.

主 谓 状 状 引 主 系 表

★★★ #used to do sth, 过去经常做某事，而现在已经停止，不再重复的动作，这里的 to 是不定式，而不是介词，所以其后只接动词原形，不能接动名词；be used to sth/doing sth 习惯于某事 / 做某事，这里的 to 是介词，所以其后要接名词或动名词，不能接动词原形，若要强调从不习惯到习惯的过程，用 get, become 等代替动词 be; be used to do sth 被用来做某事，这里的 to 是不定式，所以其后要接动词原形 = be used for doing sth; be used as sth 被作为 ... 用；be used by sb 被某人使用；a great deal 很多 作状语 修饰 travel；by air/plane 乘飞机；

我在幼年的时候，曾多次乘飞机旅行。

My parents used to live in South America and I used to fly there from Europe in the holidays.

主 谓 状 连 主 谓 状 状 状

parent n. 父 / 母亲；fly there = go there by air/plane; South America 南美；North America 北美；Europe n. 欧洲；European adj. 欧洲的；

I am accustomed to travelling by plane now because I have done it many times. In the past, but not now, I habitually flew there from Europe in the holidays. With my parents living in South America, I habituated myself to going there on planes.

我的父母曾经住在南美洲，所以假期里我常从欧洲乘飞机到他们那里。

A flight attendant would take charge of me and I never had an unpleasant experience.

前置定语→ 主 谓 宾 连 主 状 谓 前置定语 → 宾 flight n. 飞行 班机 航程；attendant n. 服务员 侍者 随从；flight attendant 空中乘务员；air hostess 女乘务员 空中小姐；take charge/care of 照顾 看管 = look after, watch over, care for, see to, attend to; unpleasant experience 不愉快的经历；pleasant adj. 舒适的 快乐的 讨人喜欢的 宜人的 ≠ unpleasant adj. 令人不快的 不舒服的；experience v. 体会 体验 经历 感受 n. 体验 经历 实践 阅历；

我总是由一位空中乘务员照管，从未遇到过不愉快的经历。

would do 和 used to do 两者都表示过去的习惯，当表示过去习惯性的动作时，可互换，但注意区分：1). would do 一般用来表示过去反复进行的动作或表示过去某时间的意志，愿望和决心，而 used to do 则既可以表示过去反复发生的动作，也可以表示某种状态；2). would do 表示过去某一段时间常发生的事，一般要接具体的时间做状语，而 used to do 一般不一定要接具体时间做状语；3). would do 往往强调过去的一种可能性，而不暗示现在的情况，而 used to do 强调过去常这样干，而现在不干了，强调今惜对比；4). would 作 will 的过去式，表示过去的一种意愿或将要做的事情，意思为 " 将会 ", 而 used to 无此意义；5). would 有时也可用来指现在，表示一种委婉，客气的请求，对于用它来提问题的回答，须用 will, 不能用 would, 而 used to 无此意义及用法；6). would do 一般接表示动作的动词，不能与表示状态或情感，意识方面的词连用，而 used to do 无此限制；7). used to do 往往强调事实，而 would do 常带有主观上的感情的色彩；8). #used to 既是情态动词又是实义动词，含 used to do 的句子，变为否定句或疑问句时，既可在 used 后加 not, 或将 used 提到句首，也可在 used to 前面加 didn't, 或在句首加 did, 同时将 used to 改为 use to;

I am used to travelling by air and only on one occasion have I ever felt frightened.

主 谓 宾 状 连 状 状 系 主 状 系 表

be/get/become used to doing sth 习惯于做某事，这里 to 是介词，后接 名词 代词 动名词短语；frightened adj. 害怕的 担惊的；

★倒装句：如果 only 加上一个状语放在句首，那么就要用倒装语序 - 即把肯定句语序变成一般疑问句语序：It is only in recent years that it gained a bad reputation. Only in recent years did the tree gain a bad reputation. Only in this way can we learn English.

我习惯了乘飞机旅行，只是有一次把我吓坏了。

fortunately adv. 幸运地 = luckily; fortunate adj. 幸运的 侥幸的：it is fortunate that ...; unfortunate adj. 不幸的 倒霉的 令人遗憾的 可惜的；

Someone had told the police that a bomb had been placed on the plane, but, after the plane had been searched thoroughly, they found nothing suspicious. Five hours later, it took off again. Because the police had been told that there was a bomb on the plane, the plane was combed inside out. However, nothing was discovered, so, five hours later, after the long delay, it took off again.

幸运的是，什么也没有找到。5 个小时后，我们又起飞了。

When I was young, I often travelled to places by air. Soon I got used to travelling on planes. My parents used to settle down in South Africa and I had to go there by air from Europe during holidays. There were flight attendants looking after me always and never had I experienced a single unpleasant incident. Only in one case had I been frightened. No sooner had the plane taken off than it was ordered to go back to the airport. We were still flying low over the city and the height began to accumulate. The plane then immediately took a drastic turn and flew back to the airport. During our waiting, one of the flight attendants told us that we had to calm down and disembark after landing. On touching down, we did what we had been asked. Worried, everyone was wondering what had happened. Soon after, we discovered that, allegedly, told by a policeman, on the plane there was a bomb which had been placed in advance and to make the matter worse, a person with much more importance was on board with us. The plane was combed thoroughly and fortunately nothing suspicious was identified. Soon we were able to restart our journey with the very important person left behind. Though the man was adamant that he should fly with us on the same plane, the police would not allow him to take the chance. Concerning his personal safety, he then took another plane unaccompanied.

With so many visitors arriving by boat and train, it was possible to build colleges and museums from the profits. The Great Exhibition attracted thousands of visitors worldwide who travelled by boat and train. Later, colleges and museums were built from the profits. The government profited from the Exhibition and later they built colleges and museums using the money they collected. The event was so profitable that they were able to fund the constructions of colleges and museums.

Lesson 82 Monster or fish? 是妖还是鱼？

First listen and then answer the question.

What was the monster called?

Fishermen and sailors sometimes claim to have seen monsters in the sea.

主 连 主 状 谓 不定式短语作宾语 | 完成式 ← 后置定语

fisherman n. 渔夫；sail v. 起航 航行；sailor n. 海员；★ to have seen 是动词不定式 to see 的完成时结构，表示已经见过，作 claim 的宾语；一般式主动 to do, 一般式被动 to be done, 完成式主动 to have done, 完成式被动 to have been done;

claim /kleɪm/ n. 索赔 宣称 声明 断言 要求 主张 所有权 v. 声称 认领 索取 获得 赢得 导致死亡 acclaim /ə'kleɪm/ v. 拥护 喝彩 称赞 称誉 誉为 n. 赞扬 欢呼 欢迎 declaim /dɪ'kleɪm/ v. 巧辩 雄辩 演说 朗诵 高谈阔论 disclaim /dɪs'kleɪm/ v. 公开否认 拒绝承认 放弃 弃权 不承认	reclaim /rɪ'kleɪm/ n. 开垦 改造 取回 矫正 v. 开垦 感化 取回 拿回 收回 proclaim /prə'kleɪm/ v. 宣告 宣布 表明 声明 显示 公布 公告[非常正式] exclaim /ɪk'skleɪm/ v. 大声说 大声疾呼 呼喊 抗声道 counterclaim /'kaʊntəkleɪm/ n. 反诉 反索赔 v. 反诉

Fishermen and sailors sometimes have claimed that they have seen monsters in the sea. ←宾语从句；Fishermen and sailors have made numerous claims that a great many monsters have been seen in the sea. ←同位语从句 & 被动语态

渔夫和水手们有时声称自己看到过海里的妖怪。

Though people have often laughed at stories told by seamen,

引 主 谓 状 谓 宾 ← 后置定语

though, although 尽管，引导让步状语从句；laugh/mock at 嘲笑；seaman sailor n. 水手 海员；story n. 故事；history n. 历史；

it is now known that many of these 'monsters' which have at times been sighted are simply strange fish.

形主 谓 状 谓 | 被动 引 主 ← 后置定语 ←引 | 主 谓 状 谓 | 被动语态 系 状 前置定语 → 表

it 为形式主语，that 引导主语从句作本句真正的主语；which 引导定语从句修饰 monsters; monster n. 怪物 恶魔；demon n. 恶魔 魔鬼；★ monsters 用引号，表明这个词并非字面字义；sight v. 看见 瞄准 发现 n. 视力 情景 视域 风景；eye sight 视力；sightsee v. 观光 游览；sight-seeing, sightseeing n. 旅游观光；sightless adj. 盲目的 无视力的；short-sighted adj. 目光短浅的 无远见的；long-sighted adj. 远视的 有先见之明的 眼力好的；nearsighted adj. 近视的；farsighted adj. 有远见的 远视的 远见卓识的；★ at times 有时 = sometimes, from time to time, on occasion, now and then, now and again, every so often, occasionally;

Although people have often mocked at stories told by seamen claiming to have seen monsters in the sea, it is now known that these often sighted 'monsters' are simply strange fish. With people laughing at stories told by sailors, seamen have made a great many strong proofs that these strange fishes are truly monsters. Little did they know that these 'monsters' are nothing but common fishes which keep growing in a very agreeable environment with no predators around.

虽然人们常常对水手们讲的故事付诸一笑，但现在看来，人们有时看到的这些“妖怪”很多不过是些奇怪的鱼。

Occasionally, unusual creatures are washed to the shore, but they are rarely caught out at sea.

状 前置定语→ 主 谓 | 被动语态 状 连 主 谓 状 谓 | 被动 状 occasional adj. 偶尔的 偶然的；occasionally adv. 偶然地；creature n. 生物 动物；be washed/swept to 被冲到 ...; rarely adv. 极少地；catch-caught-caught v. 抓住 捕捉 捕获；out at sea 在远海；at sea 在海上 不知所措；by sea 乘船；

At times strong sea waves wash creatures which are not usual to the shore. However, people seldom catch them in the open sea.

一些异常的生物偶尔会被冲到岸上来，但它们在海上却极少能被捕到。

Some time ago, however, a peculiar fish was caught near Madagascar.

状 状 前置定语 → 主 谓 | 被动语态 状 peculiar adj. 奇怪的 不寻常的 古怪的 奇异的；peculiarly adv. 特别 很 不寻常地；peculiarity n. 怪癖 特点 特性；

然而不久前，在马达加斯加附近的海里却捕到了一条奇怪的鱼。

A small fishing boat was carried miles out to sea by the powerful fish as it pulled on the line.

fishing boat 渔船，现在分词作定语，修饰 boat; power n. 权力 力量 动力 能力 电源 v. 推动 快速前进；power grid 电力网；powerless adj. 无力的 无能为力的 软弱的 无权的；powerful adj. 有权势的 有影响力的 强有力的；empower v. 授权 赋权；empowerment n. 赋权 授权；women's empowerment 女性赋权；women's right 妇女权益；pull on the line 拖着渔线向前；pull on 继续拉；

A strange powerful fish was caught near Madagascar after having pulled a small fishing boat miles out to sea. With the powerful fish pulling on the line out to sea, sailors on a small fishing boat had a hard time to get the fish on board. Without the powerful fish pulling on the line out to sea, it would be easier for the sailors on a tinny fishing boat to catch it.

一条小渔船被一条咬住钩的强壮的大鱼拖到了几英里以外的海面上。

Realizing that this was no ordinary fish, the fisherman made every effort not to damage it in any way.

museum n. 博物馆；examine v. 检验 审查 调查 考察；scientist n. 科学家；oarfish n. 桨鱼；which 引导非限性定语从句修饰 fish; where 引导限定性定语从句修饰 museum;

此鱼叫桨鱼，被送进了博物馆，现正接受一位科学家的检查。

Such creatures have rarely been seen alive by man as they live at a depth of six hundred feet.

前定→ 主 谓 状 谓 | 被动语态 主补 状 引 主 谓 状

alive adj. 活着的，作主语 creatures 的补足语；as 引导原因状语从句 = for, since, because; they 指 creatures; at a depth of 在 ... 的深度；

The fish, which was more than thirteen feet long with a horse-like head, was sent to a museum. On being brought to shore, the fish was found to be over and above thirteen feet long and to have a head like a horse. At a museum, it is being examined by a scientist, who said that it was an oarfish and such creatures live at a depth of six hundred feet. Now that it has been sent to a museum, a scientist is examining the fish, which, by the scientist's own word, is an oarfish which can only be seen alive six hundred feet deep. With the fish being examined by a scientist, now we know that only under six hundred feet deep water can the creatures as such be seen alive. It is at a depth of six hundred feet that creatures as such can only be seen alive.

人们很少能看到活着的这类动物，因为它们生活在 600 英尺深的水下。

Lesson 85 Never too old to learn 活到老学到老

First listen and then answer the question.

How long has Mr. Page been teaching?

I have just received a letter from my old school,

主 谓 状 谓 宾 ← 后置定语

receive a letter from 收到 ... 的来信 = hear from; informing me that my former headmaster, Mr. Stuart Page, will be retiring next week.

宾语补足语 引 前置定语 → 主 ← 同位语 谓 状

★ informing me ...week. 现在分词短语作宾语 letter 的宾语补足语；that 引导宾语从句作 informing 的直接宾语 (me 间接宾语); inform v. 通知 通告 知会；Keep me informed 请随时告知我；information n. 信息 资料 情报 资讯；informational adj. 信息的；informative adj. 提供有用信息的 给予知识的；informant n. 线人 提供消息者 告密者；informal adj. 非正式的；formal adj. 正式的；former adj. 前任的 以前的 = ex; headmaster n. 校长（多指男性）= principal；headmistress n. 女校长；headman n. 首领 酋长 组长 工头；headteacher n. 班主任；headphone n. 耳机；★ will be retiring 将来进行时 [will/shall be doing] 按计划在未来要发生的动作 ≈ be going to do, will do;

❝ I have just had a letter from my old school in which it informed me that my former principal, Mr. Stuart Page, is going to retire next week. From a letter which was sent to me from my old school, I have been informed that my former principal, Mr. Stuart Page, will retire next week. From the information in a letter, I learnt the news that my former principal is planning to retire next week.

我刚刚收到母校的一封信，通知我说以前的校长斯图亚特·佩奇先生下星期就要退休了。

Pupils of the school, old and new, will be sending him a present to mark the occasion.

主 ← 后置定语 pupils 的同位语 谓 间宾 直接宾语 状

pupil n. 小学生 弟子 瞳孔 门生；pupil 指中小学的学生；student 通指所有的学生；old and new 作 pupils 的同位语，由并列连词连接的两个形容词作定语时，要放在所修饰词之后，这里 old and new 可以理解成名词，意为：old pupils and new pupils; present n. 礼物 = gift; mark the occasion 纪念这个日子；mark v. 纪念 = commemorate 评分 注意 标示 n. 记号 成绩 目标 符号；

❝ To commemorate/mark his retirement, a gift will be being sent to my former principal by students who are currently learning at the school and who used to do so. A present will be being sent to him as a token of gratitude for his patience and understanding and for the kindly encouragement he gave us at times when we were not willing to go to school.

为了纪念这个日子，学校的学生——无论老同学还是新同学——将送他一件礼物。

All those who have contributed towards the gift will sign their names in a large album

定→ 主 ←主 谓 状 谓 宾 状

tribute n. 贡品 贡物 悼念 颂词 致哀；tributary adj. 纳贡的 从属的；★ contribute (vi.) towards /to sth 为 ... 捐款 (有钱的出钱 ...); contribute v. 捐助 有助于 促成 贡献 增加 增进；contributor n. 捐赠者 贡献者；contribution n. 贡献 捐款 捐赠 稿件；distribute v. 分发 分配 分销 分散；distributer n. 分发者 销售商；distribution n. 配送 发行 配销；distributable adj. 可分配 可供分配的；distributive adj. 经销的 分销的 分布式；sign their names 签名；sign n. 符号 信号 表示 招牌 v. 签名 签署 叹息 预示；signature n. 签名 签字 签署 署名；album n. 签名薄 相册；gift n. 礼物 赠品 = present; gifted adj. 有天才的 有天赋的 = talented, clever;

which will be sent to the headmaster's home.

←引 | 主 谓 | 被动语态 状

send-sent-sent v. 送 送出 传送 投；双宾语 send sb sth = send sth to sb；

❝ Now that/because my former headmaster, Mr. Stuart Page, is retiring, pupils of the school will be sending him a gift and an album with the signatures of all those who have made contribution to the present. Not only will pupils of the school be sending him a gift but also an album with their signatures in it. Mr. Stuart Page is going to receive a gift along with an album in which there are signatures of those pupils who have made the contribution to the gift.

所有凑钱买此礼品的人都将把自己的名字签在一本大签名簿上，签名簿将被送到校长的家里。

We shall all remember Mr. Page for his patience and understanding

主 谓 同 谓 宾 状

remember ...for... 记住 ... 的 ...; patience n. 耐心；patient adj. 耐心的 n. 患者；understanding n. 理解 了解 谅解 领悟； and for the kindly encouragement he gave us when we went so unwillingly to school.

连 状 ←主 谓 宾 引 主 谓 状 状 courage n. 勇气 勇敢 无畏 胆量；courageous adj. 勇敢的 无畏的；courageously adv. 勇敢地 无畏地；encourage v. 鼓励 激励 促进 助长 怂恿 鞭策；encouragement n. 鼓励 鼓舞 怂恿 赞助；encouragingly adv. 鼓舞人心地；discourage v. 阻止 劝阻 阻拦 使泄气 使气馁；discouragement n. 泄气 挫折 灰心 阻止；so unwillingly 很不愿意地，放在 went 和 to school 之间，使句子更紧凑；be willing/unwilling to do sth 心甘情愿 / 不愿做某事；willingly adv. 情愿地 ≠ unwillingly adv. 不情愿地；

我们不会忘记佩奇先生对我们既有耐心又充满理解，也不会忘记在我们不愿去上学时他给予我们的亲切鼓励。

A great many former pupils will be attending a farewell dinner in his honour next Thursday.

前置定语 → 主 谓 宾 ← 后置定语 状

a great many 许多 很多 = a lot of, lots of; former pupils 以前的学生 老同学；attend v. 参加 出席；attendance n. 参加 出席 出勤 出勤率；farewell n. 告别 辞行 adj. 告别的；a farewell dinner 告别宴会；honour n. 敬意 = honor; ★ in one's honour, in honour of... 向 ... 表示敬意；

Many former pupils will attend a farewell dinner in honour of a man who has completed forty years' teaching. Many former pupils will take part in a farewell dinner in honour of my former principal, Mr. Stuart Page, who has devoted himself to teaching for forty years, who generously gave his pupils the patience, understanding and kindly encouragement they desperately needed at times when they were unwilling to go to school. ←本句由两个 who 引导的并列定语从句修饰 principal, 并与上一句结合，注意看表达方式；

很多老同学都准备参加下星期四为他举行的告别宴会。

It is a curious coincidence that the day before his retirement,

形主 系 前置定语→ 表 引 状

curious adj. 好奇的 奇异的 古怪的；curiosity n. 好奇心 求知欲；★ it is a curious coincidence that ... 真是奇异的巧合；coincidence n. 巧合；curious coincidence 纯属巧合；incidence n. 发生率 发生范围 影响程度；incident n. 事故 小事件；accident n. 意外事件 意外事故 偶然；the day before 前一天；retirement n. 退休；retire v. 退休；it 在主句中作形式主语，本句的真正主语是 that 引导的主语从句 [句子作主语];

Mr. Page will have been teaching for a total of forty years.

主 谓 状

★ will have been teaching 将来完成进行时 [will/shall have been doing] 到将来某时间点之前一直在进行的动作；a total of forty years 总共 40 年；a total of 总共；total adj. 总的 总计的 全体的 全部的 n. 总数 总额 合计 v. 总数达 共计；total amount 总金额；total control 全面控制；total income 总收入；★ in total 总共 总计 = all in all, overall, in sum, in all, altogether; totally adv. 完全地；totality n. 全体 全部 整体性；

佩奇先生退休的前一天正好是他执教满 40 年的日子，这真是奇妙的巧合。

After he has retired, he will devote himself to gardening.

引 主 谓 主 谓 宾 状

devote v. 献身 致力于 奉献；devote oneself to 献身于 致力于 专心于，★ to 在这里是介词，后接名词或动名词；devotion n. 奉献 忠诚 挚爱 专心；devotional adj. 虔诚的；garden n. 花园 公园 庭园；gardening n. 园艺；gardener n. 花匠 园艺工；

After his retirement, he will devote himself to a career as a devotional gardener. Just before the exact day of his retirement, coincidentally, Mr. Page will have been working at the same school and teaching for entire forty years.

他退休后，将致力于园艺。

For him, this will be an entirely new hobby.

状 主 系 前置定语 → 表

entire n. 全部 整体 adj. 全部的 整个的 完全的；entirely adv. 完全地 = completely, totally; hobby n. 爱好 嗜好；habit n. 习惯 嗜好；

But this does not matter, for, as he has often remarked, one is never too old to learn.

连 主 谓 引 引 主 谓 状 谓 主 系 状 表

do/does not matter 没有关系；for 引导的从句解释说明主句，for 后面有个逗号是因为这里插入了一个定语从句 as ... remarked, 这里 as 是关系代词，代替 "one is never too old to learn" 整个句子，作 remarked 的宾语；

★ too ...to... 太 ... 以致于不能：It is too hot for me to eat. 这太热了以致于我吃不了；not too ... to 不是太 ... 以致于能：It is not too late to say sorry. 说对不起还不太晚；这个句型听一首歌就学会了，Justin Bieber - 'Sorry', 歌词是：Is it too late to say sorry now? 现在说抱歉是否太晚？

After having worked for forty years as a teacher, Mr. Page will devote himself to gardening, which will be a new hobby for him, but it doesn't bother him, because he always says that one is never too old to learn. Though gardening will be a new hobby for him, this does not matter cause one is never too old to learn. Mr. Page will devote himself to gardening, which, as a totally new hobby, is not too hard for him to learn. Mr. Page is not too old to learn a new hobby.

对于他来说，这将是一种全新的爱好。但这没有关系，因为正如他常说的那样，人要活到老学到老。

If one has to choose three words to represent the soul of French people, the three words will be Liberty [自由 liberté] , Equality [平等 égalité] and Fraternity [博爱 fraternité]. If you type the word 'liberty' on your phone, the word will probably be replaced by a miniature picture with the Statue of Liberty in it. Do you know the history of this famous statue? Do you want to know the story behind the statue? I will give you a brief history lesson then. Here we go. The monument was presented to the US as a token of liberty in the nineteenth century by the French people. Designed by the sculptor Auguste Bartholdi, they spent ten years on the statue before it's completion. The metal framework which supported the statue was constructed by Eiffel. At that time before it could be sent to the States, they had to pick a place to build a solid fundation on which the statue could be reconstructed and then erected. They chose a place at the gate of New York Harbour. The construction of the statue was short-funded and they had to raise money to continue the work. To get enough fundings, they first had the statue stood up in Paris in 1884. Crowds of people came to see it and finally they collected enough money to complete the construction of the 151 feet tall statue by selling tickets. Via this way they were able to continue their work. The next year the statue was taken down parts by parts to transport it to the USA. Then the statue was pieced together at the chosen location and officially opened to the American people. Ever since the statue has served as a symbol of liberty to many people who come to America and pursue their dreams. This is the story behind the Statue of Liberty.

At a swimming pool in Los Angeles, children who are taught to hold their breath under water before they can walk often begin learning to swim when two months old. Though they can pick up weights from the bottom of the pool, the game they enjoy most is the underwater tricycle race. This takes place seven feet under water and while some children pedal their tricycles, others push or pull them. A few get across without coming up for air.

Scientists have conducted numerous experiments to examine whether children at very young age can be taught to swim. The results are promising and positive: children can learn how to swim when they are very young. In an experiment, a special-designed swimming pool is built in Los Angeles. Those youngsters grow to be seasoned experts in swimming with their breath holding up under water before they are able to walk. They are quite content to get in the water without any hesitation or reluctancy. They get used to swimming and they can even collect weights from the bottom of the pool. Tricycle race underwater is very popular among these young athletes. Tricycles are orderly placed on the floor of the pool, often seven feet under water. During the competition, these young competitors go against each other to be the first one covering the whole distance from one side of the pool to the other end. During which some of them do not get to the surface of the water for air. Whether they will compete with each other in an actual Olympic swimming pool when they grow old enough to take part in the Olympic game and be the champions is up for another debate. At the same time, those among us who can not swim five yards before yearning for air should not be discouraged by those youngsters' success because, at very young age, these children have become their role models.

You will be always in the spotlight and be respected by both your fellow countrymen and the natives. However being an Ambassador can be a hazardous occupation, especially, in a country that has unstable political structures. In a turbulent society, 'Law and Order' in a functional society seems to be beyond one's reach and under such circumstances, people are desperate to cling on anything that servers to their advantages lawful or unlawful. Let's take a look at another situation, say, your motherland doesn't get along with the country you are working in. You, as an Ambassador, act as a middleman. Being in the middle, you will have to face the full blow from both parties home and abroad, at the forefront of both parties' dispute. Here is a true story that may dim your wishful thinking towards Ambassadors. When a poor soul, working at the Embassy of Escalopia and acting as a Ambassador, went back home for lunch, his wife was much shocked to find that her beloved husband seemed to be in a frightful state with his face pale and his clothes messed up. She wanted him to give her a reasonable explanation for what had happened to him. The Ambassador lightly stated that a fire extinguisher was the only culprit to blame. Then he added that students from a university started the Embassy's fire. His wife was eager to know where he was at the time when the fire began. The Ambassador said he was working at his office as usual. The fire slowly licked it's way up to the ground from the basement. On seeing it, he at once went to the basement downstairs to conduct a thorough investigation. He ran downstairs and a foolish man called Horst pointed a fire extinguisher at him. He was so angry that he was planning to get the fool designated to somewhere far away from him. Then suddenly his wife noticed that there was a big hole in his hat and pointed at it. She was much worried about it and she demanded an explanation. In his speech, he explained that someone unknown fired a shot through his office window with an aim to shoot him instead. Fortunately, the aim was not accurate. Otherwise, he would not be able to get home for lunch. When it comes to become an Ambassador, the pors and cons are evenly distributed. Can you write an article in which you address all the possible issues that come with such an occupation? Would you like to be an Ambassador someday nonetheless? Are you capable of serving your country as an Ambassador? Now you are leaning English and strive for excellency. Maybe someday you will act as an Ambassador working at an English-spoken state, such as the US, UK or Canada. Let's get hope high. This is the rewrite of today's lesson. Have a great day, my fellow readers.

★ the dead 死人，有些形容词可以和定冠词 the 连用，表示某一类人：the rich 富人，the poor 穷人，the living 活着的人，the good, the bad, the old, the new; 形容词 + the, 表示 " 某一类 ", 要根据上下文去理解它的真实含义； for on this day, the dead are said to return to their homes and they are welcomed by the living.

引 状 主 谓 | 被动语态 状 连 主 谓 | 被动语态 状

for conj. 因为 = since, as, because, cause; are said to return 作复合谓语；be said 据说；welcome v.n. 欢迎；the living 活着的人；

People in Japan hold a cheerful festival once a year/yearly/annually and the elderly say that the dead will return to their homes on that day. Because it is said that the dead will come back home with their families that day, the festival celebrated by both the dead and the living is a cheerful one. On this yearly cheerful occasion, it is said that the dead and the living will live together for the day. The celebration of the return of the dead is held in Japan as a cheerful festival and the living expect the dead's annual comeback.

日本每年过一次“亡灵节”。这个节日是个欢乐的日子，因为在这一天，据说死去的人要回到他们的家里来，活看的人则对他们表示欢迎。

As they are expected to be hungry after their long journey, food is laid out for them.

引 主 谓 | 被动语态 主语补足语 状 主 谓 | 被动语态 状

as conj. 由于 因为 = for, since, because; expect v. 预期 料想；lay out 摆开 展示 摆设 = present, set out; layout n. 布局 规划 设计 版面设计；

The people who are alive lay out food because the expectation of the dead with an empty stomach is high. After the long journey back home, the dead is supposed to be hungry and the living present delicious nourishment outside to welcome them.

因为预料到他们在经过长途旅行之后会感到饥饿，所以为他们摆放好了食品。

Specially-made lanterns are hung outside each house to help the dead to find their way.

前置定语 → 主 谓 | 被动 状 目的状语 ← help 的宾语 宾语 the dead 的补足语

specially-made 合成形容词，由副词 + 过去分词构成：well-informed adj. 消息灵通的，so-called adj. 所谓的；lantern n. 灯笼；Lantern Festival 元宵节；Spring Festival n. 春节；Mid-Autumn Festival 中秋节；hang-hung-hung v. 悬挂；help sb do sth, help sb to do sth;

To assist the dead find their way home, the people who are alive hang lanterns which are made specially.

特制的灯笼挂在各家的门外，为的是帮助亡灵看清道路。

All night long, people dance and sing.

状 主 谓 连 谓

all night long 整夜 = all night, through/throughout the night, during the night, the whole night;

整个夜晚人们载歌载舞。

In the early morning, the food that had been laid out for the dead is thrown into a river or into the sea as it is considered unlucky for anyone living to eat it.

引 形主 谓 | 被动语态 主语补足语 状 ← 后定 主语

consider v. 认为 觉得；as 因为 = for, since, because; 主动语态：as people considered it unlucky for anyone living to eat it. 在这种情况下，to eat it 变成了真正的宾语，it 变成了形式宾语，unlucky 变成了宾语补足语；living 现在分词作后置定语修饰 anyone；

After dancing and singing throughout the night, earlier in the morning, the living dumped the food which is supposed to be eaten by the dead into rivers and sea cause people who live above regard food consumed by the people who live under as a bad luck. When the living get up in the early morning the following day after a night-long celebration, they discard the food eaten by the dead into rivers and sea since those who eat the dead's meal will have a bad luck throughout the year.

一大早，人们便把为死者摆放的食品扔进河中或海里，因为人们认为活着的人吃了这些东西是不吉利的。

引 主 谓 | 被动语态 状

不再 再也不 = not...anymore/any longer/any further, no longer, no more, anymore; they 指代 the lanterns;

There is no doubt that It is a touching moment that thousands of people set their feet on the bank of water and watch the lanterns floating away until they can no longer see them guiding the dead back to the other world. Watching thousands of people standing on the shore with the lanterns slowly drifting away, guiding the dead back to where they belong, is a quite memorable occasion which will last for a lifetime and one can never forget.

这是一个感人的场面，人们成群地伫立在海岸上，注视着灯笼远去，直到再也看不见为止。

People around the world have different customs. As a well-traveled tourist, Japan always gives me quite memorable experiences. On one occasion during my short visit to Japan, I celebrated a cheerful festival with the natives. The festival is, as it is said, celebrated by both the living and the dead. The living make specially-designed lanterns to guide the dead home. Food was presented outside for fearing that the dead may be hungry after the long journey back from the under world. Throughout the night of the day, I heard people singing and saw them dancing. In the early morning next day, the food outside was thrown into rivers and sea, because people were suspicious of the potential bad things which might happen to them after consuming the meal prepared for the dead. In places near the rivers and sea, hundreds of thousands of lanterns were carefully placed on the water and slowly they drifted away with the dead going back to where they had come from. The scene was spectacular with people standing at the water, lanterns floating far and beyond, guiding the dead back to the other world.

第七章 主谓一致 Principle Rules for Subject and Verb Agreement

I．单数主语：

1．当 every-, some-, any-, no- 等构成的不定代词及 each, either, neither 作主语时，谓语动词为单数。

Someone has told me about it.

Neither of us likes the film.

2．当 every 或 each 位于两个由连接词连接的单数主语前，谓语动词用单数。（必记之要点！）

Each girl and boy has a nickname.

Every man and woman is welcome.

3. 位于主谓之间的介词短语不影响谓语动词的数，谓语动词须和主语一致。常见介词短语有：in addition to, together with, as well as, along with, but, except, etc.

（这是一几乎所有考试都不愿放过的重点。）

The teacher along with his students is going to the party.

His parents as well as his elder sister have come to see him.

II．复数主语：

1．当主语由 and 或 both ... and 连接，通常采用复数谓语动词。

● Both thegirl and the boyare his friends.

2．如主语是 both, few 或主语前有 both, few, several, many 等限定词时，谓语动词须用复数。

● Several novels have been written by her.

● Both got the news at the same time.

3．下列名词总是复数形式且谓语动词必须用复数。 trousers, pants（裤子）, jeans, glasses, scissors（剪刀）, tweezers（镊子），plier（钳子）， scales （天平），compasses（圆规），etc.

● The trousers hereare mine.

别忘了：如果以上名词受 “a pair of” “the pair of”修饰时，谓语动词用单数。

The pair of pants is too dirty.

III．单、复数的灵活运用：

1．当主语由 neither... nor, either... or, not only ... but also 或 or 连接时，谓语动词与 nor, or, but also 后面的词一致，在英语语法中，这被称之为“就近原则”。

● Neither he nor I am going to the airport.

● Not only Mary but also her parents have gone abroad.

2．当主语前面有 none, all, some, any, most, half, majority 等词时，谓语动词则根据主语的具体情况而采用相应的单、复数。

All of the money has been in the bank. (money 是不可数名词)

All of us have been here.

3．“a number of”是复数，修饰可数名词，谓语动词为复数，“the number of”也修饰复数名词，但谓语动词用单数。（黄金要点！！）

● A number of students have passed the exam.

● The number of students in this class is 50.

IV. 用作单数的复数形式主语：

1．如主语是指：time, money, weight, volume, etc. 虽为复数形式，但谓语用单数形式。

Two years is a short time.

One hundred dollars is needed by me.

2．下列单词如：physics，economics，mathematics，statistics，etc；measles，mumps，herpes，etc，news，ethics，politics，etc. 为复数形式，但谓语动词用单数。

Statistics is a dull subject.

Politics is important.

3．书、报、杂志、电影的名称作主语，谓动用作单数。

The New York Times is a good newspaper.

V．下列名词在形式上保持不变，但谓语动词的数取决于其意义：

1．family，team，class，committee，group，audience，faculty，etc.

The family is big.（总体）

His family like to watch TV.（家庭所有成员）

2．species，series，etc.

The species is rare.

These species are common.

3．sheep，deer，etc.

The sheep are eating grass.

The sheep is big.

VI. Chinese, English, French, etc 指语言时，谓动是单数，如与 "the" 搭配，指人民时，谓语动词用复数。

English is used widely.

The English love peace.

VII. 注意下列外来语的单复数形：

单数

basis crisis criterion（标准） phenomenon radius（半径） alumnus（男校友） datum（资料）

medium（媒体） index（索引） appendix（附录） alga（海藻） vita（生命）

复数

bases crises criteria phenomena radii alumni data media indices appendices algae vitae

Lesson 1 A puma at large 逃遁的美洲狮

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

Where must the puma have come from?

Pumas are large, cat-like animals which are found in America. When reports came into London Zoo that a wild puma had been spotted forty-five miles south of London, they were not taken seriously. However, as the evidence began to accumulate, experts from the Zoo felt obliged to investigate, for the descriptions given by people who claimed to have seen the puma were extraordinarily similar.

The hunt for the puma began in a small village where a woman picking blackberries saw 'a large cat' only five yards away from her. It immediately ran away when she saw it, and experts confirmed that a puma will not attack a human being unless it is cornered. The search proved difficult, for the puma was often observed at one place in the morning and at another place twenty miles away in the evening. Wherever it went, it left behind it a trail of dead deer and small animals like rabbits. Paw prints were seen in a number of places and puma fur was found clinging to bushes. Several people complained of "cat-like noises' at night and a businessman on a fishing trip saw the puma up a tree. The experts were now fully convinced that the animal was a puma, but where had it come from? As no pumas had been reported missing from any zoo in the country, this one must have been in the possession of a private collector and somehow managed to escape. The hunt went on for several weeks, but the puma was not caught. It is disturbing to think that a dangerous wild animal is still at large in the quiet countryside.

Grammar in use | 语法 英语从句 Subordination

英语从句主要有定语从句，状语从句和名词性从句（主语从句，宾语从句，表语从句，同位语从句）

●状语从句

◆原因 :because, since, now that（既然 ,as, for, this reason...

◆结果 :so that, so, therefore, consequently, so as to, as a result

◆ 时间：after, before, when, while, as, until, as soon as, since, by the time, once, lately, presently, shortly after, currently, at present, nowadays...

◆条件: if, only if., once, unless, in the event (that), in case (that), provided that, on the condition that, etc.

◆ 让 步：though, although, even though(if), no matter what/how/when → whatever/however / whenever...

◆ 目的：in order that, in order to, to,

◆ 比较：than, as ... as, by comparison（相比较），by contrast（相对照）...

●名词性从句 - 通常由 that 或疑问词导出。

How some mammals came to live in the sea is not know.（主语从句）

The attorney told his client that they had little chance of winning the case.（宾语从句）

The problem is what we'll do next.（表语从句）

We have no idea that he has come back.（同位语从句）

●同位语（Appositive）：

同位语是英语语法的重点内容，也是各类考试中的一个考点，同时，在写作中正确运用同位语可以使你的句型更加简洁得体。

When reports came into London zoo that a wild puma had been spotted forty-five miles south of London, they were not taken seriously. 在 这 里，a wild puma had been spotted forty-five miles south of London 就是同位语从句，它本来应该放在“reports”后面，这里却被放在了谓语成分 came into London zoo 的后面，目的是让句型显得更为稳重。

◆同位语从句，就是对某些名词做进一步的解释的句子。

I was greatly shocked when I heard the news that his father died yesterday.

（that 引导的句子解释了 news 的内容，注意：that 不做任何成分）

We have to face the fact that the weather is unexpectedly bad.（that 引导的句子解释了 fact 的内容）

★同位语从句则是讲述被修饰名词的内容

关系词用 that 而不是 which 时间 - when 地点 -where

An idea came to me that I might do the experiment in another way. I have no diea what has happened to him.

★ 能接同位词从句的名词有：belief 信仰，fact, idea, doubt, rumor 谣言，evidence 证据，conclusion 结论，suggestion 建议，problem, order, answer, discovery 发 现，explanation 解 释，principle 原则，possibility 可能性，truth, promise 承诺，report 报告，statement 声明，knowledge 知识，opinion 观点，likelihood 可能性，reason, advice...

◆ 同位语一般由 that 引导，但也可以用关系代词 which, who, what 和关系副词 when, where, why, how 或 whether 引导。

There arouse the question whether we could win the game.

I have no idea how to explain it.

◆ 一些介词词组后面也能引导同位语从句： on the assumption 在 ... 前提下 on the ground 由于 ... 原因 on the condition that 在 ... 条件下 with the exception 有 ... 例外 owing to the fact 由于 ... 事实 on the understanding 基于 ... 理解

The young lady promised to marry the old man on the condition that he bought her a villa.

那位年轻的女士答应嫁给那位老头，条件是他给她买一幢别墅。

●分隔式同位语从句
◆为了使句型平衡不至于头重脚轻，有时同位语从句可以放到句子的末尾，（读两遍此定义，然后看倒句：）
An idea came to him that he might write to her to ask more information about the matter.
I got information from my friend that there will be a marvelous American movie "Titanic".
◆同位语从句与定语从句之区别
定语从句的引导词 that 或 which 在句子中用作主语或宾语，而同位语从句的引导词 that 只起连接主句和从句之作用，不用作任何成分。
I've got an answer that A is right. (同位语从句，that 不做成分)
I've got an answer that surprised me a lot.（定语从句，that 做定语从句的主语） ●可以充当同位语的词组或短语。
◆名词短语。（使句型更为简洁）
Bill Clinton, the president of America, came to China to pay an official visit in 1998.
Lu Xun, one of the greatest essayists in China, played an overwhelmingly important role in Chinese literature history.
◆动名词词组亦可用作同位语：别忘了加逗号。（使句型更为流畅）
I'm crazy about the game, playing baseball.
Going to concert, that sounds a great idea.
◆不定式短语。（陌生只是掌握的开始）
The problem what to do next remains unsolved.
Her claim to have finished his work is nothing but a white lie.
◆形容词词组。（有逗号隔开）
All the workers, young or old, should be treated equally.
Young man, short or tall, should have the right to take the opportunity.
●同位语的引导词。（重要！这是中高级写作中不可缺少的引导成分）
引导词用来表示同位语与它所说明的同位成分之间的关系：
◆ namely, that it is, that is to say（也就是说）, in other words（换句话说), or, for short 表示等同关系。
◆ such as, say, so to speak（譬如说）, including（包括）, for instance（或 for example (e.g./eg), 表示举例和列举关系。
◆ especially, mostly, chiefly, or better, in particular, particularly 表示突出重点，(在高难度阅读中表示后面的部分为更重要或更突出的部分，是出题的关键点。)

非谓语动词 所有的非谓语动词前 + not, 构成它的否定形式
● to do:

The reports received by London Zoo that a puma had been spotted forty-five miles south of London were similar in nature. A woman picking blackberries saw it first, but the puma moved from place to place, leaving a trail of dead deer and small animals. Paw prints and puma fur were found as well . " cat-like noises" were heard at night and the animal was seen up a tree. Now experts were convinced that the animal really was a puma.

Mrs. Stone had spent the whole morning picking blackberries in the countryside near her home. It was nearly lunch time, so she decided to return home for lunch. She was just picking up her basket when she heard a noise in the bushes. Then she saw an animal which looked like a cat. She knew it was not a cat because it was so large. The animal suddenly turned round to look at her and she thought it was going to come towards her and perhaps attack her. She dropped her basket and screamed loudly. Hearing the sound, the animal disappeared into the bushes, after which Mrs. Stone picked up her basket and ran all the way home. She told the neighbours that she had seen a puma in the countryside, but they did not believe her. She also telephoned the police but they did not believe her either.

An English learning method at large 一种广泛的英语学习方法

English is a French-like language which is not only widely spoken in many parts of the world but shares close grammatical resemblances with Chinese. When the question that how one could learn the third book of new concept English series was asked, I took it seriously and I tried to answer this question with detailed approaches. However as my answers to the question began to accumulate, people grew tired of my monologue, for the solutions described by me who claimed that one could learn a language in less than six months from a zero level to a hero status were not as good as people expected. The search for better ways of learning the language started in this group where everyone shared a certain degree of interest in English. A housewife (who was) cleaning her house shared her method of studying the language. Experts from another community and language lovers found her approach very useful. A business woman working at a foreign company saw the conversation going on in the group and she couldn't help but saying that the approach adopted by the housewife was awful. Everyone voiced their own ideas of mastering the language and the business woman's way to make English learning journey more enjoyable caught everyone's attention. However someone shared their concerns about it as well. The question of which approach was the best to fully grasp the language was still under fierce debate. Everyone picked one or two things during the conversatoin. In the end, everyone was satisfied and the group turned quiet. It is quite annoying to know that the better ways to learn the language are still at large somewhere. The hunt for better roads to learn the language is going to last forever and ever. Now we have to make do with what we have and make the most of it. One most important language learning approach is that everybody should use the language on a daily basis. In the absence of English in real life, one can never master the language. One should spend more time on exporting the knowledge he learned during classes or in a book rather than the learning itself. This paragraph shows vividly how one can learn a language, doesn't it?

英语是一种类似法语的语言，不仅在世界上许多地方广泛使用，而且在语法上与汉语相似。当我被问到如何学习《新概念英语》系列的第三本书时，我认真地对待这个问题，并尝试用详细的方法来回答这个问题。但是随着我对这个问题的回答越来越多，人们开始厌倦了我的长篇大论，因为我声称可以在不到六个月的时间里学会一门语言，从零级到英雄级，我所描述的解决方案并没有人们预期的那么好。在这个群中，每个人都对英语有一定程度的兴趣，于是就开始了寻找更好的学习语言的方法。一位正在打扫房子的家庭主妇分享了她学习语言的方法。来自其他社群的专家和语言爱好者发现她的方法非常有用。一位在外国公司工作的女商人看到了大家的谈话，她不禁说这个家庭主妇采用的方法糟透了。每个人都表达了自己对掌握这门语言的想法，这位女商人让英语学习之旅更加愉快的方法引起了大家的注意。然而，也有人分享了他们的担忧。哪种方法是最好的充分掌握这门语言的问题仍在激烈辩论中。在交谈中，每个人都学到了一二点知识。最后，大家都很满意，群也变得安静了下来。知道在某些地方还有更好的学习语言的方法是相当恼人的。寻找更好的学习语言的道路将会永远持续下去。现在我们不得不利用我们所拥有的并充分利用它。一个最重要的语言学习方法是每个人都应该每天使用这门语言。如果英语在现实生活中缺席，就无法掌握这种语言。一个人应该把更多的时间花在输出他在课堂上或书本上学到的知识上，而不是学习本身。这一段生动地说明了如何学习一种语言，难道不是吗？

Lesson 2 Thirteen equals one 十三等于一

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

Was the vicar pleased that the clock was striking? Why?

Our vicar is always raising money for one cause or another, but he has never managed to get enough money to have the church clock repaired. The big clock which used to strike the hours day and night was damaged many years ago and has been silent ever since.

One night, however, our vicar woke up with a start: the clock was striking the hours! Looking at his watch, he saw that it was one o'clock, but the bell struck thirteen times before it stopped. Armed with a torch, the vicar went up into the clock tower to see what was going on. In the torchlight, he caught sight of a figure whom he immediately recognized as Bill Wilkins, our local grocer.

'Whatever are you doing up here Bill?' asked the vicar in surprise.

'I'm trying to repair the bell,' answered Bill. 'I've been coming up here night after night for weeks now. You see, I was hoping to give you a surprise.'

'You certainly did give me a surprise!' said the vicar. 'You've probably woken up everyone in the village as well. Still, I'm glad the bell is working again.'

That's the trouble, vicar,' answered Bill. 'It's working all right, but I'm afraid that at one o'clock it will strike thirteen times and there's nothing I can do about it."

We'll get used to that, Bill,' said the vicar. "Thirteen is not as good as one, but it's better than nothing. Now let's go downstairs and have a cup of tea.'

Lesson 3 An unknown goddess 无名女神

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

How did the archaeologists know that the statue was a goddess?

Some time ago, an interesting discovery was made by archaeologists on the Aegean island of Kea. An American team explored a temple which stands in an ancient city on the promontory of Ayia Irini. The city at one time must have been prosperous, for it enjoyed a high level of civilization. Houses — often three storeys high — were built of stone. They had large rooms with beautifully decorated walls. The city was even equipped with a drainage system, for a great many clay pipes were found beneath the narrow streets.

The temple which the archaeologists explored was used as a place of worship from the fifteenth century B.C. until Roman times. In the most sacred room of the temple, clay fragments of fifteen statues were found. Each of these represented a goddess and had, at one time, been painted. The body of one statue was found among remains dating from the fifteenth century B.C. Its missing head happened to be among remains of the fifth century B.C. This head must have been found in Classical times and carefully preserved. It was very old and precious even then. When the archaeologists reconstructed the fragments, they were amazed to find that the goddess turned out to be a very modern-looking woman. She stood three feet high and her hands rested on her hips. She was wearing a full-length skirt which swept the ground. Despite her great age, she was very graceful indeed, but, so far, the archaeologists have been unable to discover her identity.

Lesson 4 The double life of Alfred Bloggs

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

Why did Alf want a white-collar job?

These days, people who do manual work often receive far more money than people who work in offices. People who work in offices are frequently referred to as 'white-collar workers' for the simple reason that they usually wear a collar and tie to go to work. Such is human nature, that a great many people are often willing to sacrifice higher pay for the privilege of becoming white-collar workers. This can give rise to curious situations, as it did in the case of Alfred Bloggs who worked as a dustman for the Ellesmere Corporation.

When he got married, Alf was too embarrassed to say anything to his wife about his job. He simply told her that he worked for the Corporation. Every morning, he left home dressed in a smart black suit. He then changed into overalls and spent the next eight hours as a dustman. Before returning home at night, he took a shower and changed back into his suit. Alf did this for over two years and his fellow dustmen kept his secret. Alf's wife has never discovered that she married a dustman and she never will, for Alf has just found another job. He will soon be working in an office. He will be earning only half as much as he used to, but he feels that his rise in status is well worth the loss of money. From now on, he will wear a suit all day and others will call him 'Mr. Bloggs', not 'Alf'.

Text Analysis | 课文分析

主 句　从句

These days, people who do manual work often receive far more money than people who work in offices.

状　主　← 主　谓　定　宾　状　谓　定　宾　than 比较状语　← 主　谓　状 far more money than..., more ... than... 比较级结构，far adv. = much 修饰比较级表示不定度量，其它的修饰还有：a little, a bit, much, a lot; manual adj. 体力的 手工的 = physical; manual work 体力工作 mental work 脑力工作；

如今，从事体力劳动的人的收入一般要比坐办公室的人高出许多。

People who work in offices are frequently referred to as 'white-collar workers'

主　←主　谓　状　谓　状　谓 | 被动语态　主语补足语 frequently adv. 时常的 频繁地 [frequent adj. frequency n. frequence n.]; be referred to as = be called; refer to ...as = regard ... as 把 ... 看作为；refer to 提及 谈到；blue-collar worker 蓝领 [do manual work]; white-collar worker 白领 [do mental work]; pink-collar worker 粉领 [do female work]; get hot under the collar 怒气冲天； for the simple reason that they usually wear a collar and tie to go to work.

原因状语　←引　主　状　谓　宾　连　宾　they 的目的状语

for prep. 表原因；for the simple reason = for 引导的原因状语从句，比 because 正式：He was sent to prison for the reason that he couldn't pay the debts.；that 从句作 reason 的同位语 [同位语从句]; collar n. 衣领； tie n. 领带；

坐办公室的人之所以常常被称作“白领工人”，就是因为他们通常是穿着硬领白衬衫，系着领带去上班。

Such is human nature, that a great many people are often willing to sacrifice higher pay

形主　系　表　引　定　主　谓　状　谓　宾

be willing to do sth. 愿意做某事 = be ready to do sth.; sacrifice v. n. 牺牲 献出 to give up for good purpose；sacrifice one's life for the country；make many sacrifices 做出牺牲； human nature 人性； that 引导同位语从句，作真正主语，进一步说明 such 的内涵，such 为形式主语：His kindness was such that we would never forget him.; such 位于句首，起强调作用，后面要用倒装语序：Such was his kindness that ... = He is so kind that we would never forget him. Such is human nature that we want to get a lot of things out of nothing.;

for the privilege of becoming white-collar workers.

目的状语　←　后置定语修饰 privilege privilege n. 好处 特权 = advantage 好处；sacrifice one's advantage/privilege; privilege = special right 特权 ；give sb the privilege of doing sth. 给某人特权做某事； privileged adj. 荣幸的；

许多人常常情愿放弃较高的薪水以换取做白领工人的殊荣，此乃人之常情。

This can give rise to curious situations,

主　谓　定　宾

this 指代上句中的 that 从句中所指的情况；give rise to sth. 引起 导致某事 = lead to, cause, result in, bring about, set off, create; Such conduct may give rise to misunderstanding.； curious adj. 不寻常 奇异的 古怪的：strange and unusual；situation n. 情境 形势 情景；

as it did in the case of Alfred Bloggs who worked as a dustman for the Ellesmere Corporation.

引 主 谓 状 ←主 谓 状 状

as 连接两个并列句，意为 如同；who 引导定语从句修饰 Alfred Bloggs; it 指代上句中的 that 从句中所指的情况，而 did 是替代 give rise to curious situations; dustman n. 清洁工；corporation n. 公司；case n. 事例 情形；in the case of：至于 就 ... 而言：Stealing is no shame in the case of him.; in case of [连接词] 万一 以防 + n.: You should insure your house in case of fire. Take your umbrella in case of rain.;

而这常常会引起种种奇怪的现象，在埃尔斯米尔公司当清洁工的艾尔弗雷德．布洛斯就是一个例子。

When he got married, Alf was too embarrassed to say anything to his wife about his job.

引 主 谓 主 系 状 表 状语 | 不定式短语 表结果 marry v. 嫁 娶；marriage n. 婚姻 结婚；get married 表示状态，固定词组；marital adj. 婚姻的 夫妻关系的；marital status 婚姻状况；embarrassed adj. 尴尬的 窘迫的；too embarrassed to say 太尴尬而没有说明 be ashamed of; too ...to 太 ... 以致于不能，中间加形容词或副词均可：One is never too old to learn.;

艾尔弗结婚时，感到非常难为情，而没有将自己的职业告诉妻子。

He simply told her that he worked for the Corporation.

主 状 谓 宾 引 主 谓 状

simply adv. 仅仅 = just, only，用来修饰限定动词 told；tell sb. sth. 告诉某人某事；that 引导的从句为 told 的直接宾语 [宾语从句]；work for 为 ... 工作：He worked for the school.；work as 作为 ... 工作：He worked as a teacher at that school.;

他只说在埃尔斯米尔公司上班。

Every morning, he left home dressed in a smart black suit.

状 主 谓 宾 过去分词短语作主语补足语

be dressed in 穿着 ...; 如果用 wear, 要用现在分词：He left home wearing in a smart black suit.; smart adj. 时髦的 漂亮的；suit n. 西服；

He then changed into overalls and spent the next eight hours as a dustman.

主 状 谓 宾 连 谓 宾 状

then adv. 然后；change into sth. 换上；overalls n. 工作服 = uniform；spend time/money on sth./ in doing sth. 花费时间或金钱在某事上;

每天早晨，他穿上一身漂亮的黑色西装离家上班，然后换上工作服，当 8 个小时清洁工。

Before returning home at night, he took a shower and changed back into his suit.

现在分词短语作时间状语 主 谓 宾 连 谓 状 状

在 before 引导的时间状语从句中 [before he returned home]，return 的逻辑主语和主句的主语 he 是保持一致的，所以这个时间状语是由介词 before 和现在分词搭配而成，相当于 before 引导的时间状语从句；shower n. 沐浴；take a bath/shower 洗澡； return v. 返回 = go back, come back; change back 换回；

晚上回家前，他洗个淋浴，重新换上那身黑色西服。

Alf did this for over two years and his fellow dustmen kept his secret.

主 谓 宾 状 连 主 谓 宾

over prep. 多于 = more than; fellow n. 同伴 同伙 同志 = comrade 同事 =coworker, co-worker, colleague; secret n. 秘密；keep one's secret 为某人保守秘密；

两年多以来，艾尔弗一直这样，他的同事也为他保守秘密。

Alf's wife has never discovered that she married a dustman and she never will,

定 主 谓 状 谓 引 主 谓 宾 连 主 状 谓

she never will = she will never discover the secret：在省略句式中，never 要放在助动词之前：Will you go to see her ? I will never go to see her. = No, I never will.;

for Alf has just found another job. He will soon be working in an office.

引 主 谓 状 谓 宾 主 谓 状 谓 状

for 引导状语从句，表示原因 = because, since, as; just adv. 刚刚，用于完成时态；soon adv. 不久；将来进行时 [will be doing] 将来某一时间正在进行的动作，一般指最近的将来，已安排好的的事；

艾尔弗的妻子一直不知道她嫁给了一个清洁工，而且她永远也不会知道了，因为艾尔弗已找到新职，不久就要坐办公室里工作了。

He will be earning only half as much as he used to,

主 谓 状 宾 引 主 谓

as ...as 比较状语从句，和 ... 一样多；used to do 过去常常：he used to (省略 earn); half as much as he used to, 只相当于过去的一半； but he feels that his rise in status is well worth the loss of money.

连 主 系 引 主 ←后置定语 系 状 表 status n. 地位 身份 情形 = social position; status quo 现状；statue n. 雕像 塑像； rise n. 提升 升高；loss n. 损失；worth adj. 值得的：be worth sth./ doing sth.: This book is worth reading.；well adv. 加强语气，修饰形容词 worth; He will be earning less than he used to.；

他将来挣的钱只有他现在的一半。不过他觉得，地位升高了，损失点儿钱也值得。

From now on, he will wear a suit all day and others will call him 'Mr. Bloggs', not 'Alf'.

状 主 谓 宾 状 连 主 谓 宾 宾补 宾补

from now on 从今以后 = from this time on, from this day on; from then on 从那时起 =from that time on; call sb. sth. 为 ... 取名，把 ... 称作;

从此，艾尔弗可以一天到晚穿西服了。别人将称呼他为“布洛格斯先生”，而不再叫他“艾尔弗”了。

Special Difficulties | 难点

●英语中有许多动词不能以人作为宾语，只能代某物或某事；
如果需要说明是某人就要用介词 to
He explained the difficulty to me.
He told a story to me. = He told me a story.
I discribed the scene to my wife.
He said nothing to me about it.
Did you suggest this idea to him ?
I confided (vt. 吐露) the secret to my sister.
●两类词汇： tell 可以和双宾语搭配（指物的直接宾语，指人的间接宾语） explain, say 只能代一个（直接）宾语，在间接宾语前要加介词 to
She speaks English to her husband and Swedish to her children.
He admitted his guilt to the police .
●当直接宾语比较长或者是个从句时，通常放在间接宾语之后，但 say 除外！
I explained to him the impossibility of granting his request.
He confessed to me that he had fallen asleep during the meeting.
● used to 当主句的谓语动词是行为动词时，之后的动词必须省略掉；
● used to be 当主句的谓语动词是系动词时，之后必须带有系动词 be;
I feel the summer are hotter than they used to be.
I feel you are much fatter than you used to be.

● worth 后面只能跟名词或动名词
His suggestion is worth considering .
价格 's+ worth of 值 .. 钱的东西
I want ten pounds' worth of mince meat.
I want 10 yuan's worth of meat. 我要 10 元的肉

● too ... to（不定式 to 表示否定）
so ...that 如此 ... 以致于（在 that 引导的结果状语从句中，如果采用否定式，可以和 too ... to 互换）
The water is too hot for us to drink.
The water is so hot that we can't drink.

● simply adv. 仅仅是 再没有别的了 = only, just = 在句末时要用 and no more 无论是 simply, only 还是 just, 往往用在主体词之前；
I did it simply/only for the money.
I don't like driving.
I do it simply/only because I have to go to work each day.
in a simple way 简单地 简朴地
She was always dressed in a simple way.

● before returning home = before he returned home
在 before 引导的时间状语从句中 ,return 的逻辑主语和主句的主句 he 是保持一致的；所以这个时间状语是由介词 before 和动名词搭配而成，相当于 before 引导的时间状语从句；
如果用动名词形式，动名词的逻辑主语必须是主句的主语
After getting home, he had a good rest.
Before having dinner, he finished all his homework.
●如果主，从的主语一致，可用介词和动名词形式搭配 before returning home ... before - 连接词，引导时间状语从句 （时间状语从句一般使用简单时态，不用将来时） before 引导的从句，通常采用一般现在时或一般过去时，不用进行时 before he returned home ...

● half as much as（he used to）是 ... 的一半 half（a quarter, twice, three times)as ... as 表示倍数
I won't marry a man who is twice as old as me .
We got three times as many people as we expected .
This room is about three times as large as that one .
● ... as（形容词或副词原型）as ...
比 ... 多几倍 ... times（形容词或副词比较级）
This road is four times longer than that one.
=This road is four times as long as that one.

Lesson 5 The facts 确切数字

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

What was the consequence of the editor's insistence on facts and statistics?

Editors of newspapers and magazines often go to extremes to provide their readers with unimportant facts and statistics. Last year a journalist had been instructed by a well-known magazine to write an article on the president's palace in a new African republic. When the article arrived, the editor read the first sentence and then refused to publish it. The article began: 'Hundreds of steps lead to the high wall which surrounds the president's palace.' The editor at once sent the journalist a fax instructing him to find out the exact number of steps and the height of the wall.

The journalist immediately set out to obtain these important facts, but he took a long time to send them. Meanwhile, the editor was getting impatient, for the magazine could soon go to press. He sent the journalist two more faxes, but received no reply. He sent yet another fax informing the journalist that if he did not reply soon he would be fired. When the journalist again failed to reply, the editor reluctantly published the article as it had originally been written. A week later, the editor at last received a fax from the journalist. Not only had the poor man been arrested, but he had been sent to prison as well. However, he had at last been allowed to send a fax in which he informed the editor that he had been arrested while counting the 1,084 steps leading to the fifteen-foot wall which surrounded the president's palace.

Special Difficulties | 难点 - 倒 装 Inversion

根据语法要求，把谓语动词置于主语前，称为完全倒装，把助动词或情态动词置于主语前，称为部分倒装。 倒装的目的是为了强调
●副词如: in, out, down, there, here, off, over, away, etc. 句子倒装。（完全倒装，但主语不能是代词）
The girl jumped down. Down jumped the girl.
In front of the door stands an old man.
（特别注意：当主语是人称代词时不倒装。）
Down she jumped.
In came the teacher.
Away she went!（她走了！）
Here you are!（你在这儿！）
● Not only...but, no sooner...than..., hardly ...when... 前边倒装后边不倒装
Not only did he find his missing wallet but got all his money back. No sooner/hardly had he moved in the house than/when he sold it. Not only had the poor man been arrested, but had been sent to prison as well.
● as 引导让步状语从句，须倒装。（准确地说，是将需要强调的词提到 as 的前面。）
Rich as he is, he spends a cent on charity.
Try as he does, he never seems able to do the work beautifully.
●在虚拟条件句中，连词 if 省略时，句型要倒装，即将 were, had, should 等词提到句首。
Were I you, I would go abroad to take advanced study.
我要是你，就出国进修了。
Should he come tomorrow, he would help us to settle the problem.
他要是明天来的话，他会帮我们解决这个问题的。

●否定词或具有否定意义的词及词组用在句首时，句子须倒装。此类词有：neither, nor, hardly, scarcely, rarely, seldom, not, never, not only, barely, at no time, nowhere 以及所有带 "no" 的词组；
Never have I read such stories.
Nowhere can he find the book he wants.
Hardly did I think it possible.
By no means is he a good teacher. 他无论如何不是好老师。
● only + 副词（介词短语）位于句首，句子要倒装：
Only then did he realize that he had made a mistake .
Only when a great deal more information has been obtained will it be possible to plan a trip.
●含有 not 的副词短语位于句首，句子要倒装：
Not for a moment , not in the least, not for an instant, not until
Not in the least is he interested in English literature.
Not for an instant did I believe he had lie.
●含有 no 的短语位于句首，句子要倒装：
at no time, in no way, in no sence, by no means, in on case, on no account, on no condition, under no circumstances 绝不
Under no circumstances can we accept the check.
On no account must you leave the baby in the house.
● so, such 位于句首，句子要倒装：
So helpful was he that he went with me to the market.
such a helper was he that he went with me to the market.
● well, so, often, such, few, little 放于句首，句子形成倒装。
So fine was the weather that we all went out lying in the sun.
Well did I know him and well did he know me.
●在表示祝愿的句子中。
May you make greater progress!（愿你取得更大进步！）

Lesson 6 Smash-and-grab 砸橱窗抢劫

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

How did Mr. Taylor try to stop the thieves?

The expensive shops in a famous arcade near Piccadilly were just opening. At this time of the morning, the arcade was almost empty. Mr. Taylor, the owner of a jewellery shop was admiring a new window display. Two of his assistants had been working busily since eight o'clock and had only just finished. Diamond necklaces and rings had been beautifully arranged on a background of black velvet. After gazing at the display for several minutes, Mr. Taylor went back into his shop.

The silence was suddenly broken when a large car, with its headlights on and its horn blaring, roared down the arcade. It came to a stop outside the jeweller's. One man stayed at the wheel while two others with black stockings over their faces jumped out and smashed the window of the shop with iron bars. While this was going on, Mr. Taylor was upstairs. He and his staff began throwing furniture out of the window. Chairs and tables went flying into the arcade. One of the thieves was struck by a heavy statue, but he was too busy helping himself to diamonds to notice any pain. The raid was all over in three minutes, for the men scrambled back into the car and it moved off at a fantastic speed. Just as it was leaving, Mr. Taylor rushed out and ran after it throwing ashtrays and vases, but it was impossible to stop the thieves. They had got away with thousands of pounds worth of diamonds.

● with 复合结构：

◆如果宾语和宾语补足语在逻辑上有主谓关系，应该采用动词的 ing 形式：

She sat staring into the distance with tears streaming down her cheeks.

She stood there with her hands resting on her hips.

◆如果是动宾关系，应该采用过去分词形式作宾补：

He ran into the room with his face covered with tears.

With his homework finished, he felt happy.

◆如果是说明当时的情况，常用 adj, adv, 介词短语表明宾语的状态：

He used to sleep with all windows open.

He went out with his hat on. (on adv.)

With the meeting over, we went home.

He came in, with a knife in his hand.

Two others with black stockings over their faces jumped out.

◆如果表达某事将要开发发生，要用动词不定式 to:

With a lot of work to do, he can't go to the cinema.

◆ with 常用于句首或句尾，常表示状语，行为方式，原因，伴随状况等;

◆ with 如果跟在名词之后，是用来修饰限定该名词；

A thief with stocking over his face

A teacher with a book under his arm

A room with the windows open

● with 复合结构也是独立主格结构形式之一。这种结构在句中作状语(表示原因，方式，伴随等）和定语，作定语时紧随被修饰名词后。

◆ with+ 名词 + 介词短语：

The woman with a baby on her back is my sister.

The boy rushed into the room, with his schoolbag in his hand.

Lesson 7 Mutilated ladies* 残钞鉴别组

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

Why did Jane cook John's wallet?

Has it ever happened to you? Have you ever put your trousers in the washing machine and then remembered there was a large bank note in your back pocket? When you rescued your trousers, did you find the note was whiter than white? People who live in Britain needn't despair when they make mistakes like this (and a lot of people do)! Fortunately for them, the Bank of England has a team called Mutilated Ladies which deals with claims from people who fed their money to a machine or to their dog. Dogs, it seems, love to chew up money!

A recent case concerns Jane Butlin whose fiancé, John, runs a successful furniture business. John had a very good day and put his wallet containing £3,000 into the microwave oven for safekeeping. Then he and Jane went horse-riding. When they got home, Jane cooked their dinner in the microwave oven and without realizing it, cooked her fiancé's wallet as well. Imagine their dismay when they found a beautifully-cooked wallet and notes turned to ash! John went to see his bank manager who sent the remains of wallet and the money to the special department of the Bank of England in Newcastle: the Mutilated Ladies! They examined the remains and John got all his money back. 'So long as there's something to identify, we will give people their money back,' said a spokeswoman for the Bank. 'Last year, we paid £1.5m on 21,000 claims.'

 Damaged bank notes. The Queen's head appears on English bank notes, and 'lady' refers to this.

Lesson 8 A famous monastery 著名的修道院

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

What are the St. Bernard dogs used for?

The Great St. Bernard Pass connects Switzerland to Italy. At 2,473 metres, it is the highest mountain pass in Europe. The famous monastery of St. Bernard, which was founded in the eleventh century, lies about a mile away. For hundreds of years, St. Bernard dogs have saved the lives of travellers crossing the dangerous Pass. These friendly dogs, which were first brought from Asia, were used as watchdogs even in Roman times. Now that a tunnel has been built through the mountains, the Pass is less dangerous, but each year, the dogs are still sent out into the snow whenever a traveller is in difficulty. Despite the new tunnel, there are still a few people who rashly attempt to cross the Pass on foot.

During the summer months, the monastery is very busy, for it is visited by thousands of people who cross the Pass in cars. As there are so many people about, the dogs have to be kept in a special enclosure. In winter, however, life at the monastery is quite different. The temperature drops to -30° and very few people attempt to cross the Pass. The monks prefer winter to summer for they have more privacy. The dogs have greater freedom, too, for they are allowed to wander outside their enclosure. The only regular visitors to the monastery in winter are parties of skiers who go there at Christmas and Easter. These young people, who love the peace of the mountains, always receive a warm welcome at St. Bernard's monastery.

●定语从句：由关系代词 who, whom, whose, that, which; 关系副词 when, where, why 引导。

The death notices tell us about people who have died during the week.

The man (whom) you spoke to just now is my friend.

The building whose lights are on is beautiful.

Please find a place which we can have a private talk in.

The knee is the joint where the thighbone meets the large bone of the lower leg.

He still remembers the day when he went to school.

It is no need telling us the reason why you didn't finish it in time.

He has three sons, two of whom died in the war.

Mr. Smith, whose wife is a clerk, teaches us English.

In the Sunday paper there are comics, which children enjoy.

●只能用 that 和 who 引导的定语从句

◆ all, nothing, anything, a few, one 做先行词指物时

◆先行词前有形容词最高级修饰时，后面常跟 that 而不是 which.

◆先行词前有 the only, the first, the last, the next, the very 等词修饰时，引导词只能用 that。 ◆当先行词是 anyone, anybody, everyone, everybody, someone, somebody 时，后面要用 who 或 whom;

All that glitters is not gold. 闪光的并非都是金子。

● as 引导定语从句

as 引导的定语从句有两种形式：

◆引导限制性语从句。

在此类定语从句中，as 常与主语中作为其先行词的 such, the same 或 as 联用构成，“such... as”，“the same... as” 和 “as ...as” 句型，可代替先行词。

We hope to get such a tool as he is using. 我们希望得到他正在用的那种工具。

◆ as 引导非限制性定语从句时，作用与 which 相同，as 作为关系代词代替整个主句。[这是语法考试的一个考点。]

as 引导的从句用于句首、句中或句后，而 which 引导的定语从句不能放在句首。

As is reported, a foreign delegation will visit the city.

据报道，一个外国代表团将访问这个城市。

●限定性从句与非限定性从句最大的区别：

◆非限定性从句只是对主句或主句中所出现的某个名词的补充说明和解释去掉对主句影响不大

◆限定性从句是主句中不可缺少的一部分

Mr. Smith was a famous person in American history.

Mr. Smith, who died on July 17th at 84, was a famous person in American history .

There were very few passengers, who escaped without serious injury . 为数不多的乘客全都逃出来了没有受重伤。

There were very few passengers who escaped without serious injury . 没有受重伤逃出来的乘客很少。

The taxi drivers took another road .

The taxi drivers, who knew about the traffic jam, took another road .

The taxi drivers who knew about the traffic jam, took another road .

◆ who 引导的非限定性从句主要指人做主语；

◆指代事物在非限定性从句中只能使用 which !!

He lent me a thousand dollars, which was exactly the sum I needed .

◆指代时间 when　指代地点 where

He was left on the desert island, where he stayed for as long as three weeks .

● even so 虽然如此

Lesson 9 Flying cats 飞猫

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

How do cats try to protect themselves when falling from great heights?

Cats never fail to fascinate human beings. They can be friendly and affectionate towards humans, but they lead mysterious lives of their own as well. They never become submissive like dogs and horses. As a result, humans have learned to respect feline independence. Most cats remain suspicious of humans all their lives. One of the things that fascinates us most about cats is the popular belief that they have nine lives. Apparently, there is a good deal of truth in this idea. A cat's ability to survive falls is based on fact.

Recently the New York Animal Medical Centre made a study of 132 cats over a period of five months. All these cats had one experience in common: they had fallen off high buildings, yet only eight of them died from shock or injuries. Of course, New York is the ideal place for such an interesting study, because there is no shortage of tall buildings. There are plenty of high-rise windowsills to fall from! One cat, Sabrina, fell 32 storeys, yet only suffered from a broken tooth. 'Cats behave like well-trained paratroopers,' a doctor said. It seems that the further cats fall, the less they are likely to injure themselves. In a long drop, they reach speeds of 60 miles an hour and more. At high speeds, falling cats have time to relax. They stretch out their legs like flying squirrels. This increases their air-resistance and reduces the shock of impact when they hit the ground.

Lesson 10 The loss of the Titanic " 泰坦尼克 " 号的沉没

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

What would have happened if only two of the sixteen water-tight compartments had been flooded?

The great ship, Titanic, sailed for New York from Southampton on April 10th, 1912. She was carrying 1,316 passengers and a crew of 891. Even by modern standards, the 46,000 ton Titanic was a colossal ship. At that time, however, she was not only the largest ship that had ever been built, but was regarded as unsinkable, for she had sixteen watertight compartments. Even if two of these were flooded, she would still be able to float. The tragic sinking of this great liner will always be remembered, for she went down on her first voyage with heavy loss of life.

Four days after setting out, while the Titanic was sailing across the icy waters of the North Atlantic, a huge iceberg was suddenly spotted by a lookout. After the alarm had been given, the great ship turned sharply to avoid a direct collision. The Titanic turned just in time, narrowly missing the immense wall of ice which rose over 100 feet out of the water beside her. Suddenly, there was a slight trembling sound from below, and the captain went down to see what had happened. The noise had been so faint that no one thought that the ship had been damaged. Below, the captain realized to his horror that the Titanic was sinking rapidly, for five of her sixteen watertight compartments had already been flooded! The order to abandon ship was given and hundreds of people plunged into the icy water. As there were not enough lifeboats for everybody, 1,500 lives were lost.

Lesson 11 Not guilty 无罪

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

What was the Customs Officer looking for?

Customs Officers are quite tolerant these days, but they can still stop you when you are going through the Green Channel and have nothing to declare. Even really honest people are often made to feel guilty. The hardened professional smuggler, on the other hand, is never troubled by such feelings, even if he has five hundred gold watches hidden in his suitcase. When I returned from abroad recently, a particularly officious young Customs Officer clearly regarded me as a smuggler.

'Have you anything to declare? ' he asked, looking me in the eye.

'No, ' I answered confidently.

'Would you mind unlocking this suitcase please? '

'Not at all, ' I answered.

The Officer went through the case with great care. All the things I had packed so carefully were soon in a dreadful mess. I felt sure I would never be able to close the case again. Suddenly, I saw the Officer's face light up. He had spotted a tiny bottle at the bottom of my case and he pounced on it with delight.

'Perfume, eh? ' he asked sarcastically. 'You should have declared that. Perfume is not exempt from import duty.'

'But it isn't perfume,' I said. 'It's hair gel.' Then I added with a smile, 'It's a strange mixture I make myself.'

As I expected, he did not believe me.

'Try it!' I said encouragingly.

The Officer unscrewed the cap and put the bottle to his nostrils. He was greeted by an unpleasant smell which convinced him that I was telling the truth. A few minutes later, I was able to hurry away with precious chalk marks on my baggage.

honesty n. 诚实 不可数名词≠ dishonesty n. 不诚实 honest adj. 诚实的 honestly adv.；dishonest adj. 不诚实的 dishonestly adv.；guilt n. 内疚 有罪 犯罪；guilty adj. 感到内疚的 感到惭愧的 犯有罪的；guiltily adv. 内疚地 有罪地；feel-felt-felt v. 感觉，这里作系动词； make 用于主动语态时，其后作宾语补足语的不定式不带 to，I made her go to school.，go to school 作宾语 her 的补足语，但是当 make 转变成被动语态的时候，不定式中的 to 必须还原，She was made to go to school.；make, have, let 及感官性动词 see, hear, notice, feel 用于主动语态，符合宾语补足语的不定式中的 to 符号应该省略；!! 但这种结构改成被动形式时，不定式符号必须还原；We heard someone come up the stairs. Someone was heard to come up the stairs.

The hardened professional smuggler, on the other hand, is never troubled by such feelings,

Lesson 12 Life on a desert island 荒岛生活

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

What was exceptional about the two men's stay on the desert island?

Most of us have formed an unrealistic picture of life on a desert island. We sometimes imagine a desert island to be a sort of paradise where the sun always shines. Life there is simple and good. Ripe fruit falls from the trees and you never have to work. The other side of the picture is quite the opposite. Life on a desert island is wretched. You either starve to death or live like Robinson Crusoe, waiting for a boat which never comes. Perhaps there is an element of truth in both these pictures, but few of us have had the opportunity to find out.

Two men who recently spent five days on a coral island wished they had stayed there longer. They were taking a badly damaged boat from the Virgin Islands to Miami to have it repaired. During the journey, their boat began to sink. They quickly loaded a small rubber dinghy with food, matches, and cans of beer and rowed for a few miles across the Caribbean until they arrived at a tiny coral island. There were hardly any trees on the island and there was no water, but this did not prove to be a problem. The men collected rainwater in the rubber dinghy. As they had brought a spear gun with them, they had plenty to eat. They caught lobster and fish every day, and, as one of them put it 'ate like kings'. When a passing tanker rescued them five days later, both men were genuinely sorry that they had to leave.

Most of us have formed an unrealistic picture of life on a desert island.

主　谓　定　宾　←　后置定语

form v. 组成 建立 组织 产生 n. 形式 表格 形状； take form 逐渐成形 渐渐发展；form an unrealistic picture of sth. 对 ... 抱有不切实际的幻想；form a picture of 形成一种想法；(form 形成 develop 养成 develop a habit); realistic adj. 现实的 实际的 实事求是的；realistically adv. 实际地 明智地；unrealistic adj. 不切实际的 不真实的；picture n. 照片 情景 v. 想象 描述；desert n. 荒漠 adj. 不毛的 沙漠的 无人的；island n. 岛；

我们许多人对于荒岛生活有一种不切实际的想法。

We sometimes imagine a desert island to be a sort of paradise where the sun always shines.

主　状　谓　宾　宾语补足语　← 引　主　状　谓 imagine v. 设想 想像；imagination n. 想象 幻想； paradise n. 天堂 乐土；where 引导定语从句修饰 paradise; shine v. 照耀；sunshine n. 阳光；

我们有时想像荒岛是阳光终日普照的天堂。

Life there is simple and good. Ripe fruit falls from the trees and you never have to work.

Grammar in use | 语法 虚拟语气 The Subjunctive Mood

●虚拟语气用来表达不可能或难以实现的愿望，与事实相反的假设，通常分为基本的三种形式。

◆与现在事实相反的虚拟：

If + did/were + ..., ... would/should/could /might + do（动词原形）

If I were you, I would go abroad at once. (I am not you.)

If he knew it now, he could help me. (He doesn't know it now.)

◆与过去事实相反的虚拟：

If + had done + ..., ... would (might) have done ...

If I had known your telephone number yesterday, I would have phoned you. (I didn't know your telephone number.)

If you had come here a littleearlier just now, you might have met her. (You didn't come here earlier.)

◆ 与将来事实相反的虚拟：

1). If + should + v., ... would + v. （可能性很小）（译作“万一”）

If it should rain tomorrow, you could stay at home.

If I should fail, what should Ido?

2). If + did / were to + v ..., would + v. （完全不可能）

If the sun were to rise in the west, I would lend you the money.

If you finished it in 3 minutes, I would give you my car.

● 下列动词后的“宾语从句”中需要用虚拟形式，即 should + 动词原形，should 在美国英语中要省略（TOEFL 语法考点）。此类常见的动词有：order, ask, decide, demand, require, recommend, suggest（建议）insist(坚决要求), advise, etc.

He suggested that we (should) help them with English.

The teacher ordered that the homework (should) be finished within half an hour.

● 下列名词后的同位语从句中要用“should + 动词原形”（should 可省去）的虚拟。 suggestion, order, request, demand, importance, proposal.

He made a suggestion that we (should) have a fancy dress party.

I think it is a thing of importance that it (should) be done soon.

● It is/was important/necessary/natural/essential/advisable/strange/surprising, ect. + that + 主语 + should + v.

It is strange that you should say such a thing.

It was important that you should tell me all the information.

● wish 后的宾语从句中 ,as if 后的状语从句中，须用下列的虚拟形式：

主 + wish+ (that) + 主 + did/were（指现在） had done（指过去）

would+ v.（指将来）

现在：I wish that I met my uncle now.

过去：I wish I had met my uncle yesterday.

将来：I wish I could meet my uncle tomorrow.

● It is (high) time that ... + did/were ...

It is time that you went to bed.

● would rather that ... + did/were ...

I would rather that you were not here now.

● would sooner that ... + did/were ...

I would sooner that you got up earlier.

I would sooner that you were not my brother.

● wish 做谓语动词，其后的宾语从句中要使用虚拟语气

虚拟语气的结构形式取决于所表达的实际情况：

◆如果表达对现在的遗憾或与现在事实相反的情况 ,that 从句中的动词要采用过去式，be 动词要用 were；

I wish I were you.　I wish you could drive a car.

◆如果表达对过去的遗憾或与过去事实相反的情况 ,that 从句中的动词要采用过去完成时：

I wish (that) I hadn't spent so much money.

I wish (that) you had written to him.

◆如果要表达与将来事实相反的情况或将来不可能实现的心愿 ,that 从句中要使用 would ,could 等情态动词的过去时：

I wish that I could go abroad tomorrow.

I wish that you could come here tomorrow.

◆ wish 跟一般过去时、过去完成时、过去将来时（were, did, had done, would）

◆ if only 要比 wish 更富有戏剧性和感情色彩

If only the weather would change.

I wish the weather would change.

We wish that we knew where to look for him.

If only we knew where to look for him.

要是我们知道到哪找他该有多好啊

If only we could have gone to the party.

If only you hadn't said that .

If only you would come here tomorrow.

If only we could have stayed on the desert island a little bit longer.

◆表愿望 wish 或 if only 其中 wish 常指尚有可能发生的事，而 if only 则强调所希望的状况并不存在，在 wish 和 if only 后要用过去时表现在，用过去完成时表过去。

They wished they had stayed there longer. 后跟过去完成时

I wish you would do as you are told. " 将要 " 过去将来时

I wish she could see me now.

I wish I had more time to spare.

I wish I hadn't said anything about it.

" 说过 " 本是过去时虚拟成过去完成时 ,say 后几乎全是过去完成时

I wish you hadn't spent so much money. " 花过 " 同上

If only you would try a little harder!

If only I would become a scientist.

如果...该多好啊，后跟 would 很少跟 could ◆ Only ＋副词（介词短语）在句首，要倒装

Only then did he realize that he was mistaken.

Only by working hard can we succeed in doing anything.

◆ well, so ＋形容词，often, such, few, little 在句首，句子倒装

So fine was the weather that we all went out lying in the sun.

Well did I know him and well did he know me.

◆在虚拟条件句中，连词 if 省略时，要倒装

Were I you, I would go abroad to take advanced study.

Should he come tomorrow, he would help us to settle the problem.

If I were you, I would leave.

= Were I you, 虚拟条件句中省略 if 要倒装

Had I got up earlier I would have caught the train.

= If I had got up earlier, I would have caught the train.

Lesson 13 'It's only me' " 是我，别害怕 "

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

What did the man expect to find under the stairs?

After her husband had gone to work, Mrs. Richards sent her children to school and went upstairs to her bedroom. She was too excited to do any housework that morning, for in the evening she would be going to a fancy-dress party with her husband. She intended to dress up as a ghost and as she had made her costume the night before, she was impatient to try it on. Though the costume consisted only of a sheet, it was very effective. After putting it on, Mrs Richards went downstairs. She wanted to find out whether it would be comfortable to wear.

Just as Mrs. Richards was entering the dining room, there was a knock on the front door. She knew that it must be the baker. She had told him to come straight in if ever she failed to open the door and to leave the bread on the kitchen table. Not wanting to frighten the poor man, Mrs Richards quickly hid in the small storeroom under the stairs. She heard the front door open and heavy footsteps in the hall. Suddenly the door of the storeroom was opened and a man entered. Mrs Richards realized that it must be the man from the Electricity Board who had come to read the metre. She tried to explain the situation, saying 'It's only me', but it was too late. The man let out a cry and jumped back several paces. When Mrs. Richards walked towards him, he fled, slamming the door behind him.

Lesson 14 A noble gangster 贵族歹徒

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

How did Hawkwood make money in times of peace?

There was a time when the owners of shops and businesses in Chicago had to pay large sums of money to gangsters in return for 'protection'. If the money was not paid promptly, the gangsters would quickly put a man out of business by destroying his shop. Obtaining 'protection money' is not a modern crime. As long ago as the fourteenth century, an Englishman, Sir John Hawkwood, made the remarkable discovery that people would rather pay large sums of money than have their life work destroyed by gangsters.

Six hundred years ago, Sir John Hawkwood arrived in Italy with a band of soldiers and settled near Florence. He soon made a name for himself and came to be known to the Italians as Giovanni Acuto. Whenever the Italian city-states were at war with each other, Hawkwood used to hire his soldiers to princes who were willing to pay the high price he demanded. In times of peace, when business was bad, Hawkwood and his men would march into a city-state and, after burning down a few farms, would offer to go away if protection money was paid to them. Hawkwood made large sums of money in this way. In spite of this, the Italians regarded him as a sort of hero. When he died at the age of eighty, the Florentines gave him a state funeral and had a picture painted which was dedicated to the memory of 'the most valiant soldier and most notable leader, Signor Giovanni Haukodue'.

Lesson 15 Fifty pence worth of trouble 五十便士的麻烦

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

Did George get anything for his fifty pence? What?

Children always appreciate small gifts of money. Mum or dad, of course, provide a regular supply of pocket money, but uncles and aunts are always a source of extra income. With some children, small sums go a long way. If fifty pence pieces are not exchanged for sweets, they rattle for months inside money boxes. Only very thrifty children manage to fill up a money box. For most of them, fifty pence is a small price to pay for a nice big bar of chocolate.

My nephew, George, has a money box but it is always empty. Very few of the fifty pence pieces and pound coins I have given him have found their way there. I gave him fifty pence yesterday and advised him to save it. Instead he bought himself fifty pence worth of trouble. On his way to the sweet shop, he dropped his fifty pence and it bounced along the pavement and then disappeared down a drain. George took off his jacket, rolled up his sleeves and pushed his right arm through the drain cover. He could not find his fifty pence piece anywhere, and what is more, he could not get his arm out. A crowd of people gathered round him and a lady rubbed his arm with soap and butter, but George was firmly stuck. The fire brigade was called and two fire fighters freed George using a special type of grease. George was not too upset by his experience because the lady who owns the sweet shop heard about his troubles and rewarded him with a large box of chocolates.

Lesson 16 Mary had a little lamb 玛丽有一头小羔羊

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

Was Dimitri right to apologize to his neighbour? Why not?

Mary and her husband Dimitri lived in the tiny village of Perachora in southern Greece. One of Mary's prize possessions was a little white lamb which her husband had given her. She kept it tied to a tree in a field during the day and went to fetch it every evening. One evening, however, the lamb was missing. The rope had been cut, so it was obvious that the lamb had been stolen.

When Dimitri came in from the fields, his wife told him what had happened. Dimitri at once set out to find the thief. He knew it would not prove difficult in such a small village. After telling several of his friends about the theft, Dimitri found out that his neighbour, Aleko, had suddenly acquired a new lamb. Dimitri immediately went to Aleko's house and angrily accused him of stealing the lamb. He told him he had better return it or he would call the police. Aleko denied taking it and led Dimitri into his backyard. It was true that he had just bought a lamb, he explained, but his lamb was black. Ashamed of having acted so rashly, Dimitri apologized to Aleko for having accused him. While they were talking it began to rain and Dimitri stayed in Aleko's house until the rain stopped. When he went outside half an hour later, he was astonished to find that the little black lamb was almost white. Its wool, which had been dyed black, had been washed clean by the rain!

Lesson 17 The longest suspension bridge in the world

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

How is the bridge supported?

Verrazano, an Italian about whom little is known, sailed into New York Harbour in 1524 and named it Angoulême. He described it as 'a very agreeable situation located within two small hills in the midst of which flowed a great river'. Though Verrazano is by no means considered to be a great explorer, his name will probably remain immortal, for on November 21st, 1964, the longest suspension bridge in the world was named after him.

The Verrazano Bridge, which was designed by Othmar Ammann, joins Brooklyn to Staten Island. It has a span of 4,260 feet. The bridge is so long that the shape of the earth had to be taken into account by its designer. Two great towers support four huge cables. The towers are built on immense underwater platforms made of steel and concrete. The platforms extend to a depth of over 100 feet under the sea. These alone took sixteen months to build. Above the surface of the water, the towers rise to a height of nearly 700 feet. They support the cables from which the bridge has been suspended. Each of the four cables contains 26,108 lengths of wire. It has been estimated that if the bridge were packed with cars, it would still only be carrying a third of its total capacity. However, size and strength are not the only important things about this bridge. Despite its immensity, it is both simple and elegant, fulfilling its designer's dream to create 'an enormous object drawn as faintly as possible'.

Verrazano, an Italian about whom little is known,

主 | 同语语 | ← 状 | 主 | 谓 | 被动语态

Italy n. 意大利；Italian n. 意大利人；about whom little is known, 介词 + 关系代词，引导定语从句修饰 Italian; 在这种用法中，关系代词主要是 which, whom, 介词的选择与前面名词词组或与后面动词词组的搭配有关；文中的 about 与后面的谓语 be known 相搭配，be known about; The metal of which the kettle is made is mined at that mining site. 制做那个水壶的金属被开采于那个矿场，be made of;

sailed into New York Harbour in 1524 and named it Angoulême.

谓 | 状 | 状 | 连 | 谓 | 宾 | 宾语补足语 sail v. 乘船航行； harbour n. 港口 港湾 v. 窝藏 怀有 包含；name sb./sth. 把 ... 命名为 ...;

1524 年，一位鲜为人知的意大利人维拉萨诺驾船驶进纽约港，并将该港命名为安古拉姆。

He described it as 'a very agreeable situation located within two small hills

主 | 谓 | 宾 | 宾语补足语 | ← 过去分词作后置定语修饰 situation

describe v. 描述 形容 把 ... 称为；describe as 描述为 把 ... 说成；describe sth. as.. 把 ... 描绘成 ..., 认为 ..., as 和宾语补足语搭配连用，可用于该句型的常见动词 :see, view, look upon, recognize, regard , treat, accept, take; description n. 说明 形容 描写；agreeable adj. 宜人的 讨人喜欢的；situation n. 情况 情境 形势 地点； situate v. 使位于 使坐落于 = locate v. 位于 使坐落于；location n. 位置 定位 地点；He described it as 'a very agreeable location situated within two small hills in the midst of which flowed a great river'; in the midst of which flowed a great river'.

← | 状语 | 修饰 hill | 谓 | 定 | 主语

这个定语从句修饰 hill, 类似上句中的 about whom...; in the midst = in the middle of 在 ... 之中；flow v. 流动 (规则变化动词) ;fly-flew-flown n. 飞（不规则变化); 这是倒装句，状语前置，谓语动词提到主语之前，理解： a great river flowed in the midst/middle of two small hills.;

他对该港作了这样的描述 :" 地理位置十分适宜，位于两座小山的中间，一条大河从中间流过 "。

Though Verrazano is by no means considered to be a great explorer, his name will probably remain immortal,

引 | 主 | 谓 | 状 | 谓 | 被动语态 | 主语补足语 | 主 | 系 | 状 | 系 | 系

though, although, even though 引导让步状语从，用了 though, although, even though 不能使用 but ,yet 可以用，表示强调转折关系 :Though they managed to take photographs first ,yet they got into trouble.; immortal adj. 永生的 流芳百世的； mortal adj. 不能永生的 会死的；

by no means 无论如何 决不，用来强调语气 = in no way, in no case, on no account, in no sense, not by any means, not at all, in no circumstances, under no circumstances, at no time; It is by no means pleasant to take a crowded bus. He isn't satisfied with a job at al/by any means.; by no means 等这种带 " 否定 " 含义的词组置于句首，要用倒装结构：By no means is him considered to be a great explorer.

很多动词后面可跟宾语从句，又可与动词不定式 to 搭配连用，意思没有什么差别；常见的动词：believe, consider, find, declare, feel, know, suppose, think, presume, estimate, understand; I consider that he is the best candidate. I consider him to be the best candidate.

for on November 21st, 1964, the longest suspension bridge in the world was named after him.

Lesson 18 Electric currents in modern art 现代艺术中的电流

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

How might some of the exhibits have been dangerous?

Modern sculpture rarely surprises us anymore. The idea that modern art can only be seen in museums is mistaken. Even people who take no interest in art cannot have failed to notice examples of modern sculpture on display in public places. Strange forms stand in gardens, and outside buildings and shops. We have got quite used to them. Some so-called 'modern' pieces have been on display for nearly eighty years.

In spite of this, some people—including myself—were surprised by a recent exhibition of modern sculpture. The first thing I saw when I entered the art gallery was a notice which said: 'Do not touch the exhibits. Some of them are dangerous!' The objects on display were pieces of moving sculpture. Oddly shaped forms that are suspended from the ceiling and move in response to a gust of wind are quite familiar to everybody. These objects, however, were different. Lined up against the wall, there were long thin wires attached to metal spheres. The spheres had been magnetized and attracted or repelled each other all the time. In the centre of the hall, there were a number of tall structures which contained coloured lights. These lights flickered continuously like traffic lights which have gone mad. Sparks were emitted from small black boxes and red lamps flashed on and off angrily. It was rather like an exhibition of prehistoric electronic equipment. These peculiar forms not only seemed designed to shock people emotionally, but to give them electric shocks as well!

Lesson 19 A very dear cat 一只贵重的宝贝猫

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

Why was Rastus 'very dear' in more ways than one?

Kidnappers are rarely interested in animals, but they recently took considerable interest in Mrs. Eleanor Ramsay's cat. Mrs. Eleanor Ramsay, a very wealthy old lady, has shared a flat with her cat, Rastus, for a great many years. Rastus leads an orderly life. He usually takes a short walk in the evenings and is always home by seven o'clock. One evening, however, he failed to arrive. Mrs. Ramsay got very worried. She looked everywhere for him but could not find him.

Three days after Rastus' disappearance, Mrs. Ramsay received an anonymous letter. The writer stated that Rastus was in safe hands and would be returned immediately if Mrs. Ramsay paid a ransom of £1,000. Mrs. Ramsay was instructed to place the money in a cardboard box and to leave it outside her door. At first, she decided to go to the police, but fearing that she would never see Rastus again—the letter had made that quite clear—she changed her mind. She withdrew £1,000 from her bank and followed the kidnapper's instructions. The next morning, the box had disappeared but Mrs. Ramsay was sure that the kidnapper would keep his word. Sure enough, Rastus arrived punctually at seven o'clock that evening. He looked very well, though he was rather thirsty, for he drank half a bottle of milk. The police were astounded when Mrs. Ramsay told them what she had done. She explained that Rastus was very dear to her. Considering the amount she paid, he was dear in more ways than one!

Grammar in use | 语法

●如何使用逗号
◆三个或三个以上的词 , 短语或句子只用一个并列词来连接 , 他们之间就要用逗号 , 并列连词前也要用逗号 :
He opened the letter, read it and made a note of it's contents.
◆插入语或同位语前后必须用逗号分开 ;
I own over thousands books and, to make matters worse, the room is rather small.
◆状语从句于主句前时要用逗号和主句分隔开来 , 放在句尾则不需要 ;
◆非限定性从句必须用逗号分开 ;
◆主次转变词也应该用逗号将其和句子其他成分分开 ;
A few car, however, finished the race . therefor ◆介词短语和分词短语于句首时也必须加逗号加以分隔 ;
Despite its immensity, it is both simple and elegant.
With some children, small sums go a long way.

●根据语法规则 , 当主语是 ambition, goal, hope, idea, intention, mistake, plan, policy, reaction, purpose, suggestion 等名词的时候 , 句子的表语必须是 to 不定式短语 , 该不定式短语说明其内容 :
His purpose in life was to seek truth instead of money.
Our plan is to make better use of this material.

● only+ 状语置于句首要倒装
Only in this way can you understand me.
●只要见句首一个 well（后有 ', ' 除外）后面倒装
well, so ＋形容 , often, such, few, little 放于句首 , 倒装:
So fine was the weather that we all went out lying in the sun.
Well did I know him and well did he know me.

Lesson 20 Pioneer pilots 飞行员的先驱

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

What was the name of the first plane to fly across the English Channel?

In 1908 Lord Northcliffe offered a prize of £1,000 to the first man who would fly across the English Channel. Over a year passed before the first attempt was made. On July 19th, 1909, in the early morning, Hubert Latham took off from the French coast in his plane the 'Antoinette IV'. He had travelled only seven miles across the Channel when his engine failed and he was forced to land on the sea. The 'Antoinette' floated on the water until Latham was picked up by a ship.

Two days later, Louis Bleriot arrived near Calais with a plane called 'No. XI'. Bleriot had been making planes since 1905 and this was his latest model. A week before, he had completed a successful overland flight during which he covered twenty-six miles. Latham, however, did not give up easily. He, too, arrived near Calais on the same day with a new 'Antoinette'. It looked as if there would be an exciting race across the Channel. Both planes were going to take off on July 25th, but Latham failed to get up early enough. After making a short test flight at 4.15 a.m., Bleriot set off half an hour later. His great flight lasted thirty-seven minutes. When he landed near Dover, the first person to greet him was a local policeman. Latham made another attempt a week later and got within half a mile of Dover, but he was unlucky again. His engine failed and he landed on the sea for the second time.

Grammar in use | 语法

●介词和关系代词搭配连用，当定语从句的关系是介词的宾语时，能够把可移位的介词提前放在关系代词的前面 - ★正式文体
◆在非正式问题和口语当中，介词一般要放在从句的末尾；
This is the person about whom I was telling you.
Is this the book for which you asked me?
This is the school at where I learn English.
●决定介词位置的四个因素：
◆如果是口语，介词位于句尾，同时关系代词可以省略；
◆非正式问题，介词位于从句句尾；
◆有些动词 + 介词，合成词组看作是不可分隔的语言单位 这个时候介词必须紧跟动词，不可移位； take care, look after, call on, account for ...

◆在很多情况下，介词和关系代词构成独立的介词短语
在句子中起着状语作用，与从句的谓语动词毫无关系，
而不是谓语动词的一部分，这时介词始终位于关系代词之前
He described it as a very agreeable situation located within two small hills .
in the midst of two small hills, flowed a great river.
→

Lesson 21 Daniel Mendoza 丹尼尔 . 门多萨

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

How many unsuccessful attempts did Mendoza make before becoming Champion of all England?

Boxing matches were very popular in England two hundred years ago. In those days, boxers fought with bare fists for prize money. Because of this, they were known as 'prizefighters'. However, boxing was very crude, for there were no rules and a prizefighter could be seriously injured or even killed during a match.

One of the most colourful figures in boxing history was Daniel Mendoza, who was born in 1764. The use of gloves was not introduced until 1860, when the Marquis of Queensberry drew up the first set of rules. Though he was technically a prizefighter, Mendoza did much to change crude prizefighting into a sport, for he brought science to the game. In his day, Mendoza enjoyed tremendous popularity. He was adored by rich and poor alike.

Mendoza rose to fame swiftly after a boxing match when he was only fourteen years old. This attracted the attention of Richard Humphries who was then the most eminent boxer in England. He offered to train Mendoza and his young pupil was quick to learn. In fact, Mendoza soon became so successful that Humphries turned against him. The two men quarrelled bitterly and it was clear that the argument could only be settled by a fight. A match was held at Stilton, where both men fought for an hour. The public bet a great deal of money on Mendoza, but he was defeated. Mendoza met Humphries in the ring on a later occasion and he lost for a second time. It was not until his third match in 1790 that he finally beat Humphries and became Champion of England. Meanwhile, he founded a highly successful Academy and even Lord Byron became one of his pupils. He earned enormous sums of money and was paid as much as £100 for a single appearance. Despite this, he was so extravagant that he was always in debt. After he was defeated by a boxer called Gentleman Jackson, he was quickly forgotten. He was sent to prison for failing to pay his debts and died in poverty in 1836.

Lesson 22 By heart 熟记台词

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

Which actor read the letter in the end, the aristocrat or the gaoler?

Some plays are so successful that they run for years on end. In many ways, this is unfortunate for the poor actors who are required to go on repeating the same lines night after night. One would expect them to know their parts by heart and never have cause to falter. Yet this is not always the case.

A famous actor in a highly successful play was once cast in the role of an aristocrat who had been imprisoned in the Bastille for twenty years. In the last act, a gaoler would always come on to the stage with a letter which he would hand to the prisoner. Even though the noble was expected to read the letter at each performance, he always insisted that it should be written out in full.

One night, the gaoler decided to play a joke on his colleague to find out if, after so many performances, he had managed to learn the contents of the letter by heart. The curtain went up on the final act of the play and revealed the aristocrat sitting alone behind bars in his dark cell. Just then, the gaoler appeared with the precious letter in his hands. He entered the cell and presented the letter to the aristocrat. But the copy he gave him had not been written out in full as usual. It was simply a blank sheet of paper. The gaoler looked on eagerly, anxious to see if his fellow actor had at last learnt his lines. The noble stared at the blank sheet of paper for a few seconds. Then, squinting his eyes, he said: 'The light is dim. Read the letter to me.' And he promptly handed the sheet of paper to the gaoler. Finding that he could not remember a word of the letter either, the gaoler replied: 'The light is indeed dim, sire. I must get my glasses.' With this, he hurried off the stage. Much to the aristocrat's amusement, the gaoler returned a few moments later with a pair of glasses and the usual copy of the letter which he proceeded to read to the prisoner.

Lesson 23 One man's meat is another man's poison 各有所爱

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

What was it about snails that made the writer collect them for his friend on that day in particular?

People become quite illogical when they try to decide what can be eaten and what cannot be eaten. If you lived in the Mediterranean, for instance, you would consider octopus a great delicacy. You would not be able to understand why some people find it repulsive. On the other hand, your stomach would turn at the idea of frying potatoes in animal fat—the normally accepted practice in many northern countries. The sad truth is that most of us have been brought up to eat certain foods and we stick to them all our lives.

No creature has received more praise and abuse than the common garden snail. Cooked in wine, snails are a great luxury in various parts of the world. There are countless people who, ever since their early years, have learned to associate snails with food. My friend, Robert, lives in a country where snails are despised. As his flat is in a large town, he has no garden of his own. For years he has been asking me to collect snails from my garden and take them to him. The idea never appealed to me very much, but one day, after a heavy shower, I happened to be walking in my garden when I noticed a huge number of snails taking a stroll on some of my prize plants. Acting on a sudden impulse, I collected several dozen, put them in a paper bag, and took them to Robert. Robert was delighted to see me and equally pleased with my little gift. I left the bag in the hall and Robert and I went into the living room where we talked for a couple of hours. I had forgotten all about the snails when Robert suddenly said that I must stay to dinner. Snails would, of course, be the main dish. I did not fancy the idea and I reluctantly followed Robert out of the room. To our dismay, we saw that there were snails everywhere: they had escaped from the paper bag and had taken complete possession of the hall! I have never been able to look at a snail since then.

Lesson 24 A skeleton in the cupboard “家丑”

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

Who was Sebastian?

We often read in novels how a seemingly respectable person or family has some terrible secret which has been concealed from strangers for years. The English language possesses a vivid saying to describe this sort of situation. The terrible secret is called ‘a skeleton in the cupboard’. At some dramatic moment in the story, the terrible secret becomes known and a reputation is ruined. The reader's hair stands on end when he reads in the final pages of the novel that the heroine, a dear old lady who had always been so kind to everybody, had, in her youth, poisoned every one of her five husbands.

It is all very well for such things to occur in fiction. To varying degrees, we all have secrets which we do not want even our closest friends to learn, but few of us have skeletons in the cupboard. The only person I know who has a skeleton in the cupboard is George Carlton, and he is very proud of the fact. George studied medicine in his youth. Instead of becoming a doctor, however, he became a successful writer of detective stories. I once spent an uncomfortable weekend which I shall never forget at his house. George showed me to the guestroom which, he said, was rarely used. He told me to unpack my things and then come down to dinner. After I had stacked my shirts and underclothes in two empty drawers, I decided to hang one of the two suits I had brought with me in the cupboard. I opened the cupboard door and then stood in front of it petrified. A skeleton was dangling before my eyes. The sudden movement of the door made it sway slightly and it gave me the impression that it was about to leap out at me. Dropping my suit, I dashed downstairs to tell George. This was worse than ‘a terrible secret’; this was a real skeleton! But George was unsympathetic.‘Oh, that,’he said with a smile as if he were talking about an old friend.‘That's Sebastian. You forget that I was a medical student once upon a time.’

Lesson 25 The Cutty Sark " 卡蒂萨克 " 号帆船

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

What piece of bad luck prevented the Cutty Sark from winning the race?

One of the most famous sailing ships of the nineteenth century, the Cutty Sark, can still be seen at Greenwich. She stands on dry land and is visited by thousands of people each year. She serves as an impressive reminder of the great ships of the past. Before they were replaced by steamships, sailing vessels like the Cutty Sark were used to carry tea from China and wool from Australia. The Cutty Sark was one of the fastest sailing ships that has ever been built. The only other ship to match her was the Thermopylae. Both these ships set out from Shanghai on June 18th, 1872 on an exciting race to England. This race, which went on for exactly four months, was the last of its kind. It marked the end of the great tradition of ships with sails and the beginning of a new era.

The first of the two ships to reach Java after the race had begun was the Thermopylae, but on the Indian Ocean, the Cutty Sark took the lead. It seemed certain that she would be the first ship home, but during the race she had a lot of bad luck. In August, she was struck by a very heavy storm during which her rudder was torn away. The Cutty Sark rolled from side to side and it became impossible to steer her. A temporary rudder was made on board from spare planks and it was fitted with great difficulty. This greatly reduced the speed of the ship, for there was a danger that if she travelled too quickly, this rudder would be torn away as well. Because of this, the Cutty Sark lost her lead. After crossing the Equator, the captain called in at a port to have a new rudder fitted, but by now the Thermopylae was over five hundred miles ahead. Though the new rudder was fitted at tremendous speed, it was impossible for the Cutty Sark to win. She arrived in England a week after the Thermopylae. Even this was remarkable, considering that she had had so many delays. There is no doubt that if she had not lost her rudder she would have won the race easily.

One of the most famous sailing ships of the nineteenth century, the Cutty Sark, can still be seen at Greenwich.

主 ← 后置定语 | 最高级 ← 后置定语 | 最高级的取舍范围 同位语 谓 状 谓 | 被动 状

one of the most famous 最著名的 ... 之一 ; sailing ship n. 帆船 :a ship with sails; Greenwich n. 格林威治;

人们在格林威治仍可看到 19 世纪最有名的帆船之一“卡蒂萨克”号。

She stands on dry land and is visited by thousands of people each year.

主 谓 状 连 谓 | 被动 状 状

dry land 陆地 ; each year =every/per year ;

它停在陆地上，每年接待成千上万的参观者。

She serves as an impressive reminder of the great ships of the past.

主 谓 主语补足语 ← 后置定语 serve as /act as 起 ... 作用 充当 担任 ; impressive adj. 给人深刻印象的 ; reminder n. 引起回忆的事物 提醒人的事物 提示 + of;

它给人们留下深刻的印象，使人们回忆起历史上的巨型帆船。

Before they were replaced by steamships,

引 主 谓 | 被动语态 状

before 引导时间状语从句 ; replace v. 取代 代替 更换 = take place of ; replace with/by 用 ... 来代替 ; replacement n. 替换 更换 替代品 ; displace v. 撤职 =dismiss 免职 取代 替代 ; steamship n. 蒸汽轮船 ; sailing vessels like the Cutty Sark were used to carry tea from China and wool from Australia.

主 ← 后置定语 谓 | 被动语态 主语补足语 sailing ship/vessel 帆船 ; vessel n. 轮船 大客船 ; liner n. 班船 ; vessel 用于正式文体，可代替 ship, boat: a fishing vessel.; boat 比 ship 小，非正式场合可以换用 ship; be used to do, use 是被动语态，被用来 ...; be used to doing 习惯做某事 ; used to do sth. 过去常常做某事 ;

在蒸汽船取代帆船之前，“卡蒂萨克”号之类的帆船被用来从中国运回茶叶，从澳大利亚运回羊毛。

The Cutty Sark was one of the fastest sailing ships that has ever been built.

主 系 表 ← 后置定语 | 最高级 ←主 谓 状 谓 | 被动语态 that 引导定语从句修饰 one, 表语是 one, 代表一个，所以定语从句中谓语动词用了 has, 注意 one 又由一个形容词最高级 the fastest 修饰，that 定语从句限制这个最高级的取舍范围 ;

“卡蒂萨克”号是帆船制造史上建造的最快的一艘帆船。

The only other ship to match her was the Thermopylae.

定 主 ← 后置定语 系 表 match v. 相配 满足 适应 n. 比赛 火柴 竞赛 婚姻；match maker 媒婆；March 三月；match in/for 与 ... 相匹敌 相比 = be equal to: The hotel can't be matched for service and food.；her 指帆船，拟人化，一般 ship, country, motherland, Earth 用 she/her;

唯一可以与之一比高低的是“塞姆皮雷”号帆船。

Both these ships set out from Shanghai on June 18th, 1872 on an exciting race to England.

定 主 谓 状 状 状 状

both these ships 这两艘船 = both of these ships, both ships; set out v. 开始 出发 动身；race n. 比赛（速度）;

两船于 1872 年 6 月 18 日同时从上海启航驶往英国，途中展开了一场激烈的比赛。

This race, which went on for exactly four months, was the last of its kind.

主 ← 主 谓 状 系 表

go on 进行 继续下去 = keep on; the last of its kind 这类比赛中的最后一次；

It marked the end of the great tradition of ships with sails and the beginning of a new era.

主 谓 宾 ← 后置定语 连 宾 ← 后置定语

mark v. 纪念 标志；mark the end/beginning of 标志着 ... 的结束 / 开始；tradition n. 传统；ships with sails = sailing ships/vessels; beginning n. 开头 开端 起源；era n. 时期 时代 = Age, times;

这场比赛持续了整整 4 个月，是这类比赛中的最后一次，它标志着帆船伟大传统的结束与一个新纪元的开始。

The first of the two ships to reach Java after the race had begun was the Thermopylae,

主 ← 后置定语修饰 first ←后置定语修饰 first 引 主 谓 系 表 java n. 爪哇；to reach Java 定语修饰 first，中间被另一个修饰 first 的介词短语 of the two ships 所分开；after 引导时间状语从句； but on the Indian Ocean, the Cutty Sark took the lead.

连 状 主 谓 宾

take the lead 领先 = go into the lead；lose one's lead 失去其领先地位；in the lead 处于领先地位（状态）; take over the lead 取得领先地位；

比赛开始后，“赛姆皮雷”号率先抵达爪哇岛。但在印度洋上，“卡蒂萨克”号驶到了前面。

It seemed certain that she would be the first ship home, but during the race she had a lot of bad luck.

形主 系 表 引 主 系 定 表 状 连 状 引 谓 定 宾

it seemed certain/sure ...;it 为形式主语，that 引导主语从句；home adv. 到家，返回英国；

看来，它首先返抵英国是确信无疑的了，但它却在比赛中连遭厄运。

In August, she was struck by a very heavy storm during which her rudder was torn away.

状 主 谓 | 被动语态 状 ← 状 主 谓 | 被动语态 strike-struck-struck v. 撞击 袭击 打；be struck by a very heavy storm/snow ... 严重地遇到了雨 / 雪；be caught in the rain/snow 遇到了雨 / 雪；storm n. 暴风雨；tear-torn/teared v. 撕裂 撕碎 撕开 扯破；tear away 撕掉 扯掉 = destroy, pull down/off; tear up 撕碎 tear off 撕下来；rudder n. 舵；during which 意指 during the storm, which 引导定语从句修饰 storm, 关系代词 which 在从句中作介词宾语时，介词置于句首；

8 月份“卡蒂萨克”号遭到了一场特大风暴的袭击，失去了一只舵。

The Cutty Sark rolled from side to side and it became impossible to steer her.

主 谓 状 连 形主 系 表 主语 roll v. 颠簸 摇摆 滚动 翻转 摇晃 n. 卷 打滚 翻滚；spring roll 炸春卷；from side to side 一边到另一边；neck to neck 并驾齐驱；hand in hand 手拉手；shoulder by shoulder 肩并肩；steer v. 掌握方向；steer clear of 避开 绕开；

船身左右摇晃，无法操纵。

A temporary rudder was made on board from spare planks and it was fitted with great difficulty.

定 主 谓 | 被动语态 状 状 连 主 谓 | 被动语态 状

temporary adj. 临时的；contemporary adj. 当代的；be made from 由 ... 制成；on board 在船上；spare adj. 备用的；plank n. 大块木板；fit v. 安装 装置 =equip, install；with difficulty 困难地 吃力地；

船员用备用的木板在船上赶制了一只应急用的舵，并克服重重困难将舵安装就位。

This greatly reduced the speed of the ship,

主 状 谓 宾 ← 后置定语

reduce v. 减少 减量 降低 = decrease, shrink; produce v. 生产 制造 制作 出示；induce v. 导致 引起 诱使 劝说；deduce v. 推断 演绎 推论 推导；seduce v. 诱奸 诱骗 唆使； for there was a danger that if she travelled too quickly, this rudder would be torn away as well.

引 谓 主 引 引 主 谓 状 主 谓 | 被动语态 状

for 引导原因状语从句；that 引导的从句作 danger 的同位语 [同位语从句], 在这个同位语从句内有一个由 if 引导的条件状语从句；as well 也；

这样一来，大大降低了船的航速。因为船不能开得太快，否则就有危险，应急舵也会被刮走。

Because of this, the Cutty Sark lost her lead.

状 主 谓 宾 lose one's lead 失去其领先地位；

因为这个缘故，“卡蒂萨克”号落到了后面。

After crossing the Equator, the captain called in at a port to have a new rudder fitted,

状 主 谓 状 目的状语：to = in order to, so as to

Equator n. 赤道；call in 召来 来访；call in at 停靠 拜访；to = in order to, so as to 目的是 ...; have sth. done 使某事予以处理 某事让别人做；

跨越赤道后，船长将船停靠在一个港口，在那儿换了一只舵。

but by now the Thermopylae was over five hundred miles ahead.

连 状 主 系 表 状

by now 此刻已经 此时 = so far；ahead adv. 提前 前面 领先 = in advance ≠ behind;

但此时，“塞姆皮雷”号早已在 500 多英里之遥了。

Though the new rudder was fitted at tremendous speed, it was impossible for the Cutty Sark to win.

引 定 主 谓 | 被动语态 状 形主 系 表 状 主语

though, although 引导让步状语从句；at tremendous speed 以极快的速度；tremendous adj. 惊人的 巨大的 极大的 极好的；

She arrived in England a week after the Thermopylae.

主 谓 状 状

a week later than Thermopylae；

尽管换装新舵时分秒必争，但“卡蒂萨克”号已经不可能取胜了，它抵达英国时比“塞姆皮雷”号晚了 1 个星期。

Even this was remarkable, considering that she had had so many delays.

状 主 系 谓 状 引 主 谓 状 定 宾 remarkable adj. 非凡的 奇异的 显著的 引人注目的 = extraordinary, unusual, uncommon; that 引导 considering 的宾语；considering conj. 连接词，考虑到，用来引导完整的语句：considering that 考虑到 ...; in view of = considering 以 ... 观点 考虑到；regarding prep. 关于 至于 = in respect of, with regard to; according to prep. 依据 按照 根据 = in accordance with, in line with, in keeping with; delay n.v. 耽误；

但考虑到路上的多次耽搁，这个成绩也已很不容易了。

There is no doubt that if she had not lost her rudder she would have won the race easily.

谓 定 主 引 引 主 谓 宾 主 谓 宾 状

there is no doubt 毫无疑问 = without any doubt；there is some doubt +wh- 从句 (主要指 whether): There is some doubt whether she is guilty. 不太确定她是否有罪；that 引导的从句作 doubt 的同位语 [同位语从句], 在这个同位语从句中有一个由 if 引导的虚拟语气条件状语从句；

与过去事实相反的虚拟语气，对过去的一种假设：主句 would have done，从句用过去完成时 [had done]；

毫无疑问，如果中途没有失去舵，“卡蒂萨克”号肯定能在比赛中轻易夺冠。

类型	主句	从句	范例
真实条件句	一般将来时 / 祈使句 情态动词 + 动词原型	一般现在时 情态动词 + 动词原型	I will not go to school if it rains. 如果下雨，我就不去上学。 Don't go to school if it rains. 如果下雨了，就不要去学校。
非真实与现在事实相反	would/should + 动词原型	一般过去时	I would not go to school if it rained. If I were you, I would not go. Were I you, I would not go. ←省略了 if 的倒装结构
非真实与过去事实相反	would/should have done	过去完成时	I would not have gone to school if it had rained. Had it rained I would not have gone to school.

虚拟语气表示说话人的主观愿望，猜疑，建议或与事实不符的假设等，而不表示客观存在的事实，是说话者用来表示假设，或难以实现的情况，而非客观存在的事实，所陈述的是一个条件，不一定是事实，甚至完全与事实相反；此外如需表达主观愿望或某种强烈的感情时，也可用虚拟语气；虚拟语气通过谓语动词的特殊形式来表示；在虚拟语气中，不管什么人称 was 一律用 were 取代；当从句的谓语动词含有 were, should, had 时，if 可以省略，这时从句要用倒装语序，即把 were, should, had 等词置于句首，这种多用于书面语；如果要加深记忆，可以听听女歌手 Beyoncé 的一首歌 'If I Were a Boy', 原歌词全部都是 [与现在事实相反的虚拟语气]: If I were a boy, I would + 动词原型：If I were a boy, I would ...

Lesson 26 Wanted: a large biscuit tin 征购大饼干筒

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

Who won the prize for the biggest biscuit?

No one can avoid being influenced by advertisements. Much as we may pride ourselves on our good taste, we are no longer free to choose the things we want, for advertising exerts a subtle influence on us. In their efforts to persuade us to buy this or that product, advertisers have made a close study of human nature and have classified all our little weaknesses.

Advertisers discovered years ago that all of us love to get something for nothing. An advertisement which begins with the magic word FREE can rarely go wrong. These days, advertisers not only offer free samples, but free cars, free houses, and free trips round the world as well. They devise hundreds of competitions which will enable us to win huge sums of money. Radio and television have made it possible for advertisers to capture the attention of millions of people in this way.

During a radio programme, a company of biscuit manufacturers once asked listeners to bake biscuits and send them to their factory. They offered to pay $10 a pound for the biggest biscuit baked by a listener. The response to this competition was tremendous. Before long, biscuits of all shapes and sizes began arriving at the factory. One lady brought in a biscuit on a wheelbarrow. It weighed nearly 500 pounds. A little later, a man came along with a biscuit which occupied the whole boot of his car. All the biscuits that were sent were carefully weighed. The largest was 713 pounds. It seemed certain that this would win the prize. But just before the competition closed, a lorry arrived at the factory with a truly colossal biscuit which weighed 2,400 pounds. It had been baked by a college student who had used over 1,000 pounds of flour, 800 pounds of sugar, 200 pounds of fat, and 400 pounds of various other ingredients. It was so heavy that a crane had to be used to remove it from the lorry. The manufacturers had to pay more money than they had anticipated, for they bought the biscuit from the student for $ 24,000.

Lesson 27 Nothing to sell and nothing to buy 不卖也不买

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

What is the most important thing for a tramp?

It has been said that everyone lives by selling something. In the light of this statement, teachers live by selling knowledge, philosophers by selling wisdom and priests by selling spiritual comfort. Though it may be possible to measure the value of material goods in terms of money, it is extremely difficult to estimate the true value of the services which people perform for us. There are times when we would willingly give everything we possess to save our lives, yet we might grudge paying a surgeon a high fee for offering us precisely this service. The conditions of society are such that skills have to be paid for in the same way that goods are paid for at a shop. Everyone has something to sell.

Tramps seem to be the only exception to this general rule. Beggars almost sell themselves as human beings to arouse the pity of passers-by. But real tramps are not beggars. They have nothing to sell and require nothing from others. In seeking independence, they do not sacrifice their human dignity. A tramp may ask you for money, but he will never ask you to feel sorry for him. He has deliberately chosen to lead the life he leads and is fully aware of the consequences. He may never be sure where the next meal is coming from, but he is free from the thousands of anxieties which afflict other people. His few material possessions make it possible for him to move from place to place with ease. By having to sleep in the open, he gets far closer to the world of nature than most of us ever do. He may hunt, beg, or steal occasionally to keep himself alive; he may even, in times of real need, do a little work; but he will never sacrifice his freedom. We often speak of tramps with contempt and put them in the same class as beggars, but how many of us can honestly say that we have not felt a little envious of their simple way of life and their freedom from care?

Lesson 28 Five pounds too dear 五镑也太贵

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

Why was even five pounds 'too dear'?

Small boats loaded with wares sped to the great liner as she was entering the harbour. Before she had anchored, the men from the boats had climbed on board and the decks were soon covered with colourful rugs from Persia, silks from India, copper coffee pots, and beautiful handmade silverware. It was difficult not to be tempted. Many of the tourists on board had begun bargaining with the tradesmen, but I decided not to buy anything until I had disembarked.

I had no sooner got off the ship than I was assailed by a man who wanted to sell me a diamond ring. I had no intention of buying one, but I could not conceal the fact that I was impressed by the size of the diamonds. Some of them were as big as marbles. The man went to great lengths to prove that the diamonds were real. As we were walking past a shop, he held a diamond firmly against the window and made a deep impression in the glass. It took me over half an hour to get rid of him.

The next man to approach me was selling expensive pens and watches. I examined one of the pens closely. It certainly looked genuine. At the base of the gold cap, the words 'made in the U.S.A.' had been neatly inscribed. The man said that the pen was worth £50, but as a special favour, he would let me have it for £30. I shook my head and held up five fingers indicating that I was willing to pay £5. Gesticulating wildly, the man acted as if he found my offer outrageous, but he eventually reduced the price to £10. Shrugging my shoulders, I began to walk away when, a moment later, he ran after me and thrust the pen into my hands. Though he kept throwing up his arms in despair, he readily accepted the £5 I gave him. I felt especially pleased with my wonderful bargain—until I got back to the ship. No matter how hard I tried, it was impossible to fill this beautiful pen with ink and to this day it has never written a single word!

Lesson 29 Funny or not? 是否可笑？

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

What is the basis of 'sick' humour?

Whether we find a joke funny or not largely depends on where we have been brought up. The sense of humour is mysteriously bound up with national characteristics. A Frenchman, for instance, might find it hard to laugh at a Russian joke. In the same way, a Russian might fail to see anything amusing in a joke which would make an Englishman laugh to tears.

Most funny stories are based on comic situations. In spite of national differences, certain funny situations have a universal appeal. No matter where you live, you would find it difficult not to laugh at, say, Charlie Chaplin's early films. However, a new type of humour, which stems largely from the U.S., has recently come into fashion. It is calledsick humour'. Comedians base their jokes on tragic situations like violent death or serious accidents. Many people find this sort of joke distasteful. The following example of 'sick humour' will enable you to judge for yourself.

A man who had broken his right leg was taken to hospital a few weeks before Christmas. From the moment he arrived there, he kept on pestering his doctor to tell him when he would be able to go home. He dreaded having to spend Christmas in hospital. Though the doctor did his best, the patient's recovery was slow. On Christmas Day, the man still had his right leg in plaster. He spent a miserable day in bed thinking of all the fun he was missing. The following day, however, the doctor consoled him by telling him that his chances of being able to leave hospital in time for New Year celebrations were good. The man took heart and, sure enough, on New Year's Eve he was able to hobble along to a party. To compensate for his unpleasant experiences in hospital, the man drank a little more than was good for him. In the process, he enjoyed himself thoroughly and kept telling everybody how much he hated hospitals. He was still mumbling something about hospitals at the end of the party when he slipped on a piece of ice and broke his left leg.

Lesson 30 The death of a ghost 幽灵之死

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

Why did the two brothers keep the secret?

For years, villagers believed that Endley Farm was haunted. The farm was owned by two brothers, Joe and Bob Cox. They employed a few farmhands, but no one was willing to work there long. Every time a worker gave up his job, he told the same story. Farm labourers said that they always woke up to find that work had been done overnight. Hay had been cut and cowsheds had been cleaned. A farm worker, who stayed up all night, claimed to have seen a figure cutting corn in the moonlight. In time, it became an accepted fact that the Cox brothers employed a conscientious ghost that did most of their work for them.

No one suspected that there might be someone else on the farm who had never been seen. This was indeed the case. A short time ago, villagers were astonished to learn that the ghost of Endley had died. Everyone went to the funeral, for the 'ghost' was none other than Eric Cox, a third brother who was supposed to have died as a young man. After the funeral, Joe and Bob revealed a secret which they had kept for over fifty years.

Eric had been the eldest son of the family, very much older than his two brothers. He had been obliged to join the army during the Second World War. As he hated army life, he decided to desert his regiment. When he learnt that he would be sent abroad, he returned to the farm and his father hid him until the end of the war. Fearing the authorities, Eric remained in hiding after the war as well. His father told everybody that Eric had been killed in action. The only other people who knew the secret were Joe and Bob. They did not even tell their wives. When their father died, they thought it their duty to keep Eric in hiding. All these years, Eric had lived as a recluse. He used to sleep during the day and work at night, quite unaware of the fact that he had become the ghost of Endley. When he died, however, his brothers found it impossible to keep the secret any longer.

Lesson 31 A lovable eccentric 可爱的怪人

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

Why did the shop assistant refuse to serve Dickie?

True eccentrics never deliberately set out to draw attention to themselves. They disregard social conventions without being conscious that they are doing anything extraordinary. This invariably wins them the love and respect of others, for they add colour to the dull routine of everyday life.

Up to the time of his death, Richard Colson was one of the most notable figures in our town. He was a shrewd and wealthy businessman, but most people in the town hardly knew anything about this side of his life. He was known to us all as Dickie and his eccentricity had become legendary long before he died.

Dickie disliked snobs intensely. Though he owned a large car, he hardly ever used it, preferring always to go on foot. Even when it was raining heavily, he refused to carry an umbrella. One day, he walked into an expensive shop after having been caught in a particularly heavy shower. He wanted to buy a £300 watch for his wife, but he was in such a bedraggled condition that an assistant refused to serve him. Dickie left the shop without a word and returned carrying a large cloth bag. As it was extremely heavy, he dumped it on the counter. The assistant asked him to leave, but Dickie paid no attention to him and requested to see the manager. Recognizing who the customer was, the manager was most apologetic and reprimanded the assistant severely. When Dickie was given the watch, he presented the assistant with the cloth bag. It contained £300 in pennies. He insisted on the assistant's counting the money before he left—30,000 pennies in all! On another occasion, he invited a number of important critics to see his private collection of modern paintings. This exhibition received a great deal of attention in the press, for though the pictures were supposed to be the work of famous artists, they had in fact been painted by Dickie. It took him four years to stage this elaborate joke simply to prove that critics do not always know what they are talking about.

Lesson 32 A lost ship 一艘沉船

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

Did the crew of the Elkor find what they were looking for? Why?

The salvage operation had been a complete failure. The small ship, Elkor, which had been searching the Barents Sea for weeks, was on its way home. A radio message from the mainland had been received by the ship's captain instructing him to give up the search. The captain knew that another attempt would be made later, for the sunken ship he was trying to find had been carrying a precious cargo of gold bullion.

Despite the message, the captain of the Elkor decided to try once more. The sea bed was scoured with powerful nets and there was tremendous excitement on board when a chest was raised from the bottom. Though the crew were at first under the impression that the lost ship had been found, the contents of the chest proved them wrong. What they had in fact found was a ship which had been sunk many years before.

The chest contained the personal belongings of a seaman, Alan Fielding. There were books, clothing and photographs, together with letters which the seaman had once received from his wife. The captain of the Elkor ordered his men to salvage as much as possible from the wreck. Nothing of value was found, but the numerous items which were brought to the surface proved to be of great interest. From a heavy gun that was raised, the captain realized that the ship must have been a cruiser. In another chest, which contained the belongings of a ship's officer, there was an unfinished letter which had been written on March 14th, 1943. The captain learnt from the letter that the name of the lost ship was the Karen. The most valuable find of all was the ship's log book, parts of which it was still possible to read. From this the captain was able to piece together all the information that had come to light. The Karen had been sailing in a convoy to Russia when she was torpedoed by an enemy submarine. This was later confirmed by a naval official at the Ministry of Defence after the Elkor had returned home. All the items that were found were sent to the War Museum.

Lesson 33 A day to remember 难忘的一天

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

What incident began the series of traffic accidents?

We have all experienced days when everything goes wrong. A day may begin well enough, but suddenly everything seems to get out of control. What invariably happens is that a great number of things choose to go wrong at precisely the same moment. It is as if a single unimportant event set up a chain of reactions. Let us suppose that you are preparing a meal and keeping an eye on the baby at the same time. The telephone rings and this marks the prelude to an unforeseen series of catastrophes. While you are on the phone, the baby pulls the tablecloth off the table, smashing half your best crockery and cutting himself in the process. You hang up hurriedly and attend to baby, crockery, etc. Meanwhile, the meal gets burnt. As if this were not enough to reduce you to tears, your husband arrives, unexpectedly bringing three guests to dinner.

Things can go wrong on a big scale, as a number of people recently discovered in Parramatta, a suburb of Sydney. During the rush hour one evening two cars collided and both drivers began to argue. The woman immediately behind the two cars happened to be a learner. She suddenly got into a panic and stopped her car. This made the driver following her brake hard. His wife was sitting beside him holding a large cake. As she was thrown forward, the cake went right through the windscreen and landed on the road. Seeing a cake flying through the air, a lorry driver who was drawing up alongside the car, pulled up all of a sudden. The lorry was loaded with empty beer bottles and hundreds of them slid off the back of the vehicle and on to the road. This led to yet another angry argument. Meanwhile, the traffic piled up behind. It took the police nearly an hour to get the traffic on the move again. In the meantime, the lorry driver had to sweep up hundreds of broken bottles. Only two stray dogs benefited from all this confusion, for they greedily devoured what was left of the cake. It was just one of those days!

Lesson 34 A happy discovery 幸运的发现

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

What was the 'happy discovery'?

Antique shops exert a peculiar fascination on a great many people. The more expensive kind of antique shop where rare objects are beautifully displayed in glass cases to keep them free from dust is usually a forbidding place. But no one has to muster up courage to enter a less pretentious antique shop. There is always hope that in its labyrinth of musty, dark, disordered rooms a real rarity will be found amongst the piles of assorted junk that litter the floors.

No one discovers a rarity by chance. A truly dedicated bargain hunter must have patience, and above all, the ability to recognize the worth of something when he sees it. To do this, he must be at least as knowledgeable as the dealer. Like a scientist bent on making a discovery, he must cherish the hope that one day he will be amply rewarded.

My old friend, Frank Halliday, is just such a person. He has often described to me how he picked up a masterpiece for a mere £50. One Saturday morning, Frank visited an antique shop in my neighbourhood. As he had never been there before, he found a great deal to interest him. The morning passed rapidly and Frank was about to leave when he noticed a large packing case lying on the floor. The dealer told him that it had just come in, but that he could not be bothered to open it. Frank begged him to do so and the dealer reluctantly prised it open. The contents were disappointing. Apart from an interesting-looking carved dagger, the box was full of crockery, much of it broken. Frank gently lifted the crockery out of the box and suddenly noticed a miniature painting at the bottom of the packing case. As its Composition and line reminded him of an Italian painting he knew well, he decided to buy it. Glancing at it briefly, the dealer told him that it was worth £50. Frank could hardly conceal his excitement, for he knew that he had made a real discovery. The tiny painting proved to be an unknown masterpiece by Correggio and was worth hundreds of thousands of pounds.

Lesson 35 Justice was done 伸张正义

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

The word 'justice' is given two different meanings in the text. What is the distinction between them?

The word justice is usually associated with courts of law. We might say that justice has been done when a man's innocence or guilt has been proved beyond doubt. Justice is part of the complex machinery of the law. Those who seek it undertake an arduous journey and can never be sure that they will find it. Judges, however wise or eminent, are human and can make mistakes.

There are rare instances when justice almost ceases to be an abstract concept. Reward or punishment are meted out quite independent of human interference. At such times, justice acts like a living force. When we use a phrase like 'it serves him right', we are, in part, admitting that a certain set of circumstances has enabled justice to act of its own accord.

When a thief was caught on the premises of a large jewellery store one morning, the shop assistants must have found it impossible to resist the temptation to say 'it serves him right'. The shop was an old converted house with many large, disused fireplaces and tall, narrow chimneys. Towards midday, a girl heard a muffled cry coming from behind one of the walls. As the cry was repeated several times, she ran to tell the manager who promptly rang up the fire brigade. The cry had certainly come from one of the chimneys, but as there were so many of them, the fire fighters could not be certain which one it was. They located the right chimney by tapping at the walls and listening for the man's cries. After chipping through a wall which was eighteen inches thick, they found that a man had been trapped in the chimney. As it was extremely narrow, the man was unable to move, but the fire fighters were eventually able to free him by cutting a huge hole in the wall. The sorry-looking, blackened figure that emerged, admitted at once that he had tried to break into the shop during the night but had got stuck in the chimney. He had been there for nearly ten hours. Justice had been done even before the man was handed over to the police.

Lesson 36 A chance in a million 百万分之一的机遇

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

What was the chance in a million?

We are less credulous than we used to be. In the nineteenth century, a novelist would bring his story to a conclusion by presenting his readers with a series of coincidences—most of them wildly improbable. Readers happily accepted the fact that an obscure maidservant was really the hero's mother. A long-lost brother, who was presumed dead, was really alive all the time and wickedly plotting to bring about the hero's downfall. And so on. Modern readers would find such naive solutions totally unacceptable. Yet, in real life, circumstances do sometimes conspire to bring about coincidences which anyone but a nineteenth century novelist would find incredible.

When I was a boy, my grandfather told me how a German taxi driver, Franz Bussman, found a brother who was thought to have been killed twenty years before. While on a walking tour with his wife, he stopped to talk to a workman. After they had gone on, Mrs. Bussman commented on the workman's close resemblance to her husband and even suggested that he might be his brother. Franz poured scorn on the idea, pointing out that his brother had been killed in action during the war. Though Mrs. Bussman was fully acquainted with this story, she thought that there was a chance in a million that she might be right. A few days later, she sent a boy to the workman to ask him if his name was Hans Bussman. Needless to say, the man's name was Hans Bussman and he really was Franz's long-lost brother. When the brothers were reunited, Hans explained how it was that he was still alive. After having been wounded towards the end of the war, he had been sent to hospital and was separated from his unit. The hospital had been bombed and Hans had made his way back into Western Germany on foot. Meanwhile, his unit was lost and all records of him had been destroyed. Hans returned to his family home, but the house had been bombed and no one in the neighbourhood knew what had become of the inhabitants. Assuming that his family had been killed during an air raid, Hans settled down in a village fifty miles away where he had remained ever since.

We are less credulous than we used to be.

主　系　状　表　状　主　谓

credulous adj. 轻信的 易受骗的；credulity n. 轻信 易信；used to do sth. 过去常常做某事，现在不做；谓语动词是 be 动词的时候用 used to be, 而不用 used to: We are not so honest as we used to be.; 谓语动词是使役动词的时候用 used do :He works less hard than he used to.

★★★ used to do sth, 过去经常做某事，而现在已经停止，不再重复的动作，这里的 to 是不定式，而不是介词，所以其后只接动词原形，不能接动名词；be used to sth/doing sth 习惯于某事 / 做某事，其中的 to 是介词，所以其后要接名词或动名词，不能接动词原形，若要强调从不习惯到习惯的过程，用 get, become 等代替动词 be; be used to do sth 被用来做某事，其中 to 是不定式符号，所以其后要接动词原形，等于 be used for doing sth; be used as sth 被作为 ... 用；be used by sb 被某人使用；

我们不再像以往那样轻易相信别人了。

Lesson 37 The Westhaven Express

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

What was the mistake the author made?

We have learnt to expect that trains will be punctual. After years of conditioning, most of us have developed an unshakable faith in railway timetables. Ships may be delayed by storms; flights may be cancelled because of bad weather; but trains must be on time. Only an exceptionally heavy snowfall might temporarily dislocate railway services. It is all too easy to blame the railway authorities when something does go wrong. The truth is that when mistakes occur, they are more likely to be ours than theirs.

After consulting my railway timetable, I noted with satisfaction that there was an express train to Westhaven. It went direct from my local station and the journey lasted a mere hour and seventeen minutes. When I boarded the train, I could not help noticing that a great many local people got on as well. At the time, this did not strike me as odd. I reflected that there must be a great many people besides myself who wished to take advantage of this excellent service. Neither was I surprised when the train stopped at Widley, a tiny station a few miles along the line. Even a mighty express train can be held up by signals. But when the train dawdled at station after station, I began to wonder. It suddenly dawned on me that this express was not roaring down the line at ninety miles an hour, but barely chugging along at thirty. One hour and seventeen minutes passed and we had not even covered half the distance. I asked a passenger if this was the Westhaven Express, but he had not even heard of it. I determined to lodge a complaint as soon as we arrived. Two hours later, I was talking angrily to the station master at Westhaven. When he denied the train's existence, I borrowed his copy of the timetable. There was a note of triumph in my voice when I told him that it was there in black and white. Glancing at it briefly, he told me to look again. A tiny asterisk conducted me to a footnote at the bottom of the page. It said: 'This service has been suspended.'

Lesson 38 The first calendar 最早的日历

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

What is the importance of the dots, lines, and symbols engraved on stone, bones and ivory?

Future historians will be in a unique position when they come to record the history of our own times. They will hardly know which facts to select from the great mass of evidence that steadily accumulates. What is more, they will not have to rely solely on the written word. Films, videos, CDs and CD-ROMs are just some of the bewildering amount of information they will have. They will be able, as it were, to see and hear us in action. But the historian attempting to reconstruct the distant past is always faced with a difficult task. He has to deduce what he can from the few scanty clues available. Even seemingly insignificant remains can shed interesting light on the history of early man.

Historians have long been puzzled by dots, lines and symbols which have been engraved on walls, bones, and the ivory tusks of mammoths. The nomads who made these markings lived by hunting and fishing during the last Ice Age which began about 35,000 B.C. and ended about 10,000 B.C. By correlating markings made in various parts of the world, historians have been able to read this difficult code. They have found that it is connected with the passage of days and the phases of the moon. It is, in fact, a primitive type of calendar. It has long been known that the hunting scenes depicted on walls were not simply a form of artistic expression. They had a definite meaning, for they were as near as early man could get to writing. It is possible that there is a definite relation between these paintings and the markings that sometimes accompany them. It seems that man was making a real effort to understand the seasons 20,000 years earlier than has been supposed.

Lesson 39 Nothing to worry about 不必担心

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

What was the difference between Bruce's behaviour and that of other people?

The rough road across the plain soon became so bad that we tried to get Bruce to drive back to the village we had come from. Even though the road was littered with boulders and pitted with holes, Bruce was not in the least perturbed. Glancing at his map, he informed us that the next village was a mere twenty miles away. It was not that Bruce always underestimated difficulties. He simply had no sense of danger at all. No matter what the conditions were, he believed that a car should be driven as fast as it could possibly go.

As we bumped over the dusty track, we swerved to avoid large boulders: The wheels scooped up stones which hammered ominously under the car. We felt sure that sooner or later a stone would rip a hole in our petrol tank or damage the engine. Because of this, we kept looking back, wondering if we were leaving a trail of oil and petrol behind us.

What a relief it was when the boulders suddenly disappeared, giving way to a stretch of plain where the only obstacles were clumps of bushes. But there was worse to come. Just ahead of us there was a huge fissure. In response to renewed pleadings, Bruce stopped. Though we all got out to examine the fissure, he remained in the car. We informed him that the fissure extended for fifty yards and was two feet wide and four feet deep. Even this had no effect. Bruce went into a low gear and drove at a terrifying speed, keeping the front wheels astride the crack as he followed its zigzag course. Before we had time to worry about what might happen, we were back on the plain again. Bruce consulted the map once more and told us that the village was now only fifteen miles away. Our next obstacle was a shallow pool of water about half a mile across. Bruce charged at it, but in the middle, the car came to a grinding halt. A yellow light on the dashboard flashed angrily and Bruce cheerfully announced that there was no oil in the engine!

Lesson 40 Who's who 真假难辨

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

How did the policeman discover that the whole thing was a joke?

It has never been explained why university students seem to enjoy practical jokes more than anyone else. Students specialize in a particular type of practical joke: the hoax. Inviting the fire brigade to put out a nonexistent fire is a crude form of deception which no self-respecting student would ever indulge in. Students often create amusing situations which are funny to everyone except the victims.

When a student recently saw two workmen using a pneumatic drill outside his university, he immediately telephoned the police and informed them that two students dressed up as workmen were tearing up the road with a pneumatic drill. As soon as he had hung up, he went over to the workmen and told them that if a policeman ordered them to go away, they were not to take him seriously. He added that a student had dressed up as a policeman and was playing all sorts of silly jokes on people. Both the police and the workmen were grateful to the student for this piece of advance information.

The student hid in an archway nearby where he could watch and hear everything that went on. Sure enough, a policeman arrived on the scene and politely asked the workmen to go away. When he received a very rude reply from one of the workmen, he threatened to remove them by force. The wokmen told him to do as he pleased and the policeman telephoned for help. Shortly afterwards, four more policemen arrived and remonstrated with the workmen. As the men refused to stop working, the police attempted to seize the pneumatic drill. The workmen struggled fiercely and one of them lost his temper. He threatened to call the police. At this, the police pointed out ironically that this would hardly be necessary as the men were already under arrest. Pretending to speak seriously, one of the workmen asked if he might make a telephone call before being taken to the station. Permission was granted and a policeman accompanied him to a pay phone. Only when he saw that the man was actually telephoning the police did he realize that they had all been the victims of a hoax.

Lesson 41 Illusions of pastoral peace 宁静田园生活的遐想

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

What particular anxiety spoils the country dweller's visit to the theatre?

The quiet life of the country has never appealed to me. City born and city bred, I have always regarded the country as something you look at through a train window, or something you occasionally visit during the weekend. Most of my friends live in the city, yet they always go into raptures at the mere mention of the country. Though they extol the virtues of the peaceful life, only one of them has ever gone to live in the country and he was back in town within six months. Even he still lives under the illusion that country life is somehow superior to town life. He is forever talking about the friendly people, the clean atmosphere, the closeness to nature and the gentle pace of living. Nothing can be compared, he maintains, with the first cockcrow, the twittering of birds at dawn, the sight of the rising sun glinting on the trees and pastures. This idyllic pastoral scene is only part of the picture. My friend fails to mention the long and friendless winter evenings in front of the TV—virtually the only form of entertainment. He says nothing about the poor selection of goods in the shops, or about those unfortunate people who have to travel from the country to the city every day to get to work. Why people are prepared to tolerate a four-hour journey each day for the dubious privilege of living in the country is beyond me. They could be saved so much misery and expense if they chose to live in the city where they rightly belong.

If you can do without the few pastoral pleasures of the country, you will find the city can provide you with the best that life can offer. You never have to travel miles to see your friends. They invariably live nearby and are always available for an informal chat or an evening's entertainment. Some of my acquaintances in the country come up to town once or twice a year to visit the theatre as a special treat. For them this is a major operation which involves considerable planning. As the play draws to its close, they wonder whether they will ever catch that last train home. The city dweller never experiences anxieties of this sort. The latest exhibitions, films, or plays are only a short bus ride away. Shopping, too, is always a pleasure. There is so much variety that you never have to make do with second best. Country people run wild when they go shopping in the city and stagger home loaded with as many of the exotic items as they can carry. Nor is the city without its moments of beauty. There is something comforting about the warm glow shed by advertisements on cold wet winter nights. Few things could be more impressive than the peace that descends on deserted city streets at weekends when the thousands that travel to work every day are tucked away in their homes in the country. It has always been a mystery to me why city dwellers, who appreciate all these things, obstinately pretend that they would prefer to live in the country.

Lesson 42 Modern cavemen 现代洞穴人

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

With what does the writer compare the Gouffre Berger?

Cave exploration, or pot-holing, as it has come to be known, is a relatively new sport. Perhaps it is the desire for solitude or the chance of making an unexpected discovery that lures people down to the depths of the earth. It is impossible to give a satisfactory explanation for a pot-holer's motives. For him, caves have the same peculiar fascination which high mountains have for the climber. They arouse instincts which can only be dimly understood.

Exploring really deep caves is not a task for the Sunday afternoon rambler. Such undertakings require the precise planning and foresight of military operations. It can take as long as eight days to rig up rope ladders and to establish supply bases before a descent can be made into a very deep cave. Precautions of this sort are necessary, for it is impossible to foretell the exact nature of the difficulties which will confront the pot-holer. The deepest known cave in the world is the Gouffre Berger near Grenoble. It extends to a depth of 3,723 feet. This immense chasm has been formed by an underground stream which has tunnelled a course through a flaw in the rocks. The entrance to the cave is on a plateau in the Dauphiné Alps. As it is only six feet across, it is barely noticeable. The cave might never have been discovered had not the entrance been spotted by the distinguished French pot-holer, Berger. Since its discovery, it has become a sort of pot-holers' Everest. Though a number of descents have been made, much of it still remains to be explored.

A team of pot-holers recently went down the Gouffre Berger. After entering the narrow gap on the plateau, they climbed down the steep sides of the cave until they came to a narrow corridor. They had to edge their way along this, sometimes wading across shallow streams, or swimming across deep pools. Suddenly they came to a waterfall which dropped into an underground lake at the bottom of the cave. They plunged into the lake, and after loading their gear on an inflatable rubber dinghy, let the current carry them to the other side. To protect themselves from the icy water, they had to wear special rubber suits. At the far end of the lake, they came to huge piles of rubble which had been washed up by the water. In this part of the cave, they could hear an insistent booming sound which they found was caused by a small waterspout shooting down into a pool from the roof of the cave. Squeezing through a cleft in the rocks, the pot-holers arrived at an enormous cavern, the size of a huge concert hall. After switching on powerful arc lights, they saw great stalagmites — some of them over forty feet high — rising up like tree-trunks to meet the stalactites suspended from the roof. Round about, piles of limestone glistened in all the colours of the rainbow. In the eerie silence of the cavern, the only sound that could be heard was made by water which dripped continuously from the high dome above them.

Lesson 43 Fully insured 全保险

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

Who owned the pie dish and why?

Insurance companies are normally willing to insure anything. Insuring public or private property is a standard practice in most countries in the world. If, however, you were holding an open air garden party or a fete it would be equally possible to insure yourself in the event of bad weather. Needless to say, the bigger the risk an insurance company takes, the higher the premium you will have to pay. It is not uncommon to hear that a shipping company has made a claim for the cost of salvaging a sunken ship. But the claim made by a local authority to recover the cost of salvaging a sunken pie dish must surely be unique.

Admittedly it was an unusual pie dish, for it was eighteen feet long and six feet wide. It had been purchased by a local authority so that an enormous pie could be baked for an annual fair. The pie committee decided that the best way to transport the dish would be by canal, so they insured it for the trip. Shortly after it was launched, the pie committee went to a local inn to celebrate. At the same time, a number of teenagers climbed on to the dish and held a little party of their own. Dancing proved to be more than the dish could bear, for during the party it capsized and sank in seven feet of water.

The pie committee telephoned a local garage owner who arrived in a recovery truck to salvage the pie dish. Shivering in their wet clothes, the teenagers looked on while three men dived repeatedly into the water to locate the dish. They had little difficulty in finding it, but hauling it out of the water proved to be a serious problem. The sides of the dish were so smooth that it was almost impossible to attach hawsers and chains to the rim without damaging it. Eventually chains were fixed to one end of the dish and a powerful winch was put into operation. The dish rose to the surface and was gently drawn towards the canal bank. For one agonizing moment, the dish was perched precariously on the bank of the canal, but it suddenly overbalanced and slid back into the water. The men were now obliged to try once more. This time they fixed heavy metal clamps to both sides of the dish so that they could fasten the chains. The dish now had to be lifted vertically because one edge was resting against the side of the canal. The winch was again put into operation and one of the men started up the truck. Several minutes later, the dish was successfully hauled above the surface of the water. Water streamed in torrents over its sides with such force that it set up a huge wave in the canal. There was a danger that the wave would rebound off the other side of the bank and send the dish plunging into the water again. By working at tremendous speed, the men managed to get the dish on to dry land before the wave returned.

Lesson 44 Speed and comfort 又快捷又舒适

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

Which type of transport does the writer prefer, do you think?

People travelling long distances frequently have to decide whether they would prefer to go by land, sea, or air. Hardly anyone can positively enjoy sitting in a train for more than a few hours. Train compartments soon get cramped and stuffy. It is almost impossible to take your mind off the journey. Reading is only a partial solution, for the monotonous rhythm of the wheels clicking on the rails soon lulls you to sleep. During the day, sleep comes in snatches. At night, when you really wish to go to sleep, you rarely manage to do so. If you are lucky enough to get a sleeper, you spend half the night staring at the small blue light in the ceiling, or fumbling to find your ticket for inspection. Inevitably you arrive at your destination almost exhausted. Long car journeys are even less pleasant, for it is quite impossible even to read. On motorways you can, at least, travel fairly safely at high speeds, but more often than not, the greater part of the journey is spent on roads with few service stations and too much traffic. By comparison, ferry trips or cruises offer a great variety of civilized comforts. You can stretch your legs on the spacious decks, play games, meet interesting people and enjoy good food—always assuming, of course, that the sea is calm. If it is not, and you are likely to get seasick, no form of transport could be worse. Even if you travel in ideal weather, sea journeys take a long time. Relatively few people are prepared to sacrifice holiday time for the pleasure of travelling by sea.

Aeroplanes have the reputation of being dangerous and even hardened travellers are intimidated by them. They also have the disadvantage of being an expensive form of transport. But nothing can match them for speed and comfort. Travelling at a height of 30,000 feet, far above the clouds, and at over 500 miles an hour is an exhilarating experience. You do not have to devise ways of taking your mind off the journey, for an aeroplane gets you to your destination rapidly. For a few hours, you settle back in a deep armchair to enjoy the flight. The real escapist can watch a film and sip champagne on some services. But even when such refinements are not available, there is plenty to keep you occupied. An aeroplane offers you an unusual and breathtaking view of the world. You soar effortlessly over high mountains and deep valleys. You really see the shape of the land. If the landscape is hidden from view, you can enjoy the extraordinary sight of unbroken cloud plains that stretch out for miles before you, while the sun shines brilliantly in a clear sky. The journey is so smooth that there is nothing to prevent you from reading or sleeping. However you decide to spend your time, one thing is certain: you will arrive at your destination fresh and uncrumpled. You will not have to spend the next few days recovering from a long and arduous journey.

如何去组织一篇文章？

开头段：直接了当说明主题（中西方文化不一样），开门见山；论点太大，没有充足的时间及篇幅来论述论点；亦不能太小，要吸引读者；

可以使用谚语作为 topic：as the saying/proverb goes " it serves him right "

定义法（可以正面亦可用反面，限定内容）->what is advertisement , it is the words or pictures on a media to promote product / the sale of product ;

可以使用提问法 :do you have a good / large circle of friends ?

概括法（开头段段首）:i quite agree with this idea ;

间接开头法，先叙述别人的观点，然后引出自己的真实看法 :people often say that money can buy all the things ,but i think it is not true.

支持段：由一段或两段组成，目的是支持论点（对比法，比较法，例证法 ..)

每一自然段的开关句及结束句一定要和主题密切联系，概述一下；

最主要的方法有三种：对比法，比较法，例证法

结束段：总结，升华，再次肯定和强调主题，加深读者印象，一定要言简意赅；

段落是由主题句，扩展句结成，扩展句之后是具体的例子；

想表达不同的理论概念，要用转折句，连接词的运用（衔接作用）

主题句应该要简练，要明确地表达中心思想，概述并提出论点看法以便以下文加以论述；

主题句确立之后，还要进一步利用扩展句来说明解释主题句的内容；

重复说明关键词（同义词，近义词，反义词 - 读者跟着你的思路走），衔接词让整篇文章脉络清晰；

内容要连贯 -- 跳跃不要太大

衔接词的使用：

1), 起 - 开头 :at first ,firstly ,first, in the beginning 起初 ,first of all ; at present ,nowaday,currently ,recently ,to start with(to begin with) 目前 for one thing 首先 for another 其次 ; in one hand 一方面 ,in the other hand 另一方面 ;(开篇用词) in fact 事实 actually ; as a matter of fact , in reality ; from now on ;

moreover , no doubt ,without any doubt ; similarly 同样地 ,in the same way ; obviously 明显地 ;particularly 特别地 ;such as ,for example .for instance ;

as a consequence , consequtently ,as a result ; what is more ,what is worse ,what is better ;similarly ; partucularly ;

3), 转 - 转折 : after all 毕竟 ,; (above all 最重要的是):he made a mistake ,after all he is a child aged 5.

all the same ,still , just the same 虽然，但是 :even though you are not of most help , i 'm grateful to you just the same.

anyway 无论如何 somehow 不怎么怎么搞的 : i had expected myself to pass the examination , somehow i failed .

but , however =nevertheless , nonetheless ;

he is wealthy, but he is unhappy . he is wealthy . however he is unhappy.

conversely 相反地 =on the contrary ; despite , in spite of , in contempt of ,in disregard of ;

by contrast 对比（差异）; by comparison 比较（相同）;

fortunately : i don't have the ability to do the work , fortunately my friends promise me to help me.

on other words 换句话说 ; on the other hand 另一方面 ; unlike 和 .. 不同，不象 ; whereas 然而 (yet)

4), 合 - 总结：主要是用来小结上文或作结尾段

accordingly 于是，因此 ; as has been noted(above) 如前所述 ,as has been mentioned , as has been talked of ;

at last ,finally ,lastly , at length ; briefly 简言之 ,in brief ,in short , in a word , in conclusion ,in sum/summary , to sum up ,to summarize ,to conclude;

no doubt 毫无疑问 , undoubtedly , truly ,certainly, positively ,obviously ; on the whole 总起来说 ;

Lesson 45 The power of the press 新闻报道的威力

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

Does the writer think the parents were lucky or unlucky to gain prosperity in this way? Why?

In democratic countries any efforts to restrict the freedom of the press are rightly condemned. However, this freedom can easily be abused. Stories about people often attract far more public attention than political events. Though we may enjoy reading about the lives of others, it is extremely doubtful whether we would equally enjoy reading about ourselves. Acting on the contention that facts are sacred, reporters can cause untold suffering to individuals by publishing details about their private lives. Newspapers exert such tremendous influence that they can not only bring about major changes to the lives of ordinary people but can even overthrow a government.

The story of a poor family that acquired fame and fortune overnight, dramatically illustrates the power of the press. The family lived in Aberdeen, a small town of 23,000 inhabitants in South Dakota. As the parents had five children, life was a perpetual struggle against poverty. They were expecting their sixth child and were faced with even more pressing economic problems. If they had only had one more child, the fact would have passed unnoticed. They would have continued to struggle against economic odds and would have lived in obscurity. But they suddenly became the parents of quintuplets, four girls and a boy, an event which radically changed their lives. The day after the birth of the five children, an aeroplane arrived in Aberdeen bringing sixty reporters and photographers.

The rise to fame was swift. Television cameras and newspapers carried the news to everyone in the country. Newspapers and magazines offered the family huge sums for the exclusive rights to publish stories and photographs. Gifts poured in not only from unknown people, but from baby food and soap manufacturers who wished to advertise their products. The old farmhouse the family lived in was to be replaced by a new $500,000 home. Reporters kept pressing for interviews so lawyers had to be employed to act as spokesmen for the family at press conferences. While the five babies were still quietly sleeping in oxygen tents in a hospital nursery, their parents were paying the price for fame. It would never again be possible for them to lead normal lives. They had become the victims of commercialization, for their names had acquired a market value. Instead of being five new family members, these children had immediately become a commodity.

Lesson 46 Do it yourself 自己动手

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

Did the writer repair his lawn mower in the end? Why/Why not?

So great is our passion for doing things for ourselves, that we are becoming increasingly less dependent on specialized labour. No one can plead ignorance of a subject any longer, for there are countless do-it-yourself publications. Armed with the right tools and materials, newlyweds gaily embark on the task of decorating their own homes. Men, particularly, spend hours of their leisure time installing their own fireplaces, laying out their own gardens; building garages and making furniture. Some really keen enthusiasts go so far as to build their own computers. Shops cater for the do-it-yourself craze not only by running special advisory services for novices, but by offering consumers bits and pieces which they can assemble at home. Such things provide an excellent outlet for pent up creative energy, but unfortunately not all of us are born handymen.

Some wives tend to believe that their husbands are infinitely resourceful and can fix anything. Even men who can hardly drive a nail in straight are supposed to be born electricians, carpenters, plumbers and mechanics. When lights fuse, furniture gets rickety, pipes get clogged, or vacuum cleaners fail to operate, some women assume that their husbands will somehow put things right. The worst thing about the do-it-yourself game is that sometimes even men live under the delusion that they can do anything, even when they have repeatedly been proved wrong. It is a question of pride as much as anything else.

Last spring my wife suggested that I call in a man to look at our lawn mower. It had broken down the previous summer, and though I promised to repair it, I had never got round to it. I would not hear of the suggestion and said that I would fix it myself. One Saturday afternoon, I hauled the machine into the garden and had a close look at it. As far as I could see, it needed only a minor adjustment: a turn of a screw here, a little tightening up there, a drop of oil and it would be as good as new. Inevitably the repair job was not quite so simple. The mower firmly refused to mow, so I decided to dismantle it. The garden was soon littered with chunks of metal which had once made up a lawn mower. But I was extremely pleased with myself. I had traced the cause of the trouble. One of the links in the chain that drives the wheels had snapped. After buying a new chain I was faced with the insurmountable task of putting the confusing jigsaw puzzle together again. I was not surprised to find that the machine still refused to work after I had reassembled it, for the simple reason that I was left with several curiously shaped bits of metal which did not seem to fit anywhere. I gave up in despair. The weeks passed and the grass grew. When my wife nagged me to do something about it, I told her that either I would have to buy a new mower or let the grass grow. Needless to say our house is now surrounded by a jungle. Buried somewhere in deep grass there is a rusting lawn mower which I have promised to repair one day.

Lesson 47 Too high a price? 代价太高？

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

What does the writer describe as an 'amusing old-fashioned source of noise'?

Pollution is the price we pay for an overpopulated, over-industrialized planet. When you come to think about it, there are only four ways you can deal with rubbish: dump it, burn it, turn it into something you can use again, attempt to produce less of it. We keep trying all four methods, but the sheer volume of rubbish we produce worldwide threatens to overwhelm us.

Rubbish, however, is only part of the problem of polluting our planet. The need to produce ever-increasing quantities of cheap food leads to a different kind of pollution. Industrialized farming methods produce cheap meat products: beef, pork and chicken. The use of pesticides and fertilizers produces cheap grain and vegetables. The price we pay for cheap food may be already too high: Mad Cow Disease (BSE) in cattle, salmonella in chicken and eggs, and listeria in dairy products. And if you think you'll abandon meat and become a vegetarian, you have the choice of very expensive organically-grown vegetables or a steady diet of pesticides every time you think you're eating fresh salads and vegetables, or just having an innocent glass of water!

However, there is an even more insidious kind of pollution that particularly affects urban areas and invades our daily lives, and that is noise. Burglar alarms going off at any time of the day or night serve only to annoy passers-by and actually assist burglars to burgle. Car alarms constantly scream at us in the street and are a source of profound irritation. A recent survey of the effects of noise revealed (surprisingly?) that dogs barking incessantly in the night rated the highest form of noise pollution on a scale ranging from 1 to 7. The survey revealed a large number of sources of noise that we really dislike. Lawn mowers whining on a summer's day, late-night parties in apartment blocks, noisy neighbours, vehicles of all kinds, especially large container trucks thundering through quiet villages, planes and helicopters flying overhead, large radios carried round in public places and played at maximum volume. New technology has also made its own contribution to noise. A lot of people object to mobile phones, especially when they are used in public places like restaurants or on public transport. Loud conversations on mobile phones invade our thoughts or interrupt the pleasure of meeting friends for a quiet chat. The noise pollution survey revealed a rather surprising and possibly amusing old-fashioned source of noise. It turned out to be snoring! Men were found to be the worst offenders. It was revealed that 20% of men in their mid-thirties snore. This figure rises to a staggering 60% of men in their sixties. Against these figures, it was found that only 5% of women snore regularly, while the rest are constantly woken or kept awake by their trumpeting partners. Whatever the source of noise, one thing is certain: silence, it seems, has become a golden memory.

Lesson 48 The silent village 沉默的村庄

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

Why was the village silent?

In this much-travelled world, there are still thousands of places which are inaccessible to tourists. We always assume that villagers in remote places are friendly and hospitable. But people who are cut off not only from foreign tourists, but even from their own countrymen can be hostile to travellers. Visits to really remote villages are seldom enjoyable—as my wife and I discovered during a tour through the Balkans.

We had spent several days in a small town and visited a number of old churches in the vicinity. These attracted many visitors, for they were not only of great architectural interest, but contained a large number of beautifully preserved frescoes as well. On the day before our departure, several bus loads of tourists descended on the town. This was more than we could bear, so we decided to spend our last day exploring the countryside. Taking a path which led out of the town, we crossed a few fields until we came to a dense wood. We expected the path to end abruptly, but we found that it traced its way through the trees. We tramped through the wood for over two hours until we arrived at a deep stream. We could see that the path continued on the other side, but we had no idea how we could get across the stream. Suddenly my wife spotted a boat moored to the bank. In it there was a boatman fast asleep. We gently woke him up and asked him to ferry us to the other side. Though he was reluctant to do so at first, we eventually persuaded him to take us.

The path led to a tiny village perched on the steep sides of a mountain. The place consisted of a straggling unmade road which was lined on either side by small houses. Even under a clear blue sky, the village looked forbidding, as all the houses were built of grey mud bricks. The village seemed deserted, the only sign of life being an ugly-looking black goat on a short length of rope tied to a tree in a field nearby. Sitting down on a dilapidated wooden fence near the field, we opened a couple of tins of sardines and had a picnic lunch. All at once, I noticed that my wife seemed to be filled with alarm. Looking up I saw that we were surrounded by children in rags who were looking at us silently as we ate. We offered them food and spoke to them kindly, but they remained motionless. I concluded that they were simply shy of strangers. When we later walked down the main street of the village, we were followed by a silent procession of children. The village which had seemed deserted, immediately came to life. Faces appeared at windows. Men in shirt sleeves stood outside their houses and glared at us. Old women in black shawls peered at us from doorways. The most frightening thing of all was that not a sound could be heard. There was no doubt that we were unwelcome visitors. We needed no further warning. Turning back down the main street, we quickened our pace and made our way rapidly towards the stream where we hoped the boatman was waiting.

Lesson 49 The ideal servant 理想的仆人

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

What was Bessie's 'little weakness'?

It is a good thing my aunt Harriet died years ago. If she were alive today she would not be able to air her views on her favourite topic of conversation: domestic servants. Aunt Harriet lived in that leisurely age when servants were employed to do housework. She had a huge, rambling country house called 'The Gables'. She was sentimentally attached to this house, for even though it was far too big for her needs, she persisted in living there long after her husband's death. Before she grew old, Aunt Harriet used to entertain lavishly. I often visited The Gables when I was a boy. No matter how many guests were present, the great house was always immaculate. The parquet floors shone like mirrors; highly polished silver was displayed in gleaming glass cabinets; even my uncle's huge collection of books was kept miraculously free from dust. Aunt Harriet presided over an invisible army of servants that continuously scrubbed, cleaned, and polished. She always referred to them as 'the shifting population', for they came and went with such frequency that I never even got a chance to learn their names. Though my aunt pursued what was, in those days, an enlightened policy, in that she never allowed her domestic staff to work more than eight hours a day, she was extremely difficult to please. While she always criticized the fickleness of human nature, she carried on an unrelenting search for the ideal servant to the end of her days, even after she had been sadly disillusioned by Bessie.

Bessie worked for Aunt Harriet for three years. During that time she so gained my aunt's confidence, that she was put in charge of the domestic staff. Aunt Harriet could not find words to praise Bessie's industriousness and efficiency. In addition to all her other qualifications, Bessie was an expert cook. She acted the role of the perfect servant for three years before Aunt Harriet discovered her 'little weakness'. After being absent from The Gables for a week, my aunt unexpectedly returned one afternoon with a party of guests and instructed Bessie to prepare dinner. Not only was the meal well below the usual standard, but Bessie seemed unable to walk steadily. She bumped into the furniture and kept mumbling about the guests. When she came in with the last course—a huge pudding—she tripped on the carpet and the pudding went flying through the air, narrowly missed my aunt, and crashed on the dining table with considerable force. Though this caused great mirth among the guests, Aunt Harriet was horrified. She reluctantly came to the conclusion that Bessie was drunk. The guests had, of course, realized this from the moment Bessie opened the door for them and, long before the final catastrophe, had had a difficult time trying to conceal their amusement. The poor girl was dismissed instantly. After her departure, Aunt Harriet discovered that there were piles of empty wine bottles of all shapes and sizes neatly stacked in what had once been Bessie's wardrobe. They had mysteriously found their way there from the wine cellar!

Lesson 50 New Year resolutions 新年的决心

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

What marked the end of the writer's New Year resolutions?

The New Year is a time for resolutions. Mentally, at least, most of us could compile formidable lists of 'dos' and 'don'ts'. The same old favourites recur year in year out with monotonous regularity. We resolve to get up earlier each morning, eat less, find more time to play with the children, do a thousand and one jobs about the house, be nice to people we don't like, drive carefully, and take the dog for a walk every day. Past experience has taught us that certain accomplishments are beyond attainment. If we remain inveterate smokers, it is only because we have so often experienced the frustration that results from failure. Most of us fail in our efforts at self-improvement because our schemes are too ambitious and we never have time to carry them out. We also make the fundamental error of announcing our resolutions to everybody so that we look even more foolish when we slip back into our bad old ways. Aware of these pitfalls, this year I attempted to keep my resolutions to myself. I limited myself to two modest ambitions: to do physical exercises every morning and to read more of an evening. An all-night party on New Year's Eve provided me with a good excuse for not carrying out either of these new resolutions on the first day of the year, but on the second, I applied myself assiduously to the task.

The daily exercises lasted only eleven minutes and I proposed to do them early in the morning before anyone had got up. The self-discipline required to drag myself out of bed eleven minutes earlier than usual was considerable. Nevertheless, I managed to creep down into the living room for two days before anyone found me out. After jumping about on the carpet and twisting the human frame into uncomfortable positions, I sat down at the breakfast table in an exhausted condition. It was this that betrayed me. The next morning the whole family trooped in to watch the performance. That was really unsettling, but I fended off the taunts and jibes of the family good-humouredly and soon everybody got used to the idea. However, my enthusiasm waned. The time I spent at exercises gradually diminished. Little by little the eleven minutes fell to zero. By January 10th, I was back to where I had started from. I argued that if I spent less time exhausting myself at exercises in the morning, I would keep my mind fresh for reading when I got home from work. Resisting the hypnotizing effect of television, I sat in my room for a few evenings with my eyes glued to a book. One night, however, feeling cold and lonely, I went downstairs and sat in front of the television pretending to read. That proved to be my undoing, for I soon got back to my old bad habit of dozing off in front of the screen. I still haven't given up my resolution to do more reading. In fact, I have just bought a book entitled How to Read a Thousand Words a Minute. Perhaps it will solve my problem, but I just haven't had time to read it!

Lesson 51 Predicting the future 预测未来

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

What was the 'future' electronic development that Leon Bagrit wasn't able to foresee?

Predicting the future is notoriously difficult. Who could have imagined, in the mid 1970s, for example, that by the end of the 20th century, computers would be as common in people's homes as TV sets? In the 1970s, computers were common enough, but only in big business, government departments, and large organizations. These were the so-called mainframe machines. Mainframe computers were very large indeed, often occupying whole air-conditioned rooms, employing full-time technicians and run on specially-written software. Though these large machines still exist, many of their functions have been taken over by small powerful personal computers, commonly known as PCs.

In l975, a primitive machine called the Altair, was launched in the USA. It can properly be described as the first 'home computer' and it pointed the way to the future. This was followed, at the end of the 1970s, by a machine called an Apple. In the early l980s, the computer giant, IBM produced the world's first Personal Computer. This ran on an 'operating system' called DOS, produced by a then small company named Microsoft. The IBM Personal Computer was widely copied. From those humble beginnings, we have seen the development of the user-friendly home computers and multimedia machines which are in common use today.

Considering how recent these developments are, it is even more remarkable that as long ago as the 1960s, an Englishman, Leon Bagrit, was able to predict some of the uses of computers which we know today. Bagrit dismissed the idea that computers would learn to 'think' for themselves and would 'rule the world', which people liked to believe in those days. Bagrit foresaw a time when computers would be small enough to hold in the hand, when they would be capable of providing information about traffic jams and suggesting alternative routes, when they would be used in hospitals to help doctors to diagnose illnesses, when they would relieve office workers and accountants of dull, repetitive clerical work. All these computer uses have become commonplace. Of course, Leon Bagrit could not possibly have foreseen the development of the Internet, the worldwide system that enables us to communicate instantly with anyone in any part of the world by using computers linked to telephone networks. Nor could he have foreseen how we could use the Internet to obtain information on every known subject, so we can read it on a screen in our homes and even print it as well if we want to. Computers have become smaller and smaller, more and more powerful and cheaper and cheaper. This is what makes Leon Bagrit's predictions particularly remarkable. If he, or someone like him, were alive today, he might be able to tell us what to expect in the next fifty years.

Lesson 52 Mud is mud 实事求是

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

Why did Harry decide to give up his little game?

My cousin, Harry, keeps a large curiously-shaped bottle on permanent display in his study. Despite the fact that the bottle is tinted a delicate shade of green, an observant visitor would soon notice that it is filled with what looks like a thick, greyish substance. If you were to ask Harry what was in the bottle, he would tell you that it contained perfumed mud. If you expressed doubt or surprise, he would immediately invite you to smell it and then to rub some into your skin. This brief experiment would dispel any further doubts you might have. The bottle really does contain perfumed mud. How Harry came into the possession of this outlandish stuff makes an interesting story which he is fond of relating. Furthermore, the acquisition of this bottle cured him of a bad habit he had been developing for years.

Harry used to consider it a great joke to go into expensive cosmetic shops and make outrageous requests for goods that do not exist. He would invent fanciful names on the spot. On entering a shop, he would ask for a new perfume called 'Scented Shadow' or for 'insoluble bath cubes'. If a shop assistant told him she had not heard of it, he would pretend to be considerably put out. He loved to be told that one of his imaginary products was temporarily out of stock and he would faithfully promise to call again at some future date, but of course he never did. How Harry managed to keep a straight face during these performances is quite beyond me.

Harry does not need to be prompted to explain how he bought his precious bottle of mud. One day, he went to an exclusive shop in London and asked for 'Myrolite'. The shop assistant looked puzzled and Harry repeated the word, slowly stressing each syllable. When the woman shook her head in bewilderment, Harry went on to explain that 'myrolite' was a hard, amber-like substance which could be used to remove freckles. This explanation evidently conveyed something to the woman who searched shelf after shelf. She produced all sorts of weird concoctions, but none of them met with Harry's requirements. When Harry put on his act of being mildly annoyed, the assistant promised to order some for him. Intoxicated by his success, Harry then asked for perfumed mud. He expected the assistant to look at him in blank astonishment. However, it was his turn to be surprised, for the woman's eyes immediately lit up and she fetched several bottles which she placed on the counter for Harry to inspect. For once, Harry had to admit defeat. He picked up what seemed to be the smallest bottle and discreetly asked the price. He was glad to get away with a mere twenty pounds and he beat a hasty retreat, clutching the precious bottle under his arm. From then on, Harry decided that this little game he had invented might prove to be expensive. The curious bottle, which now adorns the bookcase in his study, was his first and last purchase of rare cosmetics.

Lesson 53 In the public interest 为了公众的利益

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

What could not be reported in the official files?

The Scandinavian countries are much admired all over the world for their enlightened social policies. Sweden has evolved an excellent system for protecting the individual citizen from high-handed or incompetent public officers. The system has worked so well, that it has been adopted in other countries too.

The Swedes were the first to recognize that public officials like civil servants, police officers, health inspectors or tax-collectors can make mistakes or act over-zealously in the belief that they are serving the public. As long ago as 1809, the Swedish Parliament introduced a scheme to safeguard the interest of the individual. A parliamentary committee representing all political parties appoints a person who is suitably qualified to investigate private grievances against the State. The official title of the person is 'Justiteombudsman', but the Swedes commonly refer to him as the'J.O.' or 'Ombudsman'. The Ombudsman is not subject to political pressure. He investigates complaints large and small that come to him from all levels of society. As complaints must be made in writing, the Ombudsman receives an average of 1,200 letters a year. He has eight lawyer assistants to help him and he examines every single letter in detail. There is nothing secretive about the Ombudsman's work, for his correspondence is open to public inspection. If a citizen's complaint is justified, the Ombudsman will act on his behalf. The action he takes varies according to the nature of the complaint. He may gently reprimand an official or even suggest to parliament that a law be altered. The following case is a typical example of the Ombudsman's work.

A foreigner living in a Swedish village wrote to the Ombudsman complaining that he had been ill-treated by the police, simply because he was a foreigner. The Ombudsman immediately wrote to the Chief of Police in the district asking him to send a record of the case. There was nothing in the record to show that the foreigner's complaint was justified and the Chief of Police strongly denied the accusation. It was impossible for the Ombudsman to take action, but when he received a similar complaint from another foreigner in the same village, he immediately sent one of his lawyers to investigate the matter. The lawyer ascertained that a policeman had indeed dealt roughly with foreigners on several occasions. The fact that the policeman was prejudiced against foreigners could not be recorded in the official files. It was only possible for the Ombudsman to find this out by sending one of his representatives to check the facts. The policeman in question was severely reprimanded and was informed that if any further complaints were lodged against him, he would be prosecuted. The Ombudsman's prompt action at once put an end to an unpleasant practice which might have gone unnoticed.

Lesson 54 Instinct or cleverness? 是本能还是机智？

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

Was the writer successful in protecting his peach tree? Why not?

We have been brought up to fear insects. We regard them as unnecessary creatures that do more harm than good. We continually wage war on them, for they contaminate our food, carry diseases, or devour our crops. They sting or bite without provocation; they fly uninvited into our rooms on summer nights, or beat against our lighted windows. We live in dread not only of unpleasant insects like spiders or wasps, but of quite harmless ones like moths. Reading about them increases our understanding without dispelling our fears. Knowing that the industrious ant lives in a highly organized society does nothing to prevent us from being filled with revulsion when we find hordes of them crawling over a carefully prepared picnic lunch. No matter how much we like honey, or how much we have read about the uncanny sense of direction which bees possess, we have a horror of being stung. Most of our fears are unreasonable, but they are impossible to erase. At the same time, however, insects are strangely fascinating. We enjoy reading about them, especially when we find that, like the praying mantis, they lead perfectly horrible lives. We enjoy staring at them, entranced as they go about their business, unaware (we hope) of our presence. Who has not stood in awe at the sight of a spider pouncing on a fly, or a column of ants triumphantly bearing home an enormous dead beetle?

Last summer I spent days in the garden watching thousands of ants crawling up the trunk of my prize peach tree. The tree has grown against a warm wall on a sheltered side of the house. I am especially proud of it, not only because it has survived several severe winters, but because it occasionally produces luscious peaches. During the summer, I noticed that the leaves of the tree were beginning to wither. Clusters of tiny insects called aphids were to be found on the underside of the leaves. They were visited by a large colony of ants which obtained a sort of honey from them. I immediately embarked on an experiment which, even though it failed to get rid of the ants, kept me fascinated for twenty-four hours. I bound the base of the tree with sticky tape, making it impossible for the ants to reach the aphids. The tape was so sticky that they did not dare to cross it. For a long time, I watched them scurrying around the base of the tree in bewilderment. I even went out at midnight with a torch and noted with satisfaction (and surprise) that the ants were still swarming around the sticky tape without being able to do anything about it. I got up early next morning hoping to find that the ants had given up in despair. Instead, I saw that they had discovered a new route. They were climbing up the wall of the house and then on to the leaves of the tree. I realized sadly that I had been completely defeated by their ingenuity. The ants had been quick to find an answer to my thoroughly unscientific methods!

Lesson 55 From the earth: Greetings 来自地球的问候

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

Which life forms are most likely to develop on a distant planet?

Recent developments in astronomy have made it possible to detect planets in our own Milky Way and in other galaxies. This is a major achievement because, in relative terms, planets are very small and do not emit light. Finding planets is proving hard enough, but finding life on them will prove infinitely more difficult. The first question to answer is whether a planet can actually support life. In our own solar system, for example, Venus is far too hot and Mars is far too cold to support life. Only the Earth provides ideal conditions, and even here it has taken more than four billion years for plant and animal life to evolve.

Whether a planet can support life depends on the size and brightness of its star, that is its 'sun'. Imagine a star up to twenty times larger, brighter and hotter than our own sun. A planet would have to be a very long way from it to be capable of supporting life. Alternatively, if the star were small, the life-supporting planet would have to have a close orbit round it and also provide the perfect conditions for life forms to develop. But how would we find such a planet? At present, there is no telescope in existence that is capable of detecting the presence of life. The development of such a telescope will be one of the great astronomical projects of the twenty-first century.

It is impossible to look for life on another planet using earth-based telescopes. Our own warm atmosphere and the heat generated by the telescope would make it impossible to detect objects as small as planets. Even a telescope in orbit round the earth, like the very successful Hubble telescope, would not be suitable because of the dust particles in our solar system. A telescope would have to be as far away as the planet Jupiter to look for life in outer space, because the dust becomes thinner the further we travel towards the outer edges of our own solar system. Once we detected a planet, we would have to find a way of blotting out the light from its star, so that we would be able to 'see' the planet properly and analyse its atmosphere. In the first instance, we would be looking for plant life, rather than 'little green men'. The life forms most likely to develop on a planet would be bacteria. It is bacteria that have generated the oxygen we breathe on earth. For most of the earth's history they have been the only form of life on our planet. As Earth-dwellers, we always cherish the hope that we will be visited by little green men and that we will be able to communicate with them. But this hope is always in the realms of science fiction. If we were able to discover lowly forms of life like bacteria on another planet, it would completely change our view of ourselves. As Daniel Goldin of NASA observed, 'Finding life elsewhere would change everything. No human endeavour or thought would be unchanged by it.'

Lesson 56 Our neighbour, the river 河流，我们的邻居

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

Why had the neighbours left their farm?

The river which forms the eastern boundary of our farm has always played an important part in our lives. Without it we could not make a living. There is only enough spring water to supply the needs of the house, so we have to pump from the river for farm use. We tell the river all our secrets. We know instinctively, just as beekeepers with their bees, that misfortune might overtake us if the important events of our lives were not related to it.

We have special river birthday parties in the summer. Sometimes we go upstream to a favourite backwater, sometimes we have our party at the boathouse, which a predecessor of ours at the farm built in the meadow hard by the deepest pool for swimming and diving. In a heat wave we choose a midnight birthday party and that is the most exciting of all. We welcome the seasons by the riverside, crowning the youngest girl with flowers in the spring, holding a summer festival on Midsummer Eve, giving thanks for the harvest in the autumn, and throwing a holly wreath into the current in the winter.

After a long period of rain the river may overflow its banks. This is a rare occurrence as our climate seldom goes to extremes. We are lucky in that only the lower fields, which make up a very small proportion of our farm, are affected by flooding, but other farms are less favourably sited, and flooding can sometimes spell disaster for their owners.

One bad winter we watched the river creep up the lower meadows. All the cattle had been moved into stalls and we stood to lose little. We were, however, worried about our nearest neighbours, whose farm was low lying and who were newcomers to the district. As the floods had put the telephone out of order, we could not find out how they were managing. From an attic window we could get a sweeping view of the river where their land joined ours, and at the most critical juncture we took turns in watching that point. The first sign of disaster was a dead sheep floating down. Next came a horse, swimming bravely, but we were afraid that the strength of the current would prevent its landing anywhere before it became exhausted. Suddenly a raft appeared, looking rather like Noah's ark, carrying the whole family, a few hens, the dogs, a cat, and a bird in a cage. We realized that they must have become unduly frightened by the rising flood, for their house, which had sound foundations, would have stood stoutly even if it had been almost submerged. The men of our family waded down through our flooded meadows with boathooks, in the hope of being able to grapple a corner of the raft and pull it out of the current towards our bank. We still think it a miracle that they were able to do so.

Lesson 57 Back in the old country 重返故里

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

Did the narrator find his mother's grave?

I stopped to let the car cool off and to study the map. I had expected to be near my objective by now, but everything still seemed alien to me. I was only five when my father had taken me abroad, and that was eighteen years ago. When my mother had died after a tragic accident, he did not quickly recover from the shock and loneliness. Everything around him was full of her presence, continually reopening the wound. So he decided to emigrate. In the new country he became absorbed in making a new life for the two of us, so that he gradually ceased to grieve. He did not marry again and I was brought up without a woman's care; but I lacked for nothing, for he was both father and mother to me. He always meant to go back one day, but not to stay. His roots and mine had become too firmly embedded in the new land. But he wanted to see the old folk again and to visit my mother's grave. He became mortally ill a few months before we had planned to go and, when he knew that he was dying, he made me promise to go on my own.

I hired a car the day after landing and bought a comprehensive book of maps, which I found most helpful on the cross-country journey, but which I did not think I should need on the last stage. It was not that I actually remembered anything at all. But my father had described over and over again what we should see at every milestone, after leaving the nearest town, so that I was positive I should recognize it as familiar territory. Well, I had been wrong, for I was now lost.

I looked at the map and then at the milometer. I had come ten miles since leaving the town, and at this point, according to my father, I should be looking at farms and cottages in a valley, with the spire of the church of our village showing in the far distance. I could see no valley, no farms, no cottages and no church spire—only a lake. I decided that I must have taken a wrong turning somewhere. So I drove back to the town and began to retrace the route, taking frequent glances at the map. I landed up at the same corner. The curious thing was that the lake was not marked on the map. I felt as if I had stumbled into a nightmare country, as you sometimes do in dreams. And, as in a nightmare, there was nobody in sight to help me. Fortunately for me, as I was wondering what to do next, there appeared on the horizon a man on horseback, riding in my direction. I waited till he came near, then I asked him the way to our old village. He said that there was now no village. I thought he must have misunderstood me, so I repeated its name. This time he pointed to the lake. The village no longer existed because it had been submerged, and all the valley too. The lake was not a natural one, but a man-made reservoir.

Lesson 58 A spot of bother 一点儿小麻烦

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

What did the old lady find when she got home?

The old lady was glad to be back at the block of flats where she lived. Her shopping had tired her and her basket had grown heavier with every step of the way home. In the lift her thoughts were on lunch and a good rest; but when she got out at her own floor, both were forgotten in her sudden discovery that her front door was open. She was thinking that she must reprimand her home help the next morning for such a monstrous piece of negligence, when she remembered that she had gone shopping after the home help had left and she knew that she had turned both keys in their locks. She walked slowly into the hall and at once noticed that all the room doors were open, yet following her regular practice she had shut them before going out. Looking into the drawing room, she saw a scene of confusion over by her writing desk. It was as clear as daylight then that burglars had forced an entry during her absence. Her first impulse was to go round all the rooms looking for the thieves, but then she decided that at her age it might be more prudent to have someone with her, so she went to fetch the porter from his basement. By this time her legs were beginning to tremble, so she sat down and accepted a cup of very strong tea, while he telephoned the police. Then, her composure regained, she was ready to set off with the porter's assistance to search for any intruders who might still be lurking in her flat.

They went through the rooms, being careful to touch nothing, as they did not want to hinder the police in their search for fingerprints. The chaos was inconceivable. She had lived in the flat for thirty years and was a veritable magpie at hoarding; and it seemed as though everything she possessed had been tossed out and turned over and over. At least sorting out the things she should have discarded years ago was now being made easier for her. Then a police inspector arrived with a constable and she told them of her discovery of the ransacked flat. The inspector began to look for fingerprints, while the constable checked that the front door locks had not been forced, thereby proving that the burglars had either used skeleton keys or entered over the balcony. There was no trace of fingerprints, but the inspector found a dirty red bundle that contained jewellery which the old lady said was not hers. So their entry into this flat was apparently not the burglars' first job that day and they must have been disturbed. The inspector then asked the old lady to try to check what was missing by the next day and advised her not to stay alone in the flat for a few nights. The old lady thought he was a fussy creature, but since the porter agreed with him, she rang up her daughter and asked for her help in what she described as a little spot of bother.

Lesson 59 Collecting 收藏

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

What in particular does a person gain when he or she becomes a serious collector?

People tend to amass possessions, sometimes without being aware of doing so. Indeed they can have a delightful surprise when they find something useful which they did not know they owned. Those who never have to move house become indiscriminate collectors of what can only be described as clutter. They leave unwanted objects in drawers, cupboards and attics for years, in the belief that they may one day need just those very things. As they grow old, people also accumulate belongings for two other reasons, lack of physical and mental energy, both of which are essential in turning out and throwing away, and sentiment. Things owned for a long time are full of associations with the past, perhaps with relatives who are dead, and so they gradually acquire a value beyond their true worth.

Some things are collected deliberately in the home in an attempt to avoid waste. Among these I would list string and brown paper, kept by thrifty people when a parcel has been opened, to save buying these two requisites. Collecting small items can easily become a mania. I know someone who always cuts sketches out from newspapers of model clothes that she would like to buy if she had the money. As she is not rich, the chances that she will ever be able to afford such purchases are remote; but she is never sufficiently strong-minded to be able to stop the practice. It is a harmless habit, but it litters up her desk to such an extent that every time she opens it, loose bits of paper fall out in every direction.

Collecting as a serious hobby is quite different and has many advantages. It provides relaxation for leisure hours, as just looking at one's treasures is always a joy. One does not have to go outside for amusement, since the collection is housed at home. Whatever it consists of, stamps, records, first editions of books, china, glass, antique furniture, pictures, model cars, stuffed birds, toy animals, there is always something to do in connection with it, from finding the right place for the latest addition, to verifying facts in reference books. This hobby educates one not only in the chosen subject, but also in general matters which have some bearing on it. There are also other benefits. One wants to meet like-minded collectors, to get advice, to compare notes, to exchange articles, to show off the latest find. So one's circle of friends grows. Soon the hobby leads to travel, perhaps to a meeting in another town, possibly a trip abroad in search of a rare specimen, for collectors are not confined to any one country. Over the years, one may well become an authority on one's hobby and will very probably be asked to give informal talks to little gatherings and then, if successful, to larger audiences. In this way self-confidence grows, first from mastering a subject, then from being able to talk about it. Collecting, by occupying spare time so constructively, makes a person contented, with no time for boredom.

Lesson 60 Too early and too late 太早和太晚

Listen to the tape then answer the question below.

Why did the young girl miss the train?

Punctuality is a necessary habit in all public affairs in civilized society. Without it, nothing could ever be brought to a conclusion; everything would be in a state of chaos. Only in a sparsely-populated rural community is it possible to disregard it. In ordinary living, there can be some tolerance of unpunctuality. The intellectual, who is working on some abstruse problem, has everything coordinated and organized for the matter in hand. He is therefore forgiven if late for a dinner party. But people are often reproached for unpunctuality when their only fault is cutting things fine. It is hard for energetic, quick-minded people to waste time, so they are often tempted to finish a job before setting out to keep an appointment. If no accidents occur on the way, like punctured tyres, diversions of traffic, sudden descent of fog, they will be on time. They are often more industrious, useful citizens than those who are never late. The over-punctual can be as much a trial to others as the unpunctual. The guest who arrives half an hour too soon is the greatest nuisance. Some friends of my family had this irritating habit. The only thing to do was ask them to come half an hour later than the other guests. Then they arrived just when we wanted them.

If you are catching a train, it is always better to be comfortably early than even a fraction of a minute too late. Although being early may mean wasting a tittle time, this will be less than if you miss the train and have to wait an hour or more for the next one; and you avoid the frustration of arriving at the very moment when the train is drawing out of the station and being unable to get on it. An even harder situation is to be on the platform in good time for a train and still to see it go off without you. Such an experience befell a certain young girl the first time she was travelling alone.

She entered the station twenty minutes before the train was due, since her parents had impressed upon her that it would be unforgivable to miss it and cause the friends with whom she was going to stay to make two journeys to meet her. She gave her luggage to a porter and showed him her ticket. To her horror he said that she was two hours too soon. She felt in her handbag for the piece of paper on which her father had written down all the details of the journey and gave it to the porter. He agreed that a train did come into the station at the time on the paper and that it did stop, but only to take on mail, not passengers. The girl asked to see a timetable, feeling sure that her father could not have made such a mistake. The porter went to fetch one and arrived back with the station master, who produced it with a flourish and pointed out a microscopic 'o' beside the time of the arrival of the train at his station; this little 'o' indicated that the train only stopped for mail. Just at that moment the train came into the station. The girl, tears streaming down her face, begged to be allowed to slip into the guard's van. But the station master was adamant: rules could not be broken. And she had to watch that train disappear towards her destination while she was left behind.

Lesson 1 Finding fossil man 发现化石人

First listen and then answer the following question.

Why are legends handed down by storytellers useful?

We can read of things that happened 5,000 years ago in the Near East, where people first learned to write. But there are some parts of the world where even now people cannot write. The only way that they can preserve their history is to recount it as sagas — legends handed down from one generation of storytellers to another. These legends are useful because they can tell us something about migrations of people who lived long ago, but none could write down what they did. Anthropologists wondered where the remote ancestors of the Polynesian peoples now living in the Pacific Islands came from. The sagas of these people explain that some of them came from Indonesia about 2,000 years ago.

But the first people who were like ourselves lived so long ago that even their sagas, if they had any, are forgotten. So archaeologists have neither history nor legends to help them to find out where the first 'modern men' came from.

Fortunately, however, ancient men made tools of stone, especially flint, because this is easier to shape than other kinds. They may also have used wood and skins, but these have rotted away. Stone does not decay, and so the tools of long ago have remained when even the bones of the men who made them have disappeared without trace.

Text Analysis | 课文分析

主 句 | 从句一层 A | 从句一层 B | 从句二层

We can read of things that happened 5,000 years ago in the Near East, where people first learned to write.

主 谓 宾 ←主 谓 状 状 ← 引 主 状 谓

read of/about 读到；speak/talk of 谈到；know of 了解到；hear of 听到；that 引导限定性定语从句修饰 things; where 引导非限定性定语从句修饰 in the Near East; in the Near East 在近东地区；

我们从书籍中可读到 5,000 年前近东发生的事情，那里的人最早学会了写字。

But there are some parts of the world where even now people cannot write.

连 谓 定 主 ← 后置定语 ← 引 状 主 谓

there be 作为谓语，句子的主语置后；where 引导限定性定语从句修饰 some parts;

但直到现在，世界上有些地方，人们还不会书写。

The only way that they can preserve their history is to recount it as sagas —

定 主 ←引 主 谓 宾 系 表

the only way 唯一的方法；that 引导限定性定语从句修饰 way; preserve v. 保留 保护 保存 维护；recount v. 叙述 重新计票 讲述 n. 重新计票 重数；Saga n. 英雄故事 轶事； legends handed down from one generation of storytellers to another.

sagas 的同位语 | 对 sagas 加以说明

hand down 把 ... 往下传，handed down 过去分词作为 Legends 的后置定语；handed down from one generation to another 代代相传；generation n. 世代 一代人 一代 一批；storyteller n. 讲故事的人；

他们保存历史的唯一办法是将历史当作传说讲述，由讲述人一代接一代地将史实描述为传奇故事口传下来。

These legends are useful because they can tell us something about migrations of people who lived long ago,

主 系 表 引 主 谓 间宾 直接宾语 ← 后置定语 ←主 谓 状 legend n. 传说 传奇故事；legendary adj. 传奇的 传说的；because 引导原因状语从句 = for, as, since；migrate v. 迁移 移居 转移 迁徙；migration n. 迁居 迁移 迁徙 移居；who 引导定语从句修饰 people； but none could write down what they did.

连 主 谓 宾 主 谓

but conj. 连接两个并列的句子，表转折；write down 记载下来 = put down on paper; what 引导宾语从句作 write down 的宾语；

这些传说是很有用的，因为它们能告诉我们以往人们迁居的情况。但是，没有人能把他们当时做的事记载下来。

Anthropologists wondered where the remote ancestors of the Polynesian peoples

主 谓 引 定 主 ← 后置定语修饰 ancestors

Anthropologist n. 人类学家；wonder v. 迷惑不解；where 引导宾语从句作 wondered 的宾语；remote adj. 遥远的 久远的； ancestor n. 祖先；Polynesian n. 波利尼西亚人；Pacific n. 太平洋；island n. 岛屿；the first people 原始人；people +s 表示民族； now living in the Pacific Islands came from.

状 ←后置定语修饰 Polynesian peoples 谓

人类学家过去不清楚如今生活在太平洋诸岛上的波利尼西亚人的祖先来自何方。

The sagas of these people explain that some of them came from Indonesia about 2,000 years ago.

主 ← 后置定语 谓 引 主 谓 状 状 explain v. 解释 说明；that 引导宾语从句作 explain 的宾语；Indonesia n. 印度尼西亚；some of them 指代前文波利尼西亚人的祖先；

当地人的传说却告诉人们：其中一部分是约在 2,000 年前从印度尼西亚迁来的。

But the first people who were like ourselves lived so long ago that even their sagas,

连 定 主 ←主 系 表 谓 状 引 状 主 who 引导定语从句修饰 the first people（原始人）; so ...that ... 如此 ... 以致于 ..., that 引导结果状语从句：I'm so dizzy that I can not see anything . 我如此的晕以致于我看不到任何的东西； if they had any, are forgotten.

引 主 谓 宾 谓 | 被动语态

that 引导的结果状语从句中有一个 if 引导的条件状语从句 , they 指 the first people; forget-forgot-forgotten v. 忘记 遗忘 忽略；

但是，和我们相似的原始人生活的年代太久远了，因此，有关他们的传说既使有如今也失传了。

So archaeologists have neither history nor legends to help them to find out

连 主 谓 连 宾 连 宾 状

archaeologist n. 考古学家；neither ... nor ... 既不 ... 也不 ..., 两者都不 (either ... or ... 或者 ... 或者 ...): Neither he nor she is a teacher. 他不是个老师，她也不是。Either he or she is a teacher. 他或者她是一个老师（两者择一）; find out 知悉 获知 知道 = determine, ascertain, pick up, discover, see, detect, observe, notice, sense, trace;

where the first 'modern men' came from.

引 定 主 谓

where 引导宾语从句作 find out 的宾语；

于是，考古学家们既缺乏历史记载，又无口头传说来帮助他们弄清最早的“现代人”是从哪里来的。

Fortunately, however, ancient men made tools of stone, especially flint,

状 状 主 谓 宾 ← 后置定语 ancient adj. 古代的；be made of (原材料没有经过化学变化) = be made from (发生了化学变化) 用 ... 制造；flint n. 燧石； because this is easier to shape than other kinds.

引 主 系 表 状 状

this 指代 flint；than other kinds 比较状语；shape v. 成型 塑造 n. 形状 外形 状况 样子；take shape 成形 初具规模 逐渐成形；in good shape 处于良好状态 健康情况良好；get (yourself) into shape 强身健体；give shape to sth. 表达 阐释；out of shape 变形的 身体不好；

然而， 幸运的是，远古人用石头制作了工具，特别是用燧石，因为燧石较之其他石头更容易成形。

They may also have used wood and skins, but these have rotted away.

主 谓 宾 连 主 谓

may have done 对过去事情的猜测；but 连接两个并列句，表示转折；these 指代 wood and skins；rot away 腐烂殆尽；rot v. 腐烂 n. 腐烂 腐败变质；rotten adj. 腐烂的 腐败的；rotter n. 无赖 恶棍；

他们也可能用过木头和兽皮，但这类东西早已腐烂殆尽。

Stone does not decay, and so the tools of long ago have remained

主 谓 连 引 主 ← 后置定语 谓

decay v. 变坏，腐烂 = rot away; so 引导结果状语从句；remain v. 保存，保持 =stay, keep, sustain, rest, continue;

when even the bones of the men who made them have disappeared without trace.

引 状 主 ← 后置定语 ←主 谓 宾 谓 状

when 引导时间状语从句，表让步的意思，" 虽然 ", " 尽管 "; who 引导定语从句修饰 the men, who 句中作主语，them 代指 tools；appear v. 出现 显现；reappear v. 重新出现；disappear v. 消失 失踪；without trace 没有痕迹；

石头是不会腐烂的。因此，尽管制造这些工具的人的骨头早已荡然无存，但远古时代的石头工具却保存了下来。

Lesson 2 Spare that spider 不要伤害蜘蛛

First listen and then answer the following question.

How much of each year do spiders spend killing insects?

Why, you may wonder, should spiders be our friends? Because they destroy so many insects, and insects include some of the greatest enemies of the human race. Insects would make it impossible for us to live in the world; they would devour all our crops and kill our flocks and herds, if it were not for the protection we get from insect-eating animals. We owe a lot to the birds and beasts who eat insects but all of them put together kill only a fraction of the number destroyed by spiders. Moreover, unlike some of the other insect eaters, spiders never do the least harm to us or our belongings.

Spiders are not insects, as many people think, nor even nearly related to them. One can tell the difference almost at a glance, for a spider always has eight legs and insect never more than six.

How many spiders are engaged in this work on our behalf? One authority on spiders made a census of the spiders in a grass field in the south of England, and he estimated that there were more than 2,250,000 in one acre; that is something like 6,000,000 spiders of different kinds on a football pitch. Spiders are busy for at least half the year in killing insects. It is impossible to make more than the wildest guess at how many they kill, but they are hungry creatures, not content with only three meals a day. It has been estimated that the weight of all the insects destroyed by spiders in Britain in one year would be greater than the total weight of all the human beings in the country.

Lesson 3 Matterhorn man 马特霍恩山区人

First listen and then answer the following question.

What was the main objective of early mountain climbers?

Modern alpinists try to climb mountains by a route which will give them good sport, and the more difficult it is, the more highly it is regarded. In the pioneering days, however, this was not the case at all. The early climbers were looking for the easiest way to the top, because the summit was the prize they sought, especially if it had never been attained before. It is true that during their explorations they often faced difficulties and dangers of the most perilous nature, equipped in a manner which would make a modern climber shudder at the thought, but they did not go out of their way to court such excitement. They had a single aim, a solitary goal — the top!

It is hard for us to realize nowadays how difficult it was for the pioneers. Except for one or two places such as Zermatt and Chamonix, which had rapidly become popular, Alpine villages tended to be impoverished settlements cut off from civilization by the high mountains. Such inns as there were were generally dirty and flea-ridden; the food simply local cheese accompanied by bread often twelve months old, all washed down with coarse wine. Often a valley boasted no inn at all, and climbers found shelter wherever they could — sometimes with the local priest (who was usually as poor as his parishioners), sometimes with shepherds or cheese-makers. Invariably the background was the same: dirt and poverty, and very uncomfortable. For men accustomed to eating seven-course dinners and sleeping between fine linen sheets at home, the change to the Alps must have been very hard indeed.

Lesson 4 Seeing hands 能看见东西的手

First listen and then answer the following question.

How did Vera discover she had this gift of second sight?

Several cases have been reported in Russia recently of people who can read and detect colours with their fingers, and even see through solid doors and walls. One case concerns an eleven-year-old schoolgirl, Vera Petrova, who has normal vision but who can also perceive things with different parts of her skin, and through solid walls. This ability was first noticed by her father. One day she came into his office and happened to put her hands on the door of a locked safe. Suddenly she asked her father why he kept so many old newspapers locked away there, and even described the way they were done up in bundles.

Vera's curious talent was brought to the notice of a scientific research institute in the town of Ulyanovsk, near where she lives, and in April she was given a series of tests by a special commission of the Ministry of Health of the Russian Federal Republic. During these tests she was able to read a newspaper through an opaque screen and, stranger still, by moving her elbow over a child's game of Lotto she was able to describe the figures and colours printed on it; and, in another instance, wearing stockings and slippers, to make out with her foot the outlines and colours of a picture hidden under a carpet. Other experiments showed that her knees and shoulders had a similar sensitivity. During all these tests Vera was blindfold; and, indeed, except when blindfold she lacked the ability to perceive things with her skin. It was also found that although she could perceive things with her fingers this ability ceased the moment her hands were wet.

Lesson 5 Youth 青年

First listen and then answer the following question.

How does the writer like to treat young people?

People are always talking about 'the problem of youth'. If there is one — which I take leave to doubt -- then it is older people who create it, not the young themselves. Let us get down to fundamentals and agree that the young are after all human beings — people just like their elders. There is only one difference between an old man and a young one: the young man has a glorious future before him and the old one has a splendid future behind him: and maybe that is where the rub is.

When I was a teenager, I felt that I was just young and uncertain — that I was a new boy in a huge school, and I would have been very pleased to be regarded as something so interesting as a problem. For one thing, being a problem gives you a certain identity, and that is one of the things the young are busily engaged in seeking.

I find young people exciting. They have an air of freedom, and they have not a dreary commitment to mean ambitions or love of comfort. They are not anxious social climbers, and they have no devotion to material things. All this seems to me to link them with life, and the origins of things. It's as if they were, in some sense, cosmic beings in violent and lovely contrast with us suburban creatures. All that is in my mind when I meet a young person. He may be conceited, ill-mannered, presumptuous or fatuous, but I do not turn for protection to dreary clichés about respect for elders — as if mere age were a reason for respect. I accept that we are equals, and I will argue with him, as an equal, if I think he is wrong.

主 句　从句一层 A　从句一层 B　从句二层

People are always talking about 'the problem of youth'.

主　谓　状　谓　宾　← 后置定语

talk about/of 谈论 = mention, bring up, comment on, remark on, point out, refer to, touch on; hold talks with somebody 与某人会谈(正式); talk a good game 说得天花乱坠；talk dirty 说下流话；talk the talk 说得头头是道；talk through one's hat 胡说 信口开河；

人们总是在谈论“青年问题”。

If there is one — which I take leave to doubt —

引　谓　主　引　主　谓　which... 这句是插入语

if 引导条件状语从句；one 指 problem; 句中破折号把句子的主要成分跟插入语分开；leave n. 允许；take leave to doubt 擅自怀疑 冒昧怀疑；take leave to do sth. 擅自做 冒昧去做；take liberty of doing sth. 冒昧做某事 擅自做某事；

如果这个问题存在的话 — 请允许我对此持怀疑态度 — then it is older people who create it, not the young themselves.

状　主　谓　宾　主

it is/was + 强调部分 + that/wh... 本身在句中不作任何成分，只是为了强调，只需要把被强调的部分放在 it is/was 与 that/wh... 中间，其它不变；关于这种类型的强调结构，请参看 第三册第 21 课；本句强调 " 这个问题 " 是由老年人而不是青年人造成的；句中宾语 it 指 the problem;

那么，这个问题是由老年人而不是青年人造成的。

Let us get down to fundamentals and agree

Lesson 6 The sporting spirit 体育的精神

First listen and then answer the following question.

How does the writer describe sport at the international level?

I am always amazed when I hear people saying that sport creates goodwill between the nations, and that if only the common peoples of the world could meet one another at football or cricket, they would have no inclination to meet on the battlefield. Even if one didn't know from concrete examples (the 1936 Olympic Games, for instance) that international sporting contests lead to orgies of hatred, one could deduce it from general principles.

Nearly all the sports practised nowadays are competitive. You play to win, and the game has little meaning unless you do your utmost to win. On the village green, where you pick up sides and no feeling of local patriotism is involved, it is possible to play simply for the fun and exercise: but as soon as the question of prestige arises, as soon as you feel that you and some larger unit will be disgraced if you lose, the most savage combative instincts are aroused. Anyone who has played even in a school football match knows this. At the international level, sport is frankly mimic warfare. But the significant thing is not the behaviour of the players but the attitude of the spectators: and, behind the spectators, of the nations who work themselves into furies over these absurd contests, and seriously believe — at any rate for short periods — that running, jumping and kicking a ball are tests of national virtue.

The Sporting Spirit

George Orwell First published: Tribune. — GB, London. — December 1945.

Now that the brief visit of the Dynamo football team has come to an end, it is possible to say publicly what many thinking people were saying privately before the Dynamos ever arrived. That is, that sport is an unfailing cause of ill-will, and that if such a visit as this had any effect at all on Anglo-Soviet relations, it could only be to make them slightly worse than before.

Even the newspapers have been unable to conceal the fact that at least two of the four matches played led to much bad feeling. At the Arsenal match, I am told by someone who was there, a British and a Russian player came to blows and the crowd booed the referee. The Glasgow match, someone else informs me, was simply a free-for-all from the start. And then there was the controversy, typical of our nationalistic age, about the composition of the Arsenal team. Was it really an all-England team, as claimed by the Russians, or merely a league team, as claimed by the British? And did the Dynamos end their tour abruptly in order to avoid playing an all-England team? As usual, everyone answers these questions according to his political predilections. Not quite everyone, however. I noted with interest, as an instance of the vicious passions that football provokes, that the sporting correspondent of the russophile News Chronicle took the anti-Russian line and maintained that Arsenal was not an all-England team. No doubt the controversy will continue to echo for years in the footnotes of history books. Meanwhile the result of the Dynamos' tour, in so far as it has had any result, will have been to create fresh animosity on both sides.

And how could it be otherwise? I am always amazed when I hear people saying that sport creates goodwill between the nations, and that if only the common peoples of the world could meet one another at football or cricket, they would have no inclination to meet on the battlefield. Even if one didn't know from concrete examples (the 1936 Olympic Games, for instance) that international sporting contests lead to orgies of hatred, one could deduce it from general principles.

Nearly all the sports practised nowadays are competitive. You play to win, and the game has little meaning unless you do your utmost to win. On the village green, where you pick up sides and no feeling of local patriotism is involved. it is possible to play simply for the fun and exercise: but as soon as the question of prestige arises, as soon as you feel that you and some larger unit will be disgraced if you lose, the most savage combative instincts are aroused. Anyone who has played even in a school football match knows this. At the international level sport is frankly mimic warfare. But the significant thing is not the behaviour of the players but the attitude of the spectators: and, behind the spectators, of the nations who work themselves into furies over these absurd contests, and seriously believe — at any rate for short periods — that running, jumping and kicking a ball are tests of national virtue.

Even a leisurely game like cricket, demanding grace rather than strength, can cause much ill-will, as we saw in the controversy over body-line bowling and over the rough tactics of the Australian team that visited England in 1921. Football, a game in which everyone gets hurt and every nation has its own style of play which seems unfair to foreigners, is far worse. Worst of all is boxing. One of the most horrible sights in the world is a fight between white and coloured boxers before a mixed audience. But a boxing audience is always disgusting, and the behaviour of the women, in particular, is such that the army, I believe, does not allow them to attend its contests. At any rate, two or three years ago, when Home Guards and regular troops were holding a boxing tournament, I was placed on guard at the door of the hall, with orders to keep the women out.

In England, the obsession with sport is bad enough, but even fiercer passions are aroused in young countries where games playing and nationalism are both recent developments. In countries like India or Burma, it is necessary at football matches to have strong cordons of police to keep the crowd from invading the field. In Burma, I have seen the supporters of one side break through the police and disable the goalkeeper of the opposing side at a critical moment. The first big football match that was played in Spain about fifteen years ago led to an uncontrollable riot. As soon as strong feelings of rivalry are aroused, the notion of playing the game according to the rules always vanishes. People want to see one side on top and the other side humiliated, and they forget that victory gained through cheating or through the intervention of the crowd is meaningless. Even when the spectators don't intervene physically they try to influence the game by cheering their own side and "rattling" opposing players with boos and insults. Serious sport has nothing to do with fair play. It is bound up with hatred, jealousy, boastfulness, disregard of all rules and sadistic pleasure in witnessing violence: in other words it is war minus the shooting.

Instead of blah-blahing about the clean, healthy rivalry of the football field and the great part played by the Olympic Games in bringing the nations together, it is more useful to inquire how and why this modern cult of sport arose. Most of the games we now play are of ancient origin, but sport does not seem to have been taken very seriously between Roman times and the nineteenth century. Even in the English public schools the games cult did not start till the later part of the last century. Dr Arnold, generally regarded as the founder of the modern public school, looked on games as simply a waste of time. Then, chiefly in England and the United States, games were built up into a heavily-financed activity, capable of attracting vast crowds and rousing savage passions, and the infection spread from country to country. It is the most violently combative sports, football and boxing, that have spread the widest. There cannot be much doubt that the whole thing is bound up with the rise of nationalism — that is, with the lunatic modern habit of identifying oneself with large power units and seeing everything in terms of competitive prestige. Also, organised games are more likely to flourish in urban communities where the average human being lives a sedentary or at least a confined life, and does not get much opportunity for creative labour. In a rustic community a boy or young man works off a good deal of his surplus energy by walking, swimming, snowballing, climbing trees, riding horses, and by various sports involving cruelty to animals, such as fishing, cock-fighting and ferreting for rats. In a big town one must indulge in group activities if one wants an outlet for one's physical strength or for one's sadistic impulses. Games are taken seriously in London and New York, and they were taken seriously in Rome and Byzantium: in the Middle Ages they were played, and probably played with much physical brutality, but they were not mixed up with politics nor a cause of group hatreds.

If you wanted to add to the vast fund of ill-will existing in the world at this moment, you could hardly do it better than by a series of football matches between Jews and Arabs, Germans and Czechs, Indians and British, Russians and Poles, and Italians and Jugoslavs, each match to be watched by a mixed audience of 100,000 spectators. I do not, of course, suggest that sport is one of the main causes of international rivalry; big-scale sport is itself, I think, merely another effect of the causes that have produced nationalism. Still, you do make things worse by sending forth a team of eleven men, labelled as national champions, to do battle against some rival team, and allowing it to be felt on all sides that whichever nation is defeated will "lose face".

I hope, therefore, that we shan't follow up the visit of the Dynamos by sending a British team to the USSR. If we must do so, then let us send a second-rate team which is sure to be beaten and cannot be claimed to represent Britain as a whole. There are quite enough real causes of trouble already, and we need not add to them by encouraging young men to kick each other on the shins amid the roars of infuriated spectators.

Short Story Analysis: The Sporting Spirit by George Orwell

In The Sporting Spirit by George Orwell we have the theme of pride, nationalism, jealousy, hatred and passion. Taken from his Shooting an Elephant collection the reader realises after reading the essay that Orwell may be exploring the theme of pride and nationalism. Orwell argues that the sport played by either side may not necessarily be of the utmost importance. Be it football, boxing or cricket. The driving factor is not to be beaten by another nationality as by doing so one may lose face. It is also possible that Orwell is suggesting that sport is taken far too seriously. Particularly in urban areas where individuals may not have an outlet for their energies. The fact that the Arsenal team is mentioned by the Russians as being an all-England team is also interesting as it highlights for the reader the fact that Arsenal do not wish to be beaten by a foreign team. Hence using the best player's available to them from other teams. Likewise it is as though the element of fun has been taken out of playing sport with those who attend sporting events trying their best to disrupt the opposition.

Orwell also argues that there is an element of savagery among those who attend sporting events. Something which some critics might suggest is an example of excessive pride for one's own team. The Olympic Games held in Germany in 1936 are also placed under a spotlight by Orwell. With many historians looking upon the Games as being a propaganda event for Hitler and Nazism in general. Again the fun that one may have playing football or any other sport on the local green is no longer. Orwell also suggests that sport has become a big business and as such the owners of teams dictate what happens. Again no longer is sport seen as being a fun thing to participate in. Those who play football for example are mere pawns of the owners of the football club. As too are the fans who pay the ticket price to watch the game. Orwell's introduction of boxing as an example to back up his point is also significant as he views those who box against someone of a different colour as being purveyors of white supremacy. When a white boxer wins. It proves in their eyes that the white race is far superior to the black race. Boxing in particular appears to bring out jealousy and hatred among those who watch it.

Orwell also disagrees with women attending boxing matches on the grounds that they get too emotional. Though some readers might suggest that this is true it is more likely that a female spectator is allowing herself to be passionate about the sport she is viewing. Orwell's theory that women are too emotional doesn't really have any logic behind it and in today's terms may be viewed upon as sexist. Though this may not have been Orwell's intention and he was only drawing from personal experience during his time in the army. Overall Orwell does not shine a flattering light on the spirit of sport. He sees no positives for it once it becomes a divide between different towns, cities or countries. If anything Orwell compares the participation in sport as being similar to war without the weapons. Such is the actions of both the participants and those who attend the sporting events. In Orwell's eyes there is no such thing as friendly rivalry. The business of sport is far more serious and dangerous.

It may also be a case that Orwell is suggesting that individuals have misplaced loyalty or pride to their teams or favourite sportsmen. They are after all only playing a game. Even if that game is taken very seriously by all concerned. In Orwell's world it is better to put the fun back in sport and not have the emotional involvement that comes at sporting events. To not be concerned about who should win or who should lose or what the meaning of winning might be for those at the event. However it is human nature to idolize a football team, a boxer or a cricket team. One wants their team or sporting hero to win at all costs. Which may be the problem. By having Arsenal play an all-England team they are in many ways cheating in order to prove themselves better than they really are. The motivation being to not lose face to a foreign team as there is a matter of national pride at stake. In some people's eyes it is better to cheat and win than lose with dignity. People don't remember who came second or who lost. In life it is only the winners who are remembered and who have bragging rights for the time being.

Lesson 7 Bats 蝙蝠

First listen and then answer the following question.

In what way does echo-location in bats play an utilitarian role?

Not all sounds made by animals serve as language, and we have only to turn to that extraordinary discovery of echo-location in bats to see a case in which the voice plays a strictly utilitarian role.

To get a full appreciation of what this means we must turn first to some recent human inventions. Everyone knows that if he shouts in the vicinity of a wall or a mountainside, an echo will come back. The further off this solid obstruction, the longer time will elapse for the return of the echo. A sound made by tapping on the hull of a ship will be reflected from the sea bottom, and by measuring the time interval between the taps and the receipt of the echoes, the depth of the sea at that point can be calculated. So was born the echo-sounding apparatus, now in general use in ships. Every solid object will reflect a sound, varying according to the size and nature of the object. A shoal of fish will do this. So it is a comparatively simple step from locating the sea bottom to locating a shoal of fish. With experience, and with improved apparatus, it is now possible not only to locate a shoal but to tell if it is herring, cod, or other well-known fish, by the pattern of its echo.

It has been found that certain bats emit squeaks and by receiving the echoes, they can locate and steer clear of obstacles — or locate flying insects on which they feed. This echo-location in bats is often compared with radar, the principle of which is similar.

Lesson 8 Trading standards 贸易标准

First listen and then answer the following question.

What makes trading between rich countries difficult?

Chickens slaughtered in the United States, claim officials in Brussels, are not fit to grace European tables. No, say the American: our fowl are fine, we simply clean them in a different way. These days, it is differences in national regulations, far more than tariffs, that put sand in the wheels of trade between rich countries. It is not just farmers who are complaining. An electric razor that meets the European Union's safety standards must be approved by American testers before it can be sold in the United States, and an American-made dialysis machine needs the EU's okay before it hits the market in Europe.

As it happens, a razor that is safe in Europe is unlikely to electrocute Americans. So, ask businesses on both sides of the Atlantic, why have two lots of tests where one would do? Politicians agree, in principle, so America and the EU have been trying to reach a deal which would eliminate the need to double-test many products. They hope to finish in time for a trade summit between America and the EU on May 28th. Although negotiators are optimistic, the details are complex enough that they may be hard-pressed to get a deal at all.

Why? One difficulty is to construct the agreements. The Americans would happily reach one accord on standards for medical devices and then hammer out different pacts covering, say, electronic goods and drug manufacturing. The EU — following fine continental traditions — wants agreement on general principles, which could be applied to many types of products and perhaps extended to other countries.

Corporate Boards Are Pessimistic About Trade Between the U.S. and China

From: Harvard Business Review 哈佛商业评论

The U.S. trade fights and UK's Brexit are the most salient and recent symptoms of a decade of retreat from globalization that has international business apprehensive about the future. One of the most worrying developments today is the rising tension between the U.S. and China on everything from trade to military posturing. My research has shown that many corporate leaders believe this strategic rivalry could develop into a situation reminiscent of the Cold War in which much of the world is divided into two spheres of influence, this time centered around either the U.S. or China. In this scenario, trade and investments between the opposing spheres would likely be highly limited, and strategic goods such as high technology components and products would be subject to stringent export controls. (Huawei's growing isolation is a recent case in point.) This scenario would leave multinational firms with unpleasant options for how to handle any assets or operations that fall into the opposing sphere's territories.

Why is this likely? The leading school of thought about international relations holds that globalization needs a hegemon to create and enforce the rules. If the hegemon declines in power relative to other players, globalization destabilizes. The evidence increasingly suggests that despite its absolute economic growth, the U.S. is a hegemon in decline relative to other states, especially China. According to the World Bank, China's economy surpassed the U.S. in terms of GDP at purchasing power parity (in current international dollars) around 2013. And although the U.S. still holds the lead militarily, China has been rapidly catching up, especially in technologies such as artificial intelligence and quantum computing that will power weapons systems of the future.

Corporate leaders are paying attention. In a recent study I led at INSEAD we surveyed 109 board members from across the globe about the likelihood of this "new Cold War scenario" between the U.S. and China, with two separate blocs with trade and investment flows between them curtailed or outlawed. Almost three quarters of respondents in primary industries and manufacturing — and 50% of those in service industries — believe that such a scenario is likely. And a solid majority across all three sectors (including 71% in primary industries and 53% in services) expect a negative or very negative impact on their businesses as a result.

According to the results of our survey, multinational firms faced with this scenario are contemplating or adopting one of two major strategies in response:

One option is to withdraw from some territories to focus operations in only one of the two spheres. While this would greatly reduce the risk of geopolitical embroilment, in all probability it would result in a significant loss of global reach and revenues. For many companies, it would also involve a restructuring of their supply chains to reside within that sphere of influence. Given Asia's dominance in global supply chains, and the likelihood that large parts of East Asia would be in the Chinese sphere, the necessary adjustments for Western firms would be significant.

The other option is for a firm to continue to operate in both spheres using a decentralized and locally embedded approach. This would involve a reversal of recent trends of centralization of international strategies at global headquarters. Instead, local subsidiaries would be reacquire higher levels of control with lower levels of expatriate managers. This might be paired with a loosening of ownership ties back to the parent firm in a rival sphere of influence to avoid being seen as an "enemy firm."

While this second approach may help firms preserve some of the benefits of global reach, those considering it should be aware that it would be much more difficult to implement and would be contingent on a number of conditions:

Feasibility of increased localization. Many companies have already worked to localize management, and leaders must weigh the business feasibility of deepening this approach for their own firms. For example, both sourcing and sales could be restructured to lie within a given economic bloc. Some companies might also shift from global brands to introducing distinct, local brands. But all this comes at a cost. Localized management means fewer opportunities to promote high performers to international leadership positions outside their home country, since by definition talent is drawn from within local markets. Localized supply chains may be economically suboptimal. And introducing distinct brands reduces economies of scale and scope. Increased localization may simply not be beneficial to the firm.

Legality. Either of the two powers could legally bar companies from operating in certain jurisdictions. There is nothing to prevent the U.S., for instance, from using its Iran sanctions as a blueprint for containing China, should it deem such a radical step necessary at some point in the future. As we have seen in the context of Iran, there would be considerable temptation to try to work around the rules. Companies would be well advised to remain compliant.

Property rights. During the Great Depression, a number of companies tried various localization strategies ranging from giving subsidiaries more autonomy to the dissolution of formal ownership ties with the home country. These strategies remained in place until World War II, when Allied and Axis powers largely nationalized the local operations of each other's companies. Were Sino-U.S. tensions to continue to escalate, governments might similarly expropriate firms, even in the absence of military conflict. This could happen in countless ways, ranging from outright nationalization to the imposition of politically motivated fines through the legal system. In this scenario, organizations should consider taking out expropriation insurance, using approaches such as outsourcing to keep assets at risk small, making greater use of local partners (though this comes with its own risks), or focusing on projects with shorter payback periods.

Headquarters control. At its simplest, retaining control may involve a need to audit financials. But for most multinational firms, success abroad requires that local offices draw on the wider firm's unique competitive capabilities. The challenge is that the more a branch and its products become localized, the less advantage these capabilities confer. For instance, a multinational firm building its competitive advantage on cutting-edge technology will suffer if it can no longer diffuse technology to subsidiaries outside the sphere in which it operates. This could happen as a result of export controls or legal travel restrictions, but also if the localization of staffing prevents the diffusion of tacit knowledge between engineers from different locations. Too much localization thus comes at the cost of competitiveness; too little, at the risk of political vulnerability.

Feasibility of profit repatriation. Doing business internationally is ultimately futile if companies cannot bring profits home to deploy them elsewhere or distribute them to shareholders. However, even now, China maintains currency restrictions, and repatriating profits has at times been challenging. The U.S., on the other hand, is able to use its central position in the international financial system to enforce its foreign policy and, in effect, strong-arm other countries into compliance with its sanctions. We have seen this recently in the context of the renewed Iran sanctions, where U.S. control of large parts of the international financial system has prevented most countries from transacting with Iran. Even U.S. allies have not been immune: in the Suez Crisis (1956), the U.S. forced the UK to accede by threatening to engineer a run on the pound. Given this history it would be surprising if the U.S. made no use of its financial muscle in its rivalry with China.

Faced with these conditions, and the understanding that a localization strategy is vastly more complex and riskier to execute, many firms may opt for a withdrawal strategy. Either way, success in international business is about to become a lot harder.

Lesson 9 Royal espionage 王室谍报活动

First listen and then answer the following question.

What important thing did King Alfred learn when he penetrated the Danish camp of Guthrum?

Alfred the Great acted as his own spy, visiting Danish camps disguised as a minstrel. In those days wandering minstrels were welcome everywhere. They were not fighting men, and their harp was their passport. Alfred had learned many of their ballads in his youth, and could vary his programme with acrobatic tricks and simple conjuring.

While Alfred's little army slowly began to gather at Athelney, the king himself set out to penetrate the camp of Guthrum, the commander of the Danish invaders. These had settled down for the winter at Chippenham: thither Alfred went. He noticed at once that discipline was slack: the Danes had the self-confidence of conquerors, and their security precautions were casual. They lived well, on the proceeds of raids on neighbouring regions. There they collected women as well as food and drink, and a life of ease had made them soft.

Alfred stayed in the camp a week before he returned to Athelney. The force there assembled was trivial compared with the Danish horde. But Alfred had deduced that the Danes were no longer fit for prolonged battle: and that their commissariat had no organization, but depended on irregular raids.

So, faced with the Danish advance, Alfred did not risk open battle but harried the enemy. He was constantly on the move, drawing the Danes after him. His patrols halted the raiding parties: hunger assailed the Danish army. Now Alfred began a long series of skirmishes — and within a month the Danes had surrendered. The episode could reasonably serve as a unique epic of royal espionage!

Lesson 10 Silicon valley 硅谷

First listen and then answer the following question.

What does the computer industry thrive on apart from anarchy?

Technology trends may push Silicon Valley back to the future. Carver Mead, a pioneer in integrated circuits and a professor of computer science at the California Institute of Technology, notes there are now workstations that enable engineers to design, test and produce chips right on their desks, much the way an editor creates a newsletter on a Macintosh. As the time and cost of making a chip drop to a few days and a few hundred dollars, engineers may soon be free to let their imaginations soar without being penalized by expensive failures. Mead predicts that inventors will be able to perfect powerful customized chips over a weekend at the office — spawning a new generation of garage start-ups and giving the U.S. a jump on its foreign rivals in getting new products to market fast. 'We've got more garages with smart people,' Mead observes. 'We really thrive on anarchy.'

And on Asians. Already, orientals and Asian Americans constitute the majority of the engineering staffs at many Valley firms. And Chinese, Korean, Filipino and Indian engineers are graduating in droves from California's colleges. As the heads of next-generation start-ups, these Asian innovators can draw on customs and languages to forge tighter links with crucial Pacific Rim markets. For instance, Alex Au, a Stanford Ph. D. from Hong Kong, has set up a Taiwan factory to challenge Japan's near lock on the memory-chip market. India-born N.Damodar Reddy's tiny California company reopened an AT & T chip plant in Kansas City last spring with financing from the state of Missouri. Before it becomes a retirement village, Silicon Valley may prove a classroom for building a global business.

Lesson 11 How to grow old 如何安度晚年

First listen and then answer the following question.

What, according to the author, is the best way to overcome the fear of death as you get older?

Some old people are oppressed by the fear of death. In the young there is a justification for this feeling. Young men who have reason to fear that they will be killed in battle may justifiably feel bitter in the thought that they have been cheated of the best things that life has to offer. But in an old man who has known human joys and sorrows, and has achieved whatever work it was in him to do, the fear of death is somewhat abject and ignoble. The best way to overcome it — so at least it seems to me — is to make your interests gradually wider and more impersonal, until bit by bit the walls of the ego recede, and your life becomes increasingly merged in the universal life. An individual human existence should be like a river — small at first, narrowly contained within its banks, and rushing passionately past boulders and over waterfalls. Gradually the river grows wider, the banks recede, the waters flow more quietly, and in the end, without any visible break, they become merged in the sea, and painlessly lose their individual being. The man who, in old age, can see his life in this way, will not suffer from the fear of death, since the things he cares for will continue. And if, with the decay of vitality, weariness increases, the thought of rest will be not unwelcome. I should wish to die while still at work, knowing that others will carry on what I can no longer do, and content in the thought that what was possible has been done.

How to Grow Old

Bertrand Russell 伯特兰·罗素 (英国哲学家) 1956

In this essay (written for his book Portraits From Memory And Other Essays), Russell uses his logical thinking to lay out his advice for achieving a successful old age.

In spite of the title, this article will really be on how not to grow old, which, at my time of life, is a much more important subject. My first advice would be to choose your ancestors carefully. Although both my parents died young, I have done well in this respect as regards my other ancestors. My maternal grandfather, it is true, was cut off in the flower of his youth at the age of sixty-seven, but my other three grandparents all lived to be over eighty. Of remoter ancestors I can only discover one who did not live to a great age, and he died of a disease which is now rare, namely, having his head cut off. A great-grandmother of mine, who was a friend of Gibbon, lived to the age of ninety-two, and to her last day remained a terror to all her descendants. My maternal grandmother, after having nine children who survived, one who died in infancy, and many miscarriages, as soon as she became a widow devoted herself to women's higher education. She was one of the founders of Girton College, and worked hard at opening the medical profession to women. She used to tell of how she met in Italy an elderly gentleman who was looking very sad. She asked him why he was so melancholy and he said that he had just parted from his two grandchildren. 'Good gracious,' she exclaimed, 'I have seventy-two grandchildren, and if I were sad each time I parted from one of them, I should have a miserable existence!' 'Madre snaturale!,' he replied. But speaking as one of the seventy-two, I prefer her recipe. After the age of eighty she found she had some difficulty in getting to sleep, so she habitually spent the hours from midnight to 3 a.m. in reading popular science. I do not believe that she ever had time to notice that she was growing old. This, I think, is the proper recipe for remaining young. If you have wide and keen interests and activities in which you can still be effective, you will have no reason to think about the merely statistical fact of the number of years you have already lived, still less of the probable shortness of your future.

As regards health, I have nothing useful to say as I have little experience of illness. I eat and drink whatever I like, and sleep when I cannot keep awake. I never do anything whatever on the ground that it is good for health, though in actual fact the things I like doing are mostly wholesome.

Psychologically there are two dangers to be guarded against in old age. One of these is undue absorption in the past. It does not do to live in memories, in regrets for the good old days, or in sadness about friends who are dead. One's thoughts must be directed to the future, and to things about which there is something to be done. This is not always easy; one's own past is a gradually increasing weight. It is easy to think to oneself that one's emotions used to be more vivid than they are, and one's mind more keen. If this is true it should be forgotten, and if it is forgotten it will probably not be true.

The other thing to be avoided is clinging to youth in the hope of sucking vigour from its vitality. When your children are grown up they want to live their own lives, and if you continue to be as interested in them as you were when they were young, you are likely to become a burden to them, unless they are unusually callous. I do not mean that one should be without interest in them, but one's interest should be contemplative and, if possible, philanthropic, but not unduly emotional. Animals become indifferent to their young as soon as their young can look after themselves, but human beings, owing to the length of infancy, find this difficult.

I think that a successful old age is easiest for those who have strong impersonal interests involving appropriate activities. It is in this sphere that long experience is really fruitful, and it is in this sphere that the wisdom born of experience can be exercised without being oppressive. It is no use telling grownup children not to make mistakes, both because they will not believe you, and because mistakes are an essential part of education. But if you are one of those who are incapable of impersonal interests, you may find that your life will be empty unless you concern yourself with your children and grandchildren. In that case you must realise that while you can still render them material services, such as making them an allowance or knitting them jumpers, you must not expect that they will enjoy your company.

Some old people are oppressed by the fear of death. In the young there there is a justification for this feeling. Young men who have reason to fear that they will be killed in battle may justifiably feel bitter in the thought that they have been cheated of the best things that life has to offer. But in an old man who has known human joys and sorrows, and has achieved whatever work it was in him to do, the fear of death is somewhat abject and ignoble. The best way to overcome it -so at least it seems to me- is to make your interests gradually wider and more impersonal, until bit by bit the walls of the ego recede, and your life becomes increasingly merged in the universal life. An individual human existence should be like a river: small at first, narrowly contained within its banks, and rushing passionately past rocks and over waterfalls. Gradually the river grows wider, the banks recede, the waters flow more quietly, and in the end, without any visible break, they become merged in the sea, and painlessly lose their individual being. The man who, in old age, can see his life in this way, will not suffer from the fear of death, since the things he cares for will continue. And if, with the decay of vitality, weariness increases, the thought of rest will not be unwelcome. I should wish to die while still at work, knowing that others will carry on what I can no longer do and content in the thought that what was possible has been done.

Lesson 12 Banks and their customers 银行和顾客

First listen and then answer the following question.

Why is there no risk to the customer when a bank prints the customer's name on his cheques ?

When anyone opens a current account at a bank, he is lending the bank money, repayment of which he may demand at any time, either in cash or by drawing a cheque in favour of another person. Primarily, the banker-customer relationship is that of debtor and creditor — who is which depending on whether the customer's account is in credit or is overdrawn. But, in addition to that basically simple concept, the bank and its customer owe a large number of obligations to one another. Many of these obligations can give rise to problems and complications but a bank customer, unlike, say, a buyer of goods, cannot complain that the law is loaded against him.

The bank must obey its customer's instructions, and not those of anyone else. When, for example, a customer first opens an account, he instructs the bank to debit his account only in respect of cheques drawn by himself. He gives the bank specimens of his signature, and there is a very firm rule that the bank has no right or authority to pay out a customer's money on a cheques on which its customer's signature has been forged. It makes no difference that the forgery may have been a very skilful one: the bank must recognize its customer's signature. For this reason there is no risk to the customer in the practice, adopted by banks, of printing the customer's name on his cheques. If this facilitates forgery, it is the bank which will lose, not the customer.

Lesson 13 The search for oil 探寻石油

First listen and then answer the following question.

What do oilmen want to achieve as soon as they strike oil?

The deepest holes of all are made for oil, and they go down to as much as 25,0000 feet. But we do not need to send men down to get the oil out, as we must with other mineral deposits. The holes are only borings, less than a foot in diameter. My particular experience is largely in oil, and the search for oil has done more to improve deep drilling than any other mining activity. When it has been decided where we are going to drill, we put up at the surface an oil derrick. It has to be tall because it is like a giant block and tackle, and we have to lower into the ground and haul out of the ground great lengths of drill pipe which are rotated by an engine at the top and are fitted with a cutting bit at the bottom.

The geologist needs to know what rocks the drill has reached, so every so often a sample is obtained with a coring bit. It cuts a clean cylinder of rock, from which can be seen the strata the drill has been cutting through. Once we get down to the oil, it usually flows to the surface because great pressure, either from gas or water, is pushing it. This pressure must be under control, and we control it by means of the mud which we circulate down the drill pipe. We endeavour to avoid the old, romantic idea of a gusher, which wastes oil and gas. We want it to stay down the hole until we can lead it off in a controlled manner.

Lesson 14 The Butterfly Effect 蝴蝶效应

First listen and then answer the following question.

Why do small errors make it impossible to predict the weather system with a high degree of accuracy?

Beyond two or three days, the world's best weather forecasts are speculative, and beyond six or seven they are worthless.

The Butterfly Effect is the reason. For small pieces of weather— and to a global forecaster, small can mean thunderstorms and blizzards— any prediction deteriorates rapidly. Errors and uncertainties multiply, cascading upward through a chain of turbulent features, from dust devils and squalls up to continent-size eddies that only satellites can see.

The modern weather models work with a grid of points of the order of sixty miles apart, and even so, some starting data has to be guessed, since ground stations and satellites cannot see everywhere. But suppose the earth could be covered with sensors spaced one foot apart, rising at one-foot intervals all the way to the top of the atmosphere. Suppose every sensor gives perfectly accurate readings of temperature, pressure, humidity, and any other quantity a meteorologist would want. Precisely at noon an infinitely powerful computer takes all the data and calculates what will happen at each point at 12.01, then 1202, then 12.03...

The computer will still be unable to predict whether Princeton, New Jersey, will have sun or rain on a day one month away. At noon the spaces between the sensors will hide fluctuations that the computer will not know about, tiny deviations from the average. By 12.01, those fluctuations will already have created small errors one foot away. Soon the errors will have multiplied to the ten-foot scale, and so on up to the size of the globe.

and 连接并列句；worthless adj. 没用的 无价值的 = valueless, without value, of little worth, useless; worthlessness n. 无价值 无用；worthwhile adj. 重要的 值得做的；worth n. 价值 意义；worthy adj. 值得的；worth of adj. 值得的 值；butterfly n. 蝴蝶；effect n. 效应 影响 作用 效果 效力 v. 引起 实现；butterfly effect 蝴蝶效应；take effect 开始起作用；come into effect 生效 开始实施； bring/put sth into effect 使生效 实行；in effect 实际上 事实上；to no effect 毫无效果 毫无成效；

世界上最好的两三天以上的天气预报具有很强的猜测性，如果超过六七天，天气预报就没有了任何价值。原因是蝴蝶效应。

For small pieces of weather— and to a global forecaster, small can mean thunderstorms and blizzards—

状 插入语，语法成分为独立成分

thunderstorm n. 雷暴雨；thunder n. 雷电；steal one's thunder 抢别人的风头；storm n. 暴雨 风暴；blizzard n. 暴风雪； any prediction deteriorates rapidly.

主 谓 状

prediction n. 预测 预言 预告；predict v. 预报 预言 预告；indict v. 起诉 控告 告发；deteriorate v. 恶化 变化≈ decline, depreciate, get worse, pine away, worsen, go downhill, weaken, wane; deterioration n. 恶化 退化 变质 堕落；

对于小片的天气情况 — 对一个全球性的气象预报员来说，“小”可以意味着雷暴雨和暴风雪—任何预测的质量会很快下降。

Errors and uncertainties multiply, cascading upward through a chain of turbulent features,

Lesson 15 Secrecy in industry 工业中的秘密

First listen and then answer the following question.

Why is secrecy particularly important in the chemical industries?

Two factors weigh heavily against the effectiveness of scientific research in industry. One is the general atmosphere of secrecy in which it is carried out, the other the lack of freedom of the individual research worker. In so far as any inquiry is a secret one, it naturally limits all those engaged in carrying it out from effective contact with their fellow scientists either in other countries or in universities, or even, often enough, in other departments of the same firm. The degree of secrecy naturally varies considerably. Some of the bigger firms are engaged in researches which are of such general and fundamental nature that it is a positive advantage to them not to keep them secret. Yet a great many processes depending on such research are sought for with complete secrecy until the stage at which patents can be taken out. Even more processes are never patented at all but kept as secret processes. This applies particularly to chemical industries, where chance discoveries play a much larger part than they do in physical and mechanical industries. Sometimes the secrecy goes to such an extent that the whole nature of the research cannot be mentioned. Many firms, for instance, have great difficulty in obtaining technical or scientific books from libraries because they are unwilling to have their names entered as having taken out such and such a book, for fear the agents of other firms should be able to trace the kind of research they are likely to be undertaking.

one...the other... 一个 ... 另一个 ...(on one hand ...on the other hand...); secrecy n. 保密 秘密 保密性；carry out 实施 实行 开展 完成 = perform, execute, achieve, put forward, accomplish, fulfill;

the other the lack of freedom of the individual research worker.

独立成分 | the other 后省略了 is ← freedom 的后置定语 lack of 缺少≈ be short of, fall short；

一是科研工作中普遍存在的保密气氛；二是研究人员缺乏个人自由。

In so far as any inquiry is a secret one, in so far as... 就 ... 而言 到 ... 的程度，程度状语从句；inquire v. 询问 打听 调查；inquiry n. 调查 询问 追究；inquirer n. 调查者；

引 主 谓 宾

it naturally limits all those engaged in carrying it out from effective contact with their fellow scientists

主 状 谓 宾 ← 过去分词短语作后置定语修饰 those it 指 scientific research; engage in 从事 参加 = involve in; carry out 从事≈ work on, undertake, take up, go in for; limit ... from ... 限制某人做某事；contact with 接触 联系；fellow adj. 同类的 同事的 同伴的 n. 家伙 同事； either in other countries or in universities, or even, often enough, in other departments of the same firm.

状 连 状 状 状

either... or... 或者 ... 或者 ...(neither....nor... 两者都不); often enough 够频繁的 时常；

任何一项研究都涉及到保密，那些从事科研的人员自然受到了限制。他们不能和其他国家、其他大学、甚至往往不能与本公司的其他部门的同行们进行有效的接触。

The degree of secrecy naturally varies considerably.

主 ← 后置定语 状 谓 状 considerably adv. 相当地 十分地；considerable adj. 相当大的 值得考虑的 重要的；consider v. 认为 觉得；vary v. 变化 不同 改变；

保密程度自然差别很大。

Some of the bigger firms are engaged in researches which are of such general and fundamental nature

某些大公司进行的研究属于一般和基础性的研究，因此不保密对他们才有利。

Yet a great many processes depending on such research are sought for with complete secrecy

状 定 主 ← 后置定语 谓 | 被动语态 状

process n. 进程 流程 工序 过程 v. 处理 加工 审核；depend/rely/bank on 依靠 = cling to; are sought for with complete secrecy 极端秘密地探索；seek-sought-sought v. 探索 求索 寻求 寻找 谋求 争取； until the stage at which patents can be taken out.

状 ←状 | 定从 主 谓 | 被动语态

stage n. 阶段 步骤 戏剧 舞台 v. 举行 上演 举办；patent v. 取得专利权 n. 专利；take out 取得 = obtain, get, realize, achieve, realize, attain;

然而，依赖这种研究的很多工艺程序是在完全保密的情况下进行的，直到可以取得专利权的阶段为止。

Even more processes are never patented at all but kept as secret processes.

状 定 主 谓 | 被动语态 状 连 谓|被动 状 never...at all 根本不会；这句话前边加了表示否定的 never, 后边加 but, 一般情况强调 but 后的部分，表示转折：This book is nothing but a good English learning material. 这本书是一本不可多得的英语学习资料 . He is anything but a good teacher. 他不是个好老师 .;

更多的工艺过程根本就不会取得专利权，而是作为秘方保存着。

This applies particularly to chemical industries,

主 谓 状 宾

apply to 适用于 应用于≈ be relevant to, concern; chemical adj. 化学的 n. 化学制品；chemistry n. 化学；chemist n. 化学家；

Lesson 16 The modern city 现代城市

First listen and then answer the following question.

What is the author's main argument about the modern city?

In the organization of industrial life the influence of the factory upon the physiological and mental state of the workers has been completely neglected. Modern industry is based on the conception of the maximum production at lowest cost, in order that an individual or a group of individuals may earn as much money as possible. It has expanded without any idea of the true nature of the human beings who run the machines, and without giving any consideration to the effects produced on the individuals and on their descendants by the artificial mode of existence imposed by the factory. The great cities have been built with no regard for us. The shape and dimensions of the skyscrapers depend entirely on the necessity of obtaining the maximum income per square foot of ground, and of offering to the tenants offices and apartments that please them. This caused the construction of gigantic buildings where too large masses of human beings are crowded together. Civilized men like such a way of living. While they enjoy the comfort and banal luxury of their dwelling, they do not realize that they are deprived of the necessities of life. The modern city consists of monstrous edifices and of dark, narrow streets full of petrol fumes and toxic gases, torn by the noise of the taxicabs, lorries and buses, and thronged ceaselessly by great crowds. Obviously, it has not been planned for the good of its inhabitants.

Lesson 17 A man-made disease 人为的疾病

First listen and then answer the following question.

What factor helped to spread the disease of myxomatosis?

In the early days of the settlement of Australia, enterprising settlers unwisely introduced the European rabbit. This rabbit had no natural enemies in the Antipodes, so that it multiplied with that promiscuous abandon characteristic of rabbits. It overran a whole continent. It caused devastation by burrowing and by devouring the herbage which might have maintained millions of sheep and cattle. Scientists discovered that this particular variety of rabbit (and apparently no other animal) was susceptible to a fatal virus disease, myxomatosis. By infecting animals and letting them loose in the burrows, local epidemics of this disease could be created. Later it was found that there was a type of mosquito which acted as the carrier of this disease and passed it on to the rabbits. So while the rest of the world was trying to get rid of mosquitoes, Australia was encouraging this one. It effectively spread the disease all over the continent and drastically reduced the rabbit population. It later became apparent that rabbits were developing a degree of resistance to this disease, so that the rabbit population was unlikely to be completely exterminated. There were hopes, however, that the problem of the rabbit would become manageable.

Ironically, Europe, which had bequeathed the rabbit as a pest to Australia, acquired this man-made disease as a pestilence. A French physician decided to get rid of the wild rabbits on his own estate and introduced myxomatosis. It did not, however, remain within the confines of his estate. It spread through France, Where wild rabbits are not generally regarded as a pest but as a sport and a useful food supply, and it spread to Britain where wild rabbits are regarded as a pest but where domesticated rabbits, equally susceptible to the disease, are the basis of a profitable fur industry. The question became one of whether Man could control the disease he had invented.

Lesson 18 Porpoises 海豚

First listen and then answer the following question.

What would you say is the main characteristic of porpoises?

There has long been a superstition among mariners that porpoises will save drowning men by pushing them to the surface, or protect them from sharks by surrounding them in defensive formation. Marine Studio biologists have pointed out that, however intelligent they may be, it is probably a mistake to credit dolphins with any motive of lifesaving. On the occasions when they have pushed to shore an unconscious human being they have much more likely done it out of curiosity or for sport, as in riding the bow waves of a ship. In 1928 some porpoises were photographed working like beavers to push ashore a waterlogged mattress. If, as has been reported, they have protected humans from sharks, it may have been because curiosity attracted them and because the scent of a possible meal attracted the sharks. Porpoises and sharks are natural enemies. It is possible that upon such an occasion a battle ensued, with the sharks being driven away or killed.

Whether it be bird, fish or beast, the porpoise is intrigued with anything that is alive. They are constantly after the turtles, who peacefully submit to all sorts of indignities. One young calf especially enjoyed raising a turtle to the surface with his snout and then shoving him across the tank like an aquaplane. Almost any day a young porpoise may be seen trying to turn a 300-pound sea turtle over by sticking his snout under the edge of his shell and pushing up for dear life. This is not easy, and may require two porpoises working together. In another game, as the turtle swims across the oceanarium, the first porpoise swoops down from above and butts his shell with his belly. This knocks the turtle down several feet. He no sooner recovers his equilibrium than the next porpoise comes along and hits him another crack. Eventually the turtle has been butted all the way down to the floor of the tank. He is now satisfied merely to try to stand up, but as soon as he does so a porpoise knocks him flat. The turtle at last gives up by pulling his feet under his shell and the game is over.

Lesson 19 The stuff of dreams 话说梦的本质

First listen and then answer the following question.

What is going on when a person experiences rapid eye-movements during sleep?

It is fairly clear that the sleeping period must have some function, and because there is so much of it the function would seem to be important. Speculations about its nature have been going on for literally thousands of years, and one odd finding that makes the problem puzzling is that it looks very much as if sleeping is not simply a matter of giving the body a rest. 'Rest', in terms of muscle relaxation and so on, can be achieved by a brief period lying, or even sitting down. The body's tissues are self-repairing and self-restoring to a degree, and function best when more or less continuously active. In fact a basic amount of movement occurs during sleep which is specifically concerned with preventing muscle inactivity.

If it is not a question of resting the body, then perhaps it is the brain that needs resting? This might be a plausible hypothesis were it not for two factors. First the electroencephalograph (which is simply a device for recording the electrical activity of the brain by attaching electrodes to the scalp) shows that while there is a change in the pattern of activity during sleep, there is no evidence that the total amount of activity is any less. The second factor is more interesting and more fundamental. Some years ago an American psychiatrist named William Dement published experiments dealing with the recording of eye-movements during sleep. He showed that the average individual's sleep cycle is punctuated with peculiar bursts of eye-movements, some drifting and slow, others jerky and rapid. People woken during these periods of eye-movements generally reported that they had been dreaming. When woken at other times they reported no dreams. If one group of people were disturbed from their eye-movement sleep for several nights on end, and another group were disturbed for an equal period of time but when they were not exhibiting eye-movements, the first group began to show some personality disorders while the others seemed more or less unaffected. The implications of all this were that it was not the disturbance of sleep that mattered, but the disturbance of dreaming.

Lesson 20 Snake poison 蛇毒

First listen and then answer the following question.

What are the two different ways in which snake poison acts?

How it came about that snakes manufactured poison is a mystery. Over the periods their saliva, a mild, digestive juice like our own, was converted into a poison that defies analysis even today. It was not forced upon them by the survival competition; they could have caught and lived on prey without using poison, just as the thousands of non-poisonous snakes still do. Poison to a snake is merely a luxury; it enables it to get its food with very little effort, no more effort than one bite. And why only snakes? Cats, for instance, would be greatly helped; no running fights with large, fierce rats or tussles with grown rabbits— just a bite and no more effort needed. In fact, it would be an assistance to all carnivores though it would be a two-edged weapon when they fought each other. But, of the vertebrates, unpredictable Nature selected only snakes (and one lizard). One wonders also why Nature, with some snakes, concocted poison of such extreme potency.

In the conversion of saliva into poison, one might suppose that a fixed process took place. It did not; some snakes manufactured a poison different in every respect from that of others, as different as arsenic is from strychnine, and having different effects. One poison acts on the nerves, the other on the blood.

The makers of the nerve poison include the mambas and the cobras and their venom is called neurotoxic. Vipers (adders) and rattlesnakes manufacture the blood poison, which is known as haemolytic. Both poisons are unpleasant, but by far the more unpleasant is the blood poison. It is said that the nerve poison is the more primitive of the two, that the blood poison is, so to speak, a newer product from an improved formula. Be that as it may, the nerve poison does its business with man far more quickly than the blood poison. This, however, means nothing. Snakes did not acquire their poison for use against man but for use against prey such as rats and mice, and the effects on these of viperine poison is almost immediate.

Lesson 21 William S. Hart and the early 'Western' film

First listen and then answer the following question.

How did William Hart's childhood prepare him for his acting role in Western films?

William S. Hart was, perhaps, the greatest of all Western stars, for unlike Gary Cooper and John Wayne he appeared in nothing but Westerns. From 1914 to 1924 he was supreme and unchallenged. It was Hart who created the basic formula of the Western film, and devised the protagonist he played in every film he made, the good-bad man, the accidental-noble outlaw, or the honest-but-framed cowboy, or the sheriff made suspect by vicious gossip; in short, the individual in conflict with himself and his frontier environment.

Unlike most of his contemporaries in Hollywood, Hart actually knew something of the old West. He had lived in it as a child when it was already disappearing, and his hero was firmly rooted in his memories and experiences, and in both the history and the mythology of the vanished frontier. And although no period or place in American history has been more absurdly romanticized, myth and reality did join hands in at least one arena, the conflict between the individual and encroaching civilization.

Men accustomed to struggling for survival against the elements and Indians were bewildered by politicians, bankers and businessmen, and unhorsed by fences, laws and alien taboos. Hart's good-bad man was always an outsider, always one of the disinherited, and if he found it necessary to shoot a sheriff or rob a bank along the way, his early audiences found it easy to understand and forgive, especially when it was Hart who, in the end, overcame the attacking Indians.

Audiences in the second decade of the twentieth century found it pleasant to escape to a time when life, though hard, was relatively simple. We still do; living in a world in which undeclared aggression, war, hypocrisy, chicanery, anarchy and impending immolation are part of our daily lives, we all want a code to live by.

Lesson 22 Knowledge and progress 知识和进步

First listen and then answer the following question.

In what two areas have people made no 'progress' at all?

Why does the idea of progress loom so large in the modern world? Surely because progress of a particular kind is actually taking place around us and is becoming more and more manifest. Although mankind has undergone no general improvement in intelligence or morality, it has made extraordinary progress in the accumulation of knowledge. Knowledge began to increase as soon as the thoughts of one individual could be communicated to another by means of speech. With the invention of writing, a great advance was made, for knowledge could then be not only communicated but also stored. Libraries made education possible, and education in its turn added to libraries: the growth of knowledge followed a kind of compound interest law, which was greatly enhanced by the invention of printing. All this was comparatively slow until, with the coming of science, the tempo was suddenly raised. Then knowledge began to be accumulated according to a systematic plan. The trickle became a stream; the stream has now become a torrent. Moreover, as soon as new knowledge is acquired, it is now turned to practical account. What is called 'modern civilization' is not the result of a balanced development of all man's nature,but of accumulated knowledge applied to practical life. The problem now facing humanity is: What is going to be done with all this knowledge? As is so often pointed out, knowledge is a two-edged weapon which can be used equally for good or evil. It is now being used indifferently for both. Could any spectacle, for instance, be more grimly whimsical than that of gunners using science to shatter men's bodies while, close at hand, surgeons use it to restore them? we have to ask ourselves very seriously what will happen if this twofold use of knowledge, with its ever-increasing power, continues.

Lesson 23 Bird flight 鸟的飞行方法

First listen and then answer the following question.

What are the two main types of bird flight described by the author?

No two sorts of birds practise quite the same sort of flight; the varieties are infinite; but two classes may be roughly seen. Any ship that crosses the Pacific is accompanied for many days by the smaller albatross, Which may keep company with the vessel for an hour without visible or more than occasional movement of wing. The currents of air that the walls of the ship direct upwards, as well as in the line of its course, are enough to give the great bird with its immense wings sufficient sustenance and progress. The albatross is the king of the gliders, the class of fliers which harness the air to their purpose, but must yield to its opposition. In the contrary school, the duck is supreme. It comes nearer to the engines with which man has 'conquered' the air, as he boasts. Duck, and like them the pigeons, are endowed with steel-like muscles, that are a good part of the weight of the bird, and these will ply the short wings with such irresistible power that they can bore for long distances through an opposing gale before exhaustion follows. Their humbler followers, such as partridges, have a like power of strong propulsion, but soon tire. You may pick them up in utter exhaustion, if wind over the sea has driven them to a long journey. The swallow shares the virtues of both schools in highest measure. It tires not, nor does it boast of its power; but belongs to the air, travelling it may be six thousand miles to and from its northern nesting home, feeding its flown young as it flies, and slipping through a medium that seems to help its passage even when the wind is adverse. Such birds do us good, though we no longer take omens from their flight on this side and that; and even the most superstitious villagers no longer take off their hats to the magpie and wish it good-morning.

Lesson 24 Beauty 美

First listen and then answer the following question.

What do glimpses of beauty, either in nature or art, often suggest to the human mind?

A young man sees a sunset and, unable to understand or to express the emotion that it rouses in him, concludes that it must be the gateway to a world that lies beyond. It is difficult for any of us in moments of intense aesthetic experience to resist the suggestion that we are catching a glimpse of a light that shines down to us from a different realm of existence, different and, because the experience is intensely moving, in some way higher. And, though the gleams blind and dazzle, yet do they convey a hint of beauty and serenity greater than we have known or imagined. Greater too than we can describe; for language, which was invented to convey the meanings of this world, cannot readily be fitted to the uses of another.

That all great art has this power of suggesting a world beyond is undeniable. In some moods, Nature shares it. There is no sky in June so blue that it does not point forward to a bluer, no sunset so beautiful that it does not waken the vision of a greater beauty, a vision which passes before it is fully glimpsed, and in passing leaves an indefinable longing and regret. But, if this world is not merely a bad joke, life a vulgar flare amid the cool radiance of the stars, and existence an empty laugh braying across the mysteries; if these intimations of a something behind and beyond are not evil humour born of indigestion, or whimsies sent by the devil to mock and madden us, if, in a word, beauty means something, yet we must not seek to interpret the meaning. If we glimpse the unutterable, it is unwise to try to utter it, nor should we seek to invest with significance that which we cannot grasp. Beauty in terms of our human meanings is meaningless.

Lesson 25 Non-auditory effects of noise 噪音的非听觉效应

First listen and then answer the following question.

What conclusion does the author draw about noise and health in this piece?

Many people in industry and the Services, who have practical experience of noise, regard any investigation of this question as a waste of time; they are not prepared even to admit the possibility that noise affects people. On the other hand, those who dislike noise will sometimes use most inadequate evidence to support their pleas for a quieter society. This is a pity, because noise abatement really is a good cause, and it is likely to be discredited if it gets to be associated with bad science.

One allegation often made is that noise produces mental illness. A recent article in a weekly newspaper, for instance, was headed with a striking illustration of a lady in a state of considerable distress, with the caption 'She was yet another victim, reduced to a screaming wreck'. On turning eagerly to the text, one learns that the lady was a typist who found the sound of office typewriters worried her more and more until eventually she had to go into a mental hospital. Now the snag in this sort of anecdote is of course that one cannot distinguish cause and effect. Was the noise a cause of the illness, or were the complaints about noise merely a symptom? Another patient might equally well complain that her neighbours were combining to slander her and persecute her, and yet one might be cautious about believing this statement.

What is needed in case of noise is a study of large numbers of people living under noisy conditions, to discover whether they are mentally ill more often than other people are. Some time ago the United States Navy, for instance, examined a very large number of men working on aircraft carriers: the study was known as Project Anehin. It can be unpleasant to live even several miles from an aerodrome; if you think what it must be like to share the deck of a ship with several squadrons of jet aircraft, you will realize that a modern navy is a good place to study noise. But neither psychiatric interviews nor objective tests were able to show any effects upon these American sailors. This result merely confirms earlier American and British studies: if there is any effect of noise upon mental health, it must be so small that present methods of psychiatric diagnosis cannot find it. That does not prove that it does not exist: but it does mean that noise is less dangerous than, say, being brought up in an orphanage — which really is a mental health hazard.

Lesson 26 The past life of the earth 地球上的昔日生命

First listen and then answer the following question.

What is the main condition for the preservation of the remains of any living creature?

It is animals and plants which lived in or near water whose remains are most likely to be preserved, for one of the necessary conditions of preservation is quick burial, and it is only in the seas and rivers, and sometimes lakes, where mud and silt have been continuously deposited, that bodies and the like can be rapidly covered over and preserved.

But even in the most favourable circumstances only a small fraction of the creatures that die are preserved in this way before decay sets in or, even more likely, before scavengers eat them. After all, all living creatures live by feeding on something else, whether it be plant or animal, dead or alive, and it is only by chance that such a fate is avoided. The remains of plants and animals that lived on land are much more rarely preserved, for there is seldom anything to cover them over. When you think of the innumerable birds that one sees flying about, not to mention the equally numerous small animals like field mice and voles which you do not see, it is very rarely that one comes across a dead body, except, of course, on the roads. They decompose and are quickly destroyed by the weather or eaten by some other creature.

It is almost always due to some very special circumstances that traces of land animals survive, as by falling into inaccessible caves, or into an ice crevasse, like the Siberian mammoths, when the whole animal is sometimes preserved, as in a refrigerator. This is what happened to the famous Beresovka mammoth which was found preserved and in good condition. In his mouth were the remains of fir trees — the last meal that he had before he fell into the crevasse and broke his back. The mammoth has now been restored in the Palaeontological Museum in St. Peterburg. Other animals were trapped in tar pits,like the elephants, sabre-toothed cats, and numerous other creatures that are found at Rancho la Brea, which is now just a suburb of Los Angeles. Apparently what happened was that water collected on these tar pits, and the bigger animals like the elephants ventured out on to the apparently firm surface to drink, and were promptly bogged in the tar. And then, when they were dead, the carnivores, like the sabre-toothed cats and the giant wolves, came out to feed and suffered exactly the same fate. There are also endless numbers of birds in the tar as well.

Lesson 27 The 'Vasa' “瓦萨”号

First listen and then answer the following question.

What happened to the 'Vasa' almost immediately after she was launched?

From the seventeenth-century empire of Sweden, the story of a galleon that sank at the start of her maiden voyage in 1628 must be one of the strangest tales of the sea. For nearly three and a half centuries she lay at the bottom of Stockholm harbour until her discovery in 1956. This was the Vasa, royal flagship of the great imperial fleet.

King Gustavus Adolphus, 'The Northern Hurricane', then at the height of his military success in the Thirty Years' War, had dictated her measurements and armament. Triple gun-decks mounted sixty-four bronze cannon. She was intended to play a leading role in the growing might of Sweden.

As she was prepared for her maiden voyage on August 10, 1628, Stockholm was in a ferment. From the Skeppsbron and surrounding islands the people watched this thing of beauty begin to spread her sails and catch the wind. They had laboured for three years to produce this floating work of art; she was more richly carved and ornamented than any previous ship. The high stern castle was a riot of carved gods, demons, knights, kings, warriors, mermaids, cherubs; and zoomorphic animal shapes ablaze with red and gold and blue, symbols of courage, power, and cruelty, were portrayed to stir the imaginations of the superstitious sailors of the day.

Then the cannons of the anchored warships thundered a salute to which the Vasa fired in reply. As she emerged from her drifting cloud of gun smoke with the water churned to foam beneath her bow, her flags flying, pennants waving, sails filling in the breeze, and the red and gold of her superstructure ablaze with colour, she presented a more majestic spectacle than Stockholmers had ever seen before. All gun-ports were open and the muzzles peeped wickedly from them.

As the wind freshened there came a sudden squall and the ship made a strange movement, listing to port. The Ordnance Officer ordered all the port cannon to be heaved to starboard to counteract the list, but the steepening angle of the decks increased. Then the sound of rumbling thunder reached the watchers on the shore, as cargo, ballast, ammunition and 400 people went sliding and crashing down to the port side of the steeply listing ship. The lower gun-ports were now below water and the inrush sealed the ship's fate. In that first glorious hour, the mighty Vasa, which was intended to rule the Baltic, sank with all flags flying—in the harbour of her birth.

Lesson 28 Patients and doctors 病人与医生

First listen and then answer the following question.

What are patients looking for when they visit the doctor?

This is a sceptical age, but although our faith in many of the things in which our forefathers fervently believed has weakened, our confidence in the curative properties of the bottle of medicine remains the same as theirs. This modern faith in medicines is proved by the fact that the annual drug bill of the Health Services is mounting to astronomical figures and shows no signs at present of ceasing to rise. The majority of the patients attending the medical out-patients departments of our hospitals feel that they have not received adequate treatment unless they are able to carry home with them some tangible remedy in the shape of a bottle of medicine, a box of pills, or a small jar of ointment, and the doctor in charge of the department is only too ready to provide them with these requirements. There is no quicker method of disposing of patients than by giving them what they are asking for, and since most medical men in the Health Services are overworked and have little time for offering time-consuming and little-appreciated advice on such subjects as diet, right living, and the need for abandoning bad habits etc., the bottle, the box, and the jar are almost always granted them.

Nor is it only the ignorant and ill-educated person who has such faith in the bottle of medicine. It is recounted of Thomas Carlyle that when he heard of the illness of his friend, Henry Taylor, he went off immediately to visit him, carrying with him in his pocket what remainded of a bottle of medicine formerly prescribed for an indisposition of Mrs. Carlyle's. Carlyle was entirely ignorant of what the bottle in his pocket contained, of the nature of the illness from which his friend was suffering, and of what had previously been wrong with his wife, but a medicine that had worked so well in one form of illness would surely be of equal benefit in another, and comforted by the thought of the help he was bringing to his friend, he hastened to Henry Taylor's house. History does not relate whether his friend accepted his medical help, but in all probability he did. The great advantage of taking medicine is that it makes no demands on the taker beyond that of putting up for a moment with a disgusting taste, and that is what all patients demand of their doctors — to be cured at no inconvenience to themselves.

Lesson 29 The hovercraft 气垫船

First listen and then answer the following question.

What is a hovercraft riding on when it is in motion?

Many strange new means of transport have been developed in our century, the strangest of them being perhaps the hovercraft. In 1953, a former electronics engineer in his fifties, Christopher Cockerell, who had turned to boat-building on the Norfolk Broads, suggested an idea on which he had been working for many years to the British Government and industrial circles. It was the idea of supporting a craft on a 'pad', or cushion, of low-pressure air, ringed with a curtain of higher pressure air. Ever since, people have had difficulty in deciding whether the craft should be ranged among ships, planes, or land vehicles — for it is something in between a boat and an aircraft. As a shipbuilder, Cockerell was trying to find a solution to the problem of the wave resistance which wastes a good deal of a surface ship's power and limits its speed. His answer was to lift the vessel out of the water by making it ride on a cushion of air,no more than one or two feet thick. This is done by a great number of ring-shaped air jets on the bottom of the craft. It 'flies', therefore, but it cannot fly higher— its action depends on the surface, water or ground, over which it rides.

The first tests on the Solent in 1959 caused a sensation. The hovercraft travelled first over the water, then mounted the beach, climbed up the dunes, and sat down on a road. Later it crossed the Channel, riding smoothly over the waves, which presented no problem.

Since that time, various types of hovercraft have appeared and taken up regular service. The hovercraft is particularly useful in large areas with poor communications such as Africa or Australia; it can become a 'flying fruit-bowl', carrying bananas from the plantations to the ports; giant hovercraft liners could span the Atlantic; and the railway of the future may well be the 'hovertrain', riding on its air cushion over a single rail, which it never touches, at speeds up to 300 m.p.h. — the possibilities appear unlimited.

Many strange new means of transport have been developed in our century,

前置定语 → 主 ← 后置定语 谓 | 被动语态 状 transport v. 运输 输送 n. 交通工具；transportation n. 运输 交通 交通工具；transporter n. 大型运输车；transportable adj. 可运输 可输送； the strangest of them being perhaps the hovercraft.

独立主格结构作状语 | 与其它部分并不十分紧密

hovercraft n. 气垫船；hover v. 盘旋 悬浮 徘徊 犹豫 巡弋；craft n. 飞行器 工艺 船 手艺 v. 精心制作；craftsman n. 工匠 手艺人；craftmanship n. 手艺 技艺；crafty adj. 巧妙的 诡计多端的；

★★★ 独立主格结构（Absolute Construction）是一种英语句式，由两部分组成，前一部分是名词或者代词，后一部分是非谓语动词（不定式，现在分词，过去分词）或形容词，副词，名词或介词短语，前后两部分具有逻辑主谓关系；在英语中，谓语只能是动词，不是谓语的动词全部改成非谓语动词；独立主格结构本身不是句子，在句子中作状语，表时间，原因，条件，伴随，目的及状态等，其主要用于描绘性文字中或书面语中，常用来表示谓语动词发生的时间，原因，条件，行为方式或伴随情况等，相当于一个状语从句或并列句；

本世纪已研制出许多新奇的交通工具，其中最新奇的要数气垫船了。

In 1953, a former electronics engineer in his fifties, Christopher Cockerell, 状 前置定语 → 主 ← 后置定语 engineer 的同位语 electronics n. 电子学 电子器件 电子设备；electrician n. 电工 电气技师；in his fifties 在他 50 岁的时候；本句看着很长，其实如果把描述性的定语和定语从句去掉，本句最终为：Engineer suggested an idea to...；

who had turned to boat-building on the Norfolk Broads,

← 主 谓 宾 状

who 引导非限定性定语从句修饰主语 engineer, Christopher Cockerell; turn to 转行 着手 求助于 转向； suggested an idea on which he had been working for many years

谓 宾 谓 宾 主 谓 状

an idea 后跟定语从句修饰 idea; work on 从事 致力于；过去完成进行时 [had been doing] 强调动作从过去的过去开始一直延续到过去某个时间点，在过去某个时间点时，这个动作可能刚刚停止，也可能仍然在进行；过去完成时 [had done] 表示过去某一时间前就已经发生或完成了的动作，对过去的某一点造成的某种影响或是结果，用来指在另一个过去行动之前就已经完成了的事件；

状

1953 年，有一位 50 多岁名叫克里斯托弗 . 科克雷的原电子工程师，改行在诺福克郡布罗兹区从事造船业，他向英国政府和工业界提出了他研究多年的一项计划。

It was the idea of supporting a craft on a 'pad', or cushion, of low-pressure air,

主 系 表 ← 介词短语作后置定语修饰 idea ← 后置定语修饰 cushion it 指 an idea; cushion n. 垫 软垫 坐垫 缓冲 v. 缓冲 缓和冲击 缓和打击；Whether, and how much, a bank's capital cushion should be allowed to fall. 无论如何，无论多少，银行的缓冲资本必须得下调。 ringed with a curtain of higher pressure air.

← 过去分词短语作后置定语修饰 cushion ring-rang-rung v. 围 包围 环绕 n. 铃声 戒指 指环 环状物；curtain n. 帷幕 幔 窗帘；curtain call 谢幕；

他的设想是：用一个低压空气垫或软垫来支撑船体，软垫周围用高压空气环绕。

他的解决办法是把船体提离水面，让船在一个气垫上行驶，气垫只有一两英尺厚。

This is done by a great number of ring-shaped air jets on the bottom of the craft.

主 谓 | 被动 方式状语 地点状语

this 指代 answer; a great number of 大量 许多 + 可数名词 = a great many, a lot of; jet n. 喷出口 喷嘴 喷气式飞机；

船底装上大量环状喷气嘴以实现这一目的。

It 'flies', therefore, but it cannot fly higher —

主 谓 连 连 主 谓 状

it = the vessel; therefore 因果连词 adv. 由于这样 为此；破折号引出原因状语从句； its action depends on the surface, water or ground, over which it rides.

主 谓 宾 ← 谓 宾 主 谓 over 介词提前，正常 which it rides over.，定语从句修饰前边原因状语从句中的宾语；定语从句的动词后边有介词且与先行词之间构成逻辑上的介宾关系时，只要不是固定短语或者拆开之后会影响该动词在此句中的意思，就可以将介词提前放在引导词的前面，这种用法经常出现在正式文体中：They are good friends I can turn to. = They are good friends to whom I can turn. This is the book about which they often talk. Tom is a teacher from whom we can learn a lot. This is the house in which I grew up. This is the reason for which I was late.

这样，船就能飞了，但飞不高。它的飞行限决于它所悬浮的水面或地面。

Lesson 30 Exploring the sea-floor 海底勘探

First listen and then answer the following question.

How did people probably imagine the sea-floor before it was investigated?

Our knowledge of the oceans a hundred years ago was confined to the two-dimensional shape of the sea surface and the hazards of navigation presented by the irregularities in depth of the shallow water close to the land. The open sea was deep and mysterious, and anyone who gave more than a passing thought to the bottom confines of the oceans probably assumed that the sea bed was flat. Sir James Clark Ross had obtained a sounding of over 2,400 fathoms in 1839, but it was not until 1869, when H. M. S. Porcupine was put at the disposal of the Royal Society for several cruises, that a series of deep soundings was obtained in the Atlantic and the first samples were collected by dredging the bottom. Shortly after this the famous H. M. S. Challenger expedition established the study of the sea-floor as a subject worthy of the most qualified physicists and geologists. A burst of activity associated with the laying of submarine cables soon confirmed the challenger's observation that many parts of the ocean were two to three miles deep, and the existence of underwater features of considerable magnitude.

Today, enough soundings are available to enable a relief map of the Atlantic to be drawn and we know something of the great variety of the sea bed's topography. Since the sea covers the greater part of the earth's surface, it is quite reasonable to regard the sea floor as the basic form of the crust of the earth, with, superimposed upon it, the continents, together with the islands and other features of the oceans. The continents form rugged tablelands which stand nearly three miles above the floor of the open ocean. From the shore line, out to a distance which may be anywhere from a few miles to a few hundred miles, runs the gentle slope of the continental shelf, geologically part of the continents. The real dividing line between continents and oceans occurs at the foot of a steeper slope.

This continental slope usually starts at a place somewhere near the 100-fathom mark and in the course of a few hundred miles reaches the true ocean floor at 2,500-3,500 fathoms. The slope averages about 1 in 30, but contains steep, probably vertical, cliffs, and gentle sediment-covered terraces, and near its lower reaches there is a long tailing-off which is almost certainly the result of material transported out to deep water after being eroded from the continental masses.

Lesson 31 The sculptor speaks 雕塑家的语言

First listen and then answer the following question.

What do you have to be able to do to appreciate sculpture?

Appreciation of sculpture depends upon the ability to respond to form in there dimensions. That is perhaps why sculpture has been described as the most difficult of all arts; certainly it is more difficult than the arts which involve appreciation of flat forms, shape in only two dimensions. Many more people are 'form-blind' than colour-blind. The child learning to see, first distinguishes only two-dimensional shape; it cannot judge distances, depths. Later, for its personal safety and practical needs, it has to develop (partly by means of touch) the ability to judge roughly three-dimensonal distances. But having satisfied the requirements of practical necessity, most people go no further. Though they may attain considerable accuracy in the perception of flat form, they do not make the further intellectual and emotional effort needed to comprehend form in its full spatial existence.

This is what the sculptor must do. He must strive continually to think of, and use, form in its full spatial completeness. He gets the solid shape, as it were, inside his head—he thinks of it, whatever its size, as if he were holding it completely enclosed in the hollow of his hand. He mentally visualizes a complex form from all round itself; he knows while he looks at one side what the other side is like; he identifies himself with its centre of gravity, its mass, its weight; he realizes its volume, as the space that the shape displaces in the air.

And the sensitive observer of sculpture must also learn to feel shape simply as shape, not as description or reminiscence. He must, for example, perceive an egg as a simple single solid shape, quite apart from its significance as food, or from the literary idea that it will become a bird. And so with solids such as a shell, a nut, a plum, a pear, a tadpole, a mushroom, a mountain peak, a kidney, a carrot, a tree-trunk, a bird, a bud, a lark, a ladybird, a bulrush, a bone. From these he can go on to appreciate more complex forms or combinations of several forms.

Lesson 32 Galileo reborn 伽利略的复生

First listen and then answer the following question.

What has modified out traditional view of Galileo in recent times?

In his own lifetime Galileo was the centre of violent controversy; but the scientific dust has long since settled, and today we can see even his famous clash with the Inquisition in something like its proper perspective. But, in contrast, it is only in modern times that Galileo has become a problem child for historians of science.

The old view of Galileo was delightfully uncomplicated. He was, above all, a man who experimented: who despised the prejudices and book learning of the Aristotelians, who put his questions to nature instead of to the ancients, and who drew his conclusions fearlessly. He had been the first to turn a telescope to the sky, and he had seen there evidence enough to overthrow Aristotle and Ptolemy together. He was the man who climbed the Leaning Tower of Pisa and dropped various weights from the top, who rolled balls down inclined planes, and then generalized the results of his many experiments into the famous law of free fall.

But a closer study of the evidence, supported by a deeper sense of the period, and particularly by a new consciousness of the philosophical undercurrents in the scientific revolution, has profoundly modified this view of Galileo. Today, although the old Galileo lives on in many popular writings, among historians of science a new and more sophisticated picture has emerged. At the same time our sympathy for Galileo's opponents has grown somewhat. His telescopic observations are justly immortal; they aroused great interest at the time, they had important theoretical consequences, and they provided a striking demonstration of the potentialities hidden in instruments and apparatus. But can we blame those who looked and failed to see what Galileo saw, if we remember that to use a telescope at the limit of its powers calls for long experience and intimate familiarity with one's instrument? Was the philosopher who refused to look through Galileo's telescope more culpable than those who alleged that the spiral nebulae observed with Lord Rosse's great telescope in the eighteen-forties were scratches left by the grinder? We can perhaps forgive those who said the moons of Jupiter were produced by Galileo's spyglass if we recall that in his day, as for centuries before, curved glass was the popular contrivance for producing not truth but illusion, untruth; and if a single curved glass would distort nature, how much more would a pair of them?

Lesson 33 Education 教育

First listen and then answer the following question.

Why is education democratic in bookless, tribal societies?

Education is one of the key words of our time. A man without an education, many of us believe, is an unfortunate victim of adverse circumstances, deprived of one of the greatest twentieth-century opportunities. Convinced of the importance of education, modern states 'invest' in institutions of learning to get back 'interest' in the form of a large group of enlightened young men and women who are potential leaders. Education, with its cycles of instruction so carefully worked out, punctuated by textbooks—those purchasable wells of wisdom—what would civilization be like without its benefits?

So much is certain: that we would have doctors and preachers, lawyers and defendants, marriages and births — but our spiritual outlook would be different. We would lay less stress on 'facts and figures' and more on a good memory, on applied psychology, and on the capacity of a man to get along with his fellow-citizens. If our educational system were fashioned after its bookless past we would have the most democratic form of 'college' imaginable. Among tribal people all knowledge inherited by tradition is shared by all; it is taught to every member of the tribe so that in this respect everybody is equally equipped for life.

It is the ideal condition of the 'equal start' which only our most progressive forms of modern education try to regain. In primitive cultures the obligation to seek and to receive the traditional instruction is binding to all. There are no 'illiterates' — if the term can be applied to peoples without a script — while our own compulsory school attendance became law in Germany in 1642, in France in 1806, and in England in 1876, and is still non-existent in a number of 'civilized' nations. This shows how long it was before we deemed it necessary to make sure that all our children could share in the knowledge accumulated by the 'happy few' during the past centuries.

Education in the wilderness is not a matter of monetary means. All are entitled to an equal start. There is none of the hurry which, in our society, often hampers the full development of a growing personality. There, a child grows up under the ever-present attention of his parents; therefore the jungles and the savannahs know of no 'juvenile delinquency'. No necessity of making a living away from home results in neglect of children, and no father is confronted with his inability to 'buy' an education for his child.

Lesson 34 Adolescence 青春期

First listen and then answer the following question.

What do adolescents respect in parents?

Parents are often upset when their children praise the homes of their friends and regard it as a slur on their own cooking, or cleaning, or furniture, and often are foolish enough to let the adolescents see that they are annoyed. They may even accuse them of disloyalty, or make some spiteful remark about the friends' parents. Such a loss of dignity and descent into childish behaviour on the part of the adults deeply shocks the adolescents, and makes them resolve that in future they will not talk to their parents about the places or people they visit. Before very long the parents will be complaining that the child is so secretive and never tells them anything, but they seldom realize that they have brought this on themselves.

Disillusionment with the parents, however good and adequate they may be both as parents and as individuals, is to some degree inevitable. Most children have such a high ideal of their parents, unless the parents themselves have been unsatisfactory, that it can hardly hope to stand up to a realistic evaluation. Parents would be greatly surprised and deeply touched if they realized how much belief their children usually have in their character and infallibility, and how much this faith means to a child. If parents were prepared for this adolescent reaction, and realized that it was a sign that the child was growing up and developing valuable powers of observation and independent judgment, they would not be so hurt, and therefore would not drive the child into opposition by resenting and resisting it.

The adolescent, with his passion for sincerity, always respects a parent who admits that he is wrong, or ignorant, or even that he has been unfair or unjust. What the child cannot forgive is the parents' refusal to admit these charges if the child knows them to be true.

Victorian parents believed that they kept their dignity by retreating behind an unreasoning authoritarian attitude; in fact they did nothing of the kind, but children were then too cowed to let them know how they really felt. Today we tend to go to the other extreme, but on the whole this is a healthier attitude both for the child and the parent. It is always wiser and safer to face up to reality, however painful it may be at the moment.

Lesson 35 Space odyssey 太空探索

First listen and then answer the following question.

When will it be possible for us to think seriously about colonising Mars?

The Moon is likely to become the industrial hub of the Solar System, supplying the rocket fuels for its ships, easily obtainable from the lunar rocks in the form of liquid oxygen. The reason lies in its gravity. Because the Moon has only an eightieth of the Earth's mass, it requires 97 per cent less energy to travel the quarter of a million miles from the Moon to Earth-orbit than the 200 mile-journey from Earth's surface into orbit!

This may sound fantastic, but it is easily calculated. To escape from the Earth in a rocket, one must travel at seven miles per second. The comparable speed from the Moon is only 1.5 miles per second. Because the gravity on the Moon's surface is only a sixth of Earth's (remember how easily the Apollo astronauts bounded along), it takes much less energy to accelerate to that 1.5 miles per second than it does on Earth. Moon-dwellers will be able to fly in space at only three per cent of the cost of similar journeys by their terrestrial dwellers cousins.

Arthur C. Clark once suggested a revolutionary idea passes through three phases:

1 'It's impossible — don't waste my time.'

2 'It's possible, but not worth doing.'

3 'I said it was a good idea all along.'

The idea of colonising Mars — a world 160 times more distant than the Moon — will move decisively from the second phase to the third, when a significant number of people are living permanently in space. Mars has an extraordinary fascination for would-be voyagers. America, Russia and Europe are filled with enthusiasts — many of them serious and senior scientists — who dream of sending people to it. Their aim is understandable. It is the one world in the Solar System that is most like the Earth. It is a world of red sandy deserts (hence its name — the Red Planet), cloudless skies, savage sandstorms, chasms wider than the Grand Canyon and at least one mountain more than twice as tall as Everest. It seems ideal for settlement.

The Moon is likely to become the industrial hub of the Solar System,

主 谓 宾 ← 后置定语

be likely/unlikely to do sth. 可能 / 不可能做某事；hub n. 枢纽 中心；Solar System 太阳系； supplying the rocket fuels for its ships, easily obtainable from the lunar rocks in the form of liquid oxygen.

现在分词短语作伴随状语 定语修饰 fuel lunar adj. 月球的 月亮的；solar adj. 太阳的 太阳能的；oxygen n. 氧气；hydrogen n. 氢气；ozone n. 臭氧；

月球很可能成为太阳系的工业中心。从月球上的岩石中很容易提炼出液态氧，作为航天飞船的燃料。

The reason lies in its gravity. Because the Moon has only an eightieth of the Earth's mass,

主 谓 宾 引 主 谓 宾

lie in 在于 原因在于；gravity n. 引力 万有引力 重要 严重性；because 引导原因状语从句 = since, for, as; an eightieth 八十分之一； 分数的表达：1). 基数词 + 序数词，当基数词为 one 或者 a/an 时，序数词不变，基数词不是 one 时，序数词词尾加 S: 五分之三 three fifths; 如果表达 " 又 ", 用基数词 + and + 分数：一又三分之一：one and a/one third; 二又三分之二：two and two thirds; 2). 基数词 + over + 基数词：二又三分之二 two and two over three;

it requires 97 per cent less energy to travel the quarter of a million miles

Lesson 36 The cost of government 政府的开支

First listen and then answer the following question.

What is the most important factor, both in government or business, for keeping running costs low?

If a nation is essentially disunited, it is left to the government to hold it together. This increases the expense of government, and reduces correspondingly the amount of economic resources that could be used for developing the country. And it should not be forgotten how small those resources are in a poor and backward country. Where the cost of government is high, resources for development are correspondingly low.

This may be illustrated by comparing the position of a nation with that of a private business enterprise. An enterprise has to incur certain costs and expenses in order to stay in business. For our purposes, we are concerned only with one kind of cost — the cost of managing and administering the business. Such administrative overheads in a business are analogous to the cost of government in a nation. The administrative overheads of a business are low to the extent that everyone working in the business can be trusted to behave in a way that best promotes the interests of the firm. If they can each be trusted to take such responsibilities, and to exercise such initiative as falls within their sphere, then administrative overheads will be low. It will be low because it will be necessary to have only one man looking after each job, without having another man to check upon what he is doing, keep him in line, and report on him to someone else. But if no one can be trusted to act in a loyal and responsible manner towards his job, then the business will require armies of administrators, checkers, and foremen, and administrative overheads will rise correspondingly. As administrative overheads rise, so the earnings of the business after meeting the expense of administration, will fall; and the business will have less money to distribute as dividends or invest directly in its future progress and development.

It is precisely the same with a nation. To the extent that the people can be relied upon to behave in a loyal and responsible manner, the government does not require armies of police and civil servants to keep them in order. But if a nation is disunited, the government cannot be sure that the actions of the people will be in the interests of the nation; and it will have to watch, check, and control the people accordingly. A disunited nation therefore has to incur unduly high costs of government.

Lesson 37 The process of ageing 衰老过程

First listen and then answer the following question.

What is one of the most unpleasant discoveries we make about ourselves as we get older?

At the age of twelve years, the human body is at its most vigorous. It has yet to reach its full size and strength, and its owner his or her full intelligence; but at this age the likelihood of death is least. Earlier, we were infants and young children, and consequently more vulnerable; later, we shall undergo a progressive loss of our vigour and resistance which, though imperceptible at first, will finally become so steep that we can live no longer, however well we look after ourselves, and however well society, and our doctors, look after us. This decline in vigour with the passing of time is called ageing. It is one of the most unpleasant discoveries which we all make that we must decline in this way, that if we escape wars, accidents and disease we shall eventually 'die of old age', and that this happens at a rate which differs little from person to person, so that there are heavy odds in favour of our dying between the ages of sixty-five and eighty. Some of us will die sooner, a few will live longer — on into a ninth or tenth decade. But the chances are against it, and there is a virtual limit on how long we can hope to remain alive, however lucky and robust we are.

Normal people tend to forget this process unless and until they are reminded of it. We are so familiar with the fact that man ages, that people have for years assumed that the process of losing vigour with time, of becoming more likely to die the older we get, was something self-evident, like the cooling of a hot kettle or the wearing-out of a pair of shoes. They have also assumed that all animals, and probably other organisms such as trees, or even the universe itself, must in the nature of things 'wear out'. Most animals we commonly observe do in fact age as we do, if given the chance to live long enough; and mechanical systems like a wound watch, or the sun, do in fact run out of energy in accordance with the second law of thermodynamics (whether the whole universe does so is a moot point at present). But these are not analogous to what happens when man ages. A run-down watch is still a watch and can be rewound. An old watch, by contrast, becomes so worn and unreliable that it eventually is not worth mending. But a watch could never repair itself — it does not consist of living parts, only of metal, which wears away by friction. We could, at one time, repair ourselves —well enough, at least, to overcome all but the most instantly fatal illnesses and accidents. Between twelve and eighty years we gradually lose this power; an illness which at twelve would knock us over, at eighty can knock us out, and into our grave. If we could stay as vigorous as we are at twelve, it would take about 700 years for half of us to die, and another 700 for the survivors to be reduced by half again.

Lesson 38 Water and the traveller 水和旅行者

First listen and then answer the following question.

What does this text describe?

Contamination of water supplies is usually due to poor sanitation close to water sources, sewage disposal into the sources themselves, leakage of sewage into distribution systems or contamination with industrial or farm waste. Even if a piped water supply is safe at its source, it is not always safe by the time it reaches the tap. Intermittent tap-water supplies should be regarded as particularly suspect.

Travellers on short trips to areas with water supplies of uncertain quality should avoid drinking tap-water, or untreated water from any other source. It is best to keep to hot drinks, bottled or canned drinks of well-known brand names — international standards of water treatment are usually followed at bottling plants. Carbonated drinks are acidic, and slightly safer. Make sure that all bottles are opened in your presence, and that their rims are clean and dry.

Boiling is always a good way of treating water. Some hotels supply boiled water on request and this can be used for drinking, or for brushing teeth. Portable boiling elements that can boil small quantities of water are useful when the right voltage of electricity is available. Refuse politely any cold drink from an unknown source.

Ice is only as safe as the water from which it is made, and should not be put in drinks unless it is known to be safe. Drinks can be cooled by placing them on ice rather than adding ice to them.

Alcohol may be a medical disinfectant, but should not be relied upon to sterilize water. Ethanol is more effective at a concentration of 50-70 per cent; below 20 per cent, its bactericidal action is negligible. Spirits labelled 95 proof contain only about 47 per cent alcohol. Beware of methylated alcohol, which is very poisonous, and should never be added to drinking water.

If no other safe water supply can be obtained, tap water that is too hot to touch can be left to cool and is generally safe to drink. Those planning a trip to remote areas, or intending to live in countries where drinking water is not readily available, should know about the various possible methods for making water safe.

Lesson 39 What every writer wants 作家之所需

First listen and then answer the following question.

How do professional writers ignore what they were taught at school about writing?

I have known very few writers, but those I have known, and whom I respect, confess at once that they have little idea where they are going when they first set pen to paper. They have a character, perhaps two; they are in that condition of eager discomfort which passes for inspiration; all admit radical changes of destination once the journey has begun; one, to my certain knowledge, spent nine months on a novel about Kashmir, then reset the whole thing in the Scottish Highlands. I never heard of anyone making a 'skeleton', as we were taught at school. In the breaking and remaking, in the timing, interweaving, beginning afresh, the writer comes to discern things in his material which were not consciously in his mind when he began. This organic process, often leading to moments of extraordinary self-discovery, is of an indescribable fascination. A blurred image appears; he adds a brushstroke and another, and it is gone; but something was there, and he will not rest till he has captured it. Sometimes the yeast within a writer outlives a book he has written. I have heard of writers who read nothing but their own books; like adolescents they stand before the mirror, and still cannot fathom the exact outline of the vision before them. For the same reason, writers talk interminably about their own books, winkling out hidden meanings, super-imposing new ones, begging response from those around them. Of course a writer doing this is misunderstood: he might as well try to explain a crime or a love affair. He is also, incidentally, an unforgivable bore.

This temptation to cover the distance between himself and the reader, to study his image in the sight of those who do not know him, can be his undoing: he has begun to write to please.

A young English writer made the pertinent observation a year or two back that the talent goes into the first draft, and the art into the drafts that follow. For this reason also the writer, like any other artist, has no resting place, no crowd or movement in which he may take comfort, no judgment from outside which can replace the judgment from within. A writer makes order out of the anarchy of his heart; he submits himself to a more ruthless discipline than any critic dreamed of, and when he flirts with fame, he is taking time off from living with himself, from the search for what his world contains at its inmost point.

Lesson 40 Waves 海浪

First listen and then answer the following question.

What false impression does an ocean were convey to the observer?

Waves are the children of the struggle between ocean and atmosphere, the ongoing signatures of infinity. Rays from the sun excite and energize the atmosphere of the earth, awakening it to flow, to movement, to rhythm, to life. The wind then speaks the message of the sun to the sea and the sea transmits it on through waves — an ancient, exquisite, powerful message.

These ocean waves are among the earth's most complicated natural phenomena. The basic features include a crest (the highest point of the wave), a trough (the lowest point), a height (the vertical distance from the trough to the crest), a wave length (the horizontal distance between two wave crests), and a period (which is the time it takes a wave crest to travel one wave length).

Although an ocean wave gives the impression of a wall of water moving in your direction, in actuality waves move through the water leaving the water about where it was. If the water was moving with the wave, the ocean and everything on it would be racing in to the shore with obviously catastrophic results.

An ocean wave passing through deep water causes a particle on the surface to move in a roughly circular orbit, drawing the particle first towards the advancing wave, then up into the wave, then forward with it and then — as the wave leaves the particles behind — back to its starting point again.

From both maturity to death, a wave is subject to the same laws as any other 'living' thing. For a time it assumes a miraculous individuality that, in the end, is reabsorbed into the great ocean of life.

The undulating waves of the open sea are generated by three natural causes: wind, earth movements or tremors, and the gravitational pull of the moon and the sun. Once waves have been generated, gravity is the force that drives them in a continual attempt to restore the ocean surface to a flat plain.

Lesson 41 Training elephants 训练大象

First listen and then answer the following question.

At what point does the training of a captive wild elephant begin?

Two main techniques have been used for training elephants, which we may call respectively the tough and the gentle. The former method simply consists of setting an elephant to work and beating him until he does what is expected of him. Apart from any moral considerations this is a stupid method of training, for it produces a resentful animal who at a later stage may well turn man-killer. The gentle method requires more patience in the early stages, but produces a cheerful, good-tempered elephant who will give many years of loyal service.

The first essential in elephant training is to assign to the animal a single mahout who will be entirely responsible for the job. Elephants like to have one master just as dogs do, and are capable of a considerable degree of personal affection. There are even stories of half-trained elephant calves who have refused to feed and pined to death when by some unavoidable circumstance they have been deprived of their own trainer. Such extreme cases must probably be taken with a grain of salt, but they do underline the general principle that the relationship between elephant and mahout is the key to successful training.

The most economical age to capture an elephant for training is between fifteen and twenty years, for it is then almost ready to undertake heavy work and can begin to earn its keep straight away. But animals of this age do not easily become subservient to man, and a very firm hand must be employed in the early stages. The captive elephant, still roped to a tree, plunges and screams every time a man approaches, and for several days will probably refuse all food through anger and fear. Sometimes a tame elephant is tethered nearby to give the wild one confidence, and in most cases the captive gradually quietens down and begins to accept its food. The next stage is to get the elephant to the training establishment, a ticklish business which is achieved with the aid of two tame elephants roped to the captive on either side.

When several elephants are being trained at one time, it is customary for the new arrival to be placed between the stalls of two captives whose training is already well advanced. It is then left completely undisturbed with plenty of food and water so that it can absorb the atmosphere of its new home and see that nothing particularly alarming is happening to its companions. When it is eating normally, its own training begins. The trainer stands in front of the elephant holding a long stick with a sharp metal point. Two assistants, mounted on tame elephants, control the captive from either side, while others rub their hands over his skin to the accompaniment of a monotonous and soothing chant. This is supposed to induce pleasurable sensations in the elephant, and its effects are reinforced by the use of endearing epithets, such as 'ho! my son', or 'ho! my father', or ' my mother', according to the age and sex of the captive. The elephant is not immediately susceptible to such blandishments, however, and usually lashes fiercely with its trunk in all directions. These movements are controlled by the trainer with the metal-pointed stick, and the trunk eventually becomes so sore that the elephant curls it up and seldom afterwards uses it for offensive purposes.

Lesson 42 Recording an earthquake 记录地震

First listen and then answer the following question.

What does a pen have to do to record on paper the vibrations generated by an earthquake?

An earthquake comes like a thief in the night, without warning. It was necessary, therefore, to invent instruments that neither slumbered nor slept. Some devices were quite simple. One, for instance, consisted of rods of various lengths and thicknesses which would stand up on end like ninepins. When a shock came, it shook the rigid table upon which these stood. If it were gentle, only the more unstable rods fell. If it were severe, they all fell. Thus the rods, by falling, and by the direction in which they fell, recorded for the slumbering scientist the strength of a shock that was too weak to waken him, and the direction from which it came.

But instruments far more delicate than that were needed if any really serious advance was to be made. The ideal to be aimed at was to devise an instrument that could record with a pen on paper, the movements of the ground or of the table as the quake passed by. While I write my pen moves, but the paper keeps still. With practice, no doubt, I could in time learn to write by holding the pen still while the paper moved. That sounds a silly suggestion, but that was precisely the idea adopted in some of the early instruments (seismometers) for recording earthquake waves. But when table, penholder and paper are all moving, how is it possible to write legibly? The key to a solution of that problem lay in an everyday observation. Why does a person standing in a bus or train tend to fall when a sudden start is made? It is because his feet move on , but his head stays still. A simple experiment will help us a little further. Tie a heavy weight at the end of a long piece of string. With the hand held high in the air, hold the string so that the weight nearly touches the ground. Now move the hand to and fro and around but not up and down. It will be found that the weight moves but slightly or not at all. Imagine a pen attached to the weight in such a way that its point rests upon a piece of paper on the floor. Imagine an earthquake shock shaking the floor, the paper, you and your hand. In the midst of all this movement, the weight and the pen would be still. But as the paper moved from side to side under the pen point, its movement would be recorded in ink upon its surface. It was upon this principle that the first instruments were made, but the paper was wrapped round a drum which rotated slowly. As long as all was still, the pen drew a straight line, but while the drum was being shaken, the line that the pen was drawing wriggled from side to side. The apparatus thus described, however, records only the horizontal component of the wave movement, which is, in fact, much more complicated. If we could actually see the path described by a particle, such as a sand grain in the rock, it would be more like that of a bluebottle buzzing round the room; it would be up and down, to and fro and from side to side. Instruments have been devised and can be so placed that all three elements can be recorded in different graphs.

When the instrument is situated at more than 700 miles from the earthquake centre, the graphic record shows three waves arriving one after the other at short intervals. The first records the arrival of longitudinal vibrations. The second marks the arrival of transverse vibrations which travel more slowly and arrive several minutes after the first. These two have travelled through the earth. It was from the study of these that so much was learnt about the interior of the earth. The third, or main wave, is the slowest and has travelled round the earth through the surface rocks.

Lesson 43 Are there strangers in space? 宇宙中有外星人吗？

First listen and then answer the following question.

What does the 'uniquely rational way' for us to communicate with other intelligent beings in space depend on?

We must conclude from the work of those who have studied the origin of life, that given a planet only approximately like our own, life is almost certain to start. Of all the planets in our own solar system, we are now pretty certain the Earth is the only one on which life can survive. Mars is too dry and poor in oxygen, Venus far too hot, and so is Mercury, and the outer planets have temperatures near absolute zero and hydrogen-dominated atmospheres. But other suns, stars as the astronomers call them, are bound to have planets like our own, and as the number of stars in the universe is so vast, this possibility becomes virtual certainty. There are one hundred thousand million stars in our own Milky Way alone, and then there are three thousand million other Milky Ways, or galaxies, in the universe. So the number of stars that we know exist is now estimated at about 300 million million million.

Although perhaps only 1 per cent of the life that has started somewhere will develop into highly complex and intelligent patterns, so vast is the number of planets, that intelligent life is bound to be a natural part of the universe.

If then we are so certain that other intelligent life exists in the universe, why have we had no visitors from outer space yet? First of all, they may have come to this planet of ours thousands or millions of years ago, and found our then prevailing primitive state completely uninteresting to their own advanced knowledge. Professor Ronald Bracewell, a leading American radio astronomer, argued in Nature that such a superior civilization, on a visit to our own solar system, may have left an automatic messenger behind to await the possible awakening of an advanced civilization. Such a messenger, receiving our radio and television signals, might well re-transmit them back to its home-planet, although what impression any other civilization would thus get from us is best left unsaid.

But here we come up against the most difficult of all obstacles to contact with people on other planets — the astronomical distances which separate us. As a reasonable guess, they might, on an average, be 100 light years away. (A light year is the distance which light travels at 186,000 miles per second in one year, namely 6 million million miles.) Radio waves also travel at the speed of light, and assuming such an automatic messenger picked up our first broadcasts of the 1920's, the message to its home planet is barely halfway there. Similarly, our own present primitive chemical rockets, though good enough to orbit men, have no chance of transporting us to the nearest other star, four light years away, let alone distances of tens or hundreds of light years.

Fortunately, there is a 'uniquely rational way' for us to communicate with other intelligent beings, as Walter Sullivan has put it in his excellent book, We Are not Alone. This depends on the precise radio frequency of the 21-cm wavelength, or 1420 megacycles per second. It is the natural frequency of emission of the hydrogen atoms in space and was discovered by us in 1951; it must be known to any kind of radio astronomer in the universe.

Once the existence of this wave-length had been discovered, it was not long before its use as the uniquely recognizable broadcasting frequency for interstellar communication was suggested. Without something of this kind, searching for intelligences on other planets would be like trying to meet a friend in London without a pre-arranged rendezvous and absurdly wandering the streets in the hope of a chance encounter.

Lesson 44 Patterns of culture 文化的模式

First listen and then answer the following question.

What influences us from the moment of birth?

Custom has not commonly been regarded as a subject of any great moment. The inner workings of our won brains we feel to be uniquely worthy of investigation, but custom, we have a way of thinking, is behaviour at its most commonplace. As a matter of fact, it is the other way around. Traditional custom, taken the world over, is a mass of detailed behaviour more astonishing than what any one person can ever evolve in individual actions, no matter how aberrant. Yet that is a rather trivial aspect of the matter. The fact of first-rate importance is the predominant role that custom plays in experience and in belief, and the very great varieties it may manifest.

No man ever looks at the world with pristine eyes. He sees it edited by a definite set of customs and institutions and ways of thinking. Even in his philosophical probings he cannot go behind these stereotypes; his very concepts of the true and the false will still have reference to his particular traditional customs. John Dewey has said in all seriousness that the part played by custom in shaping the behaviour of the individual, as against any way in which he can affect traditional custom, is as the proportion of the total vocabulary of his mother tongue against those words of his own baby talk that are taken up into the vernacular of his family. When one seriously studies the social orders that have had the opportunity to develop autonomously, the figure becomes no more than an exact and matter-of-fact observation. The life history of the individual is first and foremost an accommodation to the patterns and standards traditionally handed down in his community. From the moment of his birth, the customs into which he is born shape his experience and behaviour. By the time he can talk, he is the little creature of his culture, and by the time he is grown and able to take part in its activities, its habits are his habits, its beliefs his beliefs, its impossibilities his impossibilities. Every child that is born into his group will share them with him, and no child born into one on the opposite side of the globe can ever achieve the thousandth part. There is no social problem it is more incumbent upon us to understand than this of the role of custom. Until we are intelligent as to its laws and varieties, the main complicating facts of human life must remain unintelligible.

The study of custom can be profitable only after certain preliminary propositions have been accepted, and some of these propositions have been violently opposed. In the first place, any scientific study requires that there be no preferential weighting of one or another of the items in the series it selects for its consideration. In all the less controversial fields, like the study of cacti or termites or the nature of nebulae, the necessary method of study is to group the relevant material and to take note of all possible variant forms and conditions. In this way, we have learned all that we know of the laws of astronomy, or of the habits of the social insects, let us say. It is only in the study of man himself that the major social sciences have substituted the study of one local variation, that of Western civilization.

Anthropology was by definition impossible, as long as these distinctions between ourselves and the primitive, ourselves and the barbarian, ourselves and the pagan, held sway over people's minds. It was necessary first to arrive at that degree of sophistication where we no longer set our own belief against our neighbour's superstition. It was necessary to recognize that these institutions which are based on the same premises, let us say the supernatural, must be considered together, our own among the rest.

Lesson 45 Of men and galaxies 人和星系

First listen and then answer the following question.

What is the most influential factor in any human society?

In man's early days, competition with other creatures must have been critical. But this phase of our development is now finished. Indeed, we lack practice and experience nowadays in dealing with primitive conditions. I am sure that, without modern weapons, I would make a very poor show of disputing the ownership of a cave with a bear, and in this I do not think that I stand alone. The last creature to compete with man was the mosquito. But even the mosquito has been subdued by attention to drainage and by chemical sprays.

Competition between ourselves, person against person, community against community, still persists, however; and it is as fierce as it ever was.

But the competition of man against man is not the simple process envisioned in biology. It is not a simple competition for a fixed amount of food determined by the physical environment, because the environment that determines our evolution is no longer essentially physical. Our environment is chiefly conditioned by the things we believe. Morocco and California are bits of the Earth in very similar latitudes, both on the west coasts of continents with similar climates, and probably with rather similar natural resources. Yet their present development is wholly different, not so much because of different people even, but because of the different thoughts that exist in the minds of their inhabitants. This is the point I wish to emphasize. The most important factor in our environment is the state of our own minds.

It is well known that where the white man has invaded a primitive culture, the most destructive effects have come not from physical weapons but from ideas. Ideas are dangerous. The Holy Office knew this full well when it caused heretics to be burned in days gone by. Indeed, the concept of free speech only exists in our modern society because when you are inside a community, you are conditioned by the conventions of the community to such a degree that it is very difficult to conceive of anything really destructive. It is only someone looking on from outside that can inject the dangerous thoughts. I do not doubt that it would be possible to inject ideas into the modern world that would utterly destroy us. I would like to give you an example, but fortunately I cannot do so. Perhaps it will suffice to mention the nuclear bomb. Imagine the effect on a reasonably advanced technological society, one that still does not possess the bomb, of making it aware of the possibility, of supplying sufficient details to enable the thing to be constructed. Twenty or thirty pages of information handed to any of the major world powers around the year 1925 would have been sufficient to change the course of world history. It is a strange thought, but I believe a correct one, that twenty or thirty pages of ideas and information would be capable of turning the present-day world upside down, or even destroying it. I have often tried to conceive of what those pages might contain, but of course I cannot do so because I am a prisoner of the present-day world, just as all of you are. We cannot think outside the particular patterns that our brains are conditioned to, or, to be more accurate, we can think only a very little way outside, and then only if we are very original.

Lesson 46 Hobbies 业余爱好

First listen and then answer the following question.

Who, according to the author, are 'Fortune's favoured children'?

A gifted American psychologist has said, 'Worry is a spasm of the emotion; the mind catches hold of something and will not let it go.' It is useless to argue with the mind in this condition. The stronger the will, the more futile the task. One can only gently insinuate something else into its convulsive grasp. And if this something else is rightly chosen, if it is really attended by the illumination of another field of interest, gradually, and often quite swiftly, the old undue grip relaxes and the process of recuperation and repair begins.

The cultivation of a hobby and new forms of interest is therefore a policy of the first importance to a public man. But this is not a business that can be undertaken in a day or swiftly improvised by a mere command of the will. The growth of alternative mental interests is a long process. The seeds must be carefully chosen; they must fall on good ground; they must be sedulously tended, if the vivifying fruits are to be at hand when needed.

To be really happy and really safe, one ought to have at least two or three hobbies, and they must all be real. It is no use starting late in life to say: 'I will take an interest in this or that.' Such an attempt only aggravates the strain of mental effort. A man may acquire great knowledge of topics unconnected with his daily work, and yet get hardly any benefit or relief. It is no use doing what you like; you have got to like what you do. Broadly speaking, human beings may be divided into three classes: those who are toiled to death, those who are worried to death, and those who are bored to death. It is no use offering the manual labourer, tired out with a hard week's sweat and effort, the chance of playing a game of football or baseball on Saturday afternoon. It is no use inviting the politician or the professional or business man, who has been working or worrying about serious things for six days, to work or worry about trifling things at the weekend.

As for the unfortunate people who can command everything they want, who can gratify every caprice and lay their hands on almost every object of desire — for them a new pleasure, a new excitement is only an additional satiation. In vain they rush frantically round from place to place, trying to escape from avenging boredom by mere clatter and motion. For them discipline in one form or another is the most hopeful path.

It may also be said that rational, industrious, useful human beings are divided into two classes: first, those whose work is work and whose pleasure is pleasure; and secondly, those whose work and pleasure are one. Of these the former are the majority. They have their compensations. The long hours in the office or the factory bring with them as their reward, not only the means of sustenance, but a keen appetite for pleasure even in its simplest and most modest forms. But Fortune's favoured children belong to the second class. Their life is a natural harmony. For them the working hours are never long enough. Each day is a holiday, and ordinary holidays, when they come, are grudged as enforced interruptions in an absorbing vocation. Yet to both classes, the need of an alternative outlook, of a change of atmosphere, of a diversion of effort, is essential. Indeed, it may well be that those whose work is their pleasure are those who most need the means of banishing it at intervals from their minds.

Lesson 47 The great escape 大逃亡

First listen and then answer the following question.

What is one of the features of modern camping where nationality is concerned?

Economy is one powerful motive for camping, since after the initial outlay upon equipment, or through hiring it, the total expense can be far less than the cost of hotels. But, contrary to a popular assumption, it is far from being the only one, or even the greatest. The man who manoeuvres carelessly into his twenty pounds' worth of space at one of Europe's myriad permanent sites may find himself bumping a Bentley. More likely, Ford Escort will be hub to hub with Renault or Mercedes, but rarely with bicycles made for two.

That the equipment of modern camping becomes yearly more sophisticated is an entertaining paradox for the cynic, a brighter promise for the hopeful traveller who has sworn to get away from it all. It also provides—and some student sociologist might care to base his thesis upon the phenomenon — an escape of another kind. The modern traveller is often a man who dislikes the Splendide and the Bellavista, not because he cannot afford, or shuns their material comforts, but because he is afraid of them. Affluent he may be, but he is by no means sure what to tip the doorman or the chambermaid. Master in his own house, he has little idea of when to say boo to a maître d'hôtel.

From all such fears camping releases him. Granted, a snobbery of camping itself, based upon equipment and techniques, already exists; but it is of a kind that, if he meets it, he can readily understand and deal with. There is no superior 'they' in the shape of managements and hotel hierarchies to darken his holiday days.

To such motives, yet another must be added. The contemporary phenomenon of car worship is to be explained not least by the sense of independence and freedom that ownership entails. To this pleasure camping gives an exquisite refinement.

From one's own front door to home or foreign hills or sands and back again, everything is to hand. Not only are the means of arriving at the holiday paradise entirely within one's own command and keeping, but the means of escape from holiday hell (if the beach proves too crowded, the local weather too inclement) are there, outside — or, as likely, part of — the tent.

Idealists have objected to the practice of camping, as to the package tour, that the traveller abroad thereby denies himself the opportunity of getting to know the people of the country visited. Insularity and self-containment, it is argued, go hand in hand. The opinion does not survive experience of a popular Continental camping place. Holiday hotels tend to cater for one nationality of visitors especially, sometimes exclusively. Camping sites, by contrast, are highly cosmopolitan. Granted, a preponderance of Germans is a characteristic that seems common to most Mediterranean sites; but as yet there is no overwhelmingly specialized patronage. Notices forbidding the open-air drying of clothes, or the use of water points for car washing, or those inviting 'our camping friends' to a dance or a boat trip are printed not only in French or Italian or Spanish, but also in English, German and Dutch. At meal times the odour of sauerkraut vies with that of garlic. The Frenchman's breakfast coffee competes with the Englishman's bacon and eggs.

Whether the remarkable growth of organized camping means the eventual death of the more independent kind is hard to say. Municipalities naturally want to secure the campers' site fees and other custom. Police are wary of itinerants who cannot be traced to a recognized camp boundary or to four walls. But most probably it will all depend upon campers themselves: how many heath fires they cause; how much litter they leave; in short, whether or not they wholly alienate landowners and those who live in the countryside. Only good scouting is likely to preserve the freedoms so dear to the heart of the eternal Boy Scout.

Lesson 48 Planning a share portfolio 规划股份投资

First listen and then answer the following question.

How does the older investor differ in his approach to investment from the younger investor?

There is no shortage of tipsters around offering 'get-rich-quick' opportunities. But if you are a serious private investor, leave the Las Vegas mentality to those with money to fritter. The serious investor needs a proper 'portfolio' — a well-planned selection of investments, with a definite structure and a clear aim. But exactly how does a newcomer to the stock market go about achieving that?

Well, if you go to five reputable stock brokers and ask them what you should do with your money, you're likely to get five different answers, — even if you give all the relevant information about your age, family, finances and what you want from your investments. Moral? There is no one 'right' way to structure a portfolio. However, there are undoubtedly some wrong ways, and you can be sure that none of our five advisers would have suggested sinking all (or perhaps any) of your money into Periwigs*.

So what should you do? We'll assume that you have sorted out the basics — like mortgages, pensions, insurance and access to sufficient cash reserves. You should then establish your own individual aims. These are partly a matter of personal circumstances, partly a matter of psychology.

For instance, if you are older you have less time to recover from any major losses, and you may well wish to boost your pension income. So preserving your capital and generating extra income are your main priorities. In this case, you'd probably construct a portfolio with some shares (but not high risk ones), along with gilts, cash deposits, and perhaps convertibles or the income shares of split capital investment trusts.

If you are younger, and in a solid financial position, you may decide to take an aggressive approach — but only if you're blessed with a sanguine disposition and won't suffer sleepless nights over share prices. If you recognize yourself in this description, you might include a couple of heady growth stocks in your portfolio, alongside your more pedestrian investments. Once you have decided on your investment aims, you can then decide where to put your money. The golden rule here is spread your risk — if you put all of your money into Periwigs International, you're setting yourself up as a hostage to fortune.

 'Periwigs' is the name of a fictitious company.

Rewrite The Stars 改写命运

Singers 歌手：Zac Efron / Zendaya

This song is from the movie 'The Greatest Showman'. 这首歌来自于电影《马戏之王》。

主 句 | 从句一层 | 从句二层

You know I want you

主 谓 主 谓 宾

I want you 整句作 know 的宾语 (宾语从句)；在宾语从句中，引导词 that 往往可以省略：You know (that) I want you.；know-knew-known v. 知道；

你知道我对你的渴望

It's not a secret I try to hide

主 系 表 主 谓 宾 secret n. 秘密；I try to hide 整句作定语修饰 secret (定语从句)；定语从句的引导词 (who, whom, which, that, where...) 经常可以省略；当引导词在从句中作宾语时可以省略，如本句；当引导词在从句中作主语时不可省略，如：I love the one who hates me. 我爱那个恨我的人。；hide-hid-hidden v. 隐藏；try/attempt to do sth. 尝试做某事；try one's best to do sth. 尽某人最大努力做某事；have a try 尝试一下；

我并不想隐瞒任何人

I know you want me

主 谓 主 谓 宾

我知道你也想要我

So don't keep saying our hands are tied

连 谓 宾 主 谓 | 被动语态

keep-kept-kept v. 继续 保持；keep doing sth. 一直做某事 = keep on doing sth., go on doing sth.；后边的宾语从句作 saying 的宾语；tie v. 束缚 捆绑；

所以不要说我们束手无措

You claim it's not in the cards

主 谓 主 系 表

后边的宾语从句作 claim 的宾语；claim v. 声称 宣称 n. 索赔 声明；proclaim v. 声明 宣告 (正式官方用语)；disclaim v. 公开否认 放弃 拒绝承认；reclaim v.n. 取回 开垦；exclaim v. 欢呼 大声疾呼；

你说我们机会渺茫

No one can say what we get to be

主 谓 引 主 谓 宾

what 引导宾语从句作 say 的宾语；be 动词 = 系动词，动词原形为 be, am/is/are 现在时，being 现在分词，was/were 过去式，been 过去分词；

没人能左右我们的未来

So why don't we rewrite the stars?

连 状 谓 主 谓 宾

don't 放在疑问句前（反义疑问句）翻译：为什么不呢；一般现在时，借助 do/does 构成否定句和疑问句：You love me. Do you love me? You do not love me.；当主语为第三人称单数的情况下用助动词 does: He loves you. He doesn't love you. Does he love you?；

为何不改写我们的过去

Maybe the world could be ours Tonight

状 主 系 表 状

can/could, must, may/might, will/would, need, shall/should... 情态动词不能单独使用，其后加动词原形，be 动词的动词原形为 be: I want to be a teacher. I can be beautiful. I love to be near you. I will be under a lot of pressure.; 一切用到动词原形的地方，如果用到 be 动词就选用 be; To be or not to be, that's the question.

就在今晚，或许世界会为我们动容

jump v. 跳 跨域；skin n. 皮肤；pull v. 拉；push v. 推；chord v. 弦 和音；

欣喜若狂，拉动琴弦

Yeah I believe it

叹 主 谓 宾

belief n. 信仰 信念 相信；believe v. 相信 认定；believe in 坚信 笃信；

哦，我相信。

The past, is everything we were don’t make us who we are

主 系 表 主 系 谓 宾 引 主 系

这句话从语法来讲，其实是错的，don't 要变成 doesn't, 歌词为了韵律而采用了错误的助动词 do; The past 作为第三人称单数作主语，又采用 [一般现在时], 助动词要用 does, 而不是 do;

往昔，逝去的光阴不会决定现在

So I ’ll dream, until I make it real, and all I see is stars

连 主 谓 引 主 谓 宾 宾补 连 主 主 谓 系 表 dream n. 梦 v. 梦想；until = till conj. 直到，引导时间状语从句；省略了关系代

公众号 | 我爱新概念英语

词的定语从句 I see 修饰 all;

real adj. 真实的 实际存在的；make it real 让它实现；句型：make + 宾语 + 宾语补足语，本句跟上句 make us who we are, 区别在于，本句用形容词 real 作宾语补足语，而上句用句子作宾语补足语；

所以我们梦想，直到变成真，看到满天星光

It s not until you fall that you fly

主 系 引 主 谓 引 主 谓

fall-fell-fallen v. 跌落 跌倒；fly-flew-flown v. 飞翔；that conj. 所以，引出从句；
